

Station Marblehead, Ohio

Formerly Marblehead Point

USLSS Station #9, Ninth District
Coast Guard Station #241

Location:	Point Marblehead, near Quarry Dock, Lake Erie
Date of Conveyance:	1876
Station Built:	1875
Fate:	Still in operation

Remarks:

Marblehead (from an article by Merlin D. Wolcott, "Marblehead Lifesaving Station," in: Inland Seas: The Journal of the Great Lakes Historical Society 22/4 (Winter 1966, pp. 295-300.)

Marblehead Lifeboat Station was established on June 20, 1874. It is located in the village of Marblehead, near Lakeside, on the shore of Lake Erie in northern Ohio. Official opening of the station was in September 1876 with Lucien M.

Clemons as the first keeper. A more modern station was built in 1921 and by the time the article was published there were plans to enlarge the facilities in order to accommodate a growing number of crewmen.

Keepers:

Lucien M. Clemons was appointed keeper on 9 SEP 1876 and resigned on 31 MAR 1897.

Daniel L. Griesser was appointed keeper on 2 APR 1897 and was still serving in 1915.

Photography (click on station name to view image):

Marblehead \(the photo shown above\); no photo number; caption reads "Life Saving Station at Marblehead, Ohio, Capt. L. M. Clemons was for years keeper"; date/photographer unknown.

Marblehead; Photo 241/3; "View looking south from breakwater showing north end of Sta. building and shed for life boat"; 29 May 1918; photographer unknown.

Marblehead; no photo number or caption; date/photographer unknown; [1921 station; inspection photo after construction?]

[\[Historians' Office\]](#)

[\[USCG Home Page\]](#)

Added: January 2001