

Occupational Information Network Coverage

The Occupational Information Network (O*NET), which replaced the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, is used by public employment service offices to classify and place job-seekers. O*NET was developed by job analysts. The information on job duties, knowledge and skills, education and training, and other occupational characteristics comes directly from workers and employers. Information on O*NET is available from O*NET Project, U.S. Department of Labor/ETA, 200 Constitution Ave. NW., Room S-4231, Washington, DC 20210-0001. Telephone (202) 693-3660. Internet: <http://www.doleta.gov/programs/onet/>

The structure of O*NET reflects the 2000 Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) system. With 822 detailed occupations, SOC represents the Federal Government's most recent effort to analyze the occupational structure in the United States and to provide a national occupational classification system. Information on the SOC, including its occupational structure, is available on the Internet: <http://www.bls.gov/soc/>

Occupational statements in this 2008-09 edition of the Handbook list the O*NET codes that relate to or match the definitions used in the Bureau's Occupational Employment Statistics (OES) survey—the principal source of occupational employment data in the Handbook. All numbers listed also appear in the table below. The table is arranged by the O*NET code, followed by the O*NET title and the page on which the corresponding Handbook statement begins.
