United States
Postal Service?

Are you looking for work that is both rewarding and challenging?

This office is accepting applications for the position of Temporary Relief Carrier (TRC). As a Postal Service™ TRC, you will have a limited-term, part-time job with a reliable employer. If you are retired, self-employed, an at-home parent, an educator, night student, or are employed on an evening schedule, this on-call position could be the ideal job for you.

TRCs are responsible for safe and efficient delivery and collection of the U.S. Mail™, working part time when regular carriers have scheduled days off or take vacation days. TRCs also sell stamps, supplies, and money orders. TRCs perform a vital function in the Postal Service, serving thousands of families and businesses in rural and suburban areas while traveling millions of miles daily. The work can be demanding—but also rewarding.

No test is required to become a TRC. TRCs are hired for terms not to exceed 359 calendar days and will have a break in service of at least 6 days between appointments.

Becoming a TRC could be your first step on the path to becoming a Rural Carrier Associate (RCA). RCAs are eligible to bid on regular rural carrier positions after 1 year of continuous service. If you are interested in a career with the Postal Service as an RCA, you must pass an entrance examination. For more information, visit our Web site at www.usps.com/employment.

Temporary Relief Carrier Facts

Variable Work Hours

Your work hours will vary depending on the office and routes to which you are assigned. You must be willing to work weekends and some holidays and be available for on-call employment. You may be assigned to other carriers' routes, increasing the number of hours you work.

Physically Strenuous Work

This job can be physically strenuous. You begin in the Post Office™, sorting mail in delivery sequence. Then, using carts and hampers, you take the sorted mail to your vehicle, load it, and deliver the mail along an established route. Performing these activities may require you to stand for long periods of time, stretch, reach, twist your body, push, pull, and lift and carry up to 70 pounds.

Vehicle Required

Generally, TRCs are required to use their own vehicles for mail delivery, and they receive an equipment allowance in addition to regular pay. The vehicle needs to be insured, dependable, and in good working condition. Vehicles with bucket seats or standard transmission are not recommended. Some offices may provide a Postal Service vehicle.

Excellent Driving Skills Required

TRCs are professional drivers. You must have a safe driving record, a valid state operator's license, and at least 2 years of unsupervised driving experience and you must pass an initial road test to be eligible to work as a TRC. Additional driver training is required and will be provided after you are hired.

Outdoor Work

TRCs deliver mail on back roads as well as on heavily traveled main roads and highways. Mail is delivered in all kinds of weather, so you may encounter snow, ice, rain, dust, and mud. Usually, you will deliver mail from your vehicle, but sometimes you may be required to leave the vehicle to make deliveries.
