The FY 2001 budget request includes an enhancement of $105,000,000 in direct appropriations for TCCF to continue reimbursing the telecommunications industry for certain eligible costs associated with modifications to their networks. In addition, $120,000,000 is being requested within the Department of Defense (DoD) appropriation to be made available to the TCCF through a reimbursable agreement between DoD and DOJ. The DoD resources are being requested in recognition of the contribution of CALEA to national security activities.

The Communications Assistance for Law Enforcement Act of 1994 (CALEA) (P.L. 103-414) authorizes the Attorney General to reimburse telecommunications carriers for costs associated with modifying digital equipment installed before January 1, 1995, in order that court-authorized wiretaps may be performed. To facilitate compliance by telecommunications carriers, CALEA authorized an appropriation of $500,000,000 to pay for reasonable costs directly associated with modifying eligible equipment, facilities, and services to establish the necessary capabilities and capacities identified by law enforcement. The Omnibus Consolidated Appropriations Act of 1997 (P.L. 104-208) established the Department of Justice TCCF to make payments to telecommunications carriers, and extended eligibility for reimbursement to telecommunications equipment manufacturers, and providers of telecommunications support services. In addition to direct appropriations to the Fund, Congress authorized Federal agencies with law enforcement or intelligence responsibility to transfer to the Fund unobligated balances that are available until expended, upon compliance with congressional notification requirements.
