SERVICES

BRS Level 4 Residential/Proctor: Lithia Springs Program provides evidenced based treatment services to 13 through 18 year old males and females in a group living or proctor setting (males only). The program is based on family participation, cognitive-behavior interventions and social learning theories. The multidisciplinary team includes masters level mental health therapists, alcohol & drug counselors, trained educators and direct care staff who come together to provide an integrated treatment approach.

Lithia Springs Program serves primarily youth offenders, and therefore, it provides programming that emphasizes cognitive behavioral strategies that are proven to be most effective with this population. Cognitive behavioral approaches are delivered by trained staff members who understand anti-social thinking, behaving and the need for social learning. Interventions used by the program are designed to target criminogenic needs and behaviors associated with recidivism. These include changing anti-social feelings, attitudes and values, increasing self-control, self-management and problem solving skills, improving skills in interpersonal conflict resolution, promoting positive attitudes and performances regarding work and education, addressing problems related to alcohol and drug abuse, resolving emotional problems, and relapse prevention.

Youth receive treatment and education at an on-site alternative school during the day. Lithia Springs Program is also the home to Mission Candle Factory, a small on-site manufacturing business. The factory provides a sheltered vocational experience for youth who need to develop basic job skills to be employable in the community and for youth who are not yet at a level of trust in their program to pursue paid employment off-site. Individual and group mental health and substance abuse counseling, employment experience, and skill building activities are provided onsite as well. In the proctor setting, proctor parents are considered a part of the treatment team and participate in treatment planning and progress reviews.

Youth accepted into these programs must meet BRS requirements and will require BRS authorization prior to placement. Referrals should include Case Plan and/or Reformation Plan, ERASOR (if applicable) OYA RNA, previous treatment history and recommendation and, if available, social and family history, current alcohol & drug assessment, and recent psychological evaluation (within 6-12 months). The length of the residential programs is approximately 10 – 12 months and the length of the proctor program is approximately 8 – 10 months.

SERVICES

BRS Level 4 Residential / BRS Shelter: Jackson County A&E Program provides a secure setting for Assessment and Evaluation Services and Short Term Stabilization and Intervention Services to 12 through 24 year old youth offenders who are currently on parole or probation status with OYA. The program provides individual services for difficult to place youth offenders while completing a comprehensive assessment and evaluation of the needs of the youth offender for further services or stabilization. Assessment and Evaluation Services are offered to males only. Stabilization and Intervention Services are offered to both males and females.

Assessment and Evaluation Services are anticipated to take approximately 45 days to complete the array of assessments and evaluations. Youth offenders may remain in the program up to an additional 45 days while awaiting appropriate placement as determined by the recommendations of the Assessment and Evaluation. Appropriate youth referred for Assessment and Evaluation Services may include:

- Youth offenders discharged from a residential program as a program failure

- Youth offenders who have not completed treatment or who have not received the maximum benefit from a program with some indication that further treatment in a different setting would be beneficial
- Youth offenders paroled from an OYA Youth Correctional Facility (YCF) who have not completed treatment and who have not had a full assessment/evaluation completed at the YCF
- Youth offenders on parole in the community about whom OYA has increasing concern for success but without need for full revocation

Short-term Stabilization and Intervention Services are limited to 10 days. Appropriate youth referred for Short-term Stabilization and Intervention Services may include:

- Youth offenders requiring respite from a community residential or foster placement for stabilization to prevent disruption of the placement. Eligibility includes documentation of levels of sanctions attempted, no other options within the community placement, and agreement of community provider to re-admit youth offenders following Stabilization and Intervention
- Runaway youth offenders who do not have new law violations
- Youth offenders on parole in the community needing intensive intervention to prevent detention or parole revocation

Assessment and Evaluation Services are also available to youth who are under the jurisdiction of a county juvenile department and who require a comprehensive assessment and evaluation to determine their need for services. Individual payment agreements would be established on a case-by-case basis.

SERVICES

BRS Level 4 Residential - Buckman House: This program primarily serves parole males and provides structure and support to assist youth in stabilizing their lives, strengthening family ties and relationships, and/or becoming independent. The program assists youth in initiating access toward higher education and provides vocational training to those who qualify in order to successfully enter the job market and become employed. Youth must be able to function in a community-based independent living/training program. An up-to-date/completed medical and dental history, the most recent psychological exam and the youth's Reformation Plan must accompany the intake packet for consideration to the program. Youth with the following conditions are not appropriate for the program: chronic runaways, youth requiring detox for alcohol or drugs, mental retardation, violent aggression, recent documented fire setting.

Youth accepted into Janus Youth Programs "Buckman House" program must meet BRS requirements and will require BRS authorization prior to placement. Referrals should include Reformation Plan, OYA RNA, ERASOR, previous treatment history and recommendation and, if available, social and family history, and recent psychological evaluation.

Buckman Annex: The Buckman House Annex is a 90 day Community Transition Program located next door to the Buckman Program. Clients that successfully graduate from the Buckman House Program will qualify. The Annex will be used to accommodate up to two tenants. Youth tenants will actively cook, clean, pay bills, and maintain their daily routines all with very limited aid from staff. Since the Annex is connected to the original Buckman House Program, the graduated youth will have contact with program staff on a weekly or as needed basis. It is the hope that this model provides an additional layer of practical learning, a referral source for the client's future apartment placement, a layer of community safety and an insight for the individual moving towards Independent living.

SERVICES

Mission Statement: The mission of The Next Door Residential Services is to incorporate the best evidence based practices in youth and childcare in a proctor home model where the physical, academic, social and developmental needs may be met and the appropriate mental health and family therapy provided. The goal is that youth will be encouraged and motivated to reach their highest level of ability, success and independence and return to the community. To guide and direct the implementation of this mission and the treatment process five basic values have been incorporated into every aspect of the programs: Safety, Respect, Responsibility/Accountability, Competency Development and Helpfulness.

BRS Proctor/Day Treatment and Alternative School - Klahre House: A residential treatment program offering day treatment services and educational services in a proctor setting. Individual, group and family treatment and skill building are provided by qualified professional staff. An on-site, fully accredited alternative school provides educational opportunities that may lead to a high school diploma or a GED. Youth may also attend public school or the community college. Youth at the Klahre House attend structured classes where they obtain credit in Math, Science, History, Language Arts, Reading, Physical Education and Computer Resources. Youth are provided an opportunity to work at their own pace and level of ability while being encouraged to be successful.

A variety of treatment groups, individual counseling, and skill building activities are provided based on identified criminogenic factors. All treatment services are evidence based practices that have been demonstrated to reduce recidivism. Issues of alcohol and substance abuse, sexually aggressive behaviors, and other socially challenging behaviors are addressed. BRS 3 Transitioning to Independence Program Information

Program Overview & Concepts

The BRS 3 Transitioning to Independence Programs are intended to be actual “practice” independent living programs, providing youth the opportunity to further develop and demonstrate proficiency at skills learned while in OYA facilities, camps, residential and proctor programs, to support successful transition to independence. The program will be delivered in two phases, described in more detail below. Phase 1 will be the BRS program, with OYA buying room and board plus services as youth find jobs, save money, and learn and practice skills. Phase 2 will be when youth actually move into their own housing in the community, paying their own expenses. OYA will continue to pay the program to provide on-going skills and monitoring as needed.

Referrals:

Criteria:

Youth appropriate for Transitioning to Independence Programs:

- Are between the ages of 17.5 and 25 (youth will have to be 18 to go into Phase 2)
- Are in OYA custody with a minimum of six (6) months before custody terminates, and
- Have completed an OYA YCF program, Camp program, or BRS 4, 5 or Proctor program

Referral and Screening Process:

Programs have been asked to prepare information about the program for youth to review. This information could be in the form of a booklet with photos, a video, a website, or other similar materials. The information will address:

- Description of the program
- Description of the community (demographics, rural, urban, educational, employment, and recreational opportunities)
- Description of the living arrangement possibilities
- Description of the program rules/policies
- Criteria for program graduation/termination

Working closely with his/her JPPO, the youth offender will select program options based on geographic location and other criteria important to the youth offender. It is most desirable for a youth offender to select a program in a community where he/she would like to continue living after graduation from program and termination from OYA custody. Alternatively, if a youth is currently graduating from a BRS 4 or Proctor program, and the Provider also has a BRS 3 program, it may be desirable for the youth to continue with the same provider. The options should be discussed between the JPPO, the youth, and the provider to help the youth make the most appropriate choice.

JPPO's with youth ready to refer to independent living should contact the available programs to get their information, Program Applications and a list of materials for referral packets.

The youth offender will need to complete the Program Application(s), which will be submitted along with the referral packet from the OYA JPPO.

Programs should contact JPPO's within 5 working days of receiving the Referral Packet to let you know if the youth is appropriate for a screening. If appropriate, a screening can be scheduled. Important points about the screening are:

- Youth offender should be prepared with questions for the program.
- Preferably, the screening interview will be conducted at the Contractor's program site and include a tour of the community if the youth offender is not familiar with the area
- Overnight visits are desirable if they can be arranged

- It is appropriate to ask a Provider to conduct an initial visit with a youth offender at the youth correctional facility and attend a Multi-Disciplinary Team (MDT) meeting when it would be helpful for the screening process
- Video screenings may be conducted when practical for JPPO and/or youth.

Admission Requirements:

The following must be submitted as part of the referral packet OR brought with the youth on the day of intake:

- BRS Authorization
- Youth ID, including photo ID, birth certificate and social security card (Youth will be expected to begin job hunting immediately. It will not be acceptable for youth to enter BRS 3 Transitioning to Independence programs and then have to wait to get ID before they can begin working. Intake will have to be postponed until the ID is available)
- OYA Case Plan
- OYA Risk/Needs Assessment and Graph
- JPPO's or a person who can represent them must be present at intake
- ERASOR if applicable

Specific Program Requirements:

Transitional Service Plan: Programs are required to develop a Transitional Service Plan (TSP), instead of an Initial Service Plan and Master Service Plan like the BRS 4, 5, and Proctor Programs. The TSP must be started on the first day of placement. This plan should be youth driven, with guidance and suggestions from the JPPO and the program.

The TSP should:

- Be strength-based
- Identify sources of support
- Address independent living skills
- Address criminogenic risk/reduction
- Addresses behaviors needing remediation
- Address on-going treatment needs that will be provided by outside providers
- Identify clear, measurable short-term goals (no more than one month duration)
- Identify specific tasks/services related to short term goals
- Include services program will deliver and identify person(s) responsible for task/service
- Include tasks youth offender must complete
- Include plan for supervision, free time, check ins, structure, and requirements to move to lower supervision level
- Include a plan for any home visits that will occur
- Identify payment source, if applicable

Independent Living Assessment: An independent living assessment must be completed on or before the first day of placement so that an immediate Transitional Service Plan can be developed. The program may ask the JPPO to help facilitate this prior to intake. Most programs are using the Casey Independent Living Assessment, which youth may complete on-line.

Youth Support Persons: As youth transition to independence in the community, their support system will transition from being mostly professionals to family and friends in the community. As preparation for moving into a Transitioning to Independence program, youth should identify the people that he/she wants to involve in planning and support. Support people should include those who will have a continuing natural relationship with the youth offender after he/she is terminated from OYA custody. JPPO's should ask youth to submit this information for approval. These people should then be invited to participate in planning meetings with the youth.

Transition Facilitators: When a youth is admitted to a Transitioning to Independence program, the program will assign a transition facilitator. The transition facilitator's role may include:

- Assist youth offender to identify short and long-term goals
- Assist youth offender to develop a plan for pursuing those goals
- Identify resources that will assist and support youth offender
- Emphasize family and other natural supports
- Coordinate formal "helpers"
- Communicate youth offender's goals and plans
- Oversee implementation of changes to the plan
- Track progress across goals
- Teach skills of goal setting, planning, resource identification, engagement, and enactment that will help youth offenders lead planful adult lives
- Act as counselor
- Act as advocate

Service Planning Process

Intake Planning Meeting:

- Occurs on day of admission,
- Includes youth offender, transition facilitator, OYA JPPO and other support persons present as available and appropriate (facility, previous residential placement, family and others as applicable).

Ongoing Service Planning and Transitional Service Plan Review:

Transitional Service Plan will be reviewed and updated monthly in youth offender/support team meetings. It is very important for PO's to be present at these meetings. Video meetings may be scheduled when more convenient. Provider will submit a brief written summary of these meetings, updated TSP, summary of youth's progress and service hours delivered to the JPPO within 5 days following the meeting.

Program Phases:

Phase 1: Practicing for Independence: BRS Authorization Required

Anticipated Duration: This will vary for each youth, depending on their level of readiness. Some youth may come from a BRS 4 program such as the Haag Home where they have already been working and have money saved. They may only need a short time in Phase 1, while they save more money and find an apartment. Other youth, such as youth coming from an OYA facility, may need more time to learn how to function in the community, to obtain employment, and save money for an apartment. We have estimated that youth will spend 4 – 6 months in Phase 1. Any stays longer than 6 months need to be approved in writing by OYA Community Resources. To obtain the exception, send an email to the assigned Community Resources Program Analyst explaining the need, at least one month prior to the 6 month date.

Program Provides:

- Room and board in structured, supervised setting
- 24 hour staff crisis intervention/support
- Support to youth offender in saving money and planning for independence
- Skills training services in areas related to independent living needs and continued reduction of criminogenic risk/need factors
- Opportunities to practice skills in real situations
- Opportunities to practice decision-making
- Assistance in accessing treatment services (mental health, drug and alcohol, sex offender) through Oregon Health Plan or youth offender's own resources
- Coordination of monthly reviews with youth offender and support team to determine progress and goals for the following month
- Clear individualized criteria for movement to Phase 2, with stable employment and money saved as the minimum requirements for Phase 1 graduation

Phase 1 Service Authorization and Payment:

Services will be entered in JJIS and approved through the service verification process as with all other residential services. The services in JJIS are simply called “BRS 3.”

Phase 2: Transition to Independence

Anticipated Duration:

- Will vary based on youth need level, with a general guideline of 6 months
- Will be reviewed monthly based on youth progress and goal achievement

Program Provides:

- Support to youth offender in paying own living expenses in community housing
- Continued monitoring based on need
- Continued skills training based on service needs
- 24 hour staff crisis intervention/support
- Coordination of monthly reviews with youth offender and support team to determine progress and goals for following month
- Assistance in accessing treatment services through community providers or youth offender’s own resources
- Regular visits to the housing site by support staff
- Daily telephone contact with high-risk youth offenders
- Availability to assist with difficulties or situations with youth offender’s employer
- Regular contact with landlords or resident managers by support staff
- Weekly support or “problem-solving” groups for youth offenders living independently
- Clear criteria for completion, including determination that housing is stable
- Support to youth offender in demonstrating stability to maintain independently in community.

Other Program Components:

- Cognitive-based programming focusing on relapse prevention and more sophisticated practice opportunities for skills already acquired in OYA YCF or higher level BRS program
- Youth offenders shall be incrementally prepared for independent living while in a supported environment by reducing rules and structure and increasing responsibilities and autonomy (for example: phase out of level systems, drop curfews, expect youth offender to perform own daily living tasks and assume increasing financial responsibility).
- Community service element – framed to youth offenders as “giving back to the community”
- Incorporate training and use of technology into offender services. Examples include monitoring youth offender finances through on-line access to account, using daily planners available on cell phones, on-line support meetings or private group blog, and providing technology training for youth offenders
- Family involvement at whatever level family is willing and capable of being
- Crisis/relapse management. Each youth offender will have a crisis/safety plan as part of their transition plan. This will be reviewed and updated with them regularly to anticipate high risk situations. As problems and situations occur, decisions will be made between the youth, the JPPO and the transition facilitator about the best plan for intervention or consequences. Youth offenders must be held accountable, at the same time, youth must be allowed to experience natural consequences when possible. There may be times when youth offenders will need to return temporarily to a more restrictive setting.
- Begin to normalize social interactions. Youth offenders in Phase 1 will have to abide by rules of OYA and program regarding friendships and social interactions, which are necessarily restrictive because of OYA’s and the Contractor’s responsibility and liability for the youth offender’s and the community’s safety. A major incentive for youth offenders to move to Phase 2 and transition into their own community housing is the ability to function more normally as long as they continue to abide by the rules of their probation or parole. Youth offenders in Phase 2 will be considered to be living independently in the community rather than in a “program”.

- Medication management.

Phase 1: Contractor is responsible for administering medications, following OYA and DHS Licensing rules.

Phase 2: Youth may gradually be given responsibility for managing their own medications, depending on level of responsibility and personal issues with medication. Medication management should be a written part of a youth offender's Transitional Service Plan.

Phase 2 Service Authorization and Payment:

Services for Phase 2 will be authorized similarly to Community Reintegration Services, by using a Transitioning to Independence Phase 2 Service Authorization Voucher, which should be completed and signed by the JPPO at each 30 day TSP review meeting. At the end of each month, programs will submit a Transitioning to Independence Phase 2 Activity Log to the JPPO for approval. The JPPO should use the same process as is used for Community Reintegration services to enter the services in JJIS and verify for billing. The difference is that you will only need to enter the total number of hours, not the breakdown of individual services, as these services will all be paid at the same rate. Services will be found in JJIS under "Transition to Independence Phase 2."
