RUS Contact: Jay Fletcher, USDA/Rural Development, (202) 690-0498 or Jay.fletcher@wdc.usda.gov

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Utilities Services (RUS) and the U.S. Department of Commerce (Commerce) National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) will hold a series of public meetings on the Broadband Technology Opportunities Program and the additional authority for the RUS to make grants and loans for the deployment and construction of broadband systems.

The broadband initiatives funded in the Recovery Act are intended to spur job growth and accelerate broadband deployment in unserved, underserved and rural areas and to strategic institutions that are likely to create jobs or provide significant public benefits.

The meetings will allow interested Americans to help shape the broadband program so that the stimulus money is used effectively and efficiently. Each discussion will focus on specific topics, which will include grantee eligibility, interconnection obligations, definitions of broadband and underserved, rural and unserved areas and the role of the states.

WHAT: Public Meetings with roundtable discussions and public comment opportunities on various topics (see details below)

WHEN: March 16, 2009, 10:00 a.m. (Eastern Daylight Time), Washington, DC

About the Broadband Technology Opportunities Program

The Broadband Technology Opportunities Program (BTOP) is authorized by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, Title VI (Recovery Act, Public Law 111-5). The BTOP will provide grant support to enable consumers in unserved and underserved areas of the United States to access broadband services. The BTOP's $4.7 billion in funding will stimulate demand and facilitate greater use of broadband services, while contributing to economic growth and job creation. Up to $350 million may be expended pursuant to the Broadband Data Improvement Act (Public Law 110-385) and for developing a comprehensive nationwide inventory map depicting broadband availability in each State.

The BTOP grant categories and funds include:

- Infrastructure Grants – The BTOP funds will support among other things competitive grants for broadband deployment in unserved and underserved areas, and for strategic community institutions and public safety agencies.
- Public Computer Center Grants (at least $200 million) – Competitive grants to boost computing capacity at public computer centers, such as in community colleges and libraries.

- Sustainable Broadband Adoption Grants (at least $250 million) – Competitive grants to fund innovative programs to enhance consumer demand for broadband service.

Eligible applicants include: states and political subdivisions; Indian tribes and native Hawaiian organizations; nonprofit foundations, corporations, institutions, or associations; and other entities, including broadband service providers, whose participation is determined to be in the public interest. The grant uses include the acquisition of equipment, instrumentation, networking capability, hardware and software; the acquisition of network technology and infrastructure for broadband services; the construction and deployment of broadband service-related infrastructure; the deployment of broadband facilities that improve public safety communications; and facilitating access to broadband service by low-income, unemployed, aged and other vulnerable populations, and by community anchor institutions.

All BTOP materials, comments, and application information will be available on-line at www.ntia.doc.gov/broadbandgrants.

About RUS' Additional Broadband Loan and Grant Authority

In order to improve access to broadband service in rural areas without service or that lack sufficient access to high speed broadband service to facilitate rural economic development, Congress provided, through the Recovery Act, $2.5 billion to the Agency to provide grants, loans, and loan guarantees for the development and construction of broadband systems. The Recovery Act requires that 75 percent of a funded area be in a rural area that “lacks sufficient access to high speed broadband service to facilitate rural economic development.” The newly created Broadband Loan and Grant program also gives priority to projects that will:

- Give end-users a choice of internet service providers.
- Serve the highest proportion of rural residents that lack access to broadband service.
- Be fully funded and ready to start once they receive funding under the Recovery Act.

All RUS Recovery Act materials, comments, and application information will be available on-line at www.rurdev.usda.gov.
