U.S. Senate Confirms Stephen S. McMillin as Deputy Director for the Budget

WASHINGTON – Today the United States Senate confirmed Stephen S. McMillin as Deputy Director for the Budget. OMB Director Rob Portman welcomed the news.

“I applaud the United States Senate for confirming Steve McMillin as Deputy OMB Director,” said Portman. “His distinguished record of leadership and policy expertise will be a tremendous asset to the agency. Steve’s sharp analytical skills and strong commitment to public service will result in active oversight of the budget and a daily emphasis on spending discipline and making government work more effectively for taxpayers.”

STEPHEN S. MCMILLIN

Mr. McMillin is the Deputy Director at the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). In this senior capacity, Mr. McMillin directly assists the Director, Rob Portman, in the development of the Federal budget and execution of the President’s programs and policies.

Prior to his current position, from November 2005 to June 2006, McMillin served President George W. Bush as deputy assistant to the President and advisor to Chiefs of Staff Andrew Card and Joshua Bolten.

Mr. McMillin first served OMB from December 2001 to November 2005 as Program Associate Director for General Government Programs. In this role, he was responsible for budget and management oversight of six Cabinet agencies.

From 1991 to 2001, Mr. McMillin served on the staff of the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs and on the staff of Senator Phil Gramm. During that time, he served as Senator Gramm's Legislative Director, Financial Economist and Legislative Assistant, directly handling major budget and tax legislation.

Mr. McMillin received his bachelor's degree from the University of Texas at Austin. He resides in Virginia with his wife, Dawn, and their two sons, Spencer and Christian.
