Special pre-election reports cover the period beginning the ninth day before an election and ending at 12 noon on the day before the election.

A special pre-election report must be filed with the Ethics Commission electronically, unless otherwise exempted from electronic filing. A special pre-election report must be received by the commission no later than 5:00 p.m. of the first business day after the date the contribution is accepted. A special pre-election report that is exempt from the electronic filing requirement is not required to be on a form prescribed by the commission; it may be on regular stationery.

Contributions disclosed on a special pre-election report must be disclosed again on the next required report.

The requirement to file special pre-election reports applies to a specific-purpose political committee that supports or opposes a candidate for statewide office; district office filled by voters of more than one county; judicial district office filled by voters of only one county; State Board of Education; state senator; or state representative. The campaign treasurer of such a specific-purpose political committee is required to file a special pre-election report if the committee receives one or more contributions from a single source that total more than $1,000 during the period covered by special pre-election reports.

The committee's campaign treasurer is required to report the amounts of the contributions, the full name and address of the contributor, and the dates of the contributions.

Reporting Travel Outside of Texas: The law requires detailed information regarding in-kind contributions and political expenditures for travel outside of Texas. This information should be reported on Schedule T and attached to this form. Schedule T can be found on the Ethics Commission's website at www.ethics.state.tx.us/whatsnew/travel_outside_Texas.html.
