

Derek Campbell
Attorney-Advisor
Office of General Counsel
for International Law
National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

Derek Campbell has worked as an Attorney-Advisor in the Office of General Counsel for International Law since February 2007. Issues in Derek's portfolio include international trade agreements; international fisheries agreements and U.S. fisheries laws with trade provisions; illegal, unreported, and unregulated fishing; regional fisheries management organizations; and the international conservation of seabirds and other protected marine living resources. Prior to joining NOAA, Derek clerked at the Environmental and Natural Resources Law Clinic at Vermont Law School, interned at NOAA and the Conservation Law Foundation, worked as an environmental educator for the Brooklyn Center for the Urban Environment, and worked as a publicist for Miramax Films. Derek received his Juris Doctorate, cum laude, and Master of Studies in Environmental Law, magna cum laude, from Vermont Law School, and his Bachelor of Arts in philosophy and political science from the University of Wisconsin - Madison.