This account funds the Commerce Department's expenses associated with renovating and modernizing the Herbert C. Hoover Building. The renovation will upgrade infrastructure, remove safety hazards, and improve energy efficiency. The General Services Administration (GSA) and Commerce are each responsible for certain aspects of the project's costs. Project funding for both GSA and Commerce should occur simultaneously so that design, installation, furnishing and office relocations can be coordinated. To address the high priority security needs of Commerce employees, this account will also finance the installation of blast mitigation windows.

The administration and oversight of the Economic Development Administration's programs are carried out utilizing a network of headquarters and regional personnel that work with local organizations and leaders to identify and invest in projects that demonstrate potential for the greatest economic impact in distressed communities.

Direct program.—These activities include pre-application assistance and development, application processing, and project monitoring, as well as general support functions such as economic development research, technical assistance, information dissemination, legal and environmental compliance, financial management, budgeting, and debt management.

Reimbursable program.—EDA provides grant review and processing services to other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis. Funds received cover the cost of performing this work.

Economic Development Assistance Programs (EDAP).— EDA investments are focused in seven broad development assistance programs, which include: Economic Adjustment Assistance, Planning, Technical Assistance, Public Works and Infrastructure, Research and Evaluation, Trade Adjustment Assistance, and the Global Climate Change Mitigation Incentive Fund. EDA provides grants within each of these areas to generate or retain jobs, attract new industry and private sector investment, encourage business expansion, and serve as a backstop to sudden and severe economic impacts. These investments assist communities characterized by substantial and persistent unemployment levels, low income and population growth, loss of jobs, out-migration, and long-term economic deterioration. EDA works in partnership with other Federal agencies, state and local governments, regional economic development districts, public and private non-profit organizations, Native American Indian Tribes, and Alaska Native Villages to accomplish its mission. In 2010, EDA will put special emphasis on two initiatives: 1) support for the creation of regional innovation clusters that leverage regions' existing competitive strengths to boost job creation and economic growth; and 2) support for networks of business incubators that encourage entrepreneurial activity in economically distressed areas and regions. EDA expects that each initiative will receive at least $50 million in funding.

Performance measures.— A detailed presentation of EDA's performance outcomes, measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget submission.

The activities of this appropriation provide for the collection, compilation, and publication of a broad range of current economic, demographic, and social statistics.

Current economic statistics.—These programs provide public and private sector data users with relevant, accurate, and timely national statistical profiles of every sector of the U.S. economy. The 2010 Budget includes an initiative to expand the Local Employment Dynamics Program, which develops new information about local labor market conditions at low cost, with no added respondent burden, and with the same confidentiality protections afforded census and survey data.

Current demographic statistics.—These programs provide social and economic information on a monthly, quarterly, and annual basis to inform effective public and private decision-making.

Survey of program dynamics.—This program is supported by mandatory appropriations provided by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act of 1996, as reauthorized by the 109th Congress, to provide data necessary to determine the impact of welfare provisions.

State children's health insurance program (SCHIP).—Mandatory appropriations provided by the Medicare, Medicaid, and State Children's Health Insurance Program Balanced Budget Refinement Act of 1999, as reauthorized by the 111th Congress, support data collection by the Current Population Survey (CPS) on the number of low-income children who do not have health insurance coverage. Data from this enhanced survey are used in the formula to allocate funds to States under the SCHIP program.

Performance measures and program information.—A detailed presentation and description of each program, its performance outcome and related measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget submission.

This appropriation funds legislatively mandated periodic economic and demographic censuses and other authorized activities. Major programs include the five-year economic census and census of governments, and the decennial census. In addition, other programs provide annual population estimates, updated survey sample designs, and bureau-wide geographic and data processing systems and support.

Economic census.—The economic census is integral to the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) estimates of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and industry inputs and outputs. It provides decision-makers with comprehensive, detailed, and authoritative facts about the structure and functioning of the U.S. economy. 2010 is the last year of the 6-year 2007 Economic Census cycle and the first year of the 2012 Economic Census cycle. In 2010, the Census Bureau will release most of the data from the 2007 Economic Census and begin planning for the 2012 Economic Census.

Census of governments.— This program is also integral to the BEA's estimates of GDP. It is the only source of comprehensive and uniformly classified data on the economic activities of more than 90,000 state and local governments, which account for about 12 percent of GDP and nearly 16 percent of the U.S. workforce. 2010 is the first year in the five-year cycle of the 2012 Census of Governments.

2010 decennial census program.— As mandated in the U.S. Constitution, the decennial census provides the official population counts for determining the allocation to States of seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and the data used by States to determine how the districts are defined for those seats. 2010 funding is requested to conduct the enumeration of the population. Census Day is April 1, 2010. Specifically, in 2010 the Census Bureau will conduct the major 2010 Census operations, including mail out, receipt, and processing of returned census forms, and conducting the non-response follow-up operation whereby households not returning a census form are contacted by census enumerators who collect the information. Other major operations include Group Quarters Enumeration, Update Leave, Update Enumerate, Military Enumeration, conducting field activities in Puerto Rico and the Island Areas, and numerous other activities. To encourage response to the census, a major multi-media advertising campaign will be conducted. This campaign will also be complemented by thousands of partnership specialists working in local communities that have been historically hard-to-count. The Census Bureau will also conduct Coverage Follow-up and Coverage Measurement field operations. The Census Bureau will support these operations through a network of local census offices and regional census centers, as well as at headquarters. In addition, the Census Bureau will continue data collection for the American Community Survey, reinstate the Community Address Updating System, and continue second cycle county realignments for counties updated early in the decade.

Performance measures and program information.—A detailed presentation and description of each program, its performance outcome and related measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget submission.

Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA).—BEA's mission is to promote the understanding of the U.S. economy by providing the most timely, relevant, and accurate economic accounts data in an objective and cost-effective manner. BEA's economic statistics are among the Nation's most closely watched and provide a comprehensive picture of the U.S. economy; they affect decisions related to interest and exchange rates, tax and budget projections, business investment plans, and the allocation of over $200 billion in federal funds. BEA prepares national, regional, industry and international accounts that present essential information on such issues as economic growth, regional economic development, inter-industry relationships and the Nation's position in the world economy. The 2010 Budget proposes four initiatives to significantly improve BEA's measurement of the U.S. economy.

Critical Service Sector Improvements.—The service sector, which includes finance, insurance, and real estate, is in a significant state of flux. Moreover, economic conditions have created an environment where the once manageable gaps in source data are no longer acceptable without significant risk to the Nation's economic indicators. To address these needs BEA must strengthen its internal capacity to understand the rapidly-changing economy and build new estimation models.

Navigating the 21st Century Economy.—The most pressing public policy issues call for new and expanded statistics on key components of gross domestic product, the most comprehensive measure of the economy. BEA will produce new and expanded GDP-related statistics that uniquely measure the role of innovation, retirement income developments, and energy price pressures on U.S. economic growth.

Improving Foreign Direct Investment Statistics.—Foreign direct investment in the United States and U.S. direct investment abroad affect domestic income, output, employment, and capital formation. BEA will re-examine the coverage and detail of the data that it collects on multinational corporations and redesign surveys to maximize their efficiency and improve the usefulness of the resulting data.

Improving County-Level Personal Income Statistics.—The Budget provides funding to improve this important regional data series, including reducing data suppression and accelerating release schedules.

Economics and Statistics Administration (ESA) Policy support.—ESA headquarters conducts economic research and policy analysis directly in support of the Secretary of Commerce. ESA also provides oversight of the Census Bureau and BEA. In addition, ESA provides economic and statistical data and analyses to other Federal agencies, individuals, and firms requesting such information through reimbursable funding. The Census Bureau and BEA reimburse ESA headquarters for certain administrative, financial, and policy services.

Performance measures and program information.—A detailed presentation and description of each program, and related performance outcomes, measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget submission.

U.S. companies in complying with certain international arms agreements.

The 2010 Budget provides a temporary increase for information technology (IT) investments to mitigate risks posed by attacks on BIS's IT systems and to continue development and maintenance of other critical IT systems. Also, the Budget includes funding for Export Enforcement (EE) to expand operations targeting the illicit procurement of U.S. origin items for use in improvised explosive devices (IEDs) being employed against U.S. troops. The Budget also provides funding for reimbursable activities to support the administration of export licenses.

The mission of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is to understand and predict changes in the Earth's environment and to conserve and manage coastal and marine resources to meet our Nation's economic, social, and environmental needs.

NOAA executes activities to achieve its mission through the following six line offices:

National Ocean Service (NOS).—NOS programs work to promote safe navigation; assess the health of coastal and marine resources and respond to natural and human-induced threats; and preserve the coastal ocean environment. The Budget increases funding in support of Geodesy, the Office of Response and Restoration, and the Coastal Zone Management program.

National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS).—NMFS programs provide for the management and conservation of the Nation's living marine resources including fish stocks, marine mammals, and endangered species and their habitats within the United States Exclusive Economic Zone. The Budget continues to support the reauthorized Magnuson-Stevens Act through increased funding to rebuild, recover, and conserve major fish stocks and protected species, promote market-based management approaches, improve recreational fisheries data collection, reduce bycatch of protected living marine resources, and discourage illegal, unregulated, and unreported (IUU) fishing.

Office of Oceanic and Atmospheric Research (OAR).—OAR programs provide environmental research and technology for improving NOAA weather and air quality warnings and forecasts, climate predictions, and marine services. To accomplish these goals,

OAR supports a network of scientists in its Federal research laboratories, universities, and cooperative institutes and partnership programs. The Budget provides increased support for monitoring ocean acidification, developing an integrated drought early warning system, and developing a public data portal for climate models.

National Weather Service (NWS).—NWS programs provide timely and accurate meteorological, hydrologic, and oceanographic warnings and forecasts to ensure the safety of the population, minimize property losses, and improve the economic productivity of the Nation. NWS is also responsible for issuing operational climate forecasts for the United States, which are used by agriculture and other industries. The Budget provides increases for forecasts of aviation weather and continues investments in wind profiling, doppler radars, and other weather prediction systems.

National Environmental Satellite, Data, and Information Service (NESDIS).—NESDIS programs operate polar-orbiting and geostationary environmental satellites and collect and archive global environmental data and information for distribution to private and public sector users.

Program Support.—Program Support provides management and administrative support for NOAA, including acquisition and grant administration, budget, accounting functions, and human resources. Through the Office of Marine and Aviation Operations (OMAO), it provides aircraft and marine data acquisition fleet repair and maintenance, planning of future fleet modernization, and technical and management support for NOAA-wide activities.

Foreign Fishing Observer Fund.—This fund is financed through collections from foreign vessel owners who fish within the U.S. Exclusive Economic Zone. Fund balances can be made available through annual appropriations for use by the Secretary of Commerce to pay the salaries aboard foreign fishing vessels. The observers collect fishery management data and monitor compliance with U.S. fishery laws. No new appropriations are proposed for this account as unobligated balances are sufficient to provide observer coverage aboard foreign vessels fishing within the U.S. Exclusive Economic Zone.

Performance measures.—A detailed listing of performance outcomes, measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget.

This account includes amounts necessary to finance the cost of Tricare retirement health care benefits accrued by the active duty members of the NOAA Commissioned Corps. The Ronald

W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for 2005 (P.L. 108-375) provided permanent, indefinite appropriations to finance these costs for all uniformed service members. As these costs are borne in support of NOAA's mission, they are shown as part of the NOAA discretionary total. Total obligations on behalf of active NOAA Commissioned Corps personnel include both the wages and related amounts requested for appropriation and amounts paid from the permanent, indefinite authority.

A portion of the funds is transferred to offset the appropriation requirements for fisheries research and management in the Operations, Research, and Facilities account. The remainder of the funds support the Saltonstall-Kennedy grants program for fisheries research and development projects to enhance the productivity and improve the sustainable yield of domestic marine fisheries resources.

The United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) issues patents and registers trademarks, which provide protection to inventors and businesses for their inventions and corporate and product identifications. USPTO also advises other U.S. government agencies on intellectual property issues and promotes stronger intellectual property protections in other countries. USPTO is funded through fees that are paid to obtain and renew patents and trademarks; the 2010 Budget requests a program level of $1,930 million for USPTO and full access for the agency to its fee collections. Legislation restructuring and increasing patent fees was enacted for 2005 and 2006 and subsequently extended through 2009. The Budget requests an extension of these provisions in 2010.

Patent program.— Resources requested in 2010 will be used for examining patent applications, granting patents, improving quality of the examination process, continued maintenance of automated information systems, and improving patent practices worldwide.

Trademark program.— The 2010 Budget provides resources for examining trademark applications, registering trademarks, maximizing the use of e-government for conducting business with applicants and registrants, and improving trademark practices worldwide.

Performance Measures.— A detailed presentation of the performance outcomes, measures, and targets is found in USPTO's 2010 budget submission.

The mission of the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) is to develop and promote measurement, standards, and technology to increase productivity, facilitate trade, and improve the quality of life. To carry out its mission, NIST has an intramural research program made up of laboratories and technical programs and national research facilities. NIST also manages the Baldrige National Quality Program. The 2010 President's budget recognizes the important role of NIST programs to advance innovation and high-risk research. NIST is one of the agencies participating in the President's Plan for Science and Innovation, which, consistent with the America COMPETES Act of 2007, doubles funding for basic research from 2006 levels by 2016.

The 2010 request includes $59.9 million in laboratory research initiatives in NIST's STRS appropriation. NIST 2010 initiatives focus directly on addressing measurement-related barriers and other technical challenges related to achieving energy independence, protecting the environment, rebuilding America's physical infrastructure, strengthening information technology security, and improving the delivery and cost-effectiveness of health care. Other initiatives aim to advance core capabilities in areas such as quantum information and quantum-based measurements, which are at the frontiers of science and technology, the sources of innovations over the years and decades to come.

Performance Measures.—A detailed presentation of the performance outcomes, measures, and targets is found in the Department's 2010 budget submission.

The ITS appropriation consists of two extramural programs, the Technology Innovation Program and the Hollings Manufacturing Extension Partnership program.

Technology Innovation Program (TIP): A total of $69.9 million is requested for TIP in 2010. This program focuses on supporting development of cutting-edge technologies to address societal challenges. For example, in its first competition in January 2009, TIP awarded nine cost-shared grants for research addressing the need to monitor and cost-effectively improve the nation's physical infrastructure. With cost-sharing, the grants are expected to catalyze nearly $90 million worth of research over five years, stimulating efforts to develop advanced sensing technologies for timely, detailed monitoring and inspection of the structural health of the nation's public bridges, roadways, and water systems. Future competitions will focus on other critical national need areas. TIP support for collaborative high-risk, high-reward technology development projects aims to attract a critical mass of talent in industry, academia, and government to address important national challenges that can be addressed through advances in technology.

Hollings Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP): The MEP is a Federal-state-local partnership that enhances competitiveness of U.S. manufacturers through access to technologies, resources, and expertise. The MEP consists of a NIST-led network of 59 manufacturing extension centers, in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, that work to position small- and medium-sized manufacturers to compete in the global economy through services that are grounded in technology related activities, sustainability, efficiencies through continuous improvement, the integration of supply chains, and increasing the technical and problem solving skills of the workforce. The $124.7 million requested for MEP in 2010 will expand technology and business resources to help strengthen these manufacturers' competitiveness in the global market, as well as support activities concerning energy efficient manufacturing practices. MEP has a proven record of accomplishment for delivering cost-effective services that improve competitiveness and help companies retain or expand jobs. Federal investment in this program galvanizes local and state matching funding that help to make MEP services affordable for manufacturing clients. The Federal funding requested for MEP will enhance the program's ability to meet the 21st century needs of America's small and medium-sized manufacturers and spur economic growth through U.S. manufacturing.

This appropriation supports the construction of new facilities and the renovation and maintenance of NIST's current buildings and laboratories to comply with scientific and engineering requirements and to keep pace with Federal, State, and local health and safety regulations. The CRF request includes $48.4 million in initiatives to support three construction projects that strengthen NIST's core facilities: 1) the initial renovation of Building 1 at NIST's Boulder, Colorado, site ($26,000,000), which enables the planning, design, and initial construction of phased renovations for Building 4 and Wings 3, 5, and 6 of Building 1; 2) initial planning and design for the multi-phase, multi-year renovation of General Purpose laboratories (GPLs) at the NIST site in Gaithersburg, Maryland ($14,363,000), which is a necessary step toward systematic renovation of aging GPLs; and 3) NIST Center for Neutron Research and Reliability Improvements ($8,000,000), which will fund construction fit-up costs associated with configuring and occupying the completed Guide Hall facility and technical support buildings.

The awarding of new Public Telecommunications Facilities, Planning and Construction grants is proposed for termination in 2010. Since 2000, almost 70 percent of PTFP awards have supported public television stations' conversion to digital broadcasting, and mandated conversion efforts are now largely completed. Funding for remaining digital conversion and other activities is available from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Personnel from this activity will support new NTIA responsibilities related to the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, implementing the Broadband Technology Opportunities Program.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (P.L. 111-5) provides for the establishment of the Broadband Technology Opportunities Program (BTOP) in the National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA), and also provides resources for broadband grants and loans through the Rural Utilities Service of the Department of Agriculture. The Administration is working in coordination to ensure effective implementation of these programs.

The purposes of the BTOP include increasing access to broadband service in unserved and underserved areas of the Nation, and ensuring broadband access to strategic institutions such as schools, libraries, healthcare providers, and public safety agencies that are likely to provide significant public benefits. The BTOP initiatives will provide grant support to enable broadband access for consumers with limited or no broadband service as well as stimulate demand and facilitate greater use of broadband services, while contributing to economic growth and job creation. NTIA will make awards as expeditiously as practicable, with initial awards planned for 2009 and all awards being made not later than the end of 2010, as required by the Act.

BTOP Infrastructure Grants.—The BTOP funds will support, among other things, competitive grants for broadband deployment in unserved and underserved areas, and for strategic community institutions. Details on how eligible entities can apply for grants are expected to be available in June 2009. Not less than one award is expected to be made in each State, and entities receiving grants must complete their projects within 2 years following an award and demonstrate that they can deliver programmatic results in the most efficient and expeditious manner practicable. Entities eligible for grants include States, territories, and Indian tribes, as well as non profit entities and any other entities that NTIA determines to be in the public interest. In making awards, NTIA will consider proposals that increase affordability of and subscribership to broadband service, provide the greatest speed possible to the greatest population of users, enhance service for health care delivery, education, and children, and do not result in unjust enrichment. NTIA is committed to effective and transparent implementation of this program, and will make publicly available information relating to applications, awards, and performance.

Public Computer Center Grants.—To expand public computer center capacity at institutions such as community colleges and public libraries, competitive grants will be awarded beginning in 2009. Details on application procedures are expected to be made available in June 2009.

Sustainable Broadband Adoption Grants.—Competitive grants will be awarded to fund innovative programs that encourage sustainable adoption of broadband service. Details on how eligible entities can apply for grants are expected to be available in June 2009, with initial grants expected to be awarded by September 2009.

Broadband Inventory Mapping.—Federal assistance will be provided in the form of competitive grants to develop and implement statewide initiatives to identify and track the availability and adoption of broadband services within each State. A single eligible entity will be designated by the state to receive a grant under this program. As expeditiously as practicable, and not later than February 2011 by law, NTIA will develop and maintain a comprehensive nationwide inventory map of existing broadband service capability and availability in the United States. The Secretary of Commerce, in consultation with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and following Congressional notification, may transfer amounts to the FCC for the purposes of developing a national broadband plan or for carrying out other responsibilities related to BTOP.

In accordance with the ARRA, 3 percent of the funds made available can be used for administrative expenses. In addition, as required by the Recovery Act, the BTOP has transferred $10 million to the Department of Commerce Inspector General, for audit and oversight activities associated with the program.

The Digital Television Transition and Public Safety Fund, created by the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005, as amended by the DTV Delay Act, received offsetting receipts from the auction of licenses to use electromagnetic spectrum formerly assigned to broadcast television service, and provides funding for several one-time programs from these receipts. The Act, as amended, specifies that recovered spectrum, aside from 24 megahertz dedicated to public safety use, was to be auctioned by the Federal Communications Commission in 2008 and identifies the distribution of revenue for deficit reduction and program purposes as identified below. Receipts exceeding amounts specified for authorized programs will be returned to the general fund of the Treasury. The Act also provided borrowing authority to the Department of Commerce to commence specified programs prior to the availability of auction receipts. Amounts borrowed from the Treasury have been returned as auction revenue has been realized.

Digital-to-Analog Converter Box Program.—To assist consumers during the transition from analog to digital television, up to two redeemed coupons are being provided upon request to qualifying households, to be used towards the purchase of digital-to-analog television converter boxes. Provided that funds are available, coupons may be requested between January 1, 2008, and July 31, 2009, in accordance with the DTV Delay Act and expire three months after issuance. Additional funding for this program was provided in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009; those funds are reflected in a separate dedicated account.

Public Safety Interoperable Communications.—Grants have been awarded in consultation with the Department of Homeland Security to public safety agencies to assist efforts to make their communications systems interoperable (i.e., capable of sharing voice and data signals). Public safety agencies are required to provide not less than twenty percent of the costs of acquiring and deploying the interoperable communications systems funded under this program from non-Federal sources. The program awarded the grants by September 30, 2007, in accordance with the Call Home Act of 2006 and will administer the grants to completion.

New York City 9/11 Digital Transition.—Federal assistance has been provided to the Metropolitan Television Alliance of New York City for the design and deployment of a temporary digital television broadcast system until a permanent facility atop the planned Freedom Tower is constructed. The grant has been fully awarded and the program is now in the second phase which will improve digital television in poorly served sections of Brooklyn.

Assistance to Low-Power Television Stations.—Eligible low-power stations may receive compensation for a digital-to-analog conversion device through the Low-Power Television and Translator Digital-to-Analog Conversion Program to convert the incoming digital signal of a full-power television station to analog for transmission on the low-power station's analog channel. Applications will be accepted through June 12, 2009. NTIA is preparing a Notice of Funding Availability for the Low-Power Television and Translator Digital Upgrade Program, which will provide eligible low-power stations reimbursement to upgrade their television signals from analog to digital format.

National and Remote Alert Programs.—Title VI of the SAFE Port Act of 2006 specified the use of funds in these programs and requires the following: that public and educational broadcasters modify their towers to enable the distribution of targeted alerts by commercial mobile services providers, in consultation with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS); the establishment of a research program to support the development of technologies to increase the number of commercial mobile service devices that receive emergency alerts; and the establishment in the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) of a grant program for outdoor alerting technologies in remote communities to enable receipt of emergency alerts. NTIA has agreements with both NOAA and DHS regarding their grant programs and has transferred funds from the Digital Television Transition and Public Safety Fund to each agency. NTIA is currently working with public and educational broadcasters so they can distribute targeted alerts to commercial mobile services providers.

National Tsunami Warning Program.— A tsunami warning system will be implemented by NOAA using a variety of communications technologies capable of alerting the public to emergency situations, including tsunamis and coastal vulnerability.

ENHANCE 911.—Funds will be used to implement the ENHANCE 911 Act of 2004, which created a joint effort between of the Department of Commerce and the Department of Transportation to assist State and local governments in providing caller location identification capabilities for emergency 911 services and established a matching grant program for that purpose. Grants are to be awarded before September 30, 2009.

Essential Air Service.—Funds were provided to the Department of Transportation for the Essential Air Service program.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA) provides $650 million to the National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) for the Digital-to-Analog Converter Box coupon program. Starting from the commencement of program operations in March 2009, NTIA plans to spend $490 million to distribute up to 12.25 million additional coupons at $40 each, subject to consumer demand. The 4.2 million coupons that had accumulated on the waiting list since January 2009 were obligated with ARRA funds on March 3, 2009, and then were distributed over the next two to three weeks. In addition, new requests for coupons and requests for replacements for expired coupons are currently being processed on a first-come, first served basis, though NTIA retains the flexibility to prioritize applications as necessary to assist consumers that are reliant on over-the-air broadcasts. In addition to the coupons already distributed to households on the waiting list, at least 8 million additional coupons may be distributed using ARRA funds, and the program will accept requests from eligible households through July 31, 2009.

Per the ARRA, NTIA may use up to $90 million for consumer education and outreach, and may transfer this amount to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) if deemed necessary and appropriate by the Secretary of Commerce, in order to aid a smooth transition to digital broadcasts by increasing awareness, particularly among groups most at risk for losing television service. Accordingly, NTIA transferred $65.705 million to the FCC, consistent with the notification sent to Congress on April 1, 2009. NTIA and the FCC are tailoring digital television transition outreach efforts to respond to changing circumstances, and if future transfers are deemed necessary and appropriate, the Committees will be advised in accordance with the ARRA.

Additionally, NTIA has set aside an estimated $70 million for program administration for coupon distribution and service enhancements. The enhancements have facilitated improvement in coupon processing and distribution through, for example, use of first class mail delivery, expedited waste, fraud, and abuse review, and use of pre-ordered accounts at two additional system processing banks.
