To Hoover I don't believe

Dear Mr. Winchell:

I don't dare give you my name because of my job but here is a bit of news you can check which I think is Front Page:

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is said to be investigating a report that Frank Sinatra paid $40,000.00 to the doctors who examined him in Newark recently and presented him with a 4-F classification. The money is suppose to have been paid by Sinatra's Business Manager. One of the recipients is said to have talked too loud about the gift in a beer joint recently and a report was sent to the F.B.I.

A former school mate of Sinatra's from Highland, N. J., said recently that Sinatra has no more ear drum trouble than Gen. McArthur.

If there is any truth to these reports I think that it should be made known. Mothers around this section who have sons in the service are planning a petition to Pres. Roosevelt asking for a re-examination of the singer by a neutral board of examiners. You'll probably read about this in the papers within a few days unless you break the story first.

I wish I could give you my name but I would lose my job within 24 hours if I did. You'd probably recognize it immediately if I did because I have sent you numerous items in the past which appeared in your column.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. LADD

RE: FRANK SINATRA
SELECTIVE SERVICE

When SAC, S. K. McKee of Newark called me at the above time and date I asked him whether or not he had heard any rumors to the effect that Frank Sinatra had paid $40,000 to obtain a 4-F classification. Mr. McKee stated that he had heard nothing to this effect.

I told McKee that someone had written to Walter Winchell stating that the FBI is supposed to be investigating a report that Sinatra had paid, through his manager, $40,000 to obtain a 4-F classification. One of the doctors who conducted Sinatra's physical examination is reported to have "talked too much" in a beer parlor. A former schoolmate of Sinatra's from Highland, New Jersey is also reported as saying that Sinatra has no more ear drum trouble than General McArthur. This anonymous informant also wrote in his letter to Winchell that mothers around that section who have sons in the service are planning a petition to President Roosevelt asking for a re-examination of Sinatra by a neutral board of examiners.

I asked SAC McKee to ascertain definitely whether Sinatra's classification was 4-F and if so, to determine why he received this classification. However, I told him that it would not be necessary at this time to make a full scale investigation or to look into the charges of $40,000 being paid the examining doctors at Newark. McKee stated that he would do this immediately and advise the Bureau of the results.

Re: FRANK ALBERT SINATRA
SELECTIVE SERVICE

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the telephone message from Mr. Christopher Callan at the Seat of Government on February 8, 1944 concerning the receipt by the Bureau of an anonymous letter alleging, in effect, that $40,000 had been paid to the doctors who examined FRANK ALBERT SINATRA and thereafter gave an opinion that SINATRA had a perforated eardrum and was unsuitable for military service.

Frank Sinatra

In accordance with instructions, the investigation was limited to an examination of SINATRA's Selective Service File in order to obtain from that file certain information as set forth below. On February 9, 1944, the file was examined by Special Agent [redacted] at Local Draft Board #19 for Hudson County, Room 308, 26 Journal Square, Jersey City, New Jersey. The Chief Clerk of this board is Mrs. MAE E. JONES.

February 10, 1944

This statement was supported by the typewritten name, "R. G. WALLS, Captain, Infantry". The certification and statement carried the place and date of Newark, New Jersey, December 9, 1943.

More detailed notations appeared in Section 4, "Physical Examination Results", as follows:

"40. EAR, NOSE, THROAT ABNORMALITIES: Chronic perforation .
lt. drum. Hist of repeated discharge from ear - mastoid areas show coating in remaining cells and deformity of canal. Marks sclerosis in mastoid area."

"50. MUSCOLOSKELEAL DEFECTS: Fracture deformity 3rd finger

"55. MENTAL: Emotional instability. N.D."

"64. HEIGHT: 67 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches."

"65. WEIGHT: 119 lbs."

"75. BLOOD PRESSURE: (a) Systolic: 122; (b) Diastolic: 78."

(3) GENERAL APPEARANCE OF FILE, ETC.: On its face, the file appeared to be in regular order. Mrs. Jones said that the Local Board had been particularly careful not to afford SINATRA special treatment and where any question of importance arose, the Board would immediately communicate with the State Headquarters for advice in view of the "position" held by SINATRA. Mrs. Jones also said that although it had been reported over the radio and otherwise that SINATRA had had a pre-induction physical examination and knew two weeks before the date set for his induction examination that he would be rejected, no such pre-induction examination was ever given by her board for any registrant. It had been the impression of Mrs. Jones that SINATRA had had the belief that he would be rejected inasmuch as he had continued to make plans for his new radio show, but she had readily explained that to herself through the thought that he had probably had his own physician examine him.

The following inconsistencies appeared in the file:
In his Selective Service Questionnaire executed December 17, 1940, under series 2, "Physical Condition", SINATRA wrote in under "Have No" - "To the best of my knowledge, I have no physical or mental defects or diseases." In an undated Current Selective Service Questionnaire which was to be returned prior to November 7, 1941 and in answer to the question, "Do you have any physical or mental defects or diseases?", SINATRA wrote "No". On October 22, 1943, in the "Extract for D.S.S. Form #221 - Report of Physical Examination and Induction", SINATRA answered Question #5, "What Physical or Mental Defects or Diseases Have You Had in the Past, if any?", by the one word, "No". In answer to Question #6, "Have you ever been treated at an institution, sanitarium or asylum?", SINATRA wrote, "No". On October 22, 1943, Local Board Examining Physician A. POVALSKI, M.D., Jersey City, found that SINATRA had none of the defects set forth in Parts 1 or 2 of the List of Defects (form #220).

Independently of this investigation, it had come to the attention of Special Agent [redacted] that FRANK SINATRA had a criminal record in Bergen County. From [redacted] Bergen County Jail, Hackensack, New Jersey, there was obtained an enclosed picture of FRANK SINATRA and the following information regarding the two occasions on which SINATRA was held in the Bergen County Jail: FRANK SINATRA, Arrest #42799, Bergen County Sheriff's Office, Hackensack, New Jersey was arrested on November 26, 1938 charged with Seduction. Disposition was marked, "Dismissed". FRANK SINATRA, Arrest #42977, was arrested on December 22, 1938, charged with Adultery. The disposition on this charge was not listed. [redacted] stated that the fingerprints taken at the time of the listed arrests were submitted to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C.

The following description of SINATRA was obtained from the Selective Service File:

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. LADD

Re: FRANK SINATRA
Selective Service

SAC McKee of the Newark Office advised that Sinatra's classification appeared to be regular and that he was disqualified because of a perforated ear drum and chronic mastoiditis and that his mental condition was one of emotional instability. McKee stated that in a prior physical examination in the fall of 1943 none of these defects were noted and that in a questionnaire dated December 17, 1940, in answer to a question as to his physical condition, Sinatra noted there were none to the best of his knowledge. He is classified 4-F as of December 11, 1943.

McKee also said it had come to the attention of one of the Resident Agents at Hackensack, New Jersey, that Sinatra has an arrest record and that [redacted] Hackensack County Jail, who furnished this information, gave the Agent a photograph of Sinatra, arrest #42799. McKee advised that Sinatra was arrested in 1938 on a charge of seduction which was dismissed and he was later arrested on a charge of adultery.

I instructed McKee not to take any further action in this matter. He said he would submit a letter today covering the above.

Respectfully,

G. C. Callan

Re: FRANK ALBERT SINATRA
SELECTIVE SERVICE

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to my letter of February 10, 1944, and to the telephone message from Mr. Christopher Callan on February 15, 1944.

Mr. William Guthrie, Clerk of the Second Criminal Judicial District of the County of Bergen, County Court House, Hackensack, New Jersey, furnished Special Agent [redacted] the following information regarding SINATRA:

Under docket #15228 of that court in the STATE vs. FRANK SINATRA, SINATRA was charged, on November 26, 1938, by [redacted] N.J., with having committed the following offense: "On the second and ninth days of November 1938 at the Borough of Lodi ... under the promise of marriage [SINATRA] did then and there have sexual intercourse with the said complainant, who was then and there a single female of good repute ... contrary to and in violation of the revised statute of 1937." The Peerless Casualty Company, 241 Main Street, Hackensack, N.J., went bond for SINATRA in the amount of $1500. This complaint was withdrawn on December 7, 1938 because it was ascertained that the complainant was in fact married. In place of that complaint and under docket #15307, the STATE vs. FRANK SINATRA, a complaint was filed on December 21, 1938 by [redacted] N.J., charging SINATRA with adultery in that he, "On the second and ninth days of November 1938 ... did then and there commit adultery with the said complainant, a married woman, the wife of [redacted]. SINATRA went bond for himself in the amount of $500. On January 4, 1939, the case was remanded to the Grand Jury by order of Judge McINTYRE.

According to Mr. Guthrie, SINATRA'S attorney was Mr. HARRY L. TOWE of Rutherford, New Jersey, who at the present time is the Congressman (U. S. House of Representatives) from the 7th District of New Jersey.

Re: FRANK ALBERT SINATRA
 SELECTIVE SERVICE

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to the two letters from this office, dated February 10, 1944 and February 17, 1944, and to telephone message from Mr. CHRISTOPHER CALLAN on February 21, 1944. In accordance with instructions given by Mr. CALLAN, JOSEPH R. WEINTROB, Captain, U. S. Army Medical Corps, Chief Medical Officer, Armed Forces Induction Station, 113th Infantry Armory, Sussex Avenue and Jay Street, Newark 4, New Jersey, was interviewed by Special Agent [redacted] on February 23, 1944. The line officer in command of this induction station is Captain RAYMOND E. WALLS. Captain WEINTROB'S superior is Major FRANK GUIDOTTI, 39 Whitehall Street, New York, N.Y. b7c

Captain WEINTROB said that he had personally examined SINATRA'S ears and had rejected SINATRA against his, WEINTROB'S, wishes on the basis of a perforation of the left tympanum and chronic mastoiditis, left, either one of which would have sufficed for having rejected the registrant. The rejection was based on Mobilization Regulation #1-9, War Department, Washington, D. C., issued October 15, 1942 and amended thereafter. These regulations entitled "Standards of Physical Examination during Mobilization" set forth under Section 5, "Ears", paragraph #25, that the following defects make a registrant "not acceptable":

- (C) Perforation membrana tympani
- (D) Acute or chronic mastoiditis

Captain WEINTROB stated he had discussed this case with Major GUIDOTTI and with Colonel CHARLES E. WALSON, Chief, Medical Branch, Second Service Command, New York City, and he had, at the request of Colonel WALSON, forwarded on December 27, 1943 a true copy of the work sheet of the physical examination of SINATRA to General CHARLES C. HILLMAN, M.C., Office of the Surgeon General, War Department, Army Service Forces, 1818 H Street, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. A certified true copy of the cover letter used by Captain WEINTROB in forwarding the copy of the work sheet is enclosed with this letter. There is also enclosed a certified true copy of a letter signed by Captain WEINTROB to Colonel WALSON on December 28, 1943 and this letter is December and work sheet of the physical examination of Frank A. Sinatra, the following information is submitted:

(a) Selectee stated that at birth he sustained an injury below the left ear, presumably from the blade of forceps. In his early childhood he had several mastoid operations and subsequently has had frequent and repeated attacks of "running ear" on the left side, the last having occurred within the past several months. He also stated that he often suffered from "head noises" on the left side.

(b) Examination of the external ear revealed that the lobule had been removed and there was much post auricular scarification, including what were probably incisional scars of the previously mentioned mastoid surgery. The external auditory canal was narrowed and somewhat deformed and there was a considerable quantity of inspissated wax present. The tympanum was seen to contain a perforation. X-Rays of the left mastoid area revealed a "sclerosing mastoiditis".

(c) During the psychiatric interview the patient stated that he was 'neurotic, afraid to be in crowds, afraid to go in elevator, makes him feel that he would want to run when surrounded by people. He had somatic ideas and headaches and has been very nervous for four or five years. Wakens tired in the A.M., is run down and undernourished'.
The examining psychiatrist concluded that this selectee suffered from psychoneurosis and was not acceptable material from the psychiatric viewpoint. Inasmuch as the selectee was to be rejected on an organic basis, namely,

- (1) Perforation of left tympanum
- (2) Chronic mastoiditis, left, the diagnosis of psychoneurosis, severe was not added to the list.

Notation of emotional instability was made instead. It was felt that this would avoid undue unpleasantness for both the selectee and the induction service. U

Letter to Director

February 24, 1944

In explanation of some of the medical terms used above, and in explanation of the material transmitted to Colonel WALSON by Captain WEINTROB, the latter gave the following information:

SINATRA had stated to him that he had had at least three mastoid operations in his youth. If SINATRA mentioned the name or names of the physicians involved, Captain WEINTROB was unable to recall them. The examination, according to Captain WEINTROB, seemed to verify the statement inasmuch as there were found scars behind the ear. The perforation of the drum (tympanum) was a disease perforation so far as Captain WEINTROB could tell and not the result of an incision by human hands. Captain WEINTROB stated that mastoiditis is ordinarily caused by infection of the middle ear. In SINATRA'S case, there was chronic infection of the middle ear. Such infection ordinarily causes the formation of puss, which may seek outlet through the drum causing a perforation and thereafter puss draining or running through the perforation. The puss may stop flowing in which case the perforation of the drum will ordinarily heal over until puss again causes a perforation. However, where a perforation has healed, it is possible to see that a perforation formerly existed at that spot. The diseased middle ear can spread this infection to the brain causing an abscess, or to the mastoid area. In the latter area, a diseased condition is termed "mastoiditis", which may be acute; that is inflamed, or chronic; that is more a case of a hardening of the mastoid area with the laying down of bone deposits. In adverse weather conditions and the like chronic mastoiditis may well develop into acute mastoiditis. In SINATRA'S case, his assertion that "running ear" had recently occurred was borne out by the perforation noted in the x-ray of the mastoid area, which showed that the condition was one of chronic mastoiditis. This was borne out by the appearance on the x-ray of the sclerizing or hardening of that area; that is clotting in the remaining cells of the mastoid area not removed by operations indicating that the chronic mastoiditis had had the effect of petrifying that portion of the head. Captain WEINTROB attempted to locate the x-rays of the mastoid area, but was unable to do so immediately. He said he would continue to search for them and would lay them one side if he were able to locate them.

The Captain also stated that no one had ever attempted to influence his opinion in this case and in fact no one had discussed the SINATRA case with him prior to the actual examination. He added that within the past few weeks he has read an article by one of the New York City columnists to the effect that it was understood FRANK SINATRA'S case was not yet closed so far as induction was concerned. Captain WEINTROB stated he was satisfied in his own mind that SINATRA should not have been inducted and was willing to stake his medical reputation on his findings. He pointed to his training at the Jefferson Medical School and post-graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School as an indication of his medical qualifications.

Letter to Director

February 24, 1944

Captain WEINTROB stated that although SINATRA was four pounds below the minimum weight for men of his height, his induction station no longer went by the rules regarding minimum weight and for that reason no mention was made of his being below minimum weight. He also stated that many men coming into the induction station are found to have known physical defects which they did not list on the questionnaire or other draft papers. Ordinarily they fail to list such defects in their draft records for fear that people will criticize them for attempting to evade the draft in that fashion.

[redacted] civilian physician, at the Armed Forces Induction Station above mentioned, was likewise interviewed inasmuch as he had examined the x-rays of the mastoid area of FRANK SINATRA. [redacted] whose residence and office address is [redacted] stated that the x-rays indicated to him that SINATRA had chronic mastoiditis. He explained that the marked sclerosis or hardening of that area made that statement necessary. [redacted] likewise indicated that he was certain that it was absolutely necessary to reject SINATRA in the induction.

Because of the limited investigation requested, no additional investigation is contemplated by this office.

Very truly yours,

S. K. McKee

SUBJECT: FRANK ALBERT SINATRA
Selective Service

Mr. Tolson

You will recall that we inquired into the Selective Service status of Frank Sinatra because of the receipt from Walter Winchell of an anonymous letter which he received alleging that $40,000 had been paid by Sinatra to procure a 4-F classification. Newark found that Sinatra received a 4-F classification because of an ear ailment. It also discovered that Sinatra had been arrested twice--once for seduction and once for adultery, both arrests resulting in dis-

The Director penned a notation on my memorandum to you dated February 15, 1944, "We should be certain that there is nothing irregular in this case," and upon your instructions, I called the Newark Office on February 21, 1944 at 4:45 p. m. and instructed ASAC R. W. Bachman to have the physician who examined Sinatra interviewed. The Newark Office has complied with these instructions and there is attached hereto Newark's letter of February 24, 1944 which indicates very definitely that Sinatra was properly rejected because of a perforation of the membrana tympani and acute or chronic mastoiditis. During the course of the interview, it was ascertained from the examining physician, Dr. Joseph R. Weintrob, Captain, U. S. Army, Medical Corps, that Sinatra stated he had, in his early youth, been operated on on several occasions for mastoiditis. X-ray pictures have borne out Sinatra's statements in this regard. Captain Weintrob said the scar tissue which was the result of the operation was readily perceptible and in this connection the operational scars very clearly appear on the left profile photograph taken on the occasion of one of Sinatra's arrests by the Sheriff's Office at Hackensack, New Jersey. Either the perforation of the tympani or the mastoid condition is, as Captain Weintrob points out, cause for rejection of a registrant under War Department regulations.

It therefore appears that Sinatra was properly rejected from military service and there is no indication that the statements made in the anonymous letter above referred to have any foundation. Consequently, in the absence of further instructions, no additional inquiries will be conducted in this matter.

Sinatra Leaves Coast In Answer to Draft

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1 (U.P.). Frank Sinatra, crooning idol of the bobby-sox set, left today by train for New York to appear before his draft board for possible reclassification. He was classified 4-F at his first examination because of a punctured eardrum. Sinatra planned to report first to board 19 in New York city, which had summoned him, and then wait for an appointment with his Jersey City, N. J., board.

Sinatra Held for Trial on Battery Charge On Columnist's Complaint Singer Hit Him

HOLLYWOOD, April 9 (UP)—Frank Sinatra was arrested in the middle of a tune today and hauled off to court, where he pleaded not guilty to a charge of hitting Lee Mortimer, New York columnist, outside Ciro's restaurant last night. The singer accused the columnist of insulting him.

This afternoon two burly investigators picked up the crooner on a battery warrant at the Columbia Broadcasting Company studio, where he was rehearsing for a broadcast.

The singer said with a grin that he couldn't produce $500 bail when he was brought before Judge Bert Woodward in Beverly Hills Justice Court. So obliging newspaper men, lawyers and court spectators provided the necessary funds.

"I waive reading of the complaint," said the crooner affably, "and request a trial late next month."

The judge set May 27 for a jury trial on the battery complaint, signed by Mr. Mortimer.

The columnist, gingerly stroking the left side of his head where the singer's fist connected, said that was all right.

There were hours of indecision before the arrest. Mr. Mortimer got out of bed at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel this morning with the announcement that he would wait to see the X-rays of his injury before he took any action.

About noon he showed up at Judge Woodward's court and conferred for two hours with Assistant District Attorney M. F. Howard. After numerous telephone calls he signed the battery complaint.

Meanwhile the crooner, assured he would have plenty of time to surrender, wound up make-up tests for a motion picture at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and confidently sauntered to the rehearsal at the CBS Vine Street Playhouse.

"Oh, What a Beee-yoo-tiful Mooooorning," he was crooning when the two men from the District Attorney's office strode down the aisle and led him away.

He walked briskly into the court. "I plead innocent and wish a jury trial," he said in a firm voice.

Everyone agreed that the crooner struck the newspaper man in the foyer of Ciro's. But exactly why was a moot point.

"For two years he's been needling me," said the crooner. "He called me a Dago. I saw red."

Said Mr. Mortimer: "I was standing on the steps outside the restaurant when I was hit without warning from behind."

Mr. Sinatra, weighing 130 pounds, said he entered the club alone and joined some friends. He spied the columnist at a table and nodded in greeting.

"He gave me a look," said the singer. "I can't describe it. It was one of those contemptuous, 'Who do you amount to' looks. I followed him outside. I hit him. I'm all mixed up."

The Voice Will Lack (a Gun's) Authority Now

HOLLYWOOD, April 10—Crooner Frank Sinatra flew to New York today to receive an award for fighting intolerance after promising to appear in court here next month for fighting a New York Columnist. Frankie's victim, Leo Mortimer, was considering civil damage suit against the spindly singer.

Frankie is to be tried on a battery charge May 27. If convicted he faces a possible $1000 fine and six months' jail sentence.

NO SIX-SHOOTER NOW

This isn't the singer's first to-do with the press. A few months ago he threatened by telegram to give The News Hollywood Columnist Erskine Johnson "a belt in you vicious and stupid mouth" if the two ever met. So far they haven't.

Frankie Sinatra was arrested yesterday at a radio rehearsal. Judge Bert Woodward figured on letting him surrender but changed his mind when he heard Frankie was to fly to New York.

Frankie strode briskly into Beverly Hills court and affably waived, reading of the complaint.

His smile faded when the judge proclaimed $500 bail. There was an embarrassed silence while Frankie and his attorney, Albert Pearson, frisked their pockets.

"Uh, I'm a little short today," said the man with the Million-dollar-a-year larynx.

KIDS, NOT MORONS

Court spectators and newsmen passed the hat to save Frankie the ignominy of going to jail. But he was chastened further when Undersheriff Arthur Jewell announced the singer's gun permit had been suspended.

Frankie explained he took out the permit two months ago to "protect personal funds." Shortly thereafter he went to Cuba, where he met Gambler Lucky Luciano. Their alleged friendship was blistered in Mr. Mortimer's column and was believed to be the spark for Tuesday night's fracas.

(Frankie's "friendship" with Luciano was first revealed by Robert Ruark, 6-foot, 200-pound columnist for The News and other Scripps-Howard papers.)

Frankie earlier charged Mr. Mortimer muttered: "There's that dago" to his date when the singer entered Ciro's.

"I don't take that kind of talk," said Frankie. "I followed him outside. I saw red. I hit him. He's needed me for two years. He's referred to my bobby-soxer fans as morons. They're not morons. They're just kids."

Mr. Mortimer, however, claimed he hadn't even seen Sinatra in the club and knew nothing until he felt the crooner's fist on the left side of his head.

"I was standing on top of the steps outside the club when three men grabbed me and Sinatra hit me," he said. "I've got scratched wrists, and a broken watch to prove they held me."

The attached Westbrook Pegler column implies that Danny Kaye, the comedian, and Frank Sinatra, the singer, are both draft evaders. The Bureau has conducted investigation of both of these individuals and the Pegler insinuations do not appear to be borne out by the facts developed.

In February, 1944 Walter Winchell furnished the Bureau with an anonymous communication which alleged that Frank Sinatra had paid $40,000 for a LF classification. Inquiry by the Newark Division developed that Sinatra was properly rejected for military service because of a perforated eardrum. The examining physician stated that there was evidence that Sinatra had undergone an operation for a mastoid in his youth.

It is recommended that no action be taken in this matter.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBOK PEGLER

I HAVE just received a letter from an old comrade of Danny Kaye, the great morale-builder of the movies, who served in the war with him for almost three-quarters of an hour in Grand Central Palace on Dec. 31, 1942.

Grand Central Palace was the big store of the draft, the plant in which "all the different groups" as Eleanor the Great, with lofty objectivity, refers to the lower orders of the human race, were stripped to nakedness and, in this dignified condition, answered freedom's call.

After some preliminary remarks, Mr. Kaye's old sidekick in the no-hundred and nothingth battalion of nothing, begins:

"This brings us to Danny Kaye and back to Dec. 31, 1942.

"I being a resident of East New York, adjoining Brownsville, (which is the old home grounds of the beloved, in a manner of speaking, 'Kid From Brooklyn') was registered with Draft Board No. 229 (Danny Kaye's board). I had just turned 18 and was being drafted.

"I will never forget that day. We were to report to the local board, Sutter and Warwick, or Ashford, street. As we waited around for all the fellows to show up, we were informed that Danny Kaye was registered in this board and would be at Grand Central with us.

"I suppose it was a little too early in the morning or maybe he didn't like to ride the subway, because he didn't go with us, but arrived at the place later on. As we sat in the auditorium and were being briefed on what was to come, it was only natural the fellows were trying to pick Danny Kaye out. Which they finally did. Although it wasn't a laughing Danny we saw. He gave no response to guys hollering out his name. He seemed very annoyed and just sat motionless.

ABOUT three-quarters of the way through is when I next spotted him. I hardly recognized him. He had had his shoulders on—that is to say a well-padded suit, etc., but now we were all stripped to our shorts. There was about three other fellows in front of me waiting for the next doctor.

"And here was Danny Kaye, putting on probably his best performance yet.

"The doc would tell him to bend from the waist. As he did this he gave out with a cry and immediately straightened up as if to say it was impossible to do."

POSSIBLY that is what his Local Board, No. 229, had in mind when it rejected unanimously a request from the U.S.O. that Danny be permitted to go out as an entertainer and insisted that he would go in a soldier suit or not at all.

The board wrote: "Neither his physical nor his mental condition or attitude tends to show that the morale of the armed forces would be benefited by his performance before them as a civilian."

"He then commenced to explain something to the doc," says Danny's old buddy of somewhat less than an hour in the war against the savage barbarian hordes for the preservation of human liberty. "After which the doc pressed his back with his fingers but only to hear Danny sigh again. By this time, another doctor came over and started examining us."

"Soon after, I was through with that section and started to move on when I got my last glance at 'The Kid From Brooklyn.' He was attempting a knee bend, but had lost his balance unrealistically. If this was his talent that was supposed to have lifted our morale overseas, I was glad I never heard or saw of him while in the service."

WELL, that is the way it goes in the rough-and-ready banter of fighting men. This chap went on to do his bit in the dumb crude way of "all the different groups," but Danny went to Fort Jay for some careful checking and the word came back which caused his local board to comment on his "mental attitude."

And, after a while Danny's whole draft file vanished permanently from the jurisdiction of the boards and he devoted himself unmoled to esthetic work. He is most esthetic when he plays blubberlip and emits a highly spiritual sound something like the dreading of a committed idiot in a lunatic asylum.

Like Frankie Boy Sinatra, another ferocious, though vicarious fighter against the bloody-handed Hun, Danny Kaye was denied his chance to visit the zones of war until they were mere tourist areas. Like Frankie Boy, also, he developed aggressive social and political ideas.

Frankie Boy gave $7,500 to Roosevelt's fourth campaign fund and developed a case of 4-F ear-drum, but he came right to the water's edge, in New York, in May, 1946, only a year after it ended, and fearlessly denounced double-talking diplomats at a show under the auspices of the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts and Sciences.

If you want to know how many times this committee has been cited as a front by the Dies and Thomas committees in official reports to Congress, you will just have to look it up yourself.

However, Frankie Boy's manager, George Evans, says that thereafter he put himself under the political guidance of two reporters who are experts on Communism, and agreed not to mess around with any outfit which they disapproved. It shows Frankie Boy's wonderful political grasp and wisdom.

ABOUT the same time, Frankie Boy snarled menacingly at Ashton Stevens, of the Chicago Herald-American, who is rising 80 years, because Mr. Stevens had called his bobby-soxers "morons."

Frankie spoke very affectionately and protectively about his beloved little blabby-babs, as Danny Kaye would call them. He regards them as innocent American girlhood, but, by a curious difference of opinion, Mr. Stevens thinks of them as several million sexually excited specimens of jail-bait.

Mr. Stevens adds that Frankie Boy is always on guard to protect his precious name because when the little morons seem to be wanting nothing but his autograph, actually, they are "trying to tear his clothes off."

Sordid, isn't it? But that's life.

DANNY KAYE was one of those glamorous gods of the unreal world of romantic enchantment who flew to Washington to protest against the undemocratic procedure of the United States Congress in proving that certain Hollywood Communists were Communists.

Back in his beginning days he made comical faces and went "blabby-blibbety-blub" in a show produced under the political auspices of the New Masses.

It is too near closing time for me to try to explain to you the politics of the New Masses. But if you go out and bet the rent that it isn't anti-Joe Stalin, you are shot with Jack Gbye now!

On January 16, 1963, FRANK SINATRA and MILTON A. RUDIN, Attorney at Law and Financial Advisor to SINATRA, were interviewed at the offices of Essex Productions, 9229 Sunset Boulevard, Suite 512, Los Angeles, California, concerning the Cal - Neva Lodge, Crystal Bay, Nevada.

During the course of this interview Mr. RUDIN, with the consent of Mr. SINATRA, advised that their current plans for the Cal - Neva Lodge included quite a substantial expansion of the hotel which would necessitate the bringing in of some $4,000,000.00 of added capital. RUDIN stated that he found out by checking into the loan situation that banks and insurance companies, in order to make loans, would ask for stock options, which they are not ready to agree to.

Mr. RUDIN advised that he has become familiar with some of the pension fund loans from reading the series of articles run by the "Los Angeles Times" on investigations of loans by the Teamsters to various Nevada casinos and that these are straight forward loans. He advised that he had gone to Chicago and had talked to various Teamster officials in the Chicago area concerning the possibility of securing a loan for Cal - Neva. He advised that the Cal - Neva, at the next meeting of the trustees for the pension fund in March, will, according to their present plans, apply for a loan in order to achieve their expansion program.

Both RUDIN and SINATRA advised they wished to go on record that there were no under-the-table payments of any kind involved, that this was a simple straight forward business transaction with sufficient collateral involved. Mr. RUDIN advised that the person he had contacted regarding the possibility of such a loan was HAROLD GIBBONS. SINATRA mentioned that DORIS DAY had secured a similar type loan from the Teamsters for a motel that she owns, and he had asked her if she had had to cut anybody in, and she advised him that it was not necessary, that it was a straight loan.

MISCELLANEOUS - INFORMATION CONCERNING

A review of the minutes of a meeting held on September 21, 1962, by the Trustees of the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas, Pension Fund of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters revealed the following pertinent information:

Mr. Milton A. Ruden appeared before the Trustees on behalf of Park Lake Enterprises, Incorporated, Cal-Nova Lodge, Nevada.

The borrower was seeking an immediate loan of $3,000,000 with an additional commitment for $2,000,000. This loan was to be used for the purpose of developing the resort.

Trustee James R. Hoffa summarized the application as follows:

The request for the loan was on Park Lake Enterprises, Cal-Nova Lodge, Nevada, for a $3,000,000 present loan with an additional commitment of $2,000,000. Hoffa asked Ruden to explain the application.

Mr. Ruden advised the Trustees that Mr. Frank Sinatra was the principal stockholder of the corporation. Cal-Nova had been operated for 30 years at Lake Tahoe. Sinatra had acquired majority control over the past two years and started an expansion program without permanent financing.

JAMES RIDDLE HOFFA
PARK LAKE ENTERPRISES, INCORPORATED,
Doing Business As CAL-NEVA LODGE,
LAKE TAHOE, NEVADA; ET AL

Ruden detailed the application and said they were asking for $5,000,000 with the understanding that the additional $2,000,000 which would be only 60% of the applicant's actual cash was additional investment in additional construction.

In response to a question asked by Trustee Albert Matheson, Ruden stated that Sinatra and others will have $540,000 plus some monies they have loaned in, namely, a quarter million dollars from various companies.

Ruden continued that it was their intention to put other Sinatra ventures into this which would supply income and additional capitalization rather than put in tax paid dollars. Ruden also stated that if the Fund put $5,000,000 into this project the property would then be worth from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

A motion was made by Trustee Frank Fitzsimmons that the loan be rejected on the basis presented and "that the man come in" and give a definite presentation for a future request on the actualities of what is going to be entailed in his request for money.

The motion which was seconded by Trustee John Spickerman was carried with dissent.

After the vote, Hoffa who was acting as chairman, advised Ruden as follows:

"The committee has rejected the presentation presented today and recommends that you present at the next meeting here, more concise program - namely, exactly how much money you are going to spend, how much money you are going to have in this from Sinatra and the other stockholders' interest in it, and what your projection is going to be for the next five years, so we will know exactly what this Fund is investing in. Plus, we want to have an outline as to what other enterprises will Sinatra put into this operation to show that there will be ability to pay back the money he borrows from us".

Sinatra Ends His Gambling Ties in Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 8 (AP). — Frank Sinatra, who surrendered $3.4 million in Nevada gaming interests, says he's going to concentrate on the entertainment field from now on. But he wished the gambling industry good luck in parting. Casinos, he said, make jobs for entertainers and he's all for them.

Mr. Sinatra announced yesterday he would not fight an attempt by the Nevada Gaming Commission to revoke his license. He said he had been planning to pull out for several months.

The commission had been seeking to revoke Mr. Sinatra's license on grounds that he entertained underworld figure Sam Giancana at Mr. Sinatra's Cal-Neva lodge in Lake Tahoe.

Mr. Sinatra's attorney, Harry Claiborne, asked the gaming commission in a letter yesterday to terminate the singer's license, adding that he was withdrawing from the gaming industry.

Considered Admission
The singer's withdrawal was expected to end further action by the commission, although technically it still could proceed.

"No useful purpose would be served by my devoting my time and energies convincing the Nevada gaming officials that I should be part of their gambling industry," Mr. Sinatra said in a statement issued here yesterday. ~~Singer~~ was in New York.

A commission spokesman said Mr. Sinatra's failure to respond to the commissions' charges "shall constitute an admission of all matters and facts contained in the complaint."

"In such cases," the spokesman said, "the commission may take action based upon such admission or upon any other evidences . . . and without any further notices whatever to respondent (Sinatra)."

Rights Waived
By failing to file a notice of defense, Mr. Sinatra waives all rights to both a hearing before the commission and any judicial review of the commission's decision.

The gaming commission had asked the Supreme Court to revoke Sinatra's gaming license at 10 per cent interest in the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. Mr. Sinatra's income in Nevada was estimated at $1 million. His Sands Hotel holdings are about $380,000.

The five-count charge was filed in Carson City September 11. Mr. Sinatra later was given until yesterday to reply to the charges or risk losing his license without benefit of a hearing.

Safety Information

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Thursday
October 6, 1977

SB 77-44/2184
(202) 426-8787

The National Transportation Safety Board said today that the crash of a chartered jet which killed four persons, including the mother of entertainer Frank Sinatra, was caused by the crew's failure to properly interpret their flight clearance.

The plane, a Gates Learjet 24B, operated by Jet Avia Ltd., took off at 1655:00^{1/} on January 6, 1977 from runway 30 at Palm Springs Municipal Airport, California on an Instrument Flight Rules clearance to Las Vegas, Nevada. About five minutes later the Learjet crashed in the mountains at approximately 9,700 feet altitude some 22 miles northwest of Palm Springs. The local weather observation reported a ceiling estimated at 3,000 feet, broken, 5,000 feet overcast, visibility 8 miles, light rain, wind calm.

The jet's air traffic control clearance required it to make a right turn after takeoff and position itself on a straight line course between Palm Springs and Twenty-nine Palms. The jet was to maintain an altitude of 9,000 feet and was told to report "crossing" the Palm Springs VORTAC^{2/} 051 degree radial 10 mile fix.

The Board's investigation showed the plane took off, climbed to 9,000 feet, but never changed its runway heading and flew directly into the mountains, killed the two-man crew, and two passengers, 82-year-old Mrs. Natalie Sinatra, and her traveling companion.

"The National Transportation Safety Board determines the probable cause of the accident was the flightcrew's misinterpretation of an instrument flight rules clearance issued by the Palm Springs Departure Control and subsequent Air Traffic Control instructions.

"Contributing to the accident was the controller's failure to detect the aircraft's deviation from the route of flight contained in the ATC clearance and the flightcrew's failure to recognize their proximity to the high terrain."

ENCLOSURE

At 1654:10 the FAA local controller cleared the Learjet for take-off and to maintain "niner thousand." After the aircraft was airborne the crew contacted Palm Springs departure control and reported "out of" 1,500 feet and climbing to 9,000 and the controller requested they report reaching 9,000. The controller then requested the flight to "report crossing 051 radial 10 mile fix." The flight responded "okay" and ten seconds later the controller transmitted "and that's the Palm Springs 051 radial, sir," and again the flight responded "okay."

Subsequently, at 1656:25 the Learjet crew reported they had "crossed the radial." The crew did not specify the "Palm Springs 051 degree radial" or the "10 mile fix," both of which were included in the clearance. The Board said that the flightcrew's report that they had crossed the radial "was erroneous" because the Palm Springs 051 degree radial exists in the northeast quadrant of the VORTAC and the flight never entered that area. The Board concluded that when the crew reported they had crossed the radial they were actually crossing the Palm Springs 231 degree radial which is the reciprocal course of the Palm Springs 051 radial. At the same time when the controller received this report he "assumed" that the crew were crossing the Palm Springs 051 radial at the 10 mile fix, as specified in the clearance.

The Board said it is difficult to rationalize how the flightcrew concluded that the runway heading of 300 degrees -- which led them from the point of takeoff directly into the mountains -- was to be maintained. The Palm Springs controller cleared the flight, in part, to Las Vegas "via Palm Springs, direct Twenty-nine Palms." Based on the existing regulations the Board concluded that the pilot was required to fly on the straight line course between these two points, which meant turning off the 300 degree runway heading as soon as practical after takeoff. The controller had specifically defined the point at which the Learjet was to report along its cleared route; crossing the Palm Springs 051 degree radial "10 mile fix." "There was no way this fix could be reached by maintaining the runway heading," the Board said, "and no request was levied on the flightcrew to hold runway heading after takeoff."

The Board noted that one possible explanation for the crew's misinterpretation of their clearance could have been that the crew were unaware they were operating in non-radar environment and believed they were under radar control. However, at the time of the accident the Palm Springs Tower had no radar capability. Consequently, until the Learjet reached about 9,000 feet -- the lowest altitude that the Los Angeles Center radar could pick up its transponder target -- no radar information was available to monitor the Learjet's progress. It was not until "just before impact" that the Los Angeles Center's radar picked up the Learjet on their radarscope but there was not sufficient time to establish radio contact with the flight and vector it away from the mountain. Thus, without radar, the Palm Springs departure controller's knowledge of the Learjet's position could only have been based on the route for which he cleared the aircraft -- and the pilot's progress reports.

In commenting on the flightcrew's "failure to recognize their proximity to high terrain," the Board pointed out that "proper exercise of responsibility" during descents and takeoffs can only be based on knowledge of terrain hazards. However, in this case, the pilot was familiar with the Palm Springs airport and its surrounding terrain. Thus, the Board said, it could not explain the Learjet pilot's continuance of a heading that, if maintained would aim his aircraft toward the highest mountain in the area and at an altitude more than 2,000 feet "below" the highest terrain. The Board did note, however, that several aircraft accident investigations have indicated that, since the advent of radar control and its capability to vector traffic, there has been "a derogation of pilot knowledge of terrain over which they fly."

In commenting on the controller's failure to detect the aircraft's deviation from the route contained in the air traffic control clearance the Board noted that at 1656:55 the Learjet crew reported they were approaching 9,000 feet and asked if they were cleared "via" the 051 degree radial to Twenty-nine Palms. The controller replied in the affirmative and added "I had a change of route there. Maintain 9,000, I'll keep you advised." The crew then asked if they were to maintain 9,000 feet "straight ahead, right?" and the controller said they were. The controller's use of "I had a change of route there" appeared to confirm their belief that their present heading (approximately 300 degrees) was to be maintained until they received clearance to "turn back" toward Twenty-nine Palms and "intercept" the 051 radial.

On the other hand the controller stated that when he said he would "keep them advised" he was only considering the "altitude restriction" of 9,000 feet. Moreover, since the controller was convinced the flight was already established outbound on the 051 radial course the query about flying "straight ahead" merely meant "continued flight" toward Twenty-nine Palms on the 051 radial. The Board noted that during this exchange the flightcrew did not apprise the controller of one vital piece of information -- their heading, or direction of flight.

Subsequently, at 1658:30 the crew reported they were about 14 miles from Palm Springs and maintaining 9,000 feet on a heading of "three one zero (310 degrees)" and asked "what's our clearance from here." This was the only transmission from the flightcrew that gave the controller "heading information" the Board said, and a chance to make a reasonably accurate estimate of the aircraft's position. However, the Board said, the controller did not recognize the significance of the 310 degree heading or it did not register with sufficient impact to overturn his conviction that the Learjet was on the 051 radial heading and proceeding toward Twenty-nine Palms.

The same defects in communication procedures uncovered in this accident appeared in several earlier accidents, the Board said. As a result, on July 25, 1977, the Board recommended that the Federal Aviation Administration require a controller who issues an altitude assignment, or a heading, to require the crew to read back the clearance -- if the pilot fails to do so on his own. The Board also recommended that the FAA alert its personnel to the circumstances surrounding the Palm Springs accident in an effort to prevent any possible recurrence.

On January 24, 1979, Departmental Attorneys Cecilia Hatfield and Herbert Lyons, Chief Torts Branch, Civil Division, arrived in Las Vegas, Nevada, and met with Supervisor Robert M. Bryant and Special Agent Michael T. Hanley. During the above meeting, a request was made by Hatfield to analyze business, books and records made available by Jet Avia, Ltd., on January 25, 1979, and make a determination of which records would require detailed examination. The detailed examination is required to determine the correctness and accuracy of the civil claim against the Government regarding [REDACTED] lease agreement with Jet Avia and the loss of use of the aircraft.

On January 25, 1979, the above analysis was performed and it was mutually agreed upon by Hatfield, Lyons and Jet Avia that records requiring detailed examination would be set aside for Xeroxing. Hatfield was to be notified when these records would be turned over to the Government for their examination.

Examination of those records set aside will be performed upon notification by the Department of Justice that the records are available.

[REDACTED] were performed. No derogatory information was reflected in the records with the exception that a confidential source stated [REDACTED] could not be substantiated.

Additional requests were made by Hatfield to determine if Barbara Jeanne Weier and/or Paula Lucille Nicola Foley had remarried after the death of their husbands. The Clark County Recorders Office does not reflect any marriage licenses in 1977, 1978, or 1979, where Weier or Foley were remarried. Nevada Power Company Records reflect that electricity is still being provided in the names of Donald J. Weier, 304 Duke Circle, Las Vegas, and Jerald W. Foley, 6992 West Tara Avenue, Las Vegas.
