DOS/PRM	AF	Uganda/DRC	IOM		X	X	X	This new project aims to address the urgent needs of a group of Congolese women and their children, stranded in IDP camps and suburban areas in conflict-affected Northern Uganda. Most of these trafficking victims were abducted by soldiers of the Ugandan People Defense Force (UPDF) in the DRC at the time of the conflict. They were flown to Uganda by military planes, without any travel or identification papers, and many were kept in UPDF military compounds, with little freedom of movement. This project will provide assistance to Congolese women and their children who want to return to their home communities in the DRC and will provide them with a small reintegration package. IOM will also include some awareness-raising activities among government authorities and civil society to help identify these TIP victims, and reduce stigmatization and marginalization of the Congolese women and other vulnerable individuals.	$380,000	$100,000 MRA + $280,000 Supplemental = $380,000	2007
DOS/PRM	AF	West Africa	IOM		X	X		The project is designed to provide West African trafficked children protection, shelter, medical and psychosocial assistance, and return transportation and reintegration assistance in their province/neighboring country of origin.
