

Fogarty appoints Timothy J. Tosten as Executive Officer

Timothy J. Tosten is the newly appointed Executive Officer at the Fogarty International Center (FIC). In this role, he will oversee all administrative operations of the Center, including financial management, information technology, general administration, ethics and procurement. In addition, he will be managing the Lawton Chiles International House (the “Stone House”) for the Center, as well as, the other international services the FIC provides to the NIH, including the notice for foreign travel (NFT) system and the official government passport process.

Tosten comes to the FIC from the National Institute of Mental Health, where he was the Associate Director for Administration in the Division of Intramural Research Programs. He managed the budget, contracts, procurement, information technology and facilities. In addition, he was the co-chair of the NIH Intramural Administrative Officers Group.

He came to the NIH as a Presidential Management Intern in 1993 dedicated to the Office of Research Services (ORS). He spent 12 years at the ORS, where he worked in varying positions and areas, including managing the child care programs and food services contracts, the NIH travel contract, and he initiated the first ever NIH-wide sign language interpreting services contract. He also oversaw the construction of the East Child Care Center and the Building 35 cafeteria, the renovation of the Building 10/B1 cafeteria, and the expansion of the child care center on Executive Boulevard.

He is currently a member of the NIH Administrative Training Committee, where he is the Chair of the newly formed Administrative Fellows Program. Tosten holds a B.S. degree in Political Science from the University of Maryland – Baltimore County, and a Masters of Public Administration from the University of Baltimore.
