Near record breaking high temperatures around 100 degrees, combined with high relative humidities, resulted in afternoon heat indices between 105 and 115 degrees from July 13th through July 21st. Nighttime low temperatures also remained warm through the period, only falling to the mid to upper 70s. These conditions resulted in the heat related deaths of two elderly females at separate locations in the Mobile area. One death occurred on July 14, the other on July 21st. The homes in which the women lived had neither air conditioning nor ample ventilation. F69PH, F83PH

A thunderstorm with high winds moved over the coastal waters just south of Dauphin Island. The storm was moving south and occurred during a fishing rodeo. A special marine warning was issued at least an hour before the storm moved over the water, but many of the people fishing wanted to stay out just a while longer. As the storm moved over the water, many of the boaters were caught offshore and had to run aground to get out of the high winds and seas. Some of the boaters estimated wind speeds of 60 to 70 knots with 6 to 8 foot waves. Buoys in the area only measured wind speeds of 35 knots so the storm covered a small area. No major injuries were reported although the Coast Guard had to rescue several stranded fishermen.
