I own a firm where we process approximately 400 1040s, 60 1041s, 60 1120 and 1120S, and a few partnership returns. A small portion of our business clients have ERISA retirement savings plans. The cost / benefit of purchasing the software to process the number of 5500 forms we file is cost prohibitive at this point. Consequently, we utilize printed forms and file manually.

I'll be one of the first preparers to offer to use a web-based system where we can file electronically for a nominal fee, should the Federal government provide such a site, or should the private sector provide the technology at a reasonable charge at some point in the near future.

Best Regards,
