

Seasonal Housing Units in the Western Great Lakes Coastal Region: 2000

1 dot = 15 housing units

In the coastal sections of the western Great Lakes area, seasonal housing displays a somewhat different spatial pattern than in most other parts of the country. Instead of being concentrated in a narrow coastal band—as is the case in North Carolina, for instance—much of the seasonal housing in this region is instead located in inland coastal areas.