

Greetings!

Attached are EEI's comments from last October. Based on the draft documents in the January e-mail, and the concerns from manufacturers and trade allies, our comments remain the same.

One additional comment: Is EPA going to set installation criteria for oil/gas furnaces and oil/gas boilers to obtain an Energy Star label? If not, why not? After all, poor installation will reduce their efficiency, and at a time of record oil and natural gas prices, it is as important for gas/oil appliances to be installed as correctly as air conditioners and heat pumps.

Thank you for your review of our comments.
