

12th / BROADWAY

PLANNING BART staff is continuing to work with the City of Oakland as they plan for job growth and 10,000 new residents in downtown Oakland. The City completed a Downtown Transportation Study in 2004. As part of the City of Alameda's analysis of transit feasibility, the 12th Street BART Station is under consideration as the primary transfer point for expanded bus service to the proposed Alameda Point development.

DEVELOPMENT A special entrance agreement is also being negotiated with the owners of the Central Building.

REINVESTMENT This station will have upgraded replacement ADA-compliant platform edge tiles installed, pending the receipt of grant funds.
