Information For Completing The Notice of Change In Student's Status

Eligibility Information

Survivor benefits can be paid to children of deceased Federal employees and retirees. The children must be between the ages of 18 and 22, unmarried, and full-time students in a recognized school. Full-time students must have a sufficient subject load to allow them to graduate within the minimum time that is considered normal for a full-time day student of the school. Generally, at a college or university, you must be enrolled for a minimum of 12 credit hours per semester to be considered a full-time student. If you carry fewer than 12 credit hours at any time during the school year but believe that school attendance was full-time, please send us a letter from the school stating whether the school considers it full-time.

A recognized school is a non-correspondence institution of learning, high school, or above, that has a faculty and requires that study or training be accomplished on its premises. Included are high schools that are licensed by the state, and trade schools, colleges, and universities that are accredited by nationally recognized accrediting agencies. Not included as "recognized" for purposes of receiving student benefits are: elementary schools, correspondence schools, U.S. Military Academies, such as the U.S. Naval Academy, or any training program where a trainee receives pay primarily as an employee (e.g., an apprenticeship training program).

Benefits (payments) must stop if the student:

1. reduces school attendance to less than full-time,
2. stops school attendance,
3. marries,
4. dies,
5. enters military service on active duty,
6. enters any of the U.S. military academies, or
7. transfers to a non-recognized school.

Students who attain age 22 during the school year (between September 1 and June 30) may receive benefits through the end of the month preceding the month in which full-time schooling stops or June 30, whichever occurs first.

Notify OPM immediately if any of these events occurs. If you are paid benefits after any of these events, you have been overpaid and we will have to recover the money from you.
