Economic Development Today

A Telecast on Regional Economic Development in Florida 3:00 - 4:00 P.M. EDT

This telecast will showcase “best practice” examples of regional economic development in Florida, and will feature interviews with Florida Governor Jeb Bush and other leaders from the public and private sectors, who are collaborating across political boundaries to meet the challenges of 21st century economic development.

The Miami and Tampa/Clearwater Regions in the South Central Florida Mega Region will be featured.

The show will also feature a part of NARC’s 5th Annual Metropolitan Regions Forum that will focus on Florida, and bring together the twenty largest metropolitan regions across the United States.

Topics addressed will include: infrastructure (transportation, environmental, financing), linkages to the global economy, workforce development, and faith-based initiatives.

An Information Dissemination Partnership

The Economic Development Administration (EDA), the International Economic Development Council (IEDC) and the National Association of Regional Councils (NARC) have established an information dissemination partnership. Economic Development Today is a program that includes a series of six telecasts intended to provide information about economic development practices and programs to economic development practitioners who serve distressed communities throughout the United States. The partnership also provides a monthly update and a quarterly magazine. To view prior telecasts, visit <http://www.eda.gov/newsevents/webcasts/videos.xml>.
