MEETING SUMMARY

Staff attended the meeting to support a previous recommendation to limit carbon monoxide production and oxygen depletion to 100 ppm and 16% respectively when camping heaters are tested in a 100 cubic foot chamber with air exchange rates (ACH) of 0.0, 0.5, 1.0, and 1.5 ACH. The subcommittee adopted the CPSC's staff recommendations on performance and test methods. The new performance requirements will be distributed this spring for public review and comment. The subcommittee will meet in October, 1998, to review the comments and send the final recommendations to the full ANSI Z21 Committee for adoption into the camping heater standard.
