SANTA FE DEPOT

FOUNDED IN 1882 AS A SHIPPING POINT ON THE GULF, COLORADO, AND SANTA FE RAILROAD, KILLEEN WAS NAMED FOR RAILROAD OFFICIAL FRANK H. KILLEEN. AFTER THE FIRST DEPOT WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE, SANTA FE WORKERS USED STANDARD PLANS TO BUILD THIS STRUCTURE IN 1913. THE PRESENCE OF THE RAIL LINE WAS INSTRUMENTAL IN THE U.S. ARMY'S DECISION TO BUILD CAMP HOOD (LATER FORT HOOD) DURING WORLD WAR II. AFTER THE RAILROAD TOOK THE DEPOT OUT OF ACTIVE SERVICE, THE CITY ACQUIRED IT IN 1952 AND RENAMED IT TO THIS SITE 350 FEET WEST AND 150 FEET NORTH OF THE ORIGINAL LOCATION.

The City Without Limits!

Dear Visitor or Newcomer,

Welcome to our community! As you read this magazine and tour our community, you will find a dynamic, growing place populated by people with a "can do attitude." Killeen, and the Fort Hood region, is a great place to live and work.

We are a proud military community. Our first priority is to support our soldiers and their families. We are grateful for their presence and appreciative of the sacrifices they make. Here, members of the military and their families are not only defenders of our freedom, but they are neighbors, friends and active participants in all that we do.

We are a thriving, progressive community blessed with leaders dedicated to creating a better place for all. The new Killeen-Fort Hood Regional Airport, our robust retail community, our top-rated public school system, and our effective college and university educational systems provide the evidence. It is no accident that the Coldwell Banker Home Price Comparison Index recently rated Killeen as number one in affordable housing in the U.S. and, ApartmentRatings.com rated Killeen as number one in renter livability and satisfaction.

If you are looking to make this your home or if you are passing through, we are glad you are here. Thank you for reading our story in the pages of this magazine.

And, welcome again to "The City Without Limits."

Sincerely,

John Crutchfield
President,
Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce

The Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce

The Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce, more than 1,200 members strong, is dedicated to its mission of strengthening and improving the business environment in order to promote the economic well-being of all area citizens. Toward this end, the chamber will provide services to its members and work to enhance the quality of life for the entire community.

To accomplish this mission, action committees explore every avenue and possibility. These committees include those working in the areas of economic development, membership, civic affairs and many other fields. A growing, stable economy gives direct benefits to each individual, firm and profession, and this is the objective ever before the chamber and its staff, officers and directors.

Among its priorities, the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce has set helping keep Fort Hood strong and vital, the establishment of the new Texas A & M University - Central Texas, taking advantage of opportunities offered by the new Killeen - Fort Hood Regional Airport, the continued growth of our retail businesses and industrial communities and the improvement of the image and marketability of the greater Killeen area as major goals.

The Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce, fully accredited by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is made up of a diverse group of businesses and individuals. It services the cities of Killeen, Harker Heights and Nolanville and its military neighbor, Fort Hood.

As the chamber moves into a new year, it has pledged itself to continue to effectively communicate the views of the business community and to support constructive initiatives on major issues of public policy.

Killeen, Texas

From Railroad Stop To Hot Spot

William "Wild Bill" Scoggins brought something extra to the May 15, 1882, birth of the city of Killeen, Texas. He brought his lariat.

When the steam engine of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad chugged into town, Wild Bill was spotted on the cowcatcher. As the train screeched to a stop, Wild Bill jumped to the ground, uncoiled his lariat and proceeded to lasso the smokestack of the Santa Fe engine. All this occurred while a crowd of onlookers cheered, tossed their hats in the air and generally celebrated the birth of another railroad town.

This began the first phase of Killeen's existence. The second phase was to come in 1942 with the opening of Camp Hood, giving credence to the catchphrase that the history of Killeen is really "a tale of two cities."

Killeen's namesake, Frank P. Killeen, was an official of the railroad, serving as assistant general manager in Galveston. Some believe that Killeen may have been among the railroad dignitaries who were on the train that arrived to mark the beginning of the town. This has never been verified and as far as is known, Frank P. Killeen never set foot in the town named in his honor unless he was here on that day in 1882.

Frank P. Killeen was born in Clare Morris, Mayo County, Ireland, and came to the United States after the death of his parents. He died in Galveston in 1924 at the age of 86.

Although the railroad had platted the townsite several months before the first train arrived, few lots had been sold. But by 1886, the town boasted a population of 300 and by the end of the 1880's, that figure had climbed to 800.

It did not take Killeen long to establish itself as a shipping point for agricultural products grown in about a 20-mile radius. Cotton became king and remained so until the establishment of Camp Hood in 1942. Grain, wool and other farming and ranching products also figured prominently in the economy of the town's first 60 years.

Although the population of the town itself settled into the 1,000-1,200 range, Killeen prospered, establishing all of the necessary services to serve a large rural area along with its own citizens. Merchants, doctors, lawyers and other professionals came to the town. Schools were established, a government was put in place, a chamber of commerce was organized and undertook the task of building an infrastructure for the busy agricultural center.

In 1930, Killeen's population was 1,200, and in the next 10 years, it climbed to 1,265. Then, two years later, the boom hit with the establishment of Camp Hood, a military post which opened on September 18, 1942, as a tank destroyer center. By 1950, the population had jumped to 7,045. The 2000 U.S. Census lists the city's population at 86,911, with 2006 population estimates at 112,000.

When Pearl Harbor was bombed on December 7, 1941, it not only had a decided effect on the United States and the world at large, but it also directly affected Killeen and its future. After the United States became involved in World War II, there developed a need for a military post to train soldiers in tank destroyer tactics. The area west and north of Killeen was selected as the site for Camp Hood, named for the Confederate general, John Bell Hood. The initial Army installation covered 160,000 acres, with many families having to leave their homesteads and find new homes. It also cut out almost all of the best farming country that Killeen catered to and the economic base quickly changed from agricultural to military.

Following the end of World War II, Camp Hood personnel strength dwindled down to below 4,000, and there was a big question as to what would happen to the camp. In 1950, the Department of the Army declared the Killeen military installation as a permanent post and it automatically became Fort Hood. Things started to boom for the area.

From that day forward, the desire was to make Killeen the best town in the nation for military families to live. This was done by developing the infrastructure of the community while encompassing the military as a part of the Killeen family. Immediate needs which were quickly met were the construction of Belton Lake, and later, Stillhouse Hollow Reservoir, which gave the area an abundant water supply; the construction of better highways to meet military transportation needs; major construction projects to provide homes for the community and especially the military; and an accompanying growth in retail business.

In the ensuing years, the city secured facilities such as libraries, hotels, shopping centers, a new highway built to near interstate standards and amenities such as a major airport, excellent golf course, top-notch movie theaters, a community theater and excellent restaurants.

With tremendous growth in retail trade and in dining facilities in the decade of the 90's, Killeen has spread its trade area to cover a 100-mile stretch of Central Texas, and, as it did as an agricultural center, it is pulling people in to take advantage of the special services the city offers.

But all along, from the time of Camp Hood, Killeen's first and foremost concern has been its military neighbor, now Fort Hood, and the many friends that the diverse military population brings, making Killeen a truly cosmopolitan city.

City Services

The adoption of the City Charter in 1949 established the Council-Manager form of government that the City of Killeen still operates under today. The mayor is the city's chief elected officer, but has no administrative power. The mayor, however, presides over the city's seven-member City Council, which sets all policy. The operations of the city are overseen by a city manager.

The city elects three of its council members at large, meaning that every registered voter within the city limits may vote for these three council members. Four council members however, represent specific geographical areas or districts of the city, and are elected specifically by the registered voters of each of these four districts.

Terms for the mayor and all council members are two years, with a three-consecutive-term limitation for each office. The city holds nonpartisan elections each May with the terms staggered so about half the council is elected each year. The mayor and the at-large council members are elected in even-numbered years, while the four district council members are elected in odd-numbered years.

Killeen offers services of a metropolitan city. With nearly 900 regular full-time employees, the city is one of the largest employers in the Killeen area. In addition to police and fire forces, which continue to grow as the city grows, the city owns and operates its own emergency medical services, and owns and operates its own water, sewer, and garbage utilities. The city also operates the Killeen - Fort Hood Regional Airport; a fixed-base-operator (FBO) airfield, Skylark Field; Stonetree Golf Course, an 18-hole golf course; a public library system with two locations; and numerous parks and recreation facilities.

The powers of city government range from enforcing building standards to regulating noise on city streets. The complete code of ordinances is available at City Hall at 101 North College Street and is constantly updated as the City Council adds, amends and repeals ordinances.

For more information on the services offered by the City of Killeen, you may call City Hall at 254-501-7600 or visit the city website at www.ci.killeen.tx.us.

Business Development in the City Without Limits

Killeen's new regional airport -- a joint-use project with the Army at Robert Gray Army Airfield -- offers first-class air service to a wide area of central Texas using Gray's 10,000-foot runway and the airfield's state-of-the-art control tower. Fort Hood facilities are located on the west side of Gray Airfield while Killeen's terminal is on the east side of the airfield.

Construction on the $83 million airport project already has had a major economic impact on the area. As air service continues to expand, the impact is expected to be even more dramatic.

Another major project for Killeen is the privatization of all housing at Fort Hood.

Actus Lend Lease, operating as Fort Hood Family Housing, has made outstanding progress on upgrading and expanding the housing at the military post. Since privatization began in October 2001, Fort Hood Family Housing has constructed almost 900 new homes, and made major and minor renovations throughout the installation and much needed improvements throughout housing areas on the installation.

An additional 316 4-bedroom homes have been completely renovated in Comanche II, which once served as 632 stacked 2-bedroom apartments. Two new community centers in Kouma and Comanche III Village complete with splash parks and swimming pools have added to the community satisfaction with residents.

The privatization program has provided more than $132 million subcontracting dollars to local businesses in the central Texas areas and more than $138 million to small businesses during this initial development phase.

Actus Lend Lease holds a $4-billion, 50-year contract with about $100 million of the work expected to go to local sub-contractors during the initial development period through 2006.

A third major project which has played a prominent part in Killeen's growth has been the Killeen Civic and Conference Center. The new center, which is experiencing outstanding success, opened in April of 2002. More than 400 events were booked into the center during the first year of operation, and the center continues to book events into the $10 million center with growth each year.

Most of Killeen's rapid growth can be attributed to the city's next-door neighbor, Fort Hood, the largest military post in the free world and Texas' largest employer in a single location. Fort Hood’s annual economic impact on the state is $6.9 billion. The Army installation continues to be a stable post with ongoing construction there as funded by Congress.

Fort Hood also is the source of Killeen’s abundant labor supply, which replenishes itself constantly. Between 600 and 1,000 soldiers leave the military service each month at Fort Hood, providing a source for technically skilled, highly disciplined employees. About 80 percent of the soldiers leaving the Army at Fort Hood remain in the area. About two-thirds of the more than 43,000 soldiers stationed at the premier Army post are married and bring spouses to the labor market here. They average 2.8 dependents per soldier!

Killeen itself has been on a phenomenal growth cycle for a number of years, now officially claiming 86,911 (2000 Census) residents in the city limits itself with a 2006 population estimate of 112,000. Neighboring Harker Heights (population 17,308), adjoining Killeen on the east, and Fort Hood, where more than 38,000 reside on the military reservation, swell the population of the area greatly.

Business growth also reflects the population growth. The rapid-growth area has been along superhighway U.S. 190, a corridor that, although filling rapidly, still has space for additional business development. A “restaurant row,” with a number of nationally recognized eating establishments, has developed along a stretch of U.S. 190 from Stan Schlueter Loop to W.S. Young Drive. Other nationally known retail businesses have located in the area. These businesses, restaurants and a new, 14-screen movie theater complex are helping in the expansion of Killeen’s trade area and have also helped Killeen become a regional shopping area.

Even with the rapid growth, there is still room for additional development and some retail space remains available in existing buildings. A plus for a would-be developer or someone seeking retail space for a new business is that rental rates in the fast-growing U.S. 190 corridor near Killeen Mall and Wal-Mart Superstore are running from $12 to $18. Pad sites range from $6 to $12 in the same area, depending on exact location.

Although the U.S. 190 locations attract those businesses that need a high volume of traffic, there are approximately 20 other shopping and strip centers where businesses can be located. U.S. 190 is attractive because the traffic volume on that superhighway approaches 80,000 vehicles daily. Few cities outside major metropolitan areas approach these figures. This is the highest traffic count in Bell County, including Interstate Highway 35.

Killeen also is growing in other economic areas. The Killeen Business Park is the home of major back-office operations and has facilities for manufacturing.

Economic development receives special attention with the Killeen Economic Development Corporation made up of a closely-knit group of businessmen and women representing the City of Killeen, the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce and the Killeen Industrial Foundation. This proves beneficial to prospects that may be interested in an ideal site in which to locate -- or relocate -- a business or industry.

The Killeen area has excellent educational facilities, from private and elementary Killeen and Harker Heights are located on U.S. Highway 190, 17 miles west of Belton and Interstate Highway 35. U.S. Highway 190 was built to near-interstate standards and is a four-lane, divided, limited access thoroughfare. Killeen - Fort Hood Regional Airport, with several major airlines, provides numerous flights daily between Killeen and Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston International, Las Vegas and Atlanta.

Two major lakes, Lake Belton and Stillhouse Hollow, are located near Killeen, providing the area with an abundant water supply, which has been contracted well into this century. They also are ideal for all types of water sports.

Killeen and Harker Heights are located just west of the Balcones Fault Line, which means that the cities are a gateway to the beautiful Hill Country. With their mild climate and extensive recreational opportunities, the cities are an ideal place in which to live, work and play.

The Central Texas Business Resource Center

The Central Texas Business Resource Center (the BRC) provides high-quality business counseling, training, and assistance to potential and existing small business owners. The BRC is a non-membership, not-for-profit community project and is dedicated to providing services to all individuals requesting assistance. Counseling services are available during normal business hours from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Regularly scheduled workshops are available throughout the week and each Tuesday evening from 5:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. at the Central Texas Workforce Center.

In addition to counseling and training, the BRC offers a variety of research materials and free computer use during business hours. The computers are available for business-related research and development of business plans, business correspondence and marketing materials.

Assistance encompasses providing information about financial resources for businesses, business planning tools and training, marketing and promotional assistance, website development, financial reporting assistance, counseling on business structures and tax responsibilities, employee hiring and payroll procedures, government contracting and designation as a woman- or minority-owned business. Assistance also includes referring a customer to other resources that are appropriate outside the scope of the BRC.

Training topics include preparing for self-employment, how to find and obtain business funding, in-depth business planning techniques, starting a day-care business, restaurant business basics, and home-based business information.

The BRC primarily serves the west Bell County area, including Fort Hood.

The Central Texas Workforce System, the Killeen Economic Development Corporation, the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce, and Central Texas College underwrite this program.

Flying High - Killeen-Fort Hood Regional Airport

Celebrations were held and the grand opening ribbon was snipped in August of 2004, and the Killeen-Fort Hood Regional Airport has been setting new records ever since. The new $83 million airport, a joint-use project between the City of Killeen and Fort Hood, features a modern, convenient-to-use terminal, a 10,000-foot runway that allows for jet passenger service, and all the amenities that make air travel convenient.

Called the greatest economic boom to the area since the establishment of Fort Hood in 1942, the airport saw passenger service soar to a new height of 159,301 in 2005, the first full year of service at the new location on State Highway 201 southwest of the city of Killeen.

Killeen's two commuter airlines have experienced capacity loads for most of their flights, and a third airline has added twice-a-week, non-stop service to Las Vegas and return. American Eagle makes several flights daily from Killeen-Fort Hood Regional to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. Continental Express flights go to George Bush International Airport in Houston, and Allegiant Air makes the non-stop Las Vegas flights. In September, 2006, Delta Airlines will add daily, non-stop service to Hartsfield International Airport in Atlanta, the nation's busiest airline hub.

The Federal Aviation Administration selected Killeen-Fort Hood Regional Airport as its 2004 Airport of the Year for the Southwest Region.

Killeen's Ted C. Connell Terminal and air service operation is on the east side of the Robert Gray Army Airfield with Fort Hood's state-of-the-art operation on the west side of the field. The two entities share the runway and control tower but have separate taxiways and air service facilities.

In order to service general aviation operations, Killeen retained its former municipal airport and its 5,500-foot runway. Its former name, Skylark Field, was restored, and it continues to be a busy airstrip with Central Texas College continuing to use it for its pilot training. Other aviation activities are carried on there as well.

Killeen's places to worship are as diverse as its population.

Although the predominate denomination is Baptist, there are more than 130 churches to serve all types of religious preferences, including a number of services conducted in both Spanish and Korean languages.

There are at least two churches that list Samoan in their names.

In addition to the services provided in Killeen, Fort Hood has several chapels that also provide numerous services.

A list of Killeen churches and a link to Fort Hood chapels can be found on the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce web site, <http://www.gkcc.com> under Community Information.

Cultural Activities

The Killeen area has a wide array of cultural activities to enjoy, thanks to the Vive Les Arts Societe and its community theater; the Killeen Civic Art Guild; the Killeen Parks and Recreation Department; the Fine Arts Department of Central Texas College and Killeen Independent School District, as well as a number of local cultural and ethnic organizations which promote their specific cultures.

Killeen Independent School District

The Killeen Independent School District provides the central Texas community with many cultural opportunities throughout the year. In addition to providing fine arts training for KISD students, these programs also make available cultural activities available to the entire community in the areas of band, orchestra, choir, dance and theater.

Additionally, KISD also makes outside opportunities available to both students and community members by supporting outside programs, such as the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra and cooperative programs with Vive Les Arts.

Central Texas College

Central Texas College has a Fine Arts Department which features indoor and outdoor studio work areas, a state-of-the-art lecture room, a piano keyboard lab, grand pianos, practice rooms, an auditorium with light and sound systems and a new computer graphics lab.

Visual arts students are given an opportunity to exhibit their work in several different locations and participate in the annual all-department show. Drama students can participate in fall and spring productions, which include dinner theater and a musical. They also interact with the Vive Les Arts Theatre.

In addition to instructional programs, the Fine Arts Department also sponsors musical performances by guest artists, exhibitions and gallery talks by professional visual artists, stage productions and readings by drama professionals and demonstrations and workshops in all areas.

With a dome that is 60 feet in diameter, the new Mayborn Planetarium & Space Theater is one of the largest domed theaters in Texas. Stadium seating within the theater accommodates as many as 184 people. The planetarium boasts $2.9 million worth of state-of-the-art equipment. The $8.6 million, 64,000-square-foot facility also includes 18 classrooms designed to meet CTC's diverse needs and also includes traditional classrooms, large lecture halls with stadium seating and computer labs. Each classroom has Internet access and two-way audio/video capabilities, allowing the class to be viewed from any location.

Another focus of CTC's mission is to provide public service to the communities it serves. The planetarium and technology center are available to K-12 students and community groups for a variety of educational, business and entertainment programs. Not only is the facility open to school groups which wish to use the planetarium, but the center is also available to groups for meetings, presentations and other functions.

Vive Les Arts Societe

The Vive Les Arts Societe, founded in 1976 by a group of citizens from Killeen, Harker Heights and the surrounding area, is dedicated to excellence in the arts with the goal of building a better community through artistic endeavors and promotion of the cultural and artistic values of life.

After sponsoring several performances by the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra and several other concert artists, the Societe decided in 1980 to create the first arm of the organization and formed the VLA Theatre, which presented a six-show season.

Following 11 blockbuster seasons, VLA opened the beautiful, $1.3 million Vive Les Arts Center for the Performing Arts at 3401 South W.S. Young Drive. The state-of-the-art facility houses a 400-seat raked auditorium with thrust stage, a spacious lobby/art gallery, formal parlor and VLA offices.

The 2005-2006 Season consists of two musicals, four plays, and numerous "extras," including ballet, modern dance and comedy. Membership has grown from 200 in 1980 to more than 1,000 today.

This year VLA celebrates its 27th season, bringing our audiences memorable Country Western tunes in "Honky-Tonk Laundry," plenty of musical memories in the Broadway production of "My Fair Lady" and lots of laughs in the popular comedy "The Sunshine Boys" just to name a few.

Our Children's Theatre is beginning its fifth year, offering year-round classes for K-12 and three full-scale productions. This year's Children's Season includes "The Velveteen Rabbit," "Rumpelstiltskin" and Disney's "101 Dalmatians," their Summer Music Theater Workshop.

Information is available by calling 254-526-9090 or by visiting the web site at www.vlatheatre.com.

Killeen Civic Art Guild

The Killeen Civic Art Guild is a non-profit group of area citizens dedicated to the advancement and promotion of art in Killeen, Texas, and the surrounding communities.

Competitions, exhibits, events, workshops, festivals and other activities are planned, sponsored and hosted each year to enhance and further the interest of art and to offer fellowship and assistance to its membership and the general public.

The Guild meets once a month on the third Monday evening of each month. Meetings are held at 6:00 p.m. in the Arts & Crafts Room of the Killeen Community Center, 2201 E. Veterans Memorial Blvd.

The Guild sponsors the Spring Art Competition, the Young Artists Talent Competition, the Summer Art Symposium and the Festival of Arts in Conder Park. It also provides exhibits for various locations, including the Vive Les Arts Meadows Gallery, Killeen Community Center, and Central Texas College.

Education For The Individual

Located on the Central Texas College Campus.

Knowledge is Power

Killeen proudly brags that it is an excellent place to get an education. Soon, this is expected to get even better!

Each enrollment in a class at Tarleton State University – Central Texas brings the area a step closer to the establishment of Texas A & M University – Central Texas, a stand-alone, upper-level university. The Texas Legislature has said that once Tarleton State – Central Texas reaches the state-mandated minimum of full-time student equivalents, it clears the way for the establishment of Texas A & M University – Central Texas, and, once this becomes a reality, the new institution will be built on State Highway 195, south of Killeen.

Once A & M is located here, it will – as Tarleton has done – complement Central Texas College, the two-year community college with its home campus in Killeen but with campuses all over the world.

The base for the population of these institutions of higher learning is the Killeen Independent School District and its approximately 35,000 students – pre-kindergarten through 12th grade. The district serves the cities of Killeen, Harker Heights and Nolanville, Fort Hood and the surrounding rural areas.

Killeen Independent School District

The Killeen Independent School District (KISD) has grown from an enrollment of 20,413 students in 1986-1987 to an enrollment of about 33,400 for 2005-2006.

The largest school district between Austin and Dallas, KISD employs over 5,500 teachers and support personnel to serve the district's 50 campuses. KISD serves as the area's second largest employer, second only to Fort Hood. Students from Killeen, Harker Heights, Fort Hood, Nolanville and rural West Bell County attend classes at twenty-nine elementary schools (PK-5), eleven middle schools (6-8), four high schools (9-12), and six specialized campuses. Besides the 50 regular schools and several specialized campuses, the district utilizes portable buildings, which provide approximately 200 potential classrooms.

KISD's four high schools, Killeen, Ellison, Harker Heights and Shoemaker, provide multi-level academic instruction on a seven-period schedule and extracurricular activities. The Career and Technology Education Center provides a pre-employment lab as well as trade and industrial courses. Co-operative half-day training programs in the work force complete the career-oriented track.

KISD Transportation Services Department is responsible for providing daily transportation to approximately 10,200 of the 33,400 enrolled students. Included in this total are approximately 1,700 special program and special needs students.

Working closely with KISD, Communities In Schools closely monitors the academics, behavior and attendance of at-risk students in Bell and Coryell Counties. Through professional campus support addressing individual student needs, increased parental involvement, and closely supervised activities, Communities In Schools strives to promote students' staying in school and graduating, thereby improving their chances of success in life.

This school year, C.I.S. will serve 42 campuses in the following districts: Killeen ISD, Copperas Cove ISD, Temple ISD, Belton ISD and Salado ISD.

Central Texas College

Central Texas College, a public, two-year community college located between Killeen and Copperas Cove, offers more than 100 associate degrees and certificate programs and continues to expand its influence on the educational profile of Central Texas.

The Central Campus is located on approximately 515 acres of land donated by Fort Hood more than 35 years ago. Construction on the buildings began in January 1967 and President Lyndon Baines Johnson officially dedicated the college in December of 1967. The first graduating class in May 1968 was made up of 25 students. Since then, the college has awarded more than 50,000 associate degrees and certificates at its many locations around the world.

In addition to the Central Campus, CTC has locations worldwide at five other campuses: Fort Hood /Service Area Campus, Continental Campus, Pacific Far East Campus, Europe Campus, and Navy Campus. CTC offers classes on military installations, ships at sea and correctional institutions. Today, nearly 140,000 enrollments per year are logged around the world at one of CTC's locations.

The college offers degree programs in academic, professional and vocational/technical fields. It has numerous course offerings, from agriculture to criminal justice, drama to nursing, and business administration to telecommunications. Newer programs of study include hospitality management, fire protection technology and emergency medical technology. CTC caters to the needs of both full-time and part-time students by offering daytime, evening and online courses.

CTC continues to upgrade existing facilities and construct new buildings. Among the recently completed facilities are an $8.6 million, 64,000-square-foot Technology Center that houses the Mayborn Planetarium and Space Theater, $8.2 million, 54,000-square-foot Natatorium and Physical Education Center and a $2.6 million, 18,000-square-foot expansion to the library.

Tarleton State University - Central Texas

Tarleton State University - Central Texas was born in the spirit of community cooperation on September 1, 1999, becoming the newest member of The Texas A&M University System as a part of Tarleton State University's multiple outreach programs.

Tarleton - Central Texas is an upper-level institution offering bachelor's and master's degrees to students who enter at the junior level and beyond.

The student population at the university is diverse and growing, with almost 2,000 students in the 2006 spring semester. Students include community college graduates and transfer students, working adults, active military service members, and returning students who are pursuing degrees, fulfilling career educational requirements, or attending classes for personal enrichment.

As a result, classes are offered at several convenient sites, including area community colleges, high schools, and Fort Hood, in order to accommodate both full- and part-time students and to serve the entire Central Texas area. Full-time faculty, advisors and support staffs are available to assist students with admission, financial aid, degree plans and career planning, both during the day and during extended evening hours.

Tarleton - Central Texas offers undergraduate degrees in 38 areas and graduate degrees in 26 areas. To encourage a seamless transfer from community colleges to upper-level work at Tarleton-Central Texas, the university has developed agreements with Central Texas community colleges that enable smooth transfers without a loss of credits for students who begin their community college studies with Tarleton - Central Texas in mind.

Tarleton - Central Texas is located at the corner of Clear Creek Road and University Drive, just south of U.S. Highway 190. Further information regarding degree offerings and admissions is available at the website, www.tarleton.edu/centraltexas.

The University of Mary Hardin-Baylor

The University of Mary Hardin-Baylor, the oldest institution of higher learning offering continuous education in the state, is located in Belton, only a 17-mile drive from Killeen. Enrollment totals about 2,700.

With a student ratio of 15 to 1, UHMB is a unique and energetic institution with an emphasis on Christian education. The private university offers over 40 bachelor majors. The university also offers Master of Arts, Master of Business Administration, Master of Education and Master of Science.

UHMB is one of the most affordable private schools in the Southwest, with approximately 80 percent of its full-time undergraduate students receiving some kind of financial assistance.

More than 60 percent of the university professors have earned doctorates.

Toshiba 64 Slice CT Scanner

Delivering Hi-Tech Healthcare to Our Community

In a continuing effort to provide as many new technologies to the community as possible, Metroplex Hospital installed one of the most advanced CT scanners available in the world today. This scanner's imaging capability allows physicians a non-invasive means of identifying and diagnosing coronary artery disease, the nation's leading cause of death.

To compliment this groundbreaking cardiac technology, Metroplex Cardiovascular Services were expanded in 2005 under the leadership of Dr. Richard Cashion, M.D.. Dr. Cashion is an Interventional Cardiologist. The Cardiac and Vascular program pulls together several existing cardiac and vascular services including Cardiac Rehab services, the Cath Lab, and the 64-slice CT scanner and other high-tech diagnostic services. More vascular procedures are offered including Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm repair.

Other technology driven procedures recently made available are Green Light Laser for rapid relief of enlarged prostate, InterStim Therapy for overactive bladder, Endometrial Ablation as an alternative to hysterectomy, EndoVenous Laser treatment of varicose veins, and Home Care's use of Anodyne Therapy to treat the pain or numbness of peripheral neuropathy.

Caring for Central Texas

Killeen area residents are blessed with excellent medical facilities. In addition to two major hospitals which are constantly on the grow, the area has two clinics, full-service mental health facilities, and many specialty physicians offering a wide range of care.

Darnall Army Medical Center

Darnall Army Medical Center is located at Fort Hood, and provides state-of-the-art medical care to active-duty and retired soldiers and their family members.

Within a 40-mile radius, Darnall serves approximately 142,000 military beneficiaries. Through the military health plan called TRICARE, about 100,000 are enrolled in Darnall's system of Family Care Clinics. Clinics are located on Fort Hood and in the surrounding communities.

All health care is provided on an appointment basis by calling to the Patient Appointment Service, 288-8888, or via the new online appointment system at <http://www.hood-meddac.army.mil>. Newcomers to the area who have existing medical problems that require immediate care should visit the One-Stop Center in the TRICARE Service Center, Building 36023, across from Darnall's parking area.

The Darnall Medical Center Emergency Medicine Residency Program is a three-year fully accredited program that began in 1980. The first class of residents graduated in 1982. Since 1995, Darnall EMRP residents have scored in the top 10 in the nation. For the last two years in a row, residents have scored the highest in the nation out of the 122 Emergency Residency Programs. Our residents primarily operate at Darnall Army Medical Center, but also train in several premier civilian hospitals.

In July 2000, a Family Practice Residency Program was established at Darnall which graduated its first class in 2002. Darnall also trains a number of other program candidates, including Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists, Physicians Assistants and Dentistry.

Metroplex Health Systems

Metroplex Health System is the primary healthcare provider for the greater Killeen area, offering a wide array of medical and wellness services. The multi-campus facility is a not-for-profit Christian organization operated as a community service by the Adventist Health System, which manages more than 50 healthcare facilities worldwide.

Metroplex has over 1,000 employees and a medical staff of more than 140 physicians practicing in 35 specialties. The system includes Metroplex Hospital in Killeen; Rollins Brook Community Hospital in Lampasas; Metroplex Pavilion (a behavioral health facility for all ages) in Killeen; HomeCare of Metroplex (a home health facility) serving all of Central Texas; Metroplex Advanced Imaging Center featuring Open MRI in Killeen; MetroFlex Rehabilitation Center (offering adult physical, occupational and speech rehab) in Killeen; MetroKids Pediatric Rehabilitation Center (offering physical, occupational and speech rehab) in Killeen; Sleep Disorders Center next to Metroplex Hospital in Killeen; Metroplex Ambulatory Surgery Center at Metroplex Hospital; and a Mobile Wellness Unit, which takes healthcare and education to people who might not otherwise be able to access it.

Metroplex Hospital offers a 24-hour emergency center, cardiac care equipment, general and same-day surgery suites and maternity services with birthing center. Its radiology department is equipped with advanced diagnostic imaging capabilities, including state-of-the-art Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI), CT scans, nuclear medicine techniques, a cardiac-cath lab for diagnosing heart blockage and other heart-

Special Clinics and Hospitals

Scott & White Clinic

Located at 3901 Scott & White Blvd., the Scott & White Clinic, Killeen, has recently expanded to meet the needs of patients from Coryell, Lampasas and Bell counties. Opened in 1980, the clinic has a large staff in family practice medicine plus specialists in pediatrics and occupational medicine/workers compensation.

The Killeen clinic is a part of the Scott & White Health Care System and is composed of a network of regional clinics, a 500-bed not-for-profit hospital in Temple and the not-for-profit Scott & White Health Plan.

In addition to the clinic in Killeen, Scott & White also operates the Scott & White Killeen Dialysis Center, 3701 Scott & White Blvd., and S&W OB/GYN Clinic, 3106 South W.S. Young Drive, as well as a Specialty Clinic at 2109 Clear Creek Road.

King's Daughters Clinic

Killeen's King's Daughters Clinic, a part of the King's Daughters Clinic in Temple, is located at 401 W. Jasper Drive in Killeen and has physicians in family practice, allergy and asthma, audiology, orthopedic surgery and other specialties. The physicians of King's Daughters Clinic have privileges to practice at Temple's King's Daughters Hospital, as well as other local hospitals in some cases.

Cedar Crest Hospital, Clinic and Residential Treatment Center

Cedar Crest provides a full range of behavioral healthcare and therapeutic education services to "at-risk" children and adolescents throughout Texas.

The outpatient Clinic in Killeen is staffed with experienced psychiatrists and therapists who specialize in treating children and adolescents with mental health and family issues.

The Belton campus offers inpatient treatment in a secure hospital setting with a capacity of 20 children and adolescents. Also located at the Belton campus are intensive, structured, longer-term residential programs that can treat up to 52 children and adolescents. All residents are enrolled in Cedar Crest's on-site Charter School.

Residential Living

If you know your living preferences, Killeen has housing that will suit your needs.

Since 1995, Killeen has built over 10,000 new, single-family residential units; 174 town houses; 925 duplexes (1,850 total units); 825 family buildings with 3-4 units (3,271 total units); 83 multiple buildings with five or more units (909 total units).

In September 2005, Killeen was designated as the most affordable area in the nation for homes in the annual Coldwell Banker Home Price Comparison Index. Coldwell Banker's survey is an "apples-to-apples" comparison of homes sold in typical, middle-management neighborhoods. The index placed the average price of a home in Killeen at a little more than $131,000. The index evaluated average home values for a single-family dwelling measuring approximately 2,200 square feet with four bedrooms, two and one-half baths, a family room and two-car garage.

The snapshot study examined 344 total markets across the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Not in the market to purchase a home just yet? Well, here's reassuring information about the rental market in Killeen. In September 2005, ApartmentRatings.com, an Austin-based firm that ranks apartments nationwide, rated Killeen as the best market in Texas for renter livability and satisfaction. The City of Killeen ranked 11th in the nation in the survey. The index lists the ranking and scores of the top 95 cities in the nation for their livability.

According to these nationwide surveys, that makes the City of Killeen the number one place to live or rent in the United States.

Because Killeen has ideal terrain for home construction, cost of a lot and home is much less here than in other areas.

Growth in housing is expected to continue as the City of Killeen expands its infrastructure, especially to the south. Where new infrastructure is available, subdivisions immediately follow. The city works very closely with the Killeen Independent School District in the location of schools to serve the growing populations and the new housing areas.

The city also has been able to keep pace with needs for low-income housing and for housing for the elderly.

There are numerous real estate companies to help with the selection of a new home in Killeen. Those who are chamber members are listed in this magazine. You can also visit the chamber website at www.gkcc.com and click on the Membership Directory for a current listing of real estate agents.

Fun and Festivities

Killeen Parks & Recreation Department has a mission statement that reads: "Enhance, promote and provide parks, recreational facilities and programs to all citizens for a better quality of life."

Members of the super-active department fill that mission daily -- and then some.

In the area of sports, there are programs such as adult flag football, girls instructional basketball, volleyball, youth baseball camps and programs, youth soccer, all levels of baseball for youth, T-ball for young children and softball for adults. Killeen hosts numerous softball and baseball district and state tournaments each summer.

The department also offers all types of exercise programs, youth dance instruction, yoga, karate, dancing

Special activities occur regularly in the city under the Parks & Recreation Department. The department is the sparkplug in staging a number of annual Killeen events, and it also uses the city amphitheater to stage Hot Summer Nights, outdoor concerts featuring a diversity of music played over several summer evenings. Another popular event is Kidsville, designed strictly for the children of the city.

The Department sponsors seasonal events throughout the year, from Christmas and Halloween activities to swimming programs and lessons at the city's two public pools, Long Branch Pool and Pershing Pool.

One of the recreational highlights in Killeen is the city's newly redesigned, beautiful Stonetree Golf Course. The par-

Senior Citizens

Although Killeen's average age is 29, it is a city that does not forget its senior citizens.

The Bob Gilmore Senior Center, located at 2205 E. Veterans Memorial Blvd. in Killeen, has extensive programs and services for those residents age 55 and over. And there are no membership fees.

Featured at the center are all types of table games, exercise classes, art classes, and various forms of dancing, including ballroom and round, tap and square dancing. A dance is held each third and fifth Tuesday evening of the month.

Lunches are served at the center Monday through Friday, and occasionally, breakfast is provided. Cost of the meals is very low.

Several events are planned on various holidays, and out-of-town trips and special health screenings are also scheduled on a regular basis.

two divisions, the 4th Infantry and the 1st Cavalry, through peace and wars.

In the last few years, Killeen has concentrated on preserving its history, and especially its historical buildings.

Among the outstanding preservation efforts is Avenue D School, a school built in 1923, with separate entrances for boys and girls. All grade levels were housed in the school for many years. The building, which features decorative stonework in its two stories and a basement, has been restored and is now used as Killeen's City Hall.

Bethel Primitive Baptist Church, organized about 1864 on what is now the Fort Hood reservation, was moved to Killeen in 1889. The oldest church building in Killeen, it features a steep gable roof and double-door entry with Gothic-inspired window details. It now houses the Killeen Area Heritage Association.

The Santa Fe Depot, which now is home to the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce, was built in 1913 after the first structure was destroyed by fire. After the railroad took the building out of service, it was acquired by the City of Killeen and moved to its present location, 350 feet west and 130 feet north of its original site.

Killeen's Neighbor

Fort Hood is one of our nation's largest military installations, home of the III Armored Corps, 1st Cavalry Division, 4th Infantry Division, 13th Sustainment Command (Expeditionary) and a myriad of other units, such as 89th MP Brigade, 3rd Signal Brigade, 21st Cavalry Brigade (Apache helicopter training brigade.) There is a small Air Force contingent on Fort Hood, providing weather and fire support.

Also housed on Fort Hood is the Operational Test Command, located on West Fort Hood.

Base realignment plans call for the 4th Infantry Division to move to Fort Carson, Colorado. The 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment will move from Fort Carson to Fort Hood. BRAC will realign Fort Hood, but is not expected to change troop strength.

Fort Hood has played a huge role in supporting and training soldiers for our nation since World War II. Camp Hood was formally dedicated on September 18, 1942, and proved to be a good training area for emerging weapon systems, such as tanks and tank destroyers. The post was also home to the newly-formed Women's Army Corps, led by Ovetta Culp Hobby, a native of Killeen. Proving its value as an installation, Camp Hood was made a permanent post and re-designated Fort Hood in 1951.

Over the next 50 years, Fort Hood was the premier installation for armored forces. Most dignitaries visiting the post were driven down "motor pool" road to witness the largest concentration of armored power in the world.

Units assigned to the post would participate in exercises designed to deploy this armada to either Germany or Korea. Frequent rotations through the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, California, practiced tactics for these scenarios.

The attack on our nation on September 11, 2001, and the ensuing War on Terrorism changed that.

Today, unit formations on Fort Hood are designed to be more deployable and focused around a brigade element. Almost all of Fort Hood's units have undergone transformation. And almost all units have deployed to Iraq; most, more than once.

The 4th Infantry Division was the first division to go, deploying in 2003.

Their deployment highlighted the Army's transformation from a forward-overseas-based force to a power projection force based in CONUS.

The effectiveness and speed in which the 4th was deployed earned Fort Hood the Army's Deployment Excellence Award. Fort Hood continues to garner this award yearly.

The 4th also proved its mettle in Iraq, quelling insurgency, providing stability and capturing Saddam Hussein in December 2003. The 4th Infantry Division was followed by 1st Cavalry Division and, for the first time since WW II, the Corps deployed in 2004.

Less than 2 years later, the 4th would deploy again, repeating a pattern that validates the Army's ability to power project.

Crucial to the success of power projection is ensuring an excellent quality of life for families and soldiers.

When major deployments were originally announced, local officials feared families would go home. This largely happened during the first Gulf War.

This fear was not realized, as most families stayed in the area, seemingly satisfied with their quality of life.

Fort Hood has made quantum leaps in improving the quality of life here in the last decade. The post was a pioneer in privatization of family housing units. The $4 billion project has increased the number of larger houses, built many new homes and added community centers, such as pools, recreational facilities, walking trails and playgrounds.

Two new Killeen Independent School District schools, Oveta Culp Hobby Elementary and Audi Murphy Middle School, were built on Fort Hood to accommodate these housing areas so that children could attend school in their neighborhoods.

Employment of family members has always been a quality of life issue.

Employment was enhanced when the Department of Labor awarded a $6.8 million grant in 2003 to Central Texas Workforce Center to help employ military spouses. Dell Computers has also enhanced employment by creating transportable jobs for military spouses, run from their homes.

In 2004, post Family Readiness Groups got a helping hand with $3.5 million to provide full-time paid personnel to assist family readiness groups. Not only did this provide employment to spouses, it improved the ability of the FRGs to assist families during deployments.

The effects on children during deployment were not forgotten. Local school districts provided special programs and training to employees and graduation ceremonies were telecast to Iraq, so parents could be a part of these important events.

Single soldiers came back from deployment to new or renovated barracks.

The improvements to barracks continue today.

Other recent additions to Fort Hood include new security and manned entry gates, AAFES Mega Food Court, Pentagon Federal Credit Union, new unit headquarters buildings, the Copeland Soldiers Service Center, and an airport deployment center. Most recently, Darnall hospital was redesignated as a medical center.

Joint community and Fort Hood efforts resulted in a new airport and a state veterans' cemetery. Fort Hood provides a tremendous economic impact in a wide area of Central Texas. The post is Texas' largest employer in a single location.

Community support for deployments is evident by the many community rallies held to support troops before deployment and the welcomes when units return.

The business community is especially supportive with the Adopt-A-Unit program.

Sadly, the post has also placed new monuments which reflect the human cost of the War on Terror. Hundreds of Fort Hood troops were injured or killed in Iraq. Honor to those who paid the ultimate sacrifice are etched on these monuments, providing a lasting tribute to these heroes.

Killeen's Auto Industry

Like the population of the city, Killeen's automobile dealerships continue to grow at a rapid pace, and most have expanded their operations to better serve a wider Central Texas market.

In the past decade, most of the major dealerships have relocated into larger, more modern buildings along superhighway U. S. 190. Some are already expanding again to meet the growing automotive needs in the area.

With Fort Hood's young population, the demand for automobiles is great here, and dealers keep a large inventory in order to satisfy their diverse clientele. If the exact make and model is not in stock, advanced technology allows dealers to locate it immediately and get it on its way to Killeen.

In addition to their new models, automotive dealers in Killeen also operate large used car lots. Along with a large number of independent used car lots, there also are automotive parts stores to serve the needs of the community.

In appreciation for the good business climate they enjoy here, automobile dealers are good corporate citizens as well. The Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce presently has two presidents of dealerships serving on its board.
