

We as contractors do not need someone to check our installs to qualify for the energy star rating...we have tried that in the past with the utilities and their comfort assured program...it was a night mare to coordinate and implement. the heating and cooling industry does not need more government interaction to save consumers $20 a month on their utility costs so they can fuel up their SUV s with $ 2.15 gallon of gas ...if the EPA wants to save consumers money my suggestions would start there with a lot less intervention.

Jack Oliver
Smith and Keene Heating and Cooling