Course Description

This course offers a rich overview of the history and culture of the city of Rome, from antiquity to the present, via personal encounters with the monuments, art, and topography of the city. The course goals are to gain a basic grounding in the fields of archaeology, history, and art history from the perspective of a single historical site; and to understand the impact of Rome in civilization, focusing especially on ancient Rome, early/medieval Christianity, and the Italian Renaissance.

The course will offer a unique opportunity to discover first-hand one of the most fascinating places in world history, team-taught by two experts in the ancient, medieval, and Renaissance history of Rome. The Northern Italy component of the program provides unparalleled insight into the ways in which the history and ideals of ancient Rome played themselves out in the late Medieval and Renaissance periods.
