Introduction

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Recovery Act), which provides $787 billion in funding intended to provide a stimulus to the economy, includes $4 billion in Department of Justice (DOJ or Department) grant funding to enhance state, local, and tribal law enforcement, to combat violence against women, and to fight Internet crimes against children. In addition, the DOJ Office of the Inspector General (OIG) received $2 million to conduct oversight of DOJ's Recovery Act activities.

This document describes the OIG's plan for overseeing DOJ's management of Recovery Act funds. In addition, a summary presentation of the OIG's Recovery Act Oversight Plan is available in excel format at <http://www.usdoj.gov/oig/recoveryAct.htm>.

The OIG's Recovery Act goals are tied to the Office of Management and Budget's accountability objectives for the Recovery Act. Specifically, the OIG will seek to assess the extent to which:

- funds are awarded and distributed in a prompt, fair, and reasonable manner;
- the recipients and uses of all funds are transparent to the public, and the public benefits of these funds are reported clearly, accurately, and in a timely manner;
- funds are used for authorized purposes and potential for fraud, waste, error, and abuse are mitigated;
- projects funded under the Recovery Act avoid unnecessary delays and cost overruns; and
- program goals are achieved, including specific program outcomes and improved results on broader economic indicators.

We approach this Recovery Act oversight through the coordinated efforts of our auditors, investigators, and inspectors. Our multidisciplinary effort is providing guidance and advice to granting agencies; training grant managers on fraud risks; proactively reaching out to state and local agencies receiving Recovery Act funding from DOJ; performing audits and evaluations; assessing risk; and preparing for any necessary investigative activity.

The following table summarizes the Department's Recovery Act funding.

RECOVERY ACT-FUNDED PROGRAMS

OIG Guidance and Advice to Granting Agencies

As the Recovery Act moved toward enactment, the OIG surveyed experienced OIG staff in all its Divisions and reviewed prior reports to identify known grants management issues. Based on this effort, we developed and widely distributed, both within the Department and to other agencies, a document titled “Improving the Grants Management Process.” This document provides recommendations and examples of best practices for the grant management process that DOJ OIG auditors and investigators have identified from our previous grant oversight work.

Upon enactment of the Recovery Act, teams of senior OIG managers met with officials from the Office of Justice Programs (OJP), the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS), and the Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) to discuss our oversight plans and offer our assistance to these granting components in their implementation of the new programs. Each of the granting agencies has requested, and we have provided, advice and assistance in various grant program management areas. We anticipate continuing this process throughout the existence of the Recovery Act programs.

Training Federal, State, and Local Staff on Fraud Risks

Working in cooperation with the Department’s grant-making agencies, the OIG Investigations Division established an aggressive schedule for providing training to grant officials. This training is focused on raising awareness of the specific fraud, waste, and misuse risks related to Recovery Act and other grant funding. The emphasis is on the prevention or early detection of issues to better ensure that all funds are used as effectively and efficiently as possible. Between April 1, 2009, and May 15, 2009, the OIG provided training to 518 individuals in 11 separate sessions. We are making similar training available to state and local grant officials. Our training efforts will continue throughout the Recovery Act programs.

Outreach to State and Local Agencies

OIG field offices have developed and are implementing plans to conduct outreach meetings in 31 states with representatives of state Recovery Act administering and oversight agencies. States not receiving an in-person meeting will be contacted via telephone. During each meeting, OIG representatives from our Investigations and Audit Divisions explain our role in all DOJ programs, including those funded by the Recovery Act. The OIG representatives provide an overview of the state’s DOJ Recovery Act funding, and discuss our intentions to audit or investigate allegations of mismanagement, fraud, waste, and abuse in programs funded by DOJ grants. In addition, OIG staff offer fraud awareness training for state and local grant officials. The OIG is developing a plan for similar outreach meetings with select local recipients of Recovery Act funds. After completion of the initial round of outreach activities, follow-up meetings will be conducted as necessary throughout the Recovery Act programs.

Audits and Evaluations

The OIG is also auditing the Department's management of Recovery Act funding for the:

- Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Formula and Discretionary Grant Programs,
- Grants for Victims Compensation and Assistance,
- COPS Hiring Recovery Program, and
- Violence Against Women Prevention and Prosecution Programs.

Our audits are designed to determine if the Department granting agency is properly managing Recovery Act funds in accordance with the Act, OMB guidelines, and sound management practices.

The OIG is also evaluating the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives' (ATF) Project Gunrunner, which seeks to reduce cross-border drug and weapons trafficking and violence on the Southwest border. The objective of the evaluation is to determine whether the Project is planned and implemented effectively to reduce firearms trafficking into Mexico and related violence. As part of this evaluation, the OIG will examine ATF's use of the $10 million it received in Recovery Act funds for Project Gunrunner.

Assessing Risk

The OIG's Recovery Act risk assessment process is evolving as the funded programs are implemented. Our risk assessment began with the previously discussed survey of experienced OIG staff and review of prior OIG reports to identify known grants management issues. Our audits and evaluations of Recovery Act programs at the Departmental level are assessing the risk associated with grants management. As Recovery Act data becomes increasingly available, we will assess that data for indicators of risk. We also are assessing Single Audit Act audit reports for indicators of risk to DOJ grant funds. In addition, our Audit and Investigations Divisions are meeting regularly with DOJ grant administrators to obtain information relevant to our risk assessments of individual DOJ grantees. We also are developing methods to assess third-party data sources for indicators of risk to DOJ grantees.

Internal Training on Investigating Grant Fraud under the Recovery Act

The OIG's Investigations Division has identified ten special agents from field offices across the country, in addition to our Washington, D.C.-based Fraud Detection Office, to receive special training on grant fraud issues specifically related to Recovery Act funding. This training is scheduled for June 2009 and will include topics such as specific fraud risks in DOJ Recovery Act funding, assessing allegations, investigative planning, and coordinating appropriate remedies such as administrative actions, civil, and criminal penalties.

OIG Recovery Act Plan Overview

OIG Name:	U. S. Department of Justice, Office of the Inspector General
OIG Broad Recovery Act Goals:	The OIG's Recovery Act goals are tied to OMB's accountability objectives for the Recovery Act. We will seek to assess the extent to which: (1) funds are awarded and distributed in a prompt, fair, and reasonable manner; (2) the recipients and uses of all funds are transparent to the public, and the public benefits of these funds are reported clearly, accurately, and in a timely manner; (3) funds are used for authorized purposes and potential for fraud, waste, error, and abuse are mitigated; (4) projects funded under the Act avoid unnecessary delays and cost overruns; and (5) program goals are achieved, including specific program outcomes and improved results on broader economic indicators.
OIG Broad Outreach Recovery Act Goals:	For DOJ granting agencies, our Recovery Act outreach goals are: (1) to keep Departmental leaders apprised of our approach to Recovery Act oversight efforts; (2) provide extensive grant fraud awareness training sessions to DOJ grant managers and others; and (3) provide interim results, where appropriate, of audit, investigation, and inspection efforts. For state and local grant administering agencies, our Recovery Act outreach goals are to: (1) conduct in-person briefings in approximately 30 State Administering Agencies to explain the OIG's Recovery Act role and oversight assistance activities; (2) conduct telephone briefings with all other State Administering Agencies; (3) conduct in-person and telephone briefings with large local administering agencies; and (4) provide grant fraud awareness training to state and local agencies as requested.
OIG Recovery Act Risk Assessment Process:	The OIG's Recovery Act risk assessment process is evolving as the funded programs are implemented. At the start of the programs, we surveyed experienced OIG staff and reviewed prior reports to identify and summarize known grants management issues. Based on this effort, we developed and widely distributed a document titled Improving the Grants Management Process. We are currently conducting four audits and an evaluation of Recovery Act programs at the Departmental level to assess the risk associated with grants management. As Recovery Act data becomes increasingly available, we will assess that data for indicators of risk. We maintain a process to assess Single Audit Act audit reports for indicators of risk to DOJ grant funds. We are developing methods to assess
