Rival for Survival

Exotic Species in the Great Lakes

Fishhook flea competes with native fish for prey. Go back 3 spaces.

Leaping lamprey! Jump ahead 3 spaces.

Free roll

A sea lamprey hitched a ride on your boat. Take an extra turn.

FINISH

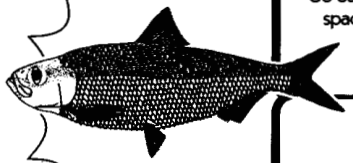
Zebra mussels clogged your path. Go ahead 4 spaces.

Use the map to identify the five Great Lakes. If you name them correctly, go back 4 spaces.

Spotted purple loosestrife. Go back 1 space.

Encountered Eurasian watermilfoil. Trade spots on the board with the person on your right.

Exact number required to arrive at the Great Lakes.



Caught an alewife. Jump back 2 spaces.

Sea Grant
Great Lakes Network

Developed by Pauline LoCascio, Cathy Mielke, and Gwen Petrosini-McLaughlin as part of the Exotic Species Day Camp Education Project.

Go back 1 space for not dumping your bait water in the lake.

All drawings used with permission. Fishhook flea illustration provided by Backhuys Publishers, Leiden, the Netherlands. Purple loosestrife and alewife drawings provided by Ohio Sea Grant Education Program. All other illustrations provided by Bell Museum of Natural History, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

START