

Computer-Assisted Auditing

Susan Combs, Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts

APRIL 2007

What is a Computer-Assisted Audit?

Audit and time efficiency are achieved when the auditor analyzes the taxpayer's computer files, evaluates populations of data, sets dollar ranges and randomly selects samples from those homogeneous ranges.

The Audit Division supports and maintains two programs used in conducting a computerassisted audit. Using the CAMS (Computer Audit Menu System) programs, the auditor creates homogenous groups of data and samples transactions based on dollar value strata. This results in a more representative sample for the taxpayer and the auditor.

CAMS-Mainframe

Uses Easytrieve to process large numbers of records from tapes or PCbased media. The computer audit specialist in Audit Headquarters processes the files, runs reports and converts the files to the CAMS standard format. The auditor then runs reports, defines the population, sets stratification layers and selects samples.

CAMS-PC

Uses Visual Basic and TrueDB Reports to process smaller numbers of records from imported data. The auditor runs all reports, defines the population, sets stratification layers and selects samples.

Files

Media Requirements

- Mainframe-based media: 3480, 3490, 3490e, 9840 tape cartridges max. block size 32760. RISC6000, 8 mm, 4 mm tapes—data is copied by an outside vendor to compatible media
- PC-based data: ZIP disks—250 MB, 100 MB; CDs; diskettes

Computer-Assisted Auditing

Documentation Requirements

- Record layout, file layout
- Dump or printout of 10 records
- Data Information Form—supplied by the auditor, completed by the taxpayer
- Explain the files provided—DCB information, tape volumes, program used to create the files, etc.

Computer Data is Considered Books and Records

The Comptroller's Legal Counsel has interpreted the books and records provision of the Tax Code (Vernon's TEXAS CODES ANN., Tax Code, Sec. 111.004) to include computer records.

Confidentiality

The Comptroller of Public Accounts and its employees are prohibited from disclosing any information derived in the course of an audit pursuant to the provisions of TEX. TAX CODE ANN.111.006. Each employee of this agency is required to sign a statement in which the employee acknowledges that he or she has been informed of the contents of the above-cited statutes. The employee agrees not to disclose such information. If an employee does disclose information made confidential by law, the employee is subject to penalties including a fine and prison term.
