RULES AND RELATED MATTERS

ACCOUNTING FOR EXTINGUISHMENT OF DEBT

The Commission has issued an interpretive release announcing that pending issuance of a final standard by the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB), all registrants should follow the FASB's tentative decision as to the proper accounting treatment for transactions intended to have the same substantive effect as a legal extinguishment of debt, even though the debtor's obligations are not in fact discharged as a legal matter. The FASB has recently announced its tentative conclusion that debt should not be considered as extinguished unless the debtor has no further legal obligation, and has added this subject to its agenda. During the interim period while the FASB is considering a final standard, the Commission believes that financial reporting should be consistent with the FASB's tentative decision, even though arguments exist for alternative accounting methods.
