

Figure 44. Observed sets and marine mammal interactions in the Shark drift gillnet fishery off Florida and Georgia during 2005. Fishery effort is restricted to during winter months north of 27°51' N, and the majority of observer coverage occurs during this period. Both drift and “strike” sets by observed vessels are shown. No interactions with marine mammals were observed.

