

Science information from 14 Federal Agencies:

Department of Agriculture
Department of Commerce
Department of Defense
Department of Education
Department of Energy
Department of Health and Human Services
Department of the Interior
Department of Transportation
Environmental Protection Agency
Government Printing Office
Library of Congress
National Aeronautics and Space Administration
National Archives and Records Administration
National Science Foundation

CENDI, the Federal Scientific and Technical Information Managers
Group, provides administrative support and coordination for Science.gov.

Hosted by the Office of Scientific and Technical Information
Office of Science
U.S. Department of Energy
www.osti.gov

Build on the research of others;* eliminate research redundancy; quickly find out what other researchers are discovering; receive alerts on your latest science topics of interest; search 200 million pages of science from web pages and databases; get relevancy ranked results; easily download results for research.

“Science.gov is more than a portal. It’s nothing less than a momentous electronic book. ... Science.gov is one project that ‘gets it right.’”

The Go-to Portal for Science
CyberSkeptic, January 2008
Nick Tomaiuolo
Instruction Librarian
Central Connecticut State University

A quick search on the word tsunami ... brings up information about 975 scientific or technical documents Without Science.gov it would take searching more than 20 databases to gather that same result set. ... the importance of Science.gov cannot be over-emphasized.

Dr. Peter Jasco
Péter's Digital Reference Shelf
Gale, Online, March 2007

“Now you can refine your search queries, email your search results and sort your results in a variety of ways using Science.gov ...”

Science.gov 4.0 Goes Live
ResourceShelf, February 2007

Science.gov is the U.S. contribution to WorldWideScience.org