Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge

Bird Checklist

Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge was established in 1935 as a refuge and breeding ground for migratory birds and other wildlife. The refuge comprises 7,350 acres along the eastern edge of the Missouri River floodplain and is located in northwest Missouri, 30 miles northwest of St. Joseph, and 100 miles north of Kansas City, Missouri.

Legend

Refuge personnel and visiting ornithologists have contributed to this list which contains 277 species that have been recorded on the refuge. Another 33 species, listed under "Accidental" birds, have been reported, but are not normally expected to be present.

Season, abundance, and nesting status for each bird species are coded as follows:

S... Spring.....March – May

s.... Summer.....June – July

F... Fall.....August – November

W.. WinterDecember – February

a..... abundant – common species that is very numerous

c..... common – certain to be seen in suitable habitat

u uncommon – present, but not certain to be seen

o..... occasional – seen only a few times during a season

r rare – seen only at intervals of 2 – 5 years

(E).. Endangered

* indicates birds which nest locally

Squaw Creek NWR was officially named one of America's Top 500 Globally Important Bird Areas by the American Bird Conservancy in July 2001.

Note: During August shorebirds and warblers and other passerines are well into migration. The Audubon Society of Missouri also uses June & July = summer and August – November = fall for its seasonal surveys.
