Because MSHA's tenecales reach to tiny 2 and 3 employee operations on family farms this regulation proposal is overreaching and unamerican.

If I or an employee want to have a beer after work on my personal property that also happens to have my home, shop and office the Federal govt. should have no say so.

Also have you thought of the cost involved for us tiny operations for all this testing and treatment? Do you have statistics to back up this outrageous power grab? How many small operators have employee deaths due to intoxication? Even if you do banning alcohol from the property is a overkill and makes you inspectors more like Gestapo agents. ☹

Either exempt operations up to 10 employees of land owned by the operator or don't enact the rule at all.
