Garden Apartment Applications

Another Concept in Delivery Service

Centralized Mail Delivery provides delivery and collection services to a number of garden apartment buildings from a centrally located delivery installation.

Benefits to developers, owners, and residents who use Centralized Mail Delivery installations, such as the ones depicted, include:

Reduced Costs

Fewer mail delivery installation locations are required to be prepared. In addition, fewer installations can mean less mailbox maintenance, all of which can save time and money.

Increased Security

Highly visible centralized installations are safer for residents than isolated, hallway locations hidden from public view. Highly visible centralized installations also provide greater protection against mail theft and mailbox vandalism.

Additional Postal Services

Centralized Mail Delivery installations can provide additional services for residents, such as postage stamp vending machines, parcel post lockers, and letter collection receptacles.

Aesthetic Values

Centralized Mail Delivery installations add to the beauty of the garden apartment communities, enhancing the residents' satisfaction with their surroundings and pride of residence in their community, as well as improving the value of the property.

Although planning for basic or customized Centralized Mail Delivery installations for apartment communities should take place during a project's design phase, the Postal Service is anxious to work with developers, builders, and owners at any stage of development or with existing communities.
