

Use DIRLINE to Get Connected to Over 8,000 Health Organizations

The National Library of Medicine's DIRLINE is a directory database that provides patients, health care and social services professionals, and consumers with an easy-to-use online resource for locating health and bio-medical organizations offering information, referral, and support for various diseases and conditions. DIRLINE will help you find health organizations that offer:

- Toll-free telephone numbers
- Services for the hearing impaired
- Spanish-language services and publications
- And more...

Each listing contains detailed, up-to-date information and provides:

- Description
- Address, telephone numbers, and fax numbers
- Internet address
- E-mail address

Visit DIRLINE today at <http://dirline.nlm.nih.gov>

HEALTH HOTLINES

Health Hotlines is a directory of selected organizations derived from DIRLINE. It provides toll-free telephone numbers in an easy-to-use format with a detailed index.

This popular publication can be searched online, or a printed copy can be requested. Information in Health Hotlines is provided in English and Spanish.

Try Health Hotlines at <http://sis.nlm.nih.gov/hotlines>

