Re: TSR Prerecorded Call Prohibition and Call Abandonment
Standard Modification, Project No. R411001

To Whom it May Concern:

As a consumer, I want the ability to use the Internet and e-mail to sign up for new sales related services provided via telephone. It's just not practical to make me send a letter and I don't have a fax.

I am opposed to the FTC's proposal that would require written authorization to receive pre-recorded telemarketing calls from the businesses or charities with which I have an Established Business Relationship (EBR). I believe the burden this would place on them would be so great that they would have to discontinue these voice services that are a benefit to consumers like me.

I would ask the Commission to either adopt the EBR exception contained in the TCPA that creates an exception for pre-recorded sales calls sent by companies that have an EBR with the person they are calling or continue beyond January 2, 2007 to forbear from enforcement actions against businesses that deliver pre-recorded sales messages to customers with whom there is an EBR so other options can be considered.

Sincerely,

Mohamed Reza
