PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer: God of the universe, we give You thanks for giving us another day.

We ask Your blessing as we approach the end of the first session of this 112th Congress. You know well the contentiousness of this session. Look into the hearts of all the Members of this people's House to discern the goodwill within. May the goodwill You find be rewarded with Your grace. May any contrary spirit be banished.

In the days that come, help each Member to understand well and interpret positively, as they are able, the positions of those with whom they disagree. Grant to each the wisdom of Solomon, and to us all the faith and confidence to know that no matter how difficult things appear to be, You continue to walk with our Nation, as You have done for over two centuries.

May all that is done today in the people's House be for Your greater honor and glory.

Amen.

There was no objection.

U.S. POSTAL SERVICE BREAST CANCER RESEARCH AUTHORITY ACT

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (S. 384) to amend title 39, United States Code, to extend the authority of the United States Postal Service to issue a semipostal to raise funds for breast cancer research.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

S. 384

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. EXTENSION OF POSTAGE STAMP FOR BREAST CANCER RESEARCH.

Section 414(h) of title 39, United States Code, is amended by striking "2011" and inserting "2015".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, Senate bill 384, introduced by Senator DIANNE FEINSTEIN from the great State of California, would extend the authority of the United States Postal Service to issue semipostal stamps to raise funds for breast cancer research. The bill enjoys cosponsorship on both sides of the aisle; 66 Senators have cosponsored it, and my committee has voted it out unanimously. Senate bill 384 is very simple yet important that we pass, and pass before the end of the year. Senate bill 384 will allow the United States Postal Service to continue to sell special postage stamps that generate funds used for breast cancer research.

In 1997 President Clinton signed Public Law 105-41, known as the Stamp Out Breast Cancer Act. The law authorizes the Postal Service to sell, for the first time, a special semipostal stamp for first-class mail. Under the law, the United States Postal Service sells this stamp at a price that is above the standard first-class mail rate. Buyers willingly buy this, knowing that this is helping stamp out breast cancer.

After accounting for administrative costs, the Postal Service then transfers surplus funds to the National Institutes of Health and the Department of Defense for breast cancer research. Today the sale of each 55 cent stamp generates 11 cents to go toward breast cancer research. Since being offered to the public in 1998, nearly 925 million—that's right, 1 billion—of these stamps have been sold, and over $74 million of proceeds have been transferred to the NIH and the Department of Defense for breast cancer research.

I would like to thank my colleague, the ranking member of the full committee, Mr. CUMMINGS, and my colleague here today, Mr. CLAY, for championing this bill and its reauthorization. I would also like to thank Senator FEINSTEIN for her work in moving this bill in the other Chamber in a timely fashion.

The authorization for this stamp expires on December 31. Mr. Speaker, it is important that we act and act today if we are, in fact, going to continue to help the more than 2.5 million women currently living with breast cancer nationwide and the over 200,000 women diagnosed with this disease each year in our country. The funds generated from this stamp are greatly needed. Each dollar raised for research increases the likelihood that more people will become cancer survivors rather than cancer statistics.

I urge all of my colleagues to vote for the bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I'm pleased to rise in support of S. 384, along with my chairman, Mr. ISSA of California, of the Oversight and Government Reform Committee. I want to thank him for bringing this legislation to the floor.

This bill, S. 384, will extend the authority of the U.S. Postal Service to issue the popular semipostal stamp that helps to raise funds for breast cancer research. The measure before us, S. 384, is sponsored by our Senate colleague, Senator DIANNE FEINSTEIN, and here in the House, Representative JOE BACA, also from California, who introduced the companion version of this legislation.

Cancer is one of the scourges of our society, and this is a truly bipartisan bill that makes a huge difference in a cost-efficient manner. I hope my colleagues will join me in supporting this bill without reservation. This will allow the American people to continue contributing to the fight against breast cancer and cancer in general for another 4 years. I urge passage of this bill.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BACA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to voice my strong support for S. 384, legislation that reauthorizes the semi-postal breast cancer research stamp for four additional years.

I want to thank my friend, Senator DIANNE FEINSTEIN, for sponsoring this bill.

I am proud to serve as lead sponsor on H.R. 466, the counterpart legislation for S. 384, that was introduced here in the House of Representatives.

The breast cancer research stamp has been of critical importance in the battle against breast cancer—both in raising awareness of the diseases, and raising tens of millions of dollars for important research activities.

Since 1998, the U.S. Postal Service has sold over 903 million "semi-postal" breast cancer research stamps.

The sale of these stamps has resulted in over $72 million being raised that has gone directly to supporting breast cancer research at the National Institute of Health.

If Congress does not act by the end of the year—the authorization to sell the breast cancer research stamp will expire within a few short weeks.

Aside from skin cancer, breast cancer is considered the most commonly diagnosed cancer among women nationwide.

According to the American Cancer Society, more than 2.5 million women in the United States are living with breast cancer today.

The research money raised by the breast cancer stamp makes a real and immediate difference in the lives of women diagnosed with breast cancer—and gives all of us hope that one day we can live in a world without this devastating disease.

The awareness the stamp creates is also critical—as we continue to stress the importance of preventative measures and early detection with America's women.

I urge my colleagues to join me in reauthorizing the breast cancer research stamp for another four years, and vote "yes" on S. 384.

Let's stand with America's our mothers, grandmothers, sisters, and daughters—and vow to continue to work towards a world without breast cancer.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, S. 384.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

MASTER SERGEANT DANIEL L. FEDDER POST OFFICE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3220) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 170 Evergreen Square SW in Pine City, Minnesota, as the "Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office".

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 3220

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. MASTER SERGEANT DANIEL L. FEDDER POST OFFICE.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 170 Evergreen Square SW in Pine City, Minnesota, shall be known and designated as the "Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 3220, introduced by the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. CRAVAACK), would designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 170 Evergreen Square SW in Pine City, Minnesota, as the Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office. The bill is cosponsored by the entire Minnesota State delegation and has been favorably reported from committee.

Master Sergeant Fedder died tragically in August of last year while he was based out of Camp Pendleton within my district and was serving honorably in our theater of operation.

Mr. Speaker, the postal naming is something that our committee takes seriously. We require that all post offices have unanimous support in order to be named. And under this year's rules, we require that it be for individuals befitting of the honor of having a post office named after them, and virtually every postal naming this year has been after one of our fallen heroes.

With that, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. CRAVAACK).

Mr. CRAVAACK. I thank Chairman ISSA for the introduction.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life and service of Master Sergeant Daniel Fedder by dedicating and renaming the U.S. Postal Office in his hometown of Pine City, Minnesota, as the Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office. Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder, 34, died on August 27, 2010, while supporting combat operations in Helmand province, Afghanistan, as part of Operation Enduring Freedom.

While working as an explosive ordnance disposal technician, he was killed by a blast of an improvised explosive device. Master Sergeant Fedder was a 16-year veteran of the United States Marine Corps, with completed combat deployments to Iraq in 2004 and 2006 and an overseas deployment with the 11th Marine Expeditionary Unit in 2007.

He was on his first combat tour in Afghanistan but was a very decorated marine with several military awards, including the Purple Heart, two Navy-Marine Corps Commendation Medals, and a Joint Service Achievement Medal. Master Sergeant Daniel Fedder was assigned to the 7th Engineer Support Battalion, 1st Marine Logistics Group, 1st Marine Expeditionary Force out of Camp Pendleton, California.

Master Sergeant Daniel Fedder grew up in Pine City, Minnesota. He is survived by his parents, Robert and Jackie McKellar, who still reside in the area. Master Sergeant Fedder is further survived by his wife, Diana Fedder; and former spouse, Susan Fedder; and their two children—daughter, Danielle, and son, Strom.

A scholarship has been created in his name. It gives financial support to graduating seniors from Pine City High School where Master Sergeant Fedder attended.

Master Sergeant Fedder spent his career in service for his country and ended up making the ultimate sacrifice while working to protect his fellow Americans in Afghanistan and at home. Daniel Fedder is a true American hero, and I am privileged—in fact, I am humbled—by the opportunity to honor his life, sacrifice, and legacy by designating the local post office of his hometown in his name.

It is my hope that this post office will stand as a reminder to Daniel's family, friends, and the citizens of Pine City, Minnesota, of my appreciation, the appreciation of his constituents of Minnesota's 8th Congressional District, and America's appreciation for Master Sergeant Fedder and those servicemembers like him who have been killed in combat operations while protecting our country.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

As a member of the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, I am pleased to join my colleagues in the consideration of this bill.

H.R. 3220 designates the facility of the U.S. Postal Service located at 170 Evergreen Square SW in Pine City, Minnesota, as the Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office. The measure before us was first introduced by my colleague, Representative CHIP CRAVAACK of Minnesota, on October 14, 2011.

Before serving in Afghanistan, Master Sergeant Fedder had served two highly decorated tours in Iraq. He was a recipient of the Purple Heart, a Navy-Marine Corps Commendation Medal, and a Joint Service Achievement Medal, among many others.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that we recognize and honor the heroic actions and the life of service of Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder and pass the underlying bill without reservation. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the passage of the bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In brief, no individual is to be honored more than one who knowingly walks up to a piece of explosive that can kill them surrounded by hostiles who can kill them. When others stand back, our EOD technicians go forward. And no organization has paid more of a price than Marine EOD and Army EOD during this conflict.

So as we honor Master Sergeant Fedder, hopefully we will recognize that he didn't come home, many other EOD technicians didn't come home, and many who came home came home injured because, in fact, you cannot expect these IEDs not to be set off as you walk up to them.

□ 1630

Only a week ago, I was at the Kennedy Center where they honored a countless number of individuals who had been wounded warriors. Disproportionately, I saw the badge of the EOD technician on many of these individuals. They were operating from wheelchairs, and they were operating with terrible, terrible scars.

The master sergeant did not come home, and that is tragic. But let's understand this post office naming is being named after those men and women who serve day in and day out in Iraq, Afghanistan and here at home, to disarm explosives that most people would simply run away from.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers and want to close by again urging adoption of this bill. H.R. 3220 renames the post office in Pine City, Minnesota, after Master Sergeant Fedder, who gave his life in the name of freedom and service to our country. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. In closing, I join my colleague in this bipartisan effort to name the post office after Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today as a proud cosponsor of H.R. 3220, a bill to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 170 Evergreen Square SW in Pine City, MN as the Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office.

A Minnesota native and sixteen year veteran of the Marine Corps, Master Sergeant Fedder was serving his fourth tour overseas and his first in Afghanistan when he was mortally wounded by an Improvised Explosive Device on August 27, 2010. During his tour in Afghanistan, he demonstrated incredible courage in disposing of more than 25 improvised explosive devices. His actions saved the lives of countless fellow service members and Afghan civilians. At only 34 years of age, Master Sgt. Fedder had dedicated nearly half of his life to military service, during which time he was cited for his professionalism and strong leadership.

His life serves as a towering example of the courage, valor and dedication of our servicemen and women. H.R. 3220 is an important step to honor the memory of Master Sgt. Fedder's sacrifice.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3220.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

SPECIALIST PETER J. NAVARRO POST OFFICE BUILDING

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3246) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 15455 Manchester Road in Ballwin, Missouri, as the "Specialist Peter J. Navarro Post Office Building".

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 3246

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SPECIALIST PETER J. NAVARRO POST OFFICE BUILDING.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 15455 Manchester Road in Ballwin, Missouri, shall be known and designated as the "Specialist Peter J. Navarro Post Office Building".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Specialist Peter J. Navarro Post Office Building".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the author of this bill, Representative TODD AKIN of Missouri, who has authored this bill and carried it throughout the process, including here today.

Mr. AKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3246, a bill I introduced to honor the life of Peter J. Navarro by designating the post office in Ballwin, Missouri, as the Specialist Peter J. Navarro Post Office Building.

A resident of Wildwood, Missouri, Specialist Peter J. Navarro was part of Company A, 2nd Battalion, 70th Armor Regiment, 3rd Brigade Combat Team and the 1st Armored Division. On December 13, 2005, Specialist Navarro was one of four soldiers killed when a roadside bomb detonated near their Humvee during combat operations in Taji, Iraq.

A graduate of Lafayette High School, Peter declined his acceptance at Truman State University so that he could join the Army right after his graduation. When Peter returned home for his younger brother's funeral, he was faced with the undeniable risks of serving his country. However, he returned to Iraq, telling friends and family that without him "they would be a man short. They need me there."

Peter was a dedicated soldier, willing to give the ultimate sacrifice to protect his country and the men and women who reside there. As Peter's father, Retired Chief Petty Officer Jose Navarro, said, "He cared for the soldiers he worked with. He would do anything for his friends. And he told me he believed in what the mission was."

As the father of three marines, I have watched my boys deploy to both Iraq and Afghanistan. As such, it's a privilege to stand here today to honor one of our fallen soldiers. Peter's commitment and dedication to his country is a shining example of how our military men and women are the finest our Nation has to offer. He and his family's sacrifice should serve as a reminder to all of us that the freedom we enjoy as Americans is not free, but it's the result of the tremendous bravery and selfless service of men and women willing to put themselves in harm's way for freedom's cause. Our Nation will be forever indebted to Specialist Peter Navarro.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me today in honoring Peter. Vote "yes" on H.R. 3246.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

On behalf of the Democratic members of the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, I stand in support of the consideration of H.R. 3246. This bill designates the facility of the U.S. Postal Service located at 15455 Manchester Road in Ballwin, Missouri, as the Specialist Peter J. Navarro Post Office Building.

The measure before us was first introduced by my friend and colleague, Representative TODD AKIN of Missouri, on October 24, 2011. In accordance with committee requirements, the entire Missouri delegation serves as cosponsors to the bill.

Peter J. Navarro was a resident of Wildwood, Missouri, and a graduate of Lafayette High School. In honor of his service, Specialist Navarro has been awarded the Good Conduct Medal, the Purple Heart, and the Bronze Star. He was a dedicated soldier, willing to give the ultimate sacrifice to protect his country.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that we recognize Specialist Navarro's life and pass the underlying bill without reservation. Passage of H.R. 3246 is but a small token of appreciation for the faithful service of an outstanding American soldier, and I urge its immediate adoption.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I join with my colleagues from Missouri on the left and the right that we are united by the naming of this post office on behalf of our fallen hero. Few things unite us in Congress like a recognition that men and women today are still paying the ultimate sacrifice for our freedom. Knowing the risk, serving a long time, Peter Navarro knew what he was doing when he went back to Iraq, and he did so knowing the risks that he took.

Many youth in America take risks, and they know not what they do and they lose their life; but the men and women of the Armed Forces know the risk, and particularly when they've already been in combat, return home, and go again. Sadly, more and more are going again for the second, third and fourth time; and Peter was no exception.

So today, as we name this post office on behalf of our fallen heroes from Missouri, hopefully we will take time to reflect about the many from Missouri who will not have something named after them but should never be forgotten for their sacrifice and their contribution to the freedoms we enjoy.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for his comments. I have no further speakers.

Let us join together and support the passage of H.R. 3246 in honor of Specialist Peter J. Navarro.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3246.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

WAYNE GRISHAM POST OFFICE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2158) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the "Wayne Grisham Post Office".

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 2158

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. WAYNE GRISHAM POST OFFICE.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 14901

Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, shall be known and designated as the "Wayne Grisham Post Office".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Wayne Grisham Post Office".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 2158, introduced by my colleague and friend, the gentlelady from California, Ms. LINDA SÁNCHEZ, would designate the facility of the United States Post Office located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the "Wayne Grisham Post Office."

This bill enjoys bipartisan support. In fact, every Member of the California delegation supports it, all 53.

Mr. Speaker, it is fitting and proper that Wayne Grisham, a man who dedicated his life to public service, be recognized. Born in 1923, Mr. Grisham served as a fighter pilot in World War II and was shot down over Germany, earning a Purple Heart.

After a successful career in real estate, Mr. Grisham was elected to the La Mirada City Council, where he served for 8 years. In 1978, he was elected to serve as a Member of this body, representing California's 33rd Congressional District. He served for two terms.

In 1983, he was appointed by then President Reagan to serve as the director of the Peace Corps in Kenya. After his service in Kenya, Mr. Grisham was elected to the California State Assembly in 1984, where he served until 1998.

Sadly, Mr. Speaker, on January of this year, Mr. Grisham died at the age of 88. He is survived by his wife of 66 years, his son, daughter, and five grandchildren.

After his death, he was described by the distinguished chairman of the Rules Committee, Mr. DREIER—who Mr. Grisham lost to in a 1982 reelection bid—as being the model of civility and a true gentleman. Mr. Speaker, we don't hear that very much in this body. I'll repeat it; as the model of civility and a true gentleman.

I urge Members to join me in supporting this legislation in honoring a true public servant.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I join with my colleague from the other side of the aisle and rise in support of H.R. 2158, which would rename the U.S. postal facility at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the "Wayne Grisham Post Office."

This bill was first introduced by my colleague and friend, Representative LINDA SÁNCHEZ of California. The bill is widely supported by the members of the California delegation and has been properly vetted and approved by the Oversight and Government Reform Committee.

At this time I would like to yield such time as she may consume to my good friend and colleague, Ms. SÁNCHEZ.

Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 2158, a bill which would designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada as the Wayne Grisham Post Office.

We could not be honoring a more deserving member of the Southern California community. Wayne Grisham dedicated his life to our country and to southern California. He valiantly served as a fighter pilot during World War II and was held as a prisoner of war when his plane was shot down over Germany. Mr. Grisham was awarded the Purple Heart and Air Medal for his courageous service.

After the war, Wayne returned home to Whittier College, where he earned a bachelor's degree in economics and went on to teach elementary school in Long Beach. Eventually, an entrepreneurial spirit led Mr. Grisham to open his own realty business in La Mirada, which he maintained for much of his life.

A self-described "conservative do-gooder," his dedication to our local community was truly remarkable. Mr. Grisham proudly served the city of La Mirada for over two decades, beginning in 1970 when he was elected to the city council. He later went on to be the mayor of that city.

Wayne once said, "I think of myself as an average guy, and I think it was the average guy who elected me." It was that connection with the community that guided Wayne throughout his career.

Mr. Grisham continued his service to the community with his election to Congress in 1978 and the California State Assembly in 1984. He also lent his talents to the Peace Corps, serving as director in Kenya.

More important than his dedication to our local community was Wayne's life as a dedicated husband, father, and grandfather. He married his high school sweetheart, Millie Watt, in 1944 and had three beautiful children—Cathy, Randy, and Kellie. Wayne was also blessed with seven grandchildren.

Wayne's daughter Kellie recently remembered her father this way: "He was always smiling and always had a kind word. He loved when he could help people. He took great pride in the work he did for the city of La Mirada, the State of California, and the United States of America. He was a genuinely sincere person with great integrity. He believed in treating everyone with respect."

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring the service and memory of this dedicated civic leader.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, it is now my honor to yield such time as he may consume to a friend and colleague who would like to speak on Mr. Grisham's behalf, the gentleman from California (Mr. LEWIS).

Mr. LEWIS of California. I want to first say I very much appreciate my colleagues' recognizing the service of our dear friend Wayne Grisham.

In my early days in the Congress, Arlene and I spent a good deal of time with Wayne and Millie. We traveled together and talked often of other trips we could take with one another. Our favorite place in the West, for example, is Catalina Island, and we had planned to spend at least one weekend—if not many—there together. It is with great regret that I rise today in recognition of his passing in January.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, having no additional speakers, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 2158, which renames the La Miranda, California, post office after Mr. Wayne Grisham, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I arise to honor the life of my friend and colleague Wayne Grisham. During our early years in Congress, Wayne and his wife Millie became our dear friends. We traveled together and often talked of a weekend at our mutual favorite place in the west—Catalina Island. We miss them both in our lives.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2158.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

WILLIAM T. TRANT POST OFFICE BUILDING

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2767) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 8 West Silver Street in Westfield, Massachusetts, as the "William T. Trant Post Office Building".

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 2767

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. WILLIAM T. TRANT POST OFFICE BUILDING.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 8 West Silver Street in Westfield, Massachusetts, shall be known and designated as the "William T. Trant Post Office Building".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "William T. Trant Post Office Building".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 2767, introduced by the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. OLVER), would designate the facility of the United States Post Office located at 8 West Silver Street in Westfield, Massachusetts, as the "William T. Trant Post Office Building." This bill is cosponsored by the entire Massachusetts delegation and was favorably reported unanimously from our committee in November.

Mr. Speaker, William Trant was a man truly dedicated to serving both his country and his community.

□ 1650

In 1943 he enlisted in the Army and saw combat in Europe, suffering wounds at both Normandy and Rhineland. For his service, he was awarded the Purple Heart, as well as numerous other service medals.

After returning from war, Mr. Trant began his career working for the United States Post Office there in Westfield. Following a short stint with the New York Giants minor league baseball team, Mr. Trant returned to his career at the postal service—as we know in government, it's always good to have a backup job if you're going to pitch—where he would continue to serve for 32 years.

Mr. Trant rose to the rank of the postmaster of that post office that he served in up through the process. He also, though, did many community works, including serving on the Westfield City Council for near 20 years and, in 1962, also served as acting mayor. It is fitting that we name the Westfield Post Office after its postmaster.

In 1967 he served as procurement officer in the Springfield Post Office, as well as the procurement director of services in the northeast postal district in Hartford, Connecticut.

Sadly, Mr. Speaker, in 2002 Mr. Trant passed away. He is remembered by many in Westfield as both an exemplary citizen and a person of character.

I urge all Members to join in support of this legislation to honor a true public servant, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am pleased to rise in support of H.R. 2767, this bill to designate the facility of the U.S. Postal Service located at 8 West Silver Street in Westfield, Massachusetts, as the William T. Trant Post Office Building.

The measure was first introduced by my colleague, Representative JOHN OLVER of Massachusetts, on August 1, 2011. The entire Massachusetts delegation supports the bill. Having met all of the Oversight and Government Reform Committee's requirements, H.R. 2767 was reported favorably by the committee on November 3, 2011.

Mr. Speaker, at this time I yield such time as he may consume to my friend from Massachusetts (Mr. OLVER).

Mr. OLVER. I thank the gentleman from Missouri for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to support H.R. 2767, a bill that would designate the United States Post Office at 8 West Silver Street in Westfield, Massachusetts, as the William T. Trant Post Office Building.

William Trant was an exemplary citizen, a soldier, a father, a public servant, and a pillar of his community.

Born and raised in Westfield, he enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1943, and participated in five of the great campaigns of World War II, including the invasion of Normandy. He was decorated with several military honors, including the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with five Bronze Stars, the Good Conduct Medal, and the Purple Heart with an oak leaf cluster for wounds sustained at Normandy and at Rhineland.

After being honorably discharged at the end of the war, Mr. Trant returned home and worked for the U.S. Post Office in Westfield, leaving briefly to pitch for a minor league baseball team affiliated with the New York Giants.

He served on Westfield's City Council for nearly 20 years, served as acting mayor in 1962 following the death of Westfield's incumbent mayor. Through his service, he became friends with many Massachusetts political figures from both parties, including President John Kennedy, Senator Edward Kennedy, Congressman Silvio Conte, and House Speaker Tip O'Neill.

In 1967, Mr. Trant was appointed postmaster at the Westfield Post Office, a title which he proudly held while serving for many years.

Mr. Trant was actively involved in sports programs for the young people of Westfield, including the Westfield Little League, Westfield Babe Ruth and Westfield American Legion Baseball.

He and his wife, Mary, were devoted parents to nine children.

He passed away in 2002, having lived a life that is an example and an inspiration for all who knew him.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the passage of H.R. 2767 and ask my colleagues to join me in honoring William Trant's service to his country and his community.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers.

I ask that we recognize the long life and heroic service of William T. Trant and pass the underlying bill without reservation.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I join with my colleague and move that we support unanimously the William Trant Post Office naming, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2767.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. DENHAM. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 2668.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. DENHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 2668 would designate the station of the United States Border Patrol located at 2136 South Naco Highway in Bisbee, Arizona, as the Brian A. Terry Border Patrol Station. I am pleased to coauthor H.R. 2668, and I want to thank the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) for introducing this bipartisan legislation.

The Brian A. Terry Memorial Act would honor Border Patrol Agent Brian A. Terry by designating the station of the United States Border Patrol located at 2136 South Naco Highway in Bisbee, Arizona, as the Brian A. Terry Border Patrol Station.

Born in Flat Rock, Michigan, Agent Terry proudly served his country with the United States Marine Corps and continued his service as a police officer in Michigan prior to joining the United States Border Patrol. Agent Terry became a member of the 699th Session of the Border Patrol Academy, assigned to the Naco Border Patrol Station within the Tucson, Arizona, sector.

On December 14, 2010, Border Patrol Agent Brian A. Terry was conducting a Border Patrol Tactical Unit operation in the area of Peck Well. At 11:15, near Rio Rico, Arizona, and about 15 miles north of Nogales, Arizona, Agent Terry and his team spotted a group of individuals approaching their position.

□ 1700

Investigators later found that the suspects were preying on illegal immigrants with the intent to rob them. Shortly thereafter, an encounter ensued and gunfire was exchanged that left Agent Terry mortally wounded by a bullet fired by a suspect's AK-47. Agent Terry passed away the following day.

This legislation honors the ultimate sacrifice of Agent Terry while he bravely protected our Nation's borders. I support passage of this legislation and urge my colleagues to do the same.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of H.R. 2668, the Brian A. Terry Memorial Act, which honors the life and sacrifice of U.S. Border Patrol Agent Brian Terry. I'm pleased to be an original cosponsor of this measure, and I applaud Mr. ISSA for his leadership on this.

One year ago this Wednesday, on December 14, 2010, as on so many previous nights, Agent Terry and his team were out patrolling the border areas of Arizona and defending this country. Tragically, that night he died in the line of duty from injuries sustained in a gun fight. He died in the line of duty upholding his oath to defend our country. He was only 40 years old and was days away from taking a trip back home to Michigan for the Christmas holiday.

Even before he joined the United States Customs and Border Protection as a Border Patrol agent, Agent Terry displayed an exemplary record of public service. He joined the United States Marine Corps upon his graduation from high school and served a tour of duty in Iraq. He was honorably discharged in 1994.

Upon completing his military service, he returned home to Michigan and completed a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice. He then served as a police officer in Ecorse and Lincoln Park, Michigan. In 2007, he joined the United States Customs and Border Protection and became a member of its elite Border Patrol Tactical Unit. This unit responds to some of the most dangerous threats against our Nation's homeland, which perfectly suited Agent Terry's courage, patriotism, and dedication to his country. Agent Terry was stationed at the Nogales Border Patrol Station near Tucson, Arizona, which is the largest border patrol station in the entire country.

Agent Terry took great pride in serving and defending his country. He worked tirelessly day after day confronting imminent and immediate danger on the southwest border.

Despite the dangerous nature of his work, those who knew him described him as "a strong, competitive, handsome, courageous, funny, and incredibly patriotic American." He was also proud to serve as a Federal law enforcement agent.

I have met Agent Terry's family, and I support the ongoing efforts to seek answers for them. Others at the FBI and the U.S. Attorney's Office are working to bring his killers to justice.

I join with the chairman of the Oversight Committee, Chairman ISSA, in urging that the House adopt H.R. 2668, the Brian A. Terry Memorial Act, which recognizes Agent Terry's life and service and names in his honor a Border Patrol station in Bisbee, Arizona.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DENHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 10 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA).

Mr. ISSA. The ranking member said a great deal of what I was going to say and he said it well. Brian Terry was, in fact, a special human being who dedicated his life to public service, first in the United States Marine Corps, then in local law enforcement, then at the Border Patrol. His only ambition was to be a Federal law enforcement servant.

He left behind a family asking a great many questions because just 10 days before Christmas a year ago, he was gunned down. In fact, we still don't have all of the answers. The ranking member, Mr. CUMMINGS, and I continue to look for those answers. We learned only last week that there is an indictment in connection with his killing. We look forward to the Terry family having full and complete resolution of all the details around his death.

But for all the ambiguity that often happens in the heat of a battle that happens in law enforcement, there's no question about who Brian Terry was, what a special human being he was and why for only the second time in Border Patrol history will a facility be named for one of their fallen heroes. It was decades after the last fallen heroes before a facility not even envisioned at the time was named for them.

In this case we believe this is appropriate to do now. This was some one who knew the risk, and he went willingly into the highest risk down on our border. Here in Congress we often have a lively debate about the border and border enforcement. Brian Terry didn't debate border enforcement. He knew his job was to see that no one got past the border that wasn't supposed to.

Whether it was human traffickers, whether it was drug smugglers, whether they had high-powered rifles, or they were simply crossing the border illegally, he knew his job was to see that our borders were respected, and he did so out of a sense of duty and patriotism.

This act is hugely bipartisan at a time in which Congress is not so bipartisan. It is so because we know that the men and women of the Border Patrol, the men and women who support and protect one of the most basic aspects of national sovereignty, do so without looking at politics. They don't make the laws. They don't decide who gets to come to our country or not. They enforce them, and they enforce them in a way that we all can respect.

Our committee has an obligation to look into and to get the details of the unnecessary loss of his life. But I want to thank today Chairman MICA and Mr. DENHAM and certainly Ranking Member RAHALL for moving this historic piece of legislation, one that brings an honor only once before ever given to a Border Patrol and Customs agent, to this one at the very facility where, if he were still alive, he would have returned after that Christmas back home in Michigan to his friends, his colleagues, the people whose flank he protected. He didn't get that opportunity to go home for Christmas. He didn't get to serve out his years with his friends and colleagues; and for that the family has our undying gratitude for his sacrifice and our apologies and our condolences for the loss.

Today, we're doing one of the few things we can do, and that is to honor on the House floor a fallen hero, a man who didn't fall in Iraq, but did fall on the Arizona border.

With that, I want to thank Mr. DENHAM for bringing this here in a timely fashion. I want to thank the Speaker for ensuring that this becomes law.

Mr. CUMMINGS. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we have no further speakers.

I will say that it is so important that we pause for a moment to honor people like Officer Terry.

So often our officers, various officers throughout the Federal system, go out expecting to come home to their families and unfortunately do not come home. It is so very, very sad. We spent quite a bit of time, Mr. ISSA and I, talking to the family and trying to console them. But I think the thing they want more than anything else right now is answers. I again join him in a bipartisan way with our entire committee to find those answers because I think it is so very, very important. As I've said many times, I shall not rest until we do find those answers.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I urge all of our Members to vote for this historic piece of legislation, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DENHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. DENHAM) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2668.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

If the Secretary exercises the cost recovery authority described in this subsection, the Secretary shall prescribe a fee structure and assessment methodology that is based on the costs of providing these reviews and shall prescribe procedures to collect fees under this subsection. The Secretary shall not collect design safety review fees under this chapter and section 60301 for the same design safety review.

“(B) PROJECTS TO WHICH APPLICABLE.—Subparagraph (A) applies to any project that—“(i) has design and construction costs totaling at least $3,400,000,000, as adjusted for inflation, based on a good faith estimate developed by the person proposing the project; or “(ii) uses new or novel technologies or design.

“(2) NOTIFICATION.—For any new pipeline facility construction project for which the Secretary will conduct design reviews, the person proposing the project shall notify the Secretary and provide the design specifications, construction plans and procedures, and related materials at least 120 days prior to the commencement of construction. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous materials on H.R. 2845.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

This important legislation improves safety, enhances reliability, and provides the regulatory certainty necessary to create jobs.

I am very proud of the work that has gone into this bill, both across the aisle and between the committees. This legislation represents a bipartisan and bicameral agreement reached by the House Transportation Committee, the House Energy and Commerce Committee, and the Senate Commerce, Science, and Transportation Committee. I am also proud this legislation is supported by both the pipeline industry and key safety advocates.

The United States has the largest network of energy pipelines in the world, and pipelines are the energy lifelines that power nearly all of our daily activities. The hallmark of America's 2.5 million-mile pipeline network continues to be that it delivers extraordinary volumes of product reliably, safely, efficiently, and economically. Pipelines are the safest and the most cost-effective means to transport the natural gas and hazardous liquid products that fuel our economy. Since 1986, the volume of energy products transported through pipelines has increased by one-third, yet the number of reportable incidents has decreased by 28 percent. While the data show that Federal pipeline safety programs have been on the right track, recent pipeline incidents suggest there continues to be room for improvement.

H.R. 2845 builds on our strong commitment to the improved safety and enhanced reliability of the transportation of our Nation's energy products by pipeline.

Specifically, the legislation reauthorizes the Federal pipeline safety programs of the Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration through FY 2015. It improves pipeline transportation by strengthening the enforcement of our current laws and by filling gaps in existing laws where necessary. It provides the regulatory certainty necessary for pipeline owners and operators to plan infrastructure investments and create jobs. It ensures a sensible and practical regulatory approach to improving safety that applies cost-benefit principles. It protects and preserves congressional authority, keeping regulators on a tight leash by ensuring certain key rulemakings are not finalized until Congress has an opportunity to act. It addresses National Transportation Safety Board recommendations resulting from recent pipeline incidents with balanced and reasonable responses, including addressing the incidents in California, Michigan, Montana, and Pennsylvania.

There are a few key priority issues I want to highlight in this legislation.

During my time in Congress, I've been disappointed to see the executive branch and unelected bureaucrats attempt to take more and more control and decisionmaking authority from Congress. These actions harm Congress as an institution and make our government further and further removed from the American people.

In this bill, when we call for substantial changes to the Federal pipeline safety program, we ask the administration to consider specific factors, take into account costs and benefits, and provide Congress with recommendations on how the programs should be changed. Congress will then have an opportunity to act on those recommendations before key rulemakings are finalized. This approach preserves congressional authority and will keep regulators from overreaching.

Another issue I've highlighted on the floor in the past is damage prevention, which is the leading cause of pipeline incidents. Our legislation improves pipeline damage prevention and cracks down on third-party pipeline damage by eliminating unnecessary exemptions.

At this time I would also like to urge everybody to call before you dig and to dial 8-1-1, which is an extremely important part of this program in preventing third-party damage in this country.

In field hearings leading up to the drafting of this legislation, my colleague from Pennsylvania, JIM GERLACH, suggested ways in which we could use State and local government personnel as force multipliers to supplement Federal pipeline safety inspectors. We have built on this idea. In this bill, we have included a provision that will allow PHMSA to provide training to State and local government personnel and to potentially establish regional training centers paid for by the pipeline industry at no cost to the Federal Government.

There is great interest in this unique and permissive approach in my home State of Pennsylvania, and I will closely be following the implementation of these provisions.

I was deeply disappointed that language I had included in our committee's version of this legislation regarding pipeline permitting issues was not included in the final bill. We have big issues with the Army Corps of Engineers in Pennsylvania in the permitting of pipes. The Corps is encroaching on the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, and it has led to significant increases in permitting timelines for projects with limited environmental impacts. My colleague from West Virginia, Mr. RAHALL, has experienced similar issues in his home State, all related to the Marcellus shale gas. In the interest of compromise and of moving this legislation forward, I was willing to withdraw my language and settle on a study on this critical issue, but I will continue to monitor this issue closely in Pennsylvania and across the United States.

I am proud of this bill and of the hard work that Chairman MICA, Ranking Member RAHALL, Subcommittee Ranking Member BROWN, and the staffs have put in on both sides of the aisle. I would especially like to point out Jim Tymon and Steve Martinko, who have logged countless hours in helping to move this bill forward. I also want to thank the Energy and Commerce Committee, Chairman FRED UPTON and Ranking Member WAXMAN, and their staffs for their efforts.

Our legislation makes a strong program even stronger by keeping in place regulatory measures that are working and by making adjustments to those that don't. I would urge all of my colleagues to support this important legislation that increases safety and creates jobs.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON SCIENCE, SPACE, AND TECHNOLOGY,

Washington, DC, November 22, 2011.

Hon. JOHN L. MICA,

Chairman, Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN MICA: I am writing to you concerning the jurisdictional interest of the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology in H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011. The bill contains provisions that fall within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, including those amending Section 12 of the Pipeline Safety Improvement Act of 2002 (49 U.S.C. 60101 Note; Public Law 107-355).

I recognize and appreciate your desire to bring this legislation before the House of Representatives in an expeditious manner, and accordingly, I will waive further consideration of this bill in Committee. This, of course, being conditional on our mutual understanding that language negotiated with the Science, Space, and Technology Committee will be included in this or similar legislation considered on the House floor. However, agreeing to waive consideration of this bill should not be construed as waiving, reducing, or affecting the jurisdiction of the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology.

Additionally, the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology expressly reserves its authority to seek conferees on any provision within its jurisdiction during any House-Senate conference that may be convened on this, or any similar legislation. I ask for your commitment to support any request by the Committee for conferees on H.R. 2845 as well as any similar or related legislation.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank you for the positive outcome of the negotiation between our Committees resulting in provisions that seek to ensure a continued positive role for the National Institute of Standards and Technology in the area of pipeline transportation research and development.

I ask that a copy of this letter and your response be included in the report on H.R. 2845 and also be placed in the Congressional Record during consideration of this bill on the House floor.

I look forward to working with you on matters of mutual concern.

Sincerely,

RALPH M. HALL,
Chairman,
Committee on Science, Space, and Technology.

Enclosure.

Technology, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you for your letter regarding H.R. 2845, the "Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011." The Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure recognizes the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology has a jurisdictional interest H.R. 2845, and I appreciate your effort to facilitate consideration of this bill.

I concur with you that forgoing action on this bill does not in any way prejudice the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology with respect to its jurisdictional prerogatives on this bill or similar legislation in the future, and I would support your effort to seek appointment of an appropriate number of conferees to any House-Senate conference involving this legislation.

I will include our letters H.R. 2845 in the Congressional Record during House Floor consideration of the bill. Again, I appreciate your cooperation regarding this legislation and I look forward to working with the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology as the bill moves through the legislative process.

Sincerely,

JOHN L. MICA,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COM-MITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE,

Washington, DC, June 24, 2011.

Hon. FRED UPTON,
Chairman, Committee on Energy and Commerce,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN UPTON: I write concerning H.R. 1938, the North American-Made Energy Security Act, which is expected to be scheduled for floor consideration the week of July 25, 2011.

As you know, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure was listed as the Committee of primary jurisdiction when H.R. 1938 was introduced on May 23, 2011. I recognize and appreciate your desire to bring this legislation before the House of Representatives in an expeditious manner, and accordingly, the Committee will forgo action on the bill.

The Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure takes this action with our mutual understanding that by foregoing consideration of H.R. 1938 at this time, we do not waive any jurisdiction over subject matter contained in this or similar legislation. Further, I request your support in the appointment of conferees from the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure during any House-Senate conference convened on this legislation.

As you are aware, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure is the Committee of primary jurisdiction on any legislation to reauthorize federal pipeline safety programs. As such, our agreement to forego consideration of H.R. 1938 is also conditional on our mutual understanding that the Committee on Energy and Commerce will not take any Full Committee action on legislation related to the reauthorizing of the federal pipeline safety programs until the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure has acted on such legislation.

I would appreciate your response to this letter, confirming this understanding, and would ask that a copy of our exchange of letters on this matter be included in the Congressional Record during Floor consideration.

Sincerely,

JOHN L. MICA,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON ENERGY AND COMMERCE,
Washington, DC, June 18, 2011.

Hon. JOHN L. MICA,
Chairman, Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN MICA: Thank you for your letter regarding H.R. 1938, the North American-Made Energy Security Act. The Committee on Energy and Commerce recognizes that the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure has primary jurisdiction over H.R. 1938, and I appreciate your effort to facilitate consideration of this bill.

I concur with you that foregoing action on H.R. 1938 does not in any way prejudice the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure with respect to its jurisdictional prerogatives on this bill or similar legislation in the future, and I will support your effort to seek appointment of an appropriate number of conferees to any House-Senate conference involving this or related legislation.

I also concur with you that the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure is the Committee of primary jurisdiction on legislation to reauthorize the federal pipeline safety programs and agree to not take action before September 20, 2011 at full committee on such legislation, allowing the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure to take action on such legislation.

I appreciate your cooperation regarding this legislation and I will include our letters on H.R. 1938 in the Congressional Record during House floor consideration of the bill.

Sincerely,

FRED UPTON,
Chairman.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise today in support of H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011.

Pipelines have a critical place in our Nation's infrastructure. The national pipeline network of over 2.5 million miles efficiently delivers gasoline, natural gas, oil, and other essential energy products across the country each day. Pipelines play a vital role in our daily lives. Cooking and cleaning, the daily commute, air travel, and the heating of homes and businesses are all made possible by the readily available fuels delivered through pipelines daily. However, because of the volatile nature of the products they deliver, incidents involving gas and hazardous liquid pipeline can and have had serious consequences.

On June 10, 1999, a pipeline explosion caused the release of about 237,000 gallons of gasoline into a creek that flowed through Whatcom Falls Park in Bellingham, Washington, in my district. The gasoline ignited and tragically took the lives of two 10-year-old boys and an 18-year-old young man. Eight additional inhalation injuries occurred in a single-family residence, and the city of Bellingham's water treatment plant was severely damaged. The wildlife in Whatcom Creek was completely destroyed.

This tragedy inspired the 2002 Pipeline Safety Improvement Act. This act increased fines for negligent pipeline operators, improved pipeline testing timelines, provided protection for whistleblowers, and allowed for the State oversight of pipeline safety. In 2006, Congress reauthorized the 2002 law by passing the Pipeline Inspection, Protection, Enforcement, and Safety Act. These acts of Congress have made pipeline safety laws stronger, the construction of new pipelines better, and our existing infrastructure safer. While significant progress has been made in improving the safety of our Nation's pipelines, we must remain vigilant.

In July 2010, a 30-inch pipeline owned by Enbridge Energy Partners ruptured and released 819,000 gallons of oil into the Talmadge Creek, located near Marshall, Michigan. The oil flowed into the Kalamazoo River, a tributary to Lake Michigan. Heavy rains caused the river to overtop existing dams and carried oil 30 miles downstream on the Kalamazoo River toward a Superfund site. Almost a year and a half later, Enbridge is still cleaning up this spill along the riverbanks.

Just a few months after the Enbridge spill, in September 2010, an intrastate natural gas transmission pipeline owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Company ruptured in a residential area in San Bruno, California. The released natural gas ignited, resulting in a fire that destroyed 38 homes and damaged 70 others. As well, tragically, eight people were killed, many were injured, and many more were evacuated.

The legislation that we are considering today addresses many concerns that were raised as a result of these and other incidents. For example, following the incident in Bellingham, Washington, National Transportation Safety Board investigators found, among other things, that Olympic Pipeline had no remote-operated shut-off valves on the line, which could have helped prevent the release of hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline. Following the Bellingham incident, the Department of Transportation ordered the pipeline company to install an automatic shutoff valve just downstream of the rupture location so that the volume of product released would be limited in the event of a future pipeline rupture in that area.

H.R. 2845 addresses the issue of shut-off valves. It requires all gas and liquid pipeline operators to install automatic, remote-controlled shutoff valves on new and replaced pipelines.

The bill also doubles civil penalties for pipeline safety violations from $100,000 to $200,000 per violation and from $1 million to $2 million for maximum penalties.

It requires the Secretary of the Department of Transportation to evaluate and then issue regulations to expand integrity management beyond high-consequence areas, to establish performance standards for leak detection systems and require hazardous liquid pipeline operators to install leak protection systems that meet such performance standards.

It requires pipeline operators, in response to San Bruno, to report to DOT anytime their facilities exceed maximum allowable operating pressure and to conduct tests to confirm the material strength of previously untested gas transmission pipelines in high-consequence areas. And finally, it increases the level of pipeline safety inspectors at DOT by 10 and increases the amount of technical assistance grants that are awarded to local communities from $1 million to $1.5 million annually.

H.R. 2845 is a step in the right direction when it comes to pipeline safety. This bill is supported by industry, and it is supported by pipeline safety and community groups like the Pipeline Safety Trust.

I want to thank the chairman and all the committee members for working on this legislation. I want to thank Carl Weimer, who is the executive director of the Pipeline Safety Trust in Bellingham, which formed after the 1999 pipeline explosion, as well for his continued commitment to these issues.

I strongly urge Members to support this bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to gentleman from Michigan (Mr. UPTON), the distinguished chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Mr. UPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the amendment to H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011.

Enacting pipeline safety this year has been a personal priority of mine and a top priority of the entire Energy and Commerce Committee on a very strong bipartisan basis. This legislation is the product of collaboration between our committee, Energy and Commerce members, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, and the Senate Committee on Commerce; and it reflects consensus across party lines.

With it, we make great strides to ensure our Nation's energy supplies are transported in as safe a manner as possible. Over the last couple of years, several major pipeline accidents have occurred across the country that revealed specific gaps in pipeline safety laws and regulations. It is our duty in Congress to look at these events and determine what we can do to better protect the public and the environment.

Among these accidents was a 20,000-barrel oil pipeline spill in a tributary of the Kalamazoo River, just outside of my district. The spill forced dozens of families out of their homes—in many cases, permanently—and caused extensive environmental damage to a waterway many residents enjoyed for fishing and canoeing.

Unfortunately, this is not the only major accident in recent memory. The September 2010 gas pipeline explosion in San Bruno, California, killed eight people and destroyed 37 homes. Another gas line explosion last year in Allentown, Pennsylvania, killed five people as well. And this summer, an oil pipeline buried underneath the iconic Yellowstone River in Wyoming ruptured and sent over 1,000 barrels of crude oil downstream.

These incidents highlighted, certainly, shortcomings in our Nation's pipeline safety laws, and today we are here to correct that.

The legislation before us today offers historic improvements to the manner in which the Federal Government regulates energy pipelines. It accomplishes this by strengthening standards in several areas, while maintaining the continued economical delivery of vital energy supplies. For these reasons, this bill enjoys the support of a broad array of stakeholders, from the Pipeline Safety Trust to the American Gas Association, the Interstate Natural Gas Association of America, the Gas Processors Association, and the Association of Oil Pipe Lines.

The bill is several months in the making and could not have been accomplished without the hard work and dedication of a bipartisan group of Members. This is a topic many of us take very seriously, as it affected us and our constituents on a personal level. And today we can say party affiliation and politics have taken a back seat to accomplishing the people's work, and for that, I must offer my heartfelt thanks.

Congratulations to the chairman emeritus of the Energy and Commerce Committee who is on the floor tonight, JOHN DINGELL; the ranking member of the committee who is, again, on the House floor, HENRY WAXMAN; the chairman of the Transportation Committee, JOHN MICA; and the chairman of the Subcommittee on Railroads, Pipelines, and Hazardous Materials, BILL SHUSTER.

I urge all Members to support this legislation.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. WAXMAN).

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, during the last year and a half, a series of tragic failures have made it clear that we need stronger pipeline safety laws. Pipeline failures have occurred all across the country. From California and Montana to Michigan and Pennsylvania, we've seen natural gas pipeline explosions and ruptured oil pipelines spilling oil into rivers.

In July 2010, a crude oil pipeline ruptured near Marshall, Michigan. Over 800,000 gallons of oil spilled into the Talmadge Creek and then flowed into the Kalamazoo River. The river is still being cleaned up.

In September 2010, a natural gas pipeline ruptured and exploded in San Bruno, California. Eight people died; many more were injured. The gas-fed inferno spread from house to house, driven by the wind. Thirty-eight homes were destroyed and 70 more were damaged. The explosion left behind a suburban street with a massive crater and burned-out vehicles. The vice chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board described it as "an amazing scene of destruction."

This past summer, an ExxonMobil pipeline ruptured in Montana, spilling crude oil into the Yellowstone River.

Unfortunately, those are just a few of the major accidents we have seen during the past 18 months. This bill will update and strengthen our pipeline safety laws in the aftermath of these tragedies.

In response to the Michigan spill, this bill requires pipeline operators to notify the safety agency of spills more quickly and establishes a process for leak detection standards to be issued for oil pipelines.

In response to the San Bruno tragedy, this bill requires key natural gas pipelines to have their maximum safe operating pressure confirmed through records or testing. It also instructs the safety agency to require the use of automatic or remote-controlled shutoff valves so that it doesn't take an hour and a half to stop the flow of gas like it did in San Bruno.

I want to acknowledge the work of my colleague from California, Representative JACKIE SPEIER, who fought for a strong response to San Bruno, and this bill has been made a better bill by her contributions.

In light of the Yellowstone River spill, the bill requires the agency to review its regulations governing the safety of pipelines buried under rivers to ensure they are adequate. The bill includes a number of additional improvements to strengthen our pipeline safety laws.

This is a good bipartisan bill that has the support of both industry and safety advocates. The Energy and Commerce Committee and the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee have worked hard to develop a combined bill that would have broad support.

I would like to thank Chairmen UPTON, MICA, and SHUSTER, as well as Mr. DINGELL, Mr. RUSH, Mr. RAHALL, and Ms. BROWN, for their work on this legislation. I encourage all of my colleagues to support this bipartisan legislation.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to just note in the legislation, section 6 of H.R. 2845 includes a requirement that the Secretary of Transportation provide a person, upon written request, a copy of a pipeline company's response plan.

I think it's important to note and point out to my colleagues that these plans often contain security-sensitive information about pipelines' operating characteristics. If this information fell into the wrong hands, it could be a real threat to public safety. In recognition of this threat, we've included a provision that directs the Secretary to redact security-sensitive information.

It is my hope that the Secretary ensures that no security-sensitive information is released to the public; and the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee will aggressively oversee the implementation of this provision to ensure that it is being implemented according to congressional intent.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. DINGELL), the dean of the House and chairman emeritus of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Mr. DINGELL. I thank my good friend for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2845. This is a bipartisan bill, somewhat a rarity, and the more welcome for that reason. It's going to help instill public confidence in our Nation's pipeline safety system by increasing safety standards without overly burdensome actions towards industry.

The legislation shows that bipartisanship is possible in this Congress, and that we can conduct the business of the American people if we will but sit down and work together. I first want to thank Chairman UPTON and Ranking Member WAXMAN and my friend, Mr. LARSEN of Washington, for their hard work. I also want to recognize and thank Jeff Baran and Garrett Golding of the committee staff for their hard work, as well as Greg Sundstrom of my personal staff, who worked with great diligence and skill on this matter. Chairman MICA, Chairman SHUSTER, Ranking Member RAHALL, and Mr. RUSH also deserve recognition for their hard work as the two committees have worked harmoniously together to forge an agreement on the final product we have before us today.

The inclusive process used in this case is an excellent model of how Congress should move forward on a host of other issues, and I hope that the instructive character of it is accepted by my colleagues. Recent accidents in California, Pennsylvania, Montana, and my home State of Michigan each highlighted serious deficiencies in our pipeline safety laws. H.R. 2845 incorporates the lessons learned in these incidents and strengthens laws in the areas of concern.

Specifically, the bill expands the integrity management program to improve inspections while phasing out our class location requirements, thereby putting stronger safety standards in place while taking steps to remove redundant regulations.

The leak detection, automatic or remote-controlled shut-off valve, and maximum allowable operating pressure provisions are a step in the right direction and will do much to improve safety. Pipeline safety is not a partisan issue but, rather, is something that impacts all Americans. We have an obligation to protect the American people and the environment from harm while maintaining a system that transports our energy resources efficiently.

It is my hope that the Senate will take up this legislation promptly and that the Obama administration will implement these changes in a meaningful way. We will all be watching to make sure that this happens.

Together, we have come up with a sound piece of legislation which has the support of both industry and safety advocates, and I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

I would also like to observe, when one of these things lets go, it's quite an event. You will see something that looks a little bit like hell with the fire and flame and explosion and blasts and dead people and scorched automobiles, homes and the environment. I am delighted to see that we are doing this because we are protecting us both from gas and oil spills, and the evil consequences of that.

Mr. SHUSTER. I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. RUSH).

Mr. RUSH. I thank the gentleman, Mr. LARSEN from Washington State, for recognizing me and sharing the time with me. I am here to express my full support for this bill, H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011.

Mr. Speaker, this bill represents a bipartisan effort and a good-faith compromise by Members from both sides of the aisle, from multiple committees, and of course across both Chambers of Congress.

During negotiations on the final bill language, I was very fortunate to have Administrator Cynthia Quarterman of the Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Agency accept my invitation to come out to my State and to discuss pipeline safety with representatives from the Illinois Commerce Commission, as well as with officials from Will County, which accounts for a larger percentage of pipelines than any other county in my home State.

Mr. Speaker, many of the same serious issues regarding pipeline safety that were discussed in these meetings are addressed in this piece of legislation. I am very pleased with the final product.

Mr. Speaker, I also would like to thank Members from both sides of the aisle, chairman emeritus of the full committee and dean of the House, JOHN DINGELL; Energy and Commerce Chairman UPTON; and Ranking Member WAXMAN, as well as Energy and Power Subcommittee Chairman WHITFIELD, for working with my office to include language that will require a comprehensive report examining the levels of engagement and participation of minority-owned, women-owned and disadvantaged business enterprises and contractors involved in the construction and the operations of pipelines in this country.

Additionally, this report will look at the methods for facilitating this type of involvement in order to increase the participation of minorities and women in the very lucrative pipeline industry. This study will be a first step in a process to make sure that the builders and contractors in charge of rebuilding America's aging and expanding pipeline system will represent the variety of groups and businesses that are here in our Nation, including those who are most desperate for jobs and economic opportunity.

I'm pleased to support this legislation, and I urge all of my colleagues to join with me in voting for it.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 8 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA), the distinguished chairman of the Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee.

Mr. MICA. I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania for his leadership in helping to guide this legislation and important measure through Congress. I want to take this opportunity to thank folks on both sides of the aisle: Mr. UPTON, who chairs the Energy and Commerce Committee; I particularly want to thank Ms. BROWN, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. WAXMAN; and of course others who have helped on the Senate side.

This legislation is being done really the way Congress is intended to work, to try to reach a bicameral, bipartisan consensus. We don't have to go to conference. We have worked out some of the issues, and this is not an easy piece of legislation to pass. This is a very important piece of legislation for the American people as far as our energy resources and transporting them safely across the land, as far as an industry that is so important to creating jobs and opportunity and keeping the cost of energy down for men and women, consumers and people hit by difficult times right now, looking for reasonable energy costs and keeping the U.S. competitive and providing reasonably costed energy and transporting it safely.

This is probably one of the four main jobs bills, too, that we will pass from our committee. We have today the pipeline safety legislation. Our committee has also passed the Coast Guard authorization, and we are hoping we can reach a consensus on that. We have finished and are preconferring with the Senate the FAA bill which is 4½ years overdue. We inherited that 4 years late, and we are basically finished. There are a few items that must be resolved by leadership. Then, finally, time did not allow us to finish a major transportation bill, sometimes referred to as the highway bill, but this will be more than a highway bill. We plan to have that up as soon as we return.

So those are our four major pieces of legislation, and this represents, again, a concerted effort by a number of key players in dual committees and in both the House and the Senate.

What's important about this legislation is it does make some changes, and you have heard from Members who have had horrendous pipeline incidents in their communities and their States, people have lost their lives, there's been extreme property damage, and we have also impacted in a negative fashion the environment.

And what we do here in this legislation are some simple things. First, we enhance the inspections. We set standards of better inspections for pipelines. We hold pipeline operators accountable, and that's important. People must be responsible for their actions, and we double the fines if there is negligence. There will be a penalty to pay because the damage has been incurred. And, again, we have seen some of the bad results. What we hope for is good results from this, again, that we can keep energy flowing and provide it for consumers.

That's good news for consumers, that's good news for the industry at a time when we should be hiring and employing people in this important energy activity, and it's good news for, again, safe transport and safe jobs in an important industry in our country.

So I'm pleased that we've come together. We have, I think, achieved and set an example for the Congress when Congress's reputation is, oh, very low, and that's giving us high marks. And when people express their disappointment in the inability of Congress to act, we are acting. Because this is being resolved without conflict and without, again, huge disruption in the congressional process, it probably won't get much attention. But it is in fact, and it is indeed a very important step forward.

I'm grateful for all of those who have come together and worked and made this an example of how Congress can and should work for the benefit of the American people.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SPEIER).

Ms. SPEIER. I thank the gentleman from Washington State for yielding me time.

Fifteen months ago, in my district, a gas pipeline exploded and killed eight of my constituents. Thirty-eight homes were destroyed, many more were severely damaged, and many were victims that sat in burn centers for months; and I visited them. It was a horrific scene. It destroyed that community in so many respects; and yet like a phoenix, it has risen above it. This bill is really very personal to me because I lived with those experiences with all of those constituents.

There are a couple of things that must be said today. The chairwoman of the NTSB, the National Transportation Safety Board, said in their final report: Our investigation revealed that for years, the operator exploited weaknesses in a lax system of oversight. We also identified regulators that placed a blind trust in the companies that they were charged with overseeing to the detriment of public safety.

As a result of their report, they made 30 safety recommendations, many of them identified as urgent, to address issues in recordkeeping, information sharing, and pipeline testing. The NTSB report said it highlighted the fact that the problem has been under-regulation, not over-regulation, of the pipeline industry. For too long the pipeline operators have essentially written the rules for their industry.

Well, this bill takes a very important step forward in improving pipeline safety regulation, and I endorse it; but there is more that must be done. And ironically, now in California, because of this horrific accident, the residents in California will have better safeguards than any other State in this country because of actions taken by the State legislature and the California Public Utilities Commission that will require, moving forward, that automatic and remote shutoff valves be placed in high-consequence areas and in seismic areas, not just on new pipeline and not just on new pipeline that they find economically feasible to place these automatic and remote shutoff valves. This is a key component that was not included in the legislation.

And I must tell you, when you saw that ball of fire raging for 90 minutes, an hour and a half, before they were able to turn off the gas, that is something that has to be addressed on a national basis. It's been addressed now in California; and I urge us, as we move forward, to address it on a national level, as well.

The NTSB also recommended requiring all pipelines be configured to allow for inline inspection tools called "smart pigs." I didn't know what a smart pig was before this happened, but I do now. They are also recommending requiring that older pipeline, in particular, be subject to smart pigging. This is critical to make sure that they have not endured corrosion, that they have not been spiked and the like.

So moving forward I hope that we will take the steps necessary not just to support this measure and to have it signed into law but to make it clear that our work is still not done.

Mr. SHUSTER. I have no further speakers; so I will continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, in closing, just let me say a few words.

First off, I want to be sure I thank Ms. BROWN of Florida, the ranking member of the subcommittee, as well as Mr. RAHALL, the ranking member of the full Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, as well as my colleagues on the majority side of the aisle on the committee, and, of course, on the Energy and Commerce Committee for the work that we all did to make this bill happen.

This is the third version of the pipeline safety bill that I personally have worked on going back to 2001. Each time Congress has reauthorized the pipeline safety bill, we have done so by learning lessons from the previous 4 years, incorporating those lessons into the legislation and taking forward steps to make the use of pipelines and the transportation of liquid fuel and gas safer.

The third thing I just want to point out is that each year—2002, 2006 and 2011—each year of the passage of the pipeline safety bill, the bills have been bipartisan and garnered much support both in the House and in the Senate. We are likely to see that in the House, and I certainly urge the Senate to take this bill up this week and pass it with bipartisan support, as well.

Finally, let me just say to this body that I would urge this body to support this bill and to pass H.R. 2845. I want to thank Mr. SHUSTER for his cooperation in this effort as well.

With that, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I want to associate myself with the words of the gentleman from Washington. He is really one of the experts in Congress when it comes to pipeline safety, and it has been my pleasure to work with him on this bill.

As I said earlier, I'm very, very proud of the work that's gone into this bill on both sides of the aisle. This truly is a bipartisan agreement and a bicameral agreement, and I think we can all be proud of the product we've produced and look forward to it being passed into law, because pipelines are the safest way to move the gas and the hazardous products that this Nation needs to fuel the economy. And this important legislation does improve safety. It enhances the reliability and provides the regulatory certainty so that the owners and operators of pipelines will make the investments in their systems that will create jobs across America.

So I urge all my colleagues to support H.R. 2845; and with that, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011.

This legislation, which enjoys broad bipartisan support in both Chambers of Congress, seeks to improve the safety of our nation's pipeline infrastructure, an issue that is important to all Americans.

I want to call attention to the pipeline safety research and development portions of this bill—specifically a small but important inter-agency program that I worked on in my capacity as longstanding Member of and current Chairman of the House Science, Space, and Technology Committee.

Focused R&D aimed at accident prevention and protecting the integrity of our pipeline infrastructure is critical to ensuring that our nation's energy supplies are transported safely.

As an original co-sponsor of the 2002 pipeline safety legislation, I led efforts to establish the existing R&D program. This program has been productive and efficient in carrying out pipeline safety R&D. In particular, the public-private partnership model that the Department of Transportation uses to administer the program has served to leverage both Federal agency and private sector resources and expertise.

I want to thank my colleagues for working with me on this legislation to make modest—but important—changes to the current program.

In particular, I want to thank Chairman MICA for working with me to ensure that the program maintains its historical public-private cost-sharing structure, and recognizes the important contributions of the National Institute of Standards and Technology in pipeline safety research, development, and standards.

With respect to cost-sharing, I was particularly concerned with a recent decision by the Secretary of Transportation that sought to eliminate non-Federal sources of funding toward pipeline safety R&D.

This decision threatened to undermine the program's ability to leverage taxpayer dollars to advance new pipeline safety technologies, and in doing so would have also prevented the government from taking advantage of the highly specialized pipeline expertise that is found only in industry.

I am pleased that H.R. 2845 requires a thirty percent, program-wide, cost share from non-Federal sources, which will help ensure that this program continues to achieve its purpose without placing an unnecessary burden on the taxpayer.

I thank my colleagues again for their efforts and urge passage of this valuable legislation.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2845, the "Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011".

This legislation will make significant improvements to pipeline safety, and is a prime example of how good public policy is formed when all sides come together and work toward producing a strong package from day one.

Pipelines have a critical place in our nation's infrastructure; more than 2.5 million miles of pipelines deliver energy to homes and businesses across America. From the gasoline that fills the cars we drive to the diesel that fuels the trucks that deliver food to local grocery stores to the natural gas that heats our homes, pipelines make it possible.

Unfortunately, due to the volatile nature of the products that pipelines deliver, incidents involving gas and hazardous liquid pipelines can and have had disastrous consequences.

On July 26, 2010, a 30-inch pipeline owned by Enbridge Energy Partners LLP ruptured and released more than one million gallons of oil into Talmadge Creek and the Kalamazoo River just one mile south of Marshall, Michigan. The Kalamazoo River flows into Lake Michigan. The spill devastated the local environment and wildlife, uprooted homeowners that live near the creek and river, and exposed local communities to noxious and toxic substances before Enbridge even raised alarm. Nearly a year and one-half later, Enbridge is still excavating oil-contaminated soil and weathered oil from the river banks; submerged oil recovery work has been suspended for the winter but will resume in 2012.

A little over a month after the Enbridge spill, on September 9, 2010, an intrastate natural gas transmission pipeline owned by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, ruptured in a residential area in San Bruno, California. The released natural gas ignited, resulting in a fire that destroyed 38 homes and damaged 70 others. Eight people were killed, many were injured, and many more were evacuated from the area.

The bill before us today addresses many of the recommendations that were issued by the National Transportation Safety Board in accident reports that followed these and other pipeline incidents. For example, the bill holds pipeline operators accountable to a maximum of one hour to report a release of hazardous liquid or gas resulting in an incident. As the natural gas disaster in San Bruno, California underscores—every minute that passes following a release of hazardous liquid or gas from a pipeline is one less minute that responders have to protect the community and the surrounding environment. In fact, CNN was reporting the incident six hours before PG&E reported it to the National Response Center and Federal investigators.

Additionally, the bill raises civil penalties for each pipeline safety violation from $100,000 to $200,000 and the maximum civil penalty from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. The maximum penalties for violations of pipeline safety regulations under current law have not been increased in almost a decade. Adequate levels of penalties are necessary to deter unsafe operating practices by the pipeline industry, particularly in serious cases involving injuries, fatalities, and significant environmental damage. The bill further clarifies that civil penalties are applicable to obstruction of an investigation.

The bill also:

Requires pipeline operators to install automatic shut-off valves on all new and replaced pipeline so that the volume of product released as a result of a rupture would be limited;

Requires the Secretary of Transportation to evaluate and then issue regulations to expand integrity management beyond high-consequence areas; establish performance standards for leak detection systems; and require hazardous liquid pipeline operators to install leak detection systems that meet those performance standards;

Requires pipeline operators, in response to the San Bruno incident, to report to the Department of Transportation any time their facilities exceed maximum allowable operating pressure, and to conduct tests to confirm the material strength of previously untested gas transmission pipelines in high-consequence areas;

Prevents States that receive one-call grants from exempting municipalities, State agencies, or their contractors from one-call (damage prevention) notification requirements;

Requires the Secretary to ensure offshore hazardous liquid gathering lines and hazardous liquid gathering lines located within the inlets of the Gulf of Mexico are subject to the same safety standards and regulations as other hazardous liquid gathering lines;

Beginning one year after the date of enactment, prohibits the Secretary from issuing guidance or a regulation that incorporates by reference any documents or portions thereof unless those documents or portions thereof are made available to the public, free of charge, on an Internet Web site;

Requires the Department of Transportation, DOT, to develop and implement a protocol for consulting with Indian tribes to provide technical assistance for the regulation of pipelines; and Increases the level of pipeline safety inspectors at DOT.

In sum, H.R. 2845 is a step in the right direction when it comes to pipeline safety, and I urge its adoption.

Ms. BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my strong support for H.R. 2845, the Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty and Job Creation Act of 2011.

I want to thank Chairmen MICA and SHUSTER and Ranking Member RAHALL for their bipartisan effort in bringing a good bill to the Floor today that will truly improve the safety of our nation's pipeline systems and the communities they serve.

Bipartisan bills are not easy to come by these days in Washington, and I'm proud to say that we worked with both sides on the Energy & Commerce Committee and our counterparts in the Senate to develop a compromise bill. This legislation accomplishes our goal of improving safety and education without limiting the industry's ability to serve its customers.

Our Subcommittee held numerous hearings over the last two Congresses with all the stakeholders in the pipeline industry to see what we could be doing better to detect and prevent spills. Our strong oversight of PHMSA and the pipeline industry helped develop the bill we have on the floor today.

This legislation makes numerous positive changes to the regulation of the pipeline industry and addresses many of the problems we've discovered with recent devastating spills.

The Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty and Job Creation Act of 2011 makes major improvements to pipeline safety by increasing penalties for safety violations, mandating new shut-off valve installation for all new and repaired pipes, limiting exemptions to call before you dig requirements, updating the national pipeline mapping system, evaluating current integrity management plans, providing important pipeline information to the public free of charge, training state and local government personnel, adding ten PHMSA inspectors, and studying pipeline permitting, transporting non-hazardous liquids, and the integrity of cast iron gas pipelines.

As we continue to debate the construction of the Keystone XL Pipeline, implementation of this legislation will help ensure that the construction and operation of this new pipeline will be held to the highest safety standards.

This legislation is government at its best. It was developed in a bipartisan manner through comprehensive committee hearings and oversight, and close collaboration with the industry and other stakeholders, including states and advocacy groups.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHUSTER) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2845, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (during the vote). There are 2 minutes remaining.

□ 1927

So the motion to adjourn was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated against:

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, December 12, 2011, I was absent during rollcall vote No. 916. Had I been present, I would have voted "nay" on the motion to adjourn.

Mr. JOHNSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, December 12, 2011, I was unable to attend votes due to a previously scheduled appointment. Monday evening I held a listening event with concerned citizens in the town of Savoy. I could not, in good conscience, cancel on a group that had been on my schedule for several months.

Had I been present, my votes would have been as follows:

For H.R. 3320 and H.R. 2158, I would have voted "yea," Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder honorably served the United States and I am proud he can be remembered through the naming of this post office. Wayne Grisham was a steadfast public servant who shares my passion for civility in politics.

For Approval of the Journal, I would have voted "yea."

Democrat Motion to Adjourn, I would have voted "nay."

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Speaker, on December 12, 2011, I was unavoidably detained and missed rollcall votes numbered 913 through 916. For the record, had I been present, I would have voted as follows:

Rollcall 913—H.R. 3220, to designate the Master Sergeant Daniel L. Fedder Post Office—"aye"; rollcall 914—H.R. 2158, to designate the Wayne Grisham Post Office—"aye"; rollcall 915—Approval of the Journal—"aye"; rollcall 916—Motion to Adjourn—"nay."

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. FLEISCHMANN).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. FLEISCHMANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous materials on H.R. 1264.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Tennessee?

There was no objection.

Mr. FLEISCHMANN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 1264 would designate the property between the United States Courthouse and the Ed Jones Building located at 109 South Highland Avenue in Jackson, Tennessee, as the M.D. Anderson Plaza and authorize the placement of historical markers on the grounds recognizing the achievements and philanthropy of M.D. Anderson.

I want to thank the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. FINCHER) for introducing this legislation. Monroe Dunaway Anderson, also known as M.D. Anderson, was one of the United States' most successful agribusinessmen and philanthropists of the early 20th century.

M.D. Anderson was born in 1873 in Jackson, Tennessee. He attended college in Memphis and came back to his hometown to work at the Peoples National Bank. In 1904 M.D. Anderson, his older brother Frank Anderson, and a businessman named Will Clayton established a partnership to buy and sell cotton in Jackson, Tennessee. By 1945

Fortune magazine called their company the largest buyer, seller, storer, and shipper of raw cotton in the world. Outside of his cotton business, M.D. Anderson contributed to numerous philanthropic causes, especially that of medical research. In 1936 he established the M.D. Anderson Foundation, which funded cancer research and education at the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center, which grew into the Texas Medical Center in Houston, Texas, one of the largest medical complexes in the world.

I believe this legislation is appropriate in honoring M.D. Anderson's enduring legacy in his hometown as a successful American businessman and, more importantly, in honoring his contributions to vital medical research and philanthropy.

The subcommittee worked closely with the bill sponsor to make improvements to the legislation, which are reflected in the amendments to the bill. The amendments ensure the legislation is in line with the Commemorative Works Act by requiring that the design of the statue be approved by the General Services Administration prior to its installation.

I support the passage of this legislation, as amended, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 3 minutes or such time as I may consume, whichever comes first.

I rise in support of H.R. 1264, which designates the property between the United States courthouse and the Ed Jones Federal Building in Jackson, Tennessee, as the M.D. Anderson Plaza. Ed Jones was the Congressman who preceded Mr. FINCHER in that district, who preceded Mr. Tanner. He had the slogan, "Ed Jones—the heart of the district with the district at his heart." Quite a fine man. This bill also authorizes the placement of a historical marker and a statue on the grounds recognizing the achievements and the philanthropic good deeds of M.D. Anderson.

Born in 1873 in Jackson, Mr. Anderson, who was known as M.D. Anderson, was a successful businessman, farmer, and philanthropist. He went to college in Memphis—smart man he was to go to Memphis. It was then called Southern Baptist, but I believe it became Union, then Jackson, Tennessee. After he was in Memphis and had that opportunity, he moved back to Jackson and went to work in his family-owned business—a good choice. He went into the cotton business with his older brother, Frank, and with Frank's brothers-in-law, and they became the largest cotton company in the world, according to Fortune magazine in 1945.

In 1936 M.D. Anderson created a charitable foundation that bore his name and funded it with an initial investment of $300,000—a considerable amount of money at that time, not a bad amount of money today. After his death, the trustees of M.D. Anderson's estate directed an additional $19 million towards his foundation, which helped create M.D. Anderson's lasting legacy by providing seed funds for the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center, which is one of the world's leaders in cancer research and treatments.

Thankfully, people I know have had the opportunity to be treated there. It's a great clinic, and it's the best place to go if you've got cancer and have that opportunity to be treated by the world's greatest professionals there in Houston.

M.D. Anderson is considered to be the father of the institution, and because the charitable foundation matched the initial State funds for a Texas-based cancer research and treatment center, he is given that appellation. His charitable foundation has also funded and supported libraries and college buildings, including ones at Lambuth College in Jackson, now known as the Lambuth University of Memphis. It has funded planetariums also in the city of Jackson and in his adopted hometown of Houston, Texas.

Given his lasting and significant contributions to his community and, really, to the world, with the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center, which is the finest cancer clinic, I suspect, in the world, it's fitting that we honor his commitment by giving the plaza between the two Federal buildings his name. Some might question our taking the time of this Congress, on this floor, to do this when we have so many things going on, but this is the type of activity that will, hopefully, inspire others to use their good fortune and/or good works to help others who are in situations as dire as having cancer. M.D. Anderson did that.

So it's a commendable piece of legislation, and I'm happy that Mr. FINCHER brought to it the floor. I'm happy to support it, and I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 1264 in memorializing this gentleman.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FLEISCHMANN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. FINCHER).

Mr. FINCHER. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I thank my colleague from Tennessee (Mr. COHEN) for his support of this as well as my colleague from middle Tennessee for his support as well.

Mr. Speaker, my bill, H.R. 1264, will rename the plaza between the two Federal buildings in Jackson, Tennessee, located in the Eighth Congressional District, after Monroe Dunaway Anderson, a true hero to millions of people who have been diagnosed with cancer.

For those who don't know M.D. Anderson, he was born and raised in Jackson, Tennessee, during the late 19th century. In 1904, after completing college and spending a few years working as a banker in Memphis, M.D. Anderson joined a cotton trading venture started by his older brother, Frank Anderson, and Frank's brother-in-law Will Clayton.

Their corporation, Anderson, Clayton, and Company, flourished due to the rising demand for cotton during World War I. They eventually moved the business to Houston, Texas, to have better access to deepwater shipping. By the 1920s their operation had trading offices in Europe, Africa, and Asia. The company continued to succeed through the 1930s and 1940s, diversifying its capital into a marine insurance company, a barge line, cotton mills, an investment bank, machine works, and even a foods division. By 1950 Anderson, Clayton, and Company was a multimillion dollar corporation, and their international market sales reached 3.5 percent of all the world's cotton production.

But we're not standing here tonight to honor M.D. Anderson because of his incredible success and contributions to agribusiness. Many would keep the fruits of their labor for themselves, but M.D. Anderson had others in mind.

In 1936 he established a charitable foundation with $300,000, and upon his death in 1939, the foundation received an additional $19 million endowment. M.D. Anderson had a particular interest in health care, specifically in working to find a cure for cancer. Trustees of the foundation kept M.D. Anderson's interests and passions in mind as they decided how to use the foundation endowment after his death.

Funding for the foundation helped to start the Texas Medical Center in Houston, Texas, which is the largest medical complex in the world. Funding was also used to establish the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center at the Texas Medical Center, which is one of the world's most respected centers, devoted exclusively to cancer patient care, research, education, and prevention. Since 1944, nearly 900,000 patients have turned to M.D. Anderson for cancer care. In addition to the medical research, the M.D. Anderson Foundation has built libraries, auditoriums, college buildings, and a planetarium on the campus of Lambuth College in Jackson, Tennessee.

We honor M.D. Anderson today not because of his success in agribusiness but because of his generosity and interest in bettering the lives of others.

I want to take a moment to thank the ranking member of the subcommittee, Ms. NORTON, for her support and for working with me on the language in this bill. I also want to recognize the hard work of Mayor Jerry Gist of Jackson, the Jackson City Council, Madison County Mayor Jimmy Harris, and the Madison County Commission.

Finally, I want to specifically thank Mr. Dickie Day of Jackson, Tennessee, and Mr. Carter Edwards of Maury City, Tennessee, for their efforts to ensure that the life and achievements of M.D. Anderson are memorialized in his hometown of Jackson, Tennessee.

It is an honor to sponsor this bill, and I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. FLEISCHMANN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. FLEISCHMANN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1264, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. FLEISCHMANN. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

GENE ROSSITCH LED A LIFE OF SERVICE TO HIS COMMUNITY AND LOVE FOR OTHERS

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, today I want to speak of the remarkable life of my friend Gene Rossitch of Winston-Salem. Gene died last week at age 77 after a tenacious fight with cancer. One of the remarkable things about Gene is that he grew up in Cuba and fled to the U.S. with his family in 1962 in search of freedom. Despite being uprooted and transplanted into a new culture and Nation, he thrived in Winston-Salem, forging a successful 30-year career at Wachovia Bank.

But Gene was more than just a successful businessman. He was passionate about investing in the community, which he went about with gusto during the nearly 50 years he made his mark on the community of Winston-Salem. He leaves behind a shining example of helping others, from serving as a volunteer translator for the police and court system to serving with the Red Cross to volunteering on the board of a local Catholic high school. Gene also lived a vibrant life of faith, serving in numerous ways in his local church, Our Lady of Mercy, for decades. His life demonstrated to those who knew him that he was a man of conviction, steadfast faith, and unrivaled dedication to his community and those in need.

He will be greatly missed, and his passing is a terrible loss to his family and loved ones, as well as the entire Winston-Salem community. Mr. Speaker, my prayers are with his family and many friends who are mourning the loss of a man of kindness and remarkable character.

CAMERAS IN THE SUPREME COURT

(Mr. POE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, the Supreme Court is the most important court in the world. However, very few citizens have the chance to watch the Supreme Court in action when historic lawsuits come before it. This is because the seating in the courtroom is limited. The Supreme Court will soon take up the health care bill and rule on its constitutionality. This monumental case affects every single American; yet only a select group will be able to attend the hearing.

Representative GERRY CONNOLLY has introduced legislation that I support to allow cameras in the Supreme Court. A single nonintrusive-type camera, controlled by the Court staff would allow for greater access in the decisions made by the nine jurists in black robes. I know cameras can be placed in a courtroom without disruption because I was one of the first judges in Texas to allow cameras to film criminal cases.

A lack of seating capacity is no reason to deny the American people the right to see Supreme Court proceedings. The American people deserve an all-access pass to watch the High Court rule on the law of the land.

And that's just the way it is.

SHINING LIGHT ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN BELARUS

(Mr. PAULSEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to give voice to a concern that I have heard raised from numerous constituents who originally hail from Belarus. Since 1994, President Lukashenko has abused his power and has actively worked to undermine the freedom of the Belarusian people.

Recently, the State Department released a report on the human rights situation in Belarus. Under this authoritarian regime, Belarusians have been subject to manipulated elections and oppression on the basis of political affiliation, ethnicity, and religious beliefs. Following the most recent election, security forces arrested political activists, presidential candidates, and journalists.

Mr. Speaker, it is unacceptable that this kind of oppression exists today in Europe, and I hope that more Americans will be made aware of the tyranny in Belarus. I thank the Belarusian-American Youth Association for bringing this issue to my attention. And I stand with my constituents in support of freedom for the Belarusian people in opposition to this oppressive regime.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. GOHMERT. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

There is so much going on these days, and we have to trust the United States, the Federal entities of the executive branch to keep us protected. That's why our hearing last week with the Attorney General of the United States, Eric Holder, before the Judiciary Committee of the House was very disturbing. We had Attorney General Holder before our committee back on May 3 of this year; and at that time, the Attorney General said, with regard to this horrible project, this undertaking called Fast and Furious, the Attorney General said he had only known about it "a few weeks." To most of us, "a few weeks" means about 3 weeks. However, in testifying under penalty of perjury last week, the Attorney General said in essence, Look, 3 weeks, 3 months—a few weeks is 3 months; there's not really any difference. When you have the highest-ranking person in the United States Department of Justice who plays so fast and loose while testifying under oath, who plays so fast and loose with the facts, it is quite disturbing, and it's time for a change.

Our Attorney General testified that there were a certain number of guns, 94,000 firearms, submitted for tracing and that 64,000 of those firearms were sourced to the United States. The further we get into that, the more inaccurate we find out those figures are; and of course we recall—and it's understandable that with a boss like the United States President who has previously said, 90, 95 percent of the guns seized at crime scenes in Mexico came from the United States, it's understandable that if the boss is making those kinds of glaring errors on numbers, then perhaps the head of the Department of Justice would make substantial mistakes in numbers.

But, fortunately, the Department of Justice is not the only source of information regarding those types of matters. The Congressional Research Service is a bipartisan group. They do an extraordinary job. I've gotten the impression that potentially the majority may be Democrat, but it doesn't matter to those folks. They do a very good job of researching thoroughly whatever project they're given.

And the information that we were able to get back from the Congressional Research Service indicates that there are maybe only 25 percent of the weapons that Mexico has seized that are capable of being traced back to their original source and that most of the weapons that Mexico seizes are never offered for the process of tracing because they know there's no way to trace them. So if only 25 percent of those that are seized in Mexico are asked to have tracing done, then it is very clear that not 95, not 90, not even 70 percent of the weapons seized can be traced to an American owner first.

We also know from the testimony and the information about this Fast and Furious project of the ATF Department of Justice, because the ATF is a subsidiary of the Department of Justice, but we know that gun dealers were pushed into making sales to people they didn't believe should be sold the weapons; and our own Federal Government, our own Justice Department, urged them to go ahead and make the sales on behalf of their country anyway. Then some in this administration have the nerve to say this, too, was Bush's fault, and they point to programs in the Bush administration as being the source.

Andrew McCarthy, back November 8, had a great article in National Review Online, "Fast & Furious Was . . . Bush's Fault." He goes on to point out that Fast and Furious did not begin until 2009, months after the end of the Bush administration, and he also goes on to point out a number of things.

For example, Wide Receiver, which was a project under the Bush administration, involved what were considered controlled deliveries. As a former judge, we'd hear constantly about controlled deliveries where the government would have people—find out people were inquiring about making drug sales, and they would set up a delivery. There would be plenty of agents there to intervene as soon as the transaction had actually been made. The controlled delivery meant not only do you have people watching, you may even have some way to follow what is being transferred in that controlled delivery. That's what was anticipated with Wide Receiver, the project under the Bush administration.

Unfortunately, there was an incident where Wide Receiver, apparently that project had a controlled delivery setup of weapons, the intent never ever to allow them to actually leave this country or to actually have the individuals involved get away with those weapons, but actually to have them have an interdiction, have them arrested. And also, one other thing, they had homing devices on the weapons. Well, unfortunately, everything went wrong. The homing devices were detected, they were removed, the controlled delivery went bad, and folks got away.

That is a far sight different from this administration deciding we're going to see that massive number, at least a couple of thousand weapons, are put in the hands of criminals who will likely take them across the border. They will certainly end up in the deaths of Mexicans, and there's a good chance will result in the deaths of Americans. Anyone in any administration who thinks such an idea is a good one needs to go from that administration. Anyone from any administration who allows something so insane to take place does not need to be in that administration. Anybody who has such lax control over his department that though those directly under him know about it, they leave him plausible deniability to come in and say: I didn't know anything about it. Maybe Lanny Breuer; yeah, apparently he knew all about. Yeah, I see Lanny quite a bit, but I didn't know anything about it. Anybody that sets up a structure to allow themselves that kind of plausible deniability—so-called plausible—and would allow something that results in a foreseen death, much less hundreds of deaths, does not need to be head of that department.

Now, this should not be a partisan issue. Back when President Bush, George W. Bush was President, we had been told in our Judiciary Committee in the House by the Attorney General at that time that there were no known abuses of the national security letters. The national security letter powers bother me greatly. I'm extremely concerned about them. I've been very concerned about them, and we had the report from the Attorney General, no, there are no known abuses. Well, that is an awfully powerful weapon, but we were assured under the PATRIOT Act it is only allowable that those letters be used to gain information about foreign nationals—not American citizens—or people who are associated with known foreign terrorist organizations. It would never be used against American citizens. We were assured of that.

So some of us wanted to make sure that there were no abuses, no American citizens were being pursued internationally or nationally. We were assured they weren't. The Attorney General in July had testified before—this was, I guess, 2007; I believe it was July—that there were no known abuses by Federal agents of the national security letter where they demand information, documentation, all that's in the possession of the person to whom the letter is sent. It turns out, three days before the Attorney General testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee, there had been a report that was placed on his desk. The Attorney General's defense was: I never read it before I testified before the Senate, so I was certainly testifying honestly; I just didn't know. That was enough, though, to have people on both sides of the aisle, Republican and Democrat, House and Senate, agree we need to change something, and we got it changed within about six weeks.

This administration is so used to obfuscating, hiding the ball, preventing documentation that is requested from coming to light, this administration thinks that it can keep protecting people who need to go for the good of the country.

Then we find out there's emails in the documents that were provided by the Justice Department. There are emails indicating that, gee, maybe it would be a good idea if we could use Fast and Furious numbers to get more regulation. Sharyl Attkisson has an article—this was part of CBSnews.com—where she indicates:

ATF officials didn't intend to publicly disclose their own role in letting Mexican cartels obtain the weapons, but emails show they discussed using the sales, including sales encouraged by ATF, to justify a new gun regulation called "Demand Letter 3". That would require some U.S. gun shops to report the sale of multiple rifles or "long guns." Demand Letter 3 was so named because it would be the third ATF program demanding gun dealers report tracing information.

On July 14, 2010 after ATF headquarters in Washington D.C. received an update on Fast and Furious, ATF Field Ops Assistant Director Mark Chait emailed Bill Newell, ATF's Phoenix Special Agent in Charge of Fast and Furious:

"Bill—can you see if these guns were all purchased from the same (licensed gun dealer) and at one time. We are looking at anecdotal cases to support a demand letter on long gun multiple sales. Thanks."

Amazing. The ATF, the Justice Department, creates this horrible program that would get people killed and then wants to use that as a basis for further regulation and further elimination of our Second Amendment rights to the United States Constitution. Unbelievable. They have Senator FEINSTEIN down the Hall when questioning Lanny Breuer, who apparently indications are was not truthful with regard to Fast and Furious, and Senator FEINSTEIN says, "We have very lax laws when it comes to guns. I think this, to some extent, influences the ATF and how they approach the problem as to whether they have political support or not. But I think these numbers are shocking. And I think when you know the numbers of deaths these guns have caused used by cartels against victims, it's literally up in the tens of thousands. So the question comes as what we can do, and I would really rather concentrate on the constructive rather than other things. And so the question comes, do you believe that if there were some form of registration when you purchase these firearms that that would make a difference?"

Again, a deadly program that would kill innocent people is put in place by the Justice Department's ATF, people are killed, and then people around this town want to use this horrible program's results to justify taking away Second Amendment rights. It's staggering. Staggering. It's bad enough that anybody would think this type of program, Fast and Furious, was a good idea, but then to turn around and use it to try to destroy Second Amendment rights under the Constitution is simply unconscionable.

Well, the Attorney General also, when asked about his testimony last week, he said, yes, he had ordered in February an Inspector General study, an inspection of the Fast and Furious program. It was pointed out to the Attorney General that in the big document dump that they had—and it was clearly a document dump intended to mask and hide anything therein. A good piece of evidence of that is the fact that 92 pages, at least, of the documents were Senator GRASSLEY's own request for information about Fast and Furious. Those were just duplicated dozens and dozens and dozens of times, and that was part of the document dump just to hide what little bit of information was in there.

And yet despite all those documents produced and despite information that was inquired about at the hearing, the Attorney General does use government email, he does use private email, he does sign things, not one email of the Attorney General, not one letter, not one order of any kind by this Attorney General was part of that record.

If we have an Attorney General who believes in playing so fast and loose with the laws that it really is more about who you know in this administration rather than what the law says, it's time for another Attorney General. Nothing was produced. When I asked about his testimony that an IG inspection was ordered, our Attorney General indicated basically that he had such a great relationship with the Inspector General he could just pick up the phone and ask her to do an inspection, a study.

If that's the way this Attorney General operates, which he testified under oath that it was, we need a new Attorney General. Those kinds of things are so serious they require something signed.

And as far as being so chummy with the Inspector General, it also makes clear this is no way to run a Justice Department, because it makes clear that the Justice Department is run by a man who is so chummy with the one person that may be able to do an independent study that there really is no independent study done.

That also became clear, and DARRELL ISSA who has been pursuing this—and I'm thankful for it. He has been relentless. But the information has not been forthcoming. But from what information has been gleaned, we find out that this Inspector General, the very, very, very close chum of our Attorney General, had found out that there was a gun dealer who became so concerned about this egregious thing being done where he was being forced to sell guns to people to whom he did not want to sell guns, that he began recording conversations, things that were told him by Federal agents so that he would have some protection. When the Inspector General found out, she got the recorded conversations.

Now, a good Inspector General who is not extremely chummy with the person heading up the Department she is supposed to independently study and inspect would go forward, talk to witnesses and see if they said anything inconsistent in their statements to the Inspector General so that the Inspector General could determine if these people were being honest.

Instead, what this very close ally and chum of the person whose Department she is supposed to be inspecting, she apparently took the recorded statement, gave it to the Federal agent and said, hey, you better listen to this before you give any statements so you can make sure your statements are consistent.

Inspectors General aren't supposed to do that. They're supposed to conduct a thorough, independent investigation. All the indications are that this Inspector General is, just as Attorney General Holder testified, so chummy, so close, that she doesn't need a written order. It works out better if we can just say, we just talked about it over the phone. And, in fact, wouldn't that be great, too, if we could do that here in Congress? Do you know what? We passed a law, but we just talked about it, and you don't get to find out what it is, but we'll come after you if you violate it.

You can't run a government that way. There needs to be documentation for decisions that are made so we know who made them. And that brings us to one of the more egregious factors in the poor management of the Justice Department. When the Attorney General was asked who it was by my friend, Judge POE from Texas, now in Congress, who it was that made the decision to go forward with Fast and Furious after to these many, many months, the Attorney General said he just really didn't know, and he didn't know if he was going to be able to find out.

Since we have an Attorney General that has no way of knowing who is making the decisions in his Department that are getting innocent people in the United States and Mexico killed, it's time to have an Attorney General who does.

We cannot survive as a country when the Federal Government plays so fast and loose with orders that mean the difference between people being killed and not killed.

It's time for a change. America deserves better. Mexico deserves better. And you can't help but wonder what kind of pressure was put on Mexico's government not to raise holy Cain about having all these illegal weapons forcibly sold that were going into Mexico. We had no intention—or this Justice Department had no intention of following them, no method of getting them back, no method of finding out where they were. And in fact, it appears the whole goal was to wait and see when they showed up at crime scenes—which normally meant somebody had been killed—then check the serial numbers against those the ATF had forcibly required the sale of, and if they matched, then we could blame American gun dealers. It's understandable a gun dealer in the U.S. could become concerned, that maybe he ought to start taping Federal agents giving him instructions. Things are not going well in this Justice Department.

One other area of concern—has been for some time—is the fact that there are organizations in the United States that are raising money and then funding terrorist organizations abroad.

Hamas is one specifically. And since this government continues to send money to the Palestinian Authority, which has now got an agreement with Hamas, our own government is in cahoots in funding terrorism. At some point the insanity has got to stop.

We know that this kind of thing has gone on by organizations in the United States because in November of 2008 the Bush administration obtained five convictions, 105 counts of funding terrorism. Most people refer to the litigation as the Holy Land Foundation trial. And there were over 200 named coconspirators with the Holy Land Foundation and the individuals named, and those coconspirators, many of them were implicated through evidence that was introduced at trial in the Holy Land Foundation trial.

Now, they were named coconspirators, but the others were not actually indicted. My understanding is that the Bush administration intended to try to get those first convictions—the first time the case was tried to a hung jury, an 11–1 split, as I understood it, for guilt. The second time they got the 105 counts of conviction against the five individuals. And their intent was, if they could get those prosecutions, get those judgments, get those findings of guilt, then it would proceed on with others of the 200-plus named coconspirators. And in fact, some of the named coconspirators, like CAIR, ISNA, had filed a motion with the Federal court in Dallas that ended up at the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. They wanted their names struck from the pleadings, but the Fifth Circuit in essence said there is a prima facie case. There is sufficient evidence here to show that these named coconspirators were coconspirators and therefore, no, they're not going to have their names struck from the pleadings; they're part of the evidence. It's clear, or there is evidence to support their being coconspirators with the Holy Land Foundation. Some folks have been trying to get documentation from the Holy Land Foundation trial. We've gotten some, but there were a massive amount of documents that were turned over to the five defendants, the Holy Land Foundation people. And since we know beyond a reasonable doubt they were funding terrorism, there is not really any doubt in most thinking peoples' minds that those documents all found their way back to Hamas, the terrorists.

But this administration, led by Attorney General Eric Holder, has decided they're not going to prosecute any of those people. Even after the Fifth Circuit said there is prima facie evidence, there is sufficient evidence to go forward and to keep their names because they are coconspirators, according to the evidence produced, this administration has chosen to protect those individuals by not prosecuting them, much like this administration did in failing to prosecute the individuals involved in the new Black Panther movement—who one African American involved in the civil rights movement of the sixties said was the worst case of voting rights abuses that he had ever seen. And yet this Attorney General, who could have gotten a judgment and prevented at least these two individuals from ever appearing at a voting place like this and intimidating voters, chose to water down the judgment with one so that he just didn't go back to that same voting place in the next election. And with the other, who was certainly, from the videotape, involved in violating people's civil rights, didn't even take the judgment against him. And then to turn around and refuse to prosecute people who there is sufficient evidence to show that they are funding terrorism is horrendous.

There is an article, December 7, "Holy Land Foundation Hamas Support Convictions Affirmed." And this is from Andrew McCarthy, who was the prosecutor in the first World Trade Center prosecution, 1993, when the attempt was made to blow up the World Trade Center the first time, successfully prosecuted. And at the time, America didn't realize we were in a war. We were in a war, but only one side knew that they were in a war, and that was the radical Islamists.

As Mr. McCarthy indicates, the U.S. Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit, upheld the convictions of five jihadists behind the Holy Land Foundation, the piggybank set up by the Brotherhood in the U.S. under the guise of charity to fund Hamas to the tune of tens of millions of dollars during the deadly Intifada. The three-judge panel's unanimous 170-page opinion recounts that Hamas was created by Brotherhood operatives—that's Muslim Brotherhood—in 1987 as the Brotherhood's "Palestinian branch." Thereafter, "the Muslim Brotherhood directed its worldwide chapters to establish so-called 'Palestinian committees' to support Hamas from abroad."

McCarthy continues:

In the U.S., the "Palestine Committee" was led by Mousa Abu Marzook (who for a time in the early nineties actually ran Hamas from his home in Virginia). The Palestine Committee created not only the Holy Land Foundation but a number of other Islamist entities in the U.S. The leaders of one of those entities, the Islamic Association for Palestine, subsequently created CAIR, the Council on American-Islamic Relations, which was cited as an unindicted coconspirator in the case.

Mr. McCarthy goes on to point out that documents recovered by the FBI at the home of a Brotherhood operative established the Brotherhood's overarching role in the Hamas support scheme, including bylaws showing the Brotherhood had directed the collection of donations for the Islamic Resistance Movement, which is Hamas.

Also recovered at the time was the internal memorandum in which the Brotherhood's American leadership asserted:

The Ikhwan [i.e., the Brotherhood] must understand that their work in America is a kind of grand jihad in eliminating and destroying the Western civilization from within and 'sabotaging' its miserable house by their hands and the hands of the believers, so that it is eliminated and God's religion is made victorious over all other religions.

And, in fact, you get a copy of the Fifth Circuit's opinion, there are a number of interesting things addressed by the Fifth Circuit with regard to the Holy Land Foundation. The Fifth Circuit said:

We are satisfied that independent evidence also established the existence of a joint venture or combination among the declarants and the defendants to support Hamas through the Holy Land Foundation and the zakat committees. For example, participants at the Philadelphia meeting discussed Hamas and its control of the zakat committees. The participants referenced the importance of the Holy Land Foundation in the Committee's goals, and they identified as "ours" various zakat committees to which Holy Land Foundation donated funds. The Government also introduced evidence of numerous financial transactions and personal contact between the defendants and Hamas leader Marzook, who was listed in the Elbarasse and Ashqar documents as chairman of the Palestine Committee. Marzook also had in his personal phone book the contact information for Baker, Elashi, El-Mezain and Elbarasse. Further, Hamas leader Mishal spoke at a meeting attended by Baker, Elashi, El-Mezain and Ashqar about supporting Hamas. According to Shorbagi, who was present, El-Mezain led a break-out group at that meeting to discuss the financial issue of raising money. Moreover, Shorbagi specifically testified from personal knowledge that the Holy Land Foundation was part of Hamas.

Well, the Fifth Circuit, talking about the Holy Land Foundation trial, said the evidence at issue was offered to show the defendant's connection to terrorists and his predisposition to terrorist activities.

It goes on to cite much of the evidence. And the Court says:

The evidence in this case does show a relationship between the defendants and Elbarasse and Ashqar, as well as their connections to Hamas leaders.

It goes on to say:

The record here showed the defendants' joint participation in a shared undertaking involving the Committee—that's the Palestine Committee—and the documents were properly admitted.

The Court goes on, makes numerous findings, discusses the law, but also says:

The defendants here "are wrong to suggest that it is necessary to know the precise identity of" the declarants in the Elbarasse and Ashqar documents.

They go on to conclude:

It's "inescapable" that the declarants were joint venturers with the defendants in support of Hamas through the Palestine Committee.

It goes on to cite some examples there. The Fifth Circuit did an excellent job of going through reciting the evidence, and they said this:

They were also consistent with security "guidelines" found among Holy Land Foundation's materials stored at Infocom, which directed that there should be cover stories agreed upon to explain things like meetings and travel.

Now, if this group that worked through the Holy Land Foundation to send money to Hamas were perfectly innocent, then it seems interesting that the Foundation's policies and guidelines that were found in Virginia in a sub-basement which contained much of the Muslim Brotherhood's archives would say the following—and this is from a footnote on page 84 of the Fifth Circuit's decision. They said:

The document, which was labeled "The Foundation's Policies & Guidelines," included comprehensive policies for ensuring the secrecy of the organization's activity. For example, the policies directed that documents should be arranged at meetings so that they could be easily gotten rid of in an emergency; that measures should be taken before a meeting to be sure there is no hidden surveillance equipment; that an alert signal should be given if the location is monitored or if a member of the committee is followed; and that documents should be hidden when traveling and a pretext should be devised in case they are discovered in a search. The possession of such a document by a purportedly charitable organization was clearly suspicious.

And the Fifth Circuit there is a master of understatement.

It is amazing what was found in the documentation in Virginia, and that's after a couple were arrested as they went across the Chesapeake Bay Bridge, photographing construction columns of the bridge. And on further search of their home in Virginia, sub-basement, they found the Muslim Brotherhood archives that gave us so much information.

The trouble is, there were massive numbers of boxes of information. And as we understand it, much of that was provided to the defendants in the Holy Land Foundation trial.

I made the request of the Attorney General last week that, since those documents were provided to defendants who were convicted of funding terrorism, funneling money to Hamas, that surely the Justice Department would now allow Congress to see those boxes of documents. The Attorney General, once again, didn't know what was furnished. He would look into it.

We need an Attorney General that knows what's going on when there are organizations in America who are financing, by millions and millions of dollars, people who are conducting terrorism efforts around the world. Well, the Attorney General said he'd look into it. An official request was made at the hearing. And yet, we're waiting to hear from the Justice Department.

It just seems to make sense to me that if this Justice Department will provide documentation to people who are part of a terrorist network, then surely they'll provide it to Congress. But then again, that remains to be seen.

We had an article here from Fox News on December 7. It reports that SUSAN COLLINS, Senator SUSAN COLLINS, on Wednesday blasted the Defense Department for classifying the Fort Hood massacre as workplace violence, and suggested political correctness is being placed above the security of the Nation's Armed Forces at home.

During a joint session of the Senate and House Homeland Security Committee on Wednesday, the main Republican referenced a letter from the Defense Department depicting the Fort Hood shootings as workplace violence. She criticized the Obama Administration for failing to identify the threat as radical Islam. Thirteen people were killed and dozens more were wounded at Fort Hood in 2009, and the number of alleged plots targeting the military has grown significantly since then.

Lawmakers said there have been 33 plots against the U.S. military since September 11, 2001, and 70 percent of those threats have been since mid-2009, during this administration.

Major Nidal Hasan, a former Army psychiatrist who is being held for the attacks, allegedly was inspired by radical U.S.-born cleric Anwar al-Awlaki, who was killed in a U.S. drone strike in Yemen in late September and who parenthetically was leading a prayer session of Capitol Hill Muslim staffers just years before here in our Capitol complex.

Continuing with the article, the two men exchanged as many as 20 emails, according to U.S. officials, and Awlaki declared Hasan a hero. Chairman of the Senate Homeland Security Committee, Connecticut Independent Senator JOE LIEBERMAN, said the military has become a direct target of violent Islamic extremism within the United States. Senator LIEBERMAN's words: "The stark reality is that the American servicemember is increasingly in the terrorist scope and not just overseas in a traditional war setting," Lieberman told Fox News before the start of Wednesday hearings.

In June, two men allegedly plotted to attack a Seattle, Washington, military installation using guns and grenades. In July, Army Private Nasar Abdo was accused of planning a second attack at Fort Hood.

With regard to Private Nasar Abdo, it's worth noting that we have people who have been banned now from briefing our justice officials, intelligence officials, State Department officials on the threat of radical Islam. There was even a memo put together provided in this administration which by name pointed to Army Private Nasar Abdo and said this guy has been in uniform on Al-Jazeera basically saying he's going to do what Major Hasan did at Fort Hood. He's going to do it at Fort Hood.

This administration is so interested in protecting radical Islam and not of fending radical Islam that that memo was trash-canned, never went anywhere. And the only way this private was stopped was not by our intelligence community, not by our Justice Department, not by our State Department, and not with all of the information they could have. It was stopped by a gun dealer who just believed something was wrong, and he notified law enforcement.

Now we know from the 9/11 Commission, I mean, we've known since the Commission came out with their report, there are hundreds of mentions of things like "jihad," "Islam," not that there is any war on Islam. There is not. Thank God that the vast majority of Muslims know that we're not at war with them and they are not at war with us. But it is insanity not to protect ourselves and educate ourselves on that small group, that small percentage—it's a large group—of radical Islamists who have declared war on us.

Now this administration, though originally after 9/11 the Bush administration, the independent 9/11 Commission that was appointed, came out saying this is a result of radical Islam. Now the Justice Department, the intelligence community, the new lexicon will not allow the usage in training of words like "Islam," "jihad," the very things that led to over 3,000 Americans being killed and brought about wars that killed thousands more.

The war goes on; but as one individual who is fighting for us said, this administration is making us blind ourselves so we cannot see the people we are fighting.

There was a conference at Langley, CIA headquarters, that was canceled by this administration. Why? Because CAIR complained to the White House, and the report is that that's how the conference was stopped. CAIR complained to the administration, and they stopped it; and now the administration has gone through and come out with a new methodology of selecting people who will be allowed to brief our intelligence officials, will be allowed to brief our justice officials, will be allowed to brief our military; and they will not be allowed to use terms like "radical Islam," that those are, in this administration's mind, hateful terminology rather than helping us classify and figure out who it is that is on our side and who it is that is against us.

There's even a report out that this administration now in the last week is going to create a new category on the terrorist watch list which would be called "former military detainees." If that ended up being true, makes you wonder why they'd create a new category now. Are they about to release military detainees and so when they come into the country, or they're in our country trying to fly, we'll know who it is trying to kill us here?

This administration has blinded the people that are trying to fight the war against radical Islam, which is at war with us. We've seen to it that it looks like a procedure in both Libya and in Egypt are going to likely result in radical Islamists controlling those countries. The Middle East has become a powder keg far more so than it ever has. And if you go back and look at the President's speech, back I believe it was in May, recently looked at a transcript where our own President said Israel is going to have to defend itself by itself.

Now, thankfully, as we saw when Prime Minister Netanyahu spoke here in this body, we had both sides of the aisle repeatedly stand in support of the things Prime Minister Netanyahu was saying.

Israel has been our friend; they've been our ally. Muslims are allowed to worship Islam in Israel just as Muslims are allowed to do here in the U.S. It would be nice if Christians were allowed to worship in Muslim countries, but their definition of freedom does not allow people to freely worship whom they wish. It only allows them the freedom to worship under Islam.

Even in Afghanistan, the last Christian church has now closed. The kind of freedom that American lives and treasure brought to Afghanistan now means you can't have an open Christian church in Afghanistan.

Then we find out this administration was indirectly negotiating with terrorists, with the Taliban, with regard to Afghanistan about a year and a half ago. There were a few of us that met with leaders of the Northern Alliance a year and a half or so ago, and they're the first ones that told us your administration is indirectly meeting and negotiating with terrorists, with the Taliban, the people we fought with you to defeat.

After we defeated them in 3 or 4 months, then we started putting in tens of thousands of soldiers—military—into Afghanistan. We went from being embedded to being occupiers, and we oversaw the creation of a constitution in Afghanistan that says sharia law will reign, which means there will be no Christian churches in Afghanistan when true sharia law is in charge.

One of the things that was found in the archives of the Muslim Brotherhood is a 10-year goal that began in 2005. For one thing, anybody who raises any issue about the small, tiny percentage of Muslims who are at war with us, the radical Islamists, is to be called an "Islamaphobe." That term originated with the Organization of the Islamic Conference, composed of 57 states. They're the ones who came up with that. They came up with the notion of branding anyone an Islamaphobe who says anything negative about radical Islam's trying to destroy America.

So any time people see the term Islamaphobe or Islamaphobia, they should know exactly where it originated. It originated with the OIC, the 57 states of the OIC, which are also helping fund through other entities and individuals courses at some of our Nation's formerly best schools that have shown they're for sale, that their souls are for sale, in that if someone will give them enough money, then they will put on seminars and put on classes that will also call people Islamaphobes and talk about Islamaphobia—about anyone who raises any issue about radical Islam's trying to destroy our way of life.

The goal mentioned from 2005 is part of a 10-year goal, by 2015, to have subverted our U.S. Constitution to sharia law; and the method for doing that—we've been seeing it take place—is to subvert America's First Amendment rights to sharia.

One of the ways that that is being effectuated is when some nut burns a Koran in Florida, then people get killed in some riot in Afghanistan. Then even fine, upstanding Americans say, See, we probably need a law that prohibits the burning of a Koran, that prohibits saying anything bad about the Koran or radical Islam because that's going to get Americans killed. So let's have a law banning people from saying anything negative or from burning a Koran.

Never mind the fact that, in our country's history, we find out it's not against the Constitution to burn an American flag, that it's not against the Constitution to burn a Bible, that it's not against the Constitution to take a cross, symbolizing that thing on which Jesus was crucified, and put it in a beaker of urine. In fact, the Federal Government will even give money to have that done. But if anybody says anything negative about the Koran, let's make that a crime.

There are well-intentioned people in this Capitol who are thinking maybe we need a law like that; and when people push that kind of law, they are moving to subvert our United States First Amendment rights under the Constitution to sharia law. Once that happens, then that goal can be checked off of the goals that were established by the Muslim Brotherhood in 2005. They're hoping to get that done by 2015.

A great way to do that is to brand people like me or people in the Justice Department or trainers who would teach people about the ideas of radical Islam as Islamaphobes and continue to have courses they fund to encourage laws to prevent Islamaphobia so that they have laws that prevent anybody from saying anything negative about sharia.

Never mind, even on a television program today, an atheist called Christianity a hate religion. He said it's hateful, basically, in effect, because Jesus, he said, created a hell and that that's why we shouldn't admire Christmas. Well, some of us know that Jesus was not likely born in December, but more likely in the springtime, when shepherds are on the hills.

But to declare what our Founders knew would be an important core building block of this country, when they knew that the best things that ever happened to this country would come as a result of the reliance on the teachings of Jesus and the teachings in the Bible, you had comments like George Washington in his resignation, saying—and I'll close with this:

He prayed that Americans would follow the teaching of the Divine Author of our blessed religion without a humble limitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy Nation.

He was right.

With that, I yield back the balance of my time.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 3630, MIDDLE CLASS TAX RELIEF AND JOB CREATION ACT OF 2011

Mr. DREIER, from the Committee on Rules (during the Special Order of Mr. GOHMERT), submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 112-328) on the resolution (H. Res. 491) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 3630) to provide incentives for the creation of jobs, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

CONGRESSIONAL BLACK CAUCUS HOUR: JOBS FOR AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. HULTGREN). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

I almost don't know where to start. Let me, first of all, indicate my privilege to be yielded the hour as the representative of the minority leader and also to indicate my privilege to discuss some of the issues of the Congressional Black Caucus, which has been a leader, along with our chairman, EMANUEL CLEAVER, and our officers and those of us who have worked on these issues, on the question of jobs for America.

I almost don't know where to start. First of all, let me say happy holidays to my colleagues and, in this season of giving and joy, acknowledge how special a time it is for families to come together.

I do want to start on some of the comments of my friend and colleague from Texas. I am delighted to have him acknowledge that we cannot condemn one faith as it relates to the harm that terrorists desire to do against us. It's important to also note that there are some distortions in the comments about terrorism and in the President's position and the administration's position.

I think it is important to acknowledge that the war against those who will do us harm is not about points; it's not about partisanship; it's not about one-upmanship; it's not about what one administration has done better than the other.

I am very grateful to the men and women in our intelligence community and to the men and women in the United States military and to those who are engaged in homeland security that we have not had a terrorist act of the proportion of 9/11 on our soil since 9/11. There are no doubts of the many threats that have been interjected and stopped, and it's important for my colleagues to understand that.

I am a senior member on the Homeland Security Committee. Tragically, I was appointed to the select Committee on Homeland Security and traveled with one or two Senators, people in the other body, to Ground Zero. When I arrived, it was early enough that one of the rescue missions was continuing. One could see the smoke billowing out of the ashes; and as we visited the board that still had loved ones about whom people were asking, Have you seen my father or my son?, it was a potent message for those of us who are committed to securing the homeland.

The chairperson for a period was a member of the Congressional Black Caucus, Chairman THOMPSON. He serves now as the ranking member of the committee. He has always chosen to be bipartisan. And over the last week, we joined in a bipartisan hearing with the Senate, Senator LIEBERMAN in the other body, Senator COLLINS, and the chairperson now, Chairman KING, on the question of the potential danger of our military and military bases. In that hearing, no one quarrelled with the responsibility to identify those who would go against our military on domestic soil or how we would address the question.

But it is important to note that I stand here and refuse and reject the labeling of one faith as a faith of terror. I have been in so many different mosques and among so many different groups of Muslims who practice Islam who have rejected those horrible acts.

One cannot challenge the pathway that President Obama has taken or not view it as a pathway that has saved lives. In particular, there is documentation that the last administration, after a period of time, indicated that they didn't know where Osama bin Laden was. It was not their focus. They knew that the country was safe, but they were not looking for Osama bin Laden. Frankly, in the period of time of President Obama's tenure, he has gotten the imam in Yemen, the American citizen imam that was in Yemen who was a part of the inspiration of Major Hasan, who perpetrated the terrorist acts in Fort Hood in my State, the State of Texas. We have intervened in several terrorist threats and attacks, the Times Square bomber. If my recollection serves me well, I think, also, the Christmas Day bombing; that might have been a little bit before that.

We have, in essence, taken out a number of high-target threats to America's security. We have, in fact, with the intellect and genius and with the order of the President of the United States, President Barack Obama, in a very dangerous mission, the Navy SEALs secured and brought to his end Osama bin Laden. A very dangerous mission, a very controversial mission, but there had to be a Commander in Chief that ordered it. So I take issue with the comment that this President has not been vigilant in protecting the homeland.

Any number of us who serve on Homeland Security know that we can always be better and can always work on issues to, in fact, secure—more than secure. But as a member of the Homeland Security Committee, I've watched as our Border Patrol has surged to 18,000. As we have utilized resources on the border, the numbers of those coming across the border illegally have dropped. As we try to be constructive in arguing for comprehensive immigration reform, I have seen a number of responses that would cause me to disagree that this administration has not been vigilant.

And even today, as we are speaking to the President of Iraq, arguments are being made to ensure the evenhandedness of Iraq's behavior and their treatment of individuals in Iraq, dealing with those who are at Camp Ashraf, but, more importantly, our ongoing relationship with Iraq and our ongoing relationship with a very vital region where there are allies like the King of Jordan, allies that we've been friends with, that it is important that we maintain a certain type of demeanor. And, clearly, suggesting that a two-State solution is not viable or the Palestinian people are not real, they're made up, is an outrageous position to take for any public political person that would rise and ascend to leadership, whether it is in the Congress or in the Presidency of the United States. I could not, not just respond to charges of inadequacy by this administration.

I have served on the Foreign Affairs Committee, I was privileged to have served, and, likewise, being a member of the Homeland Security Committee and serving as the ranking member on Transportation Security and fighting to enhance security measures, more personnel, better training, responsiveness to those who are patted down and go through aviation security, making it fair but yet making it responsive to the nuances and new ideas of terrorists who want to do us harm. Mr. Speaker, it's important that we acknowledge fairness, balance, and that we continue to pray every day for our men and women who are on the front lines, for our intelligence community, for those who are thinking every moment, under this administration, successfully, on addressing that question.

I am here, however, to raise the question of our concerns of the American people that are outside the circle of homeland security and address the day-to-day needs of those who are fighting against poverty, losing their quality of life.

In a discussion that has been going on and on and on and has a simple answer: Just do it; just do it. But yet we are stuck here on December 12—I have no quarrel with that because it is our responsibility to be here until we get the job done, but I would encourage those who are listening and our colleagues to work in a bipartisan way. But I would also encourage you to call us at (202) 225-3121 and ask us to get the job done fairly, one that is rational and reasonable. Is it going to pass the other body? Is the President going to be able to sign it? Is it going to help the vast numbers of people?

As members of the Congressional Black Caucus, we knew that jobs had a devastating impact on this country, the lack thereof. We know that there are unemployment numbers throughout our communities in some pockets of the United States—in some States, there is double-digit unemployment amongst all population groups. In the African American population, it is a consistent double-digit unemployment. Those of us who participated in the Congressional Black Caucus Jobs Fair throughout the many cities, we saw thousands standing in line for jobs. At a recent jobs fair at the Fallbrook Church in Houston, Texas, hundreds were in line for jobs. In a city that has done fairly well, it is not good enough.

This is a crisis, Mr. Speaker, and the Congressional Black Caucus introduced legislation that would emphasize that jobs are a must—a crisis—and must be passed. We all joined in the resolution introduced in the summer months. We all got on that resolution, that we must do everything we can to create jobs, and we introduced a “for the people” job creation bill and worked on initiatives to deal with that.

Now, let me tell you where we are. Right now, we are addressing this question this week. Now, I have no qualms that this is about 2 weeks before Christmas, a holiday that many celebrate, and the holidays of other faiths are also celebrated around this time, where all families come together. Hanukkah. No matter what faith you may be, if you are in America, you come toward your family in America. Where our soldiers are—even though many are coming home, many of our soldiers are scattered around the world. I would almost suggest to you that somebody's family member who happens to be related to a member of the United States military may even be unemployed or they may be a worker who is crying out for the payroll tax relief.

So I have soldiers up for my colleagues to see, and I have some happy faces for my colleagues to see.

And I have another poster for my colleagues to see. It is important that we connect not just to our neighbors but also to realize that our soldiers have family members that would benefit from the payroll tax. There's a happy family right there. They would benefit from the payroll tax if their family members are here in the United States while they are abroad serving this country. That's why I have these pictures here. Let's make it real.

In addition to all those who are working, there are people who are related to these who have taken the oath to be able to say that we are fighting on behalf of this country, your freedom and your justice, justice and equality, and we are fighting, and we believe it is important that they are fighting for us, they are positioned and posted around the world, and that we be serious about the needs of their family members; a payroll tax relief that put $1,400, $1,000 to $1,400 to $1,500 in the pockets of 160 million Americans, some of whom, as I've said—I don't want to be redundant, but I want to say it over and over again—are related to the very men and women we admire, the very men and women that we admire: husbands, wives, aunts, uncles, grandparents, sons, and daughters of people here in the United States who are now on the front line in many places around the world. Some will be coming home for the holiday season, as the President has ordered troops out of Iraq.

What will they come home to?

And so here's our answer. They will come home to legislation that I believe has passed the Rules Committee that unfortunately does not speak to the emergency and the crisis of what we are facing.

I don't know whether or not my colleagues can see this, but here's a picture of the unemployed. Unemployment is not a respecter of region, not a respecter of race. I've indicated there are high numbers in the African American community, but people are unemployed across America. It's the highest unemployment we have had in long years.

Rather than calling it a crisis, of which it is, where 6 million people will lose their unemployment insurance, this House will now debate a bill that has already been acknowledged that it will have no legs in the other body. It won't get anywhere near being heard or seen. This is a crisis. I think there's about 19 days before December 31, if I'm calculating correctly. It is a crisis, and yet we bring to the floor the legislation that has already had the lights turned out on it, while people are suffering. Have you heard that? The fiddlers are fiddling while Rome is burning.

And the bill has extra policy issues: drug test the unemployed, make them get a GED, job training. I'm all for all of the efforts of job training and GEDs. We should try to do a polling of the unemployed. I'd venture to say many a college graduate, many of them just graduated in 2011 and cannot get a job, I don't think they want to go back to get a GED. I think that is behind where they are.

Drug testing will cost $25,000. How often are we doing it? Every week when they pick up their check? Mothers and fathers who are trying to make sure that they pay their mortgage, maybe never taken a drug in their life, subjected to drug testing? Policy being done in the middle of a crisis?

So, Mr. LEVIN of the Ways and Means, our ranking member, had a commonsense approach. His commonsense approach was he declared unemployment an emergency, 6 million people about to go over the dam, sinking the ship, burning their house. It's an emergency. Six million people are, if you will, about to go under. It's an emergency.

Why couldn't we have a bipartisan agreement on that? Why do we have a bill with a long litany of to-dos for the unemployed? Has anybody done any research to find out whether or not these people are in need of GEDs or been out of work for however long because of their own fault?

The law clearly states that no unemployment insurance is denied that you are able to get unless you have been charged with misconduct or fraud or something else that pertains to you getting the unemployment insurance.

Friends, what is the definition of insurance? You pay for it while you work. You pay for insurance. You pay for unemployment insurance. You pay for car insurance, insurance on your house. It's insurance. You had to pay for it to get it. If you are getting unemployment insurance, you had to work to get it.

Why are we all these burdens?

Let me put up this little picture, to add insult to injury.

This bill would cut 40 weeks from the duration of the Federal unemployment compensation and allow States to drug test. And we had some comment about—random comments about people applying for jobs and couldn't pass a drug test or something thereof. Well, let the individual businesses test individuals who are applying for jobs. They can handle it. I've heard that businesses are not hiring people; they're holding onto their cash. So these random comments that are being made are not legitimate. They are making comments that people couldn't pass a drug test at a business. If that's the case, let the business continue to drug test. It has nothing to do with individuals who worked and paid for insurance and now we want to deny them and add a burden to the State, the government, to drug test. It is perfectly well for an employer, which many employers do, to individually drug test on their own clock, their own bill, their own tab.

As I said, under present law, you cannot deny insurance for reasons other than on-the-job misconduct, fraud, or earning too much money from part-time work. That is it. How dare we suggest that we have deadbeats—who are looking for work every day. Where did this scheme come up from?

Here's a man who lives in Minneapolis. His name is Dean. He's watching Congress anxiously. He said he lost his job as a marketing director for a mutual fund company in July, meaning his 6 months of State benefits will expire at the beginning of January. If Congress doesn't strike a deal, he will be ineligible for the additional weeks of Federal benefits given to long-term joblessness since 2008. He said he would be willing to do anything to keep the money flowing if he hasn't found work by then.

It's a little bit ludicrous, but this man is so desperate he'll do anything. How do we insult the American public who paid for unemployment insurance, and we want this person to be insulted for no reason, no documentation whatsoever.

Here's what happens if we don't—two things, one, the payroll tax extension and the unemployment insurance. One, on the payroll tax, 400,000 jobs will be lost, and we will give in to 300,000 of the 1 percent for 160 million Americans who will not get the payroll tax relief of $1,500. One million new jobs could be created thanks to the extension, versus losing 400,000 jobs. How easy is it? A surtax on 300,000 Americans starting in 2013 and finishing in terms of the payback in 10 years. We've heard over and over again by the 1 percent, many of them saying they don't mind the extra burden. That's a proposal that I offered and that the ranking member had as part of his proposal.

I met with doctors. They are concerned about their Medicare reimbursement. And in this instance, the proposal by the Democrats, which includes Mr. LEVIN, would have fixed the doctors' reimbursement with the war savings. A reasonable way to go. Payroll tax, quickly finished, surtax on 300,000 folks starting in 2013, we'd be able to put between 1,000 and $1,500 in your pocket. The relatives of all these folks that you've just seen, the relatives of all the folk that we love who have taken an oath to protect us, among many other Americans, would be able to benefit. You just heard the story of Dean. I would imagine that Dean is similar to many others.

The second thing we need to do is the unemployment insurance—3.2 million Americans were pulled out of poverty in 2010 thanks to unemployment benefits. Remember now, you have worked, that's how you get unemployment benefits. I don't know where this GED comes from, but I know they'd be glad to get a GED if they needed it. And we can do that in regular order. Let's pass a jobs bill with training, and I'll tell you about two amendments that I have introduced jointly with Mr. CLEAVER and Mr. TOWNS of the Congressional Black Caucus.

The number of job seekers who will lose benefits if Congress fails to extend emergency unemployment, 2.2 million; 700,000 newly created jobs will be lost. Can anybody explain to me why we have this bill that has already been cast aside as going nowhere? Absolutely nowhere. The Republican bill will come on the floor, and we will find that we are stuck with not an answer for the people like Dean, for the families that you've seen in this photograph, or the thousands who came to the jobs fair that was held by the Congressional Black Caucus, or the jobs fair that I held in my district, where respectively 5,000 and 8,000 persons came in the middle of this jobs crisis about 2 years ago. There are States that are likewise in a deep pickle of not being able to continue the benefits of some who are suffering.

So as I said, let me repeat it again, Senator REID has already said, will not pass the Senate and will not be signed into law by the President. But let me go on to tell you why. A bill that I believe was passed out of the Rules Committee, solely a Republican bill, with opportunities for us to have come together on these two crises, show the American people in this spirit of giving that we are going to live to fight another day in 2012 and really work to get this done for people who are desperate, literally desperate. But here is what we're doing. The Republican bill requires millions of seniors to pay more for health care, Republicans who are refusing that surtax on the 300,000 wealthiest of Americans. I've already mentioned that it cuts the unemployment benefits for people who have lost work through no fault of their own.

Again, call this Congress at (202) 225-3121, and tell any Member of Congress whether or not you were fired because of your own fault—and still trying to get unemployment insurance. Let us hear from those voices who have lost a job or are not employed because of no fault of their own. What about an individual who said he was hired, he got laid off, he got hired again and got laid off again?

We know in this season of giving we have hired, got about 80,000 jobs that have come from some of the mail houses and retailers, but it still hasn't cut into some who are desperately unemployed.

And then it imposes new limits on unemployment compensation, as I indicated to you, restricting benefits. It violates the bipartisan debt limit agreement, statutory PAYGO and GOP's own CUTGO. We have not had any documentation from CBO that it meets any standards of whether or not it increases the deficit. We are hearing that it increases the deficit. If we could declare the unemployment insurance as an emergency, we would void that particular problem. Would you not think, reasoned colleagues, that the helping of 6 million people to literally keep a roof over their head and their children, is clearly, if you will, an emergency? Helping the families of our soldiers that are around the world? Some laying on their beds where they're injured, some now going through therapy, some now going through the treatment for post-traumatic stress disorder. If one of their family members is unemployed, isn't that an emergency? I'm not sure what we are thinking here.

Increases taxes on working families by forcing large end-of-the-year health care payments. Let me just say, my friends, some of this no one even understands. That's why it should go through the regular order. What is regular order? Hearings, legislation, we debate it, and we vote on it. One of the major insults is it reduces preventative care. It takes billions of dollars out of preventative care. When we have encouraged Americans to get health care at the front end and not get treatment in the emergency rooms with skyrocketing health care, there is no doubt we have literally just cut it, and reduces Medicare and Medicaid. In some of my congressional districts, it will literally shut down physicians who are dealing with the poorest of the poor, close hospitals, close clinics, because these individuals have no other way. Shut the CHIPS program down, the Children's Health Insurance Program tied to Medicaid. It seems to me that we are not being rational.

It takes away EPA rules that deal with trying to clean the air on behalf of the American people. Unfortunately, can't seem to find common ground.

I want to repeat one point again. Forty weeks are being cut from the lifeline of those who need unemployment insurance. This is the deal that our Republican friends have crafted in order to allegedly put a bill on the floor of this House. Taking the lifeline, taking the rescue rope, taking the floor from the feet of unemployed. Just imagine a drowning man or woman, and a ship comes by, and it simply stares as they go down once, twice, they are screaming life raft, life raft, just a life raft. Just imagine, and the ship keeps sailing and shouts back, I don't think it's an emergency. Keep paddling. Are you sure you didn't get in this water at your own fault? Keep on paddling. That's what this bill does to millions of Americans by cutting eligibility from 99 weeks to 59 weeks and, in fact, suggesting that unemployment at this rate is not an emergency.

Let me tell you about Ohio. It is among other States with at least an 8.5 percent unemployment rate that will be hit the hardest by this proposal. These States would likely lose 40 weeks, as I indicated, of insurance. And the way this bill is written, the unemployment compensation provisions in total equate to an increase of Federal spending by $34.2 billion over 10 years.

Let me say that again. The hawks, the fiscal hawks, the folk who've been joining in at the microphone and accusing this administration of reckless spending when we literally stopped the bleeding in this economy and job creation surged in November into December, when we've seen the markets do a little better, none of this we consider nirvana, but we see the movement.

Now we have our friends committing themselves to spending $34 billion rather than acknowledging that if you're unemployed and you can't even access a loaf of bread, that you have an emergency.

Forty-six million Americans on SNAP, on food stamps, many in parking lots in front of grocery stores waiting for that supplement to get into their account so they can go and buy food for their children.

What else does this bill have? Eleven riders. As I indicated, enroll in GED, and many other riders that have to do with regular order. It sounds complex, but what that means is letting the bill go through committee and having us discuss it, maybe putting together an omnibus bill. That could be bipartisan. But now we want to hold hostage the unemployment insurance benefits.

Medicare extensions, this bill averts the schedule 27.4 percent cuts to physician payments. By increasing the payment rate by 1 percent in 2012 and again in 2013, the two years of stable Medicare payment rates would be the most certainty physicians have had since 2004. However, the riders are unacceptable to hospitals. It is going to dramatically impact hospitals. It reduces payments to hospitals by drastically cutting payments from valuation and management services by $6.8 billion. These services are among the most common outpatient services provided in hospitals.

It cuts Medicare bad debt payments; currently reimburses 70 percent to 65 percent; and 60 percent in 2014 and 55 percent in 2015. They are closing hospitals, literally closing hospitals in poor areas. Other health care-related riders include relaxed restrictions on many other issues that are not good.

This bill attempts to ensure that welfare funds cannot be accessed in a number of places. I might really agree with them, but it's a rider that has a serious problem.

And so, Mr. Speaker, it disturbs me, when we are making work. What does "make work" mean? Making work means that we are going through an exercise of 90 minutes of debate, which I believe may come shortly, and an eventual passage I believe of this legislation. Some have some points in it that might be relevant to some of us in different regions. However, I believe I can get to the same spot in regular order.

I am looking at legislation that can turn some of the profits that come from my region into coastal restoration and to provide for reduction of the debt. I hope there is a bipartisan response to that. Mr. Speaker, that is okay to do in regular order—meaning, having hearings, introduce the bill, let your colleagues debate it and understand it. But to throw this kitchen sink on the floor of the House when people are asking for a life raft is just to see how long we can hang out here, just see how long we can hang out.

I am all about getting a GED. I'm all about improving graduation rates of our students all across America. It's too low as we speak. But that is not the issue for this legislation. The issue is the life raft. It is to note that personal and family savings for many are exhausted.

Let me tell you something that has not been diminished. Newspaper articles suggest that the purchase of luxury items—jewelry, et cetera—is booming. It means that there is a group of prosperous, wonderful Americans who are having a heck of a good time. And I am neither envious or in any way want to criticize those purchases, but that is why the surtax is reasonable because I believe those Americans are willing to experience the benefit of this great country, the opportunity to live in a safe and secure Nation that has democracy and equality which allows them to prosper and to be part of saving their fellow Americans.

Are we conscious of World War II when we were asked that very question? For those who could not serve, every American had a role—working in factories willingly, enthusiastically. They understood the burden, the benefit, and the sacrifice.

Why in the world, when luxury items are flying off of the counters, would we be concerned. One of the issues is that we would be attacking small businesses. No, we would not. It is very difficult to, in essence, find small businesses that are at the $1 million mark. And so that seems to be an argument that is taken to a new level of understanding. I believe it will be a fair response.

Amendments that we offered in the Rules Committee, which I did, also make sense. We talked about, again, the surtax. We talked about looking at some flexible ways of getting additional income on financial transactions. I talked about an urban job-training program—one of my amendments, as I indicated, Mr. TOWNS, Mr. CLEAVER and JACKSON LEE, that had to do with partnering with the Urban League. I work very closely with the Houston Area Urban League. They are excellent in job training, to be able to go into these hard-to-serve areas where unemployment is double digit and has been for a number of years.

If we're just going to have the kitchen sink, let's add a responsible provision that really addresses job training, that really talks to the needs of job training. Why not do that? We offered that amendment in a bipartisan spirit. Let us partnership with a proven entity, the National Urban League, that could in fact help us with job training around America. And so understanding how jobs are created seems to have included this legislation.

I'm reading from a report by the Urban Institute that found—IMPAQ International, IMPAQ International and the Urban Institute found that unemployment insurance benefits the economy, reduced the fall of the GDP by 18.3 percent.

This resulted in nominal GDP being $175 billion higher in 2009 than it would have been without unemployment insurance benefits. This is documented. That's why we think it's a crisis and we should just pass it under emergency legislation, which is allowed.

Unemployment insurance kept the GDP $315 billion higher from the start of the recession through the second quarter of 2010; and, as I said, it kept an average of 1.6 million Americans on the job in each quarter. And at the low point of the recession, 1.8 million job losses were averted by unemployment insurance, lowering the unemployment rate by 1.2 percentage points.

Stand in a line trying to find a job. Some people say it's like finding a needle in a haystack. Listen to the painful stories of people who've not been able to find work.

As I stand here on the floor of the House, Mr. Speaker, I would almost venture to say that a person who worked who may be presently unemployed and still eligible might be living in their car, might just be living in their car. And here we are, fiddling while Rome is burning. I can't imagine.

Two things we want to do—payroll tax and unemployment insurance—and we've got a whole litany of throw the kitchen sink on the floor of the United States House of Representatives, a bill that is 300 pages long, jeopardizing the lives of children. We've lost some jobs, 7 million since 2007. There are a number of other elements that we could be working on.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to pass a Make It In America initiative. We have enough time. I'd like to pass a major manufacturing initiative so that America begins to make things again, that we begin to redevelop our steel industry so that we would never find a bridge built with steel from China and workers from China.

I believe that we should be collaborative. There is a worldwide economy. We're interrelated, but I believe in doing it from strength. So I think it is enormously important that we spend our time doing something that might draw bipartisan support, actually creating jobs, asking our banking friends why they have $64 trillion on their books and what's happening to homeowners who are attempting to access these dollars for refinance or home builders who have turned this economy; or why are we allowing housing stock to just sit and not finding a way to provide more dollars for neighborhood stabilization so that occupiers who have been driven to the wall don't have to do what some friends are doing out west—take up residence because they're unnecessarily being foreclosed on, some of whom probably are unemployed.

Do you consider that an emergency, that we have driven Americans to taking houses and taking their homes?

This is not the America that our ancestors sweated to build. This is not the America that the turn of the century caused an Industrial Revolution, making us the builder and producer of the world, that saw us turn out the necessary weapons of World War II. This is not that America, that we have people who are in the streets today asking why they have no relief, why they're unemployed, why they're a recent graduate from the Nation's colleges and yet cannot be employed.

That's why I'm here on the floor. That's why the Congressional Black Caucus put forward major legislation to help suggest that there is a way through. There's a way through. Our chairman sent a letter to President Barack Obama urging the administration to deliver targeted solutions to address job creation in American communities with the highest unemployment. We were broad based, including those that include African Americans, but target the highest numbers.

Does anybody remember Presidential candidate, former Attorney General Robert Francis Kennedy that went into Appalachia in 1968 and acknowledged some of these poor pockets of poverty?

Does anyone acknowledge the number of children that are impoverished in the United States? Has anyone done an overview of the pockets of poverty because manufacturing plants have closed in our Rust Belt?

Well, we initiated the effort to target those who are most in need. None of that is in this bill, the kitchen sink. We suggested nine job creation proposals that would target the most vulnerable communities. We want to give people a second chance.

Remember the lifeline, and the ship just passing by as a hand goes down once, twice, and, yes, a third time. You hear that voice shouting, Are you in the water, because it's your own fault?

We believe we should do something about it. There are more job fairs and town halls to come. Many Members are holding them on their own. And so we've focused on trying to help those vulnerable, the most vulnerable.

How did we get to where we are today? And why are we in the midst of a quarrelsome debate that will not get us anywhere?

Mr. Speaker, I would encourage the leadership to come together. Every time we travel home we hear the same thing, and I might venture to say from Democrats and Republicans. They egg us on. We know you can do it, because this body, this democratic body is the oldest democracy. We've lived by a Constitution that says, among other things, that we deserve due process, that there should be no discrimination, that we have the right to vote, many privileges that other nations do not have.

Can we imagine ourselves now, the last waning hours, to have a kitchen sink bill that has no room for success in the other body, and it is hours, minutes, seconds before the person drowns? How do we throw away all these jobs?

Now, somebody would come back to me and say, We have this bill. And I've just answered why this bill is flawed: cutting 40 weeks off of someone who is drowning in unemployment insurance; refusing to discuss a reasoned way to do the payroll tax cut, which is, taking the top 1 percent in a reasoned surtax for 10 years only starting in 2013; cutting seniors' Medicare benefits in this bill, throwing them under the bus; making sure that the unemployment benefits are bogged down with provisions that should be put in a bill.

And it should be documented that we have a problem of drug addicts who are unemployed who have paid into the insurance. Answer the question whether private businesses cannot do their own drug testing, which they have done all along to weed out individuals who may be seeking jobs. Document that people are home who are unemployed just taking drugs that may not be prescription drugs and not looking for employment. I've not seen them. I just want to have somebody come to the floor of the House, submit a document, give me a report that States all around the country are seeing people drag themselves up getting their unemployment check that are undeserving because they're on drugs.

What did I say, Mr. Speaker, you are deserving because you worked. And the law says misconduct, fraud, or other reasons dealing with those issues is the only reason to deny an unemployment check.

So I think it is important that I leave with a call of reason and to, in essence, make sure that our friends can have a sense that this is the wrong direction to go. Families like those of these soldiers; Americans in hamlets across this Nation far and wide; young people that are 2011 college graduates that we've encouraged to finish their education loaded with debt, having secured loans; families loaded with debt, homes on the verge of foreclosure, people who every day of their life worked; children whose families counted on them for little jobs that they might have tried to get. Some did get them. Certainly these are not the children that the former Speaker of the House suggested are poor and have no record or history of seeing anybody going to work. Certainly that's untrue.

In fact, if they're poor right now, they may be of a parent that worked who's been unemployed for a long period of time. They watched that parent go to work. They probably are watching that parent cry in pain because of the plight that they're in right now.

So I want my friends to know that we should not be playing at this. We should be taking this seriously. We already know that we will have a degree of war savings, and I'm looking at these numbers now. We have spent $802.3 billion for the Iraq war, $472.6 billion ongoing on the Afghan war, a lot of money. We will have some savings from the Iraq war.

We could in a bipartisan way address the question of the pained family member, the person that might be living in their car because of the plight of unemployment for a long period of time and needs the 99 weeks. We could address the question of poverty. The largest number of children are impoverished. We could work on making sure that children are able to reach the highest level of education.

We could, in essence, try to be part of the solution by helping to create jobs by introducing a major legislative initiative on job creation such as manufacturing here at home: buy American; make it in America. We could ensure that the government continues to buy American, recognizing that we have many friends around the world. I don't think that there would be any problem with us doing that.

We could stop burdening seniors. We could pass this payroll tax. Let me remind you the unemployment could be done under an emergency, the payroll tax could be done simply by taxing the wealthiest of Americans for a 10-year period. Does that sound simple? And that it is.

We could not eliminate the child tax credit. We could not stop people from receiving benefits by a long list of to-do's. We could not jeopardize States that have an 8.5 percent unemployment rate like Ohio that are desperately running out. We could be the kind of America that Tom Brokaw spoke of in "The Greatest Generation." We could answer that with the idea that the young people that are here today are beginning to build their own story of greatness, and be empathetic and sympathetic to their plight with degrees and no jobs, or maybe they had jobs during the summer and maybe they're at home with parents who are unemployed, just piling on top of themselves, just one bad luck after another.

So I'm calling upon my colleagues to find a pathway of agreement to look at what we have done in the Congressional Black Caucus, to look at the amendments that were introduced, one finally including studying whether or not this bill that comes to the floor will impact the elderly and minorities in a disproportionate way. That amendment I offered as well—Mr. CLEAVER, Mr. TOWNS and JACKSON LEE. Fair, simple amendments.

I can only call upon the good graces of this Nation, the good graces of Members of Congress, the recognition, my friends, that our job, our responsibility is to shed ourselves of the crisis of partisanship, the shackles of partisanship, and be more concerned with the pain of the American people, the fact that they don't have any time to wait, to going back and forth and going back and forth, send it to the House, fiddle around, then send it to the Senate, fiddle around, and then it comes back again. The President's suggested a veto, a one-upmanship.

Who will win while Rome burns?

While the people that we love, family members that some of us even know of, we face the same human conditions that all of America faces. I'm sure one Member of Congress will tell you of somebody in their family that is on hard times. This is not to benefit us but it is to bring about compassion and understanding for someone close to us.

So we can just get that compassion and understanding if we can just experience what a democracy is all about, a democracy that has lived and survived for 400 years, an economy that has thrived, that has given people an equal opportunity, that has said you can pull yourself up by the bootstraps, and then recognize that we're saying to America that we don't have that dream for you anymore. That we're just going to slash and burn. We're not going to be fair. We're going to throw States in a condition where they cannot overcome. We're not going to honor our commitment to our soldiers, providing for them and their families.

All we're going to do is to constantly be engaged in partisanship and disagreement.

Mr. Speaker, my time has ended. It is a clarion call for coming together in the American way. I know we can do it, and we can pass a fair, clean unemployment extension and payroll tax for the American people and my friends to my right that we all love and admire.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to address the issue of extending unemployment insurance and the payroll tax cut. If there is a single federal program that is absolutely critical to people in communities all across this nation at this time, it would be unemployment compensation benefits. Unemployed Americans must have a means to subsist, while continuing to look for work that in many parts of the country is just not there. Families have to feed children.

The American people are relying upon Congress to stand up for them when they need us the most. Now is not the time to take a vacation, go home to our families, and watch as our unemployed constituents suffer through holidays.

The bill being brought to the Floor by my Republican Colleagues does not adequately address the needs of the unemployed.

The plan put forth by my Republican colleagues has provisions to slash the duration of federal unemployment benefits by 40 weeks. Since 2008, federal programs expiring in January have provided up to 73 weeks of compensation for workers who use up 26 weeks of state benefits.

In addition, the version heading to the House Floor would slash an additional 20 weeks of federal Emergency Unemployment Compensation and it would let states reduce benefits even further. It would also impose a uniform federal work search requirement and disqualify high school dropouts not actively pursuing GEDs and millionaires from receiving benefits.

The unemployment reforms, sweeping as they are, may be lost amid other features of the Republican package.

A worker advocacy group recently described the drug testing element the "most disturbing" part of the Republican unemployment reforms. "Devising new ways to insult the unemployed only distracts from the current debate over how to best restore the nation's economy to strong footing and the discussion over how to best support the unemployed and get them back to work."

The requirement to insist that to qualify for benefits that a person has earned should require a GED or a high school diploma will have a negative impact on minorities.

The labor force participation rate for persons without a high school diploma is 20 percentage points lower than the labor force participation rate for high school graduates.

Nationally, approximately 70 percent of all students graduate from high school, but African-American and Hispanic students have a 55 percent or less chance of graduating from high school.

Only 52 percent of students in the 50 largest cities in the United States graduate from high school. That rate is below the national high school graduation rate of 70 percent, and also falls short of the 60 percent average for urban districts across the Nation.

What is needed is job training programs that are funded rather than penalties for those who for a multitude of reasons have not attained a high school diploma or GED.

Unemployed workers, many of whom rely on public transportation, need to be able to get to potential employers' places of work. Utility payments must be paid. Most people use their unemployment benefits to pay for the basics. No one is getting rich from unemployment benefits, because the weekly benefit checks are solely providing for basic food, medicine, gasoline and other necessary things many individuals with no other means of income are not able to afford.

Personal and family savings have been exhausted and 401(Ks) have been tapped, leaving many individuals and families desperate for some type of assistance until the economy improves and additional jobs are created. The extension of unemployment benefits for the long-term unemployed is an emergency. You do not play with people's lives when there is an emergency. We are in a crisis. Just ask someone who has been unemployed and looking for work, and they will tell you the same.

With a national unemployment rate of 9.1 percent, preventing and prolonging people from receiving unemployment benefits is a national tragedy. In the City of Houston, the unemployment rate stands at 8.6 percent as almost 250,000 individuals remain unemployed.

Indeed, I cannot tell you how difficult it has been to explain to my constituents who are unemployed that there will be no further extension of unemployment benefits until the Congress acts. Whether the justification for inaction is the size of the debt or the need for deficit reduction, it is clear that it is more prudent to act immediately to give individuals and families looking for work a means to survive.

Currently, individuals who are seeking work find it to be like hunting for a needle in a hay stack. For every job available today, there are four people who are currently unemployed. You can not fit a square peg in a round hole and point fingers at the three other people who when that job is filled is left unemployed. Let's be realistic, there are currently 7 million fewer jobs in the economy today compared to when this recession began.

Although according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics the state of Texas continues to have the largest year-over-year job increase in the country with a total of 253,200 jobs, there are still thousands of Texans like thousands of other Americans in dire need of a job.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

A study conducted by the research firm IMPAQ International and the Urban Institute found Unemployment Insurance benefits:

Reduced the fall in GDP by 18.3%. This resulted in nominal GDP being $175 billion higher in 2009 than it would have been without unemployment insurance benefits.

In total, unemployment insurance kept GDP $315 billion higher from the start of the recession through the second quarter of 2010; kept an average of 1.6 million Americans on the job in each quarter: at the low point of the recession, 1.8 million job losses were averted by UI benefits, lowering the unemployment rate by approximately 1.2 percentage points; made an even more positive impact than in previous recessions, thanks to the aggressive, bipartisan effort to expand unemployment insurance benefits and increase eligibility during both the Bush and Obama Administrations. "There is reason to believe," said the study, "that for this particular recession, the UI program provided stronger stabilization of real output than in many past recessions because extended benefits responded strongly."

For every dollar spent on unemployment insurance, this study found an increase in economic activity of two dollars.

According to the Economic Policy Institute, extending unemployment benefits could prevent the loss of over 500,000 jobs.

If Congress fails to act before the end of the year, Americans who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own will begin losing their unemployment benefits in January. By mid-February, 2.1 million will have their benefits cut off, and by the end of 2012 over 6 million will lose their unemployment benefits.

Congress has never allowed emergency unemployment benefits to expire when the unemployment rate is anywhere close to its current level of 9.1 percent.

Republicans seem to want to blame the unemployed for unemployment. But the truth is there are over four unemployed workers for every available job, and there are nearly 7 million fewer jobs in the economy today compared to when the recession started in December 2007.

The legislation introduced today would continue the current Federal unemployment programs through next year.

This extension not only will help the unemployed, but it also will promote economic recovery. The Congressional Budget Office has declared that unemployment benefits are "both timely and cost-effective in spurring economic activity and employment." The Economic Policy Institute has estimated that preventing UI benefits from expiring could prevent the loss of over 500,000 jobs.

In addition to continuing the Federal unemployment insurance programs for one year, the bill would provide some immediate assistance to States grappling with insolvency problems within their own UI programs.

The legislation would relieve insolvent States from interest payments on Federal loans for one year and place a one-year moratorium on higher Federal unemployment taxes that are imposed on employers in States with outstanding loans.

PAYROLL TAX CUT

For 341 days, the GOP House majority has failed to offer a clear jobs agenda. Congress must not leave Washington for the holidays without extending the payroll tax cut and unemployment benefits that put money into the economy and promote jobs.

GOP is risking tax relief for 160 million Americans while protecting massive tax cuts for 300,000 people making more than a million dollars per year. That is not fair and balanced taxation.

Extending and expanding the payroll tax cut would put $1,500 into the pockets of the typical middle class family. This may not seem like a lot to many, but to some, $1,500 is make-or break money.

GOP JOBS BILL SLASHES BENEFITS, ALLOWS STATES TO DRUG-TEST THE UNEMPLOYED

WASHINGTON—Republican leaders in the House of Representatives unveiled legislation Friday would cut 40 weeks from the duration of federal unemployment compensation and allow states to require the unemployed to pass drug tests in order to receive benefits.

Republicans have not cited any data suggesting that drug use contributes to joblessness or that there is an elevated rate of drug abuse among the unemployed. Michael Steel, a spokesman for House Speaker John Boehner (R-Ohio), said the measure is inspired by lawmakers' conversations with businesses in their districts.

Rep. Jack Kingston (R-Ga.) cited a local business this week when he introduced a stand-alone drug testing proposal. "I had an employer tell me of an overwhelming response for job openings," said Kingston. "There was just one problem: Half the people who applied could not even pass a drug test."

But Kingston's office declined to name the employer or provide any information supporting the claim. When Gov. Nikki Haley (R-S.C.) made a nearly identical claim earlier this year, it turned out to be completely untrue.

Under current law, states are not allowed to deny workers unemployment insurance for reasons other than on-the-job misconduct, fraud or earning too much money from part-time work. The new bills would expand that list to include failing a drug test. Kingston's proposal would require drug testing; the version that party leaders announced Friday would allow states to test if they chose to. The measures come at the end of a year in which dozens of state lawmakers across the country have proposed drug screening for the poor and jobless.

The House drug testing scheme is part of a much broader legislative package that would reauthorize a plethora of expiring programs, including a payroll tax cut and a portion of the existing regimen of federal unemployment insurance for the long-term jobless. Republicans would reduce the maximum duration of federal benefits from 73 to 33 weeks and permit states to cut benefits even further.

The broader bill, which also calls on the president to speed construction of the controversial Keystone XL oil pipeline, sets the stage for a showdown next week before members return to their districts for the holidays.

Dean Haehnel of the Minneapolis area is watching Congress anxiously. He said he lost his job as a marketing director for a mutual fund company in July, meaning his six months of state benefits will expire at the beginning of January. If Congress doesn't strike a deal, Haehnel will be ineligible for the additional weeks of federal benefits given the long-term jobless since 2008. He said he'd be willing to pee in a cup to keep the money flowing if he hasn't found work by then.

"It's a little bit ludicrous, but I have no problem doing it if that's what it takes," Haehnel said. "They think that's the issue?"

Haehnel, 50, said that each time he's landed an interview, it seems like 200 other people are fighting for the same job. And he said that whenever he's applied for jobs beneath the director level, he's been rejected as over-qualified. His wife is still working, but without his unemployment benefits or income from a new job, he said, his family would struggle to cover the mortgage and pay college tuition for two daughters.

In Minnesota, extending federal benefits under the current rules would make Haehnel eligible for another 60 weeks of help (the number of weeks available varies by state). The latest Republican plan would leave him with 33 weeks. Asked if he thinks he'll need the benefits for that long, Haehnel described a man at one of his weekly networking meetings with other unemployed people. That man was on the verge of leaving the workforce.

"He's right around 62 and he's been looking for almost two years, and he's going to file for Social Security," Haehnel said. "He was a normal guy. It wasn't like he was a drug addict. A normal, hardworking guy who just can't get a job."

meets mission requirements without harming unit readiness;

(2) identify various means for the management by the Department of the transition of military technicians to a system that relies on traditional personnel categories of active duty personnel, reserve component personnel, and civilian personnel, and for the management of any effects of that transition on the pay and benefits of current military technicians (including means for mitigating or avoiding such effects in the course of such transition);

Subtitle C—General Service Authorities

SEC. 521. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE UNIQUE NATURE, DEMANDS, AND HARDSHIPS OF MILITARY SERVICE.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) section 8 (clauses 12, 13, and 14) of Article I of the Constitution of the United States commits exclusively to Congress the powers to raise and support armies, provide and maintain a Navy, and make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

(2) there is no constitutional right to serve in the Armed Forces;

(3) pursuant to the powers conferred by section 8 of article I of the Constitution of the United States, it lies within the discretion of the Congress to establish qualifications for and conditions of service in the Armed Forces;

(4) the primary purpose of the Armed Forces is to prepare for and to prevail in combat should the need arise;

(5) the conduct of military operations requires members of the Armed Forces to make extraordinary sacrifices, including the ultimate sacrifice, in order to provide for the common defense;

(6) success in combat requires military units that are characterized by high morale, good order and discipline, and unit cohesion;

(7) one of the most critical elements in combat capability is unit cohesion, that is, the bonds of trust among individual members of the Armed Forces that make the combat effectiveness of a military unit greater than the sum of the combat effectiveness of individual unit members;

(8) military life is fundamentally different from civilian life in that—

(A) the extraordinary responsibilities of the Armed Forces, the unique conditions of military service, and the critical role of unit cohesion require that the military community, while subject to civilian control, exist as a specialized society; and

(B) the military society is characterized by its own laws, rules, customs, and traditions, including numerous restrictions on personal behavior, that would not be acceptable in civilian society;

(9) the standards of conduct for members of the Armed Forces regulate a member's life for 24 hours each day beginning at the moment the member enters military status and not ending until that person is discharged or otherwise separated from the Armed Forces;

(10) those standards of conduct, including the Uniform Code of Military Justice, apply to a member of the Armed Forces at all times that the member has a military status, whether the member is on base or off base, and whether the member is on duty or off duty;

(11) the pervasive application of the standards of conduct is necessary because members of the Armed Forces must be ready at all times for worldwide deployment to a combat environment;

(12) the worldwide deployment of United States military forces, the international responsibilities of the United States, and the potential for involvement of the Armed Forces in actual combat routinely make it necessary for members of the Armed Forces involuntarily to accept living conditions and working conditions that are often spartan, primitive, and characterized by forced intimacy with little or no privacy; and

(13) the Armed Forces must maintain personnel policies that are intended to recruit and retain only those persons whose presence in the Armed Forces serves the needs of the Armed Forces, contributes to the accomplishment of the missions of the Armed Forces, and maintains the high standards of the Armed Forces for morale, good order and discipline, and unit cohesion that are the essence of military capability.

(b) UNIT OPERATING TEMPO AND PERSONNEL TEMPO RECORDKEEPING.—Subsection (c) of such section is amended to read as follows:

“(A) establish a system for tracking and recording the number of days that each member of the armed forces is deployed;

“(B) prescribe policies and procedures for measuring operating tempo and personnel tempo; and “(C) maintain a central data collection repository to provide information for research, actuarial analysis, interagency reporting, and evaluation of Department of Defense programs and policies.

“(2) The data collection repository shall be able to identify—

“(A) the active and reserve component units of the armed forces that are participating at the battalion, squadron, or an equivalent level (or a higher level) in contingency operations, major training events, and other exercises and contingencies of such a scale that the exercises and contingencies receive an official designation; and “(B) the duration of their participation.

“(3) For each of the armed forces, the data collection repository shall be able to indicate, for a fiscal year—

“(A) the number of members who received the high-deployment allowance under section 436 of title 37 (or who would have been eligible to receive the allowance if the duty assignment was not excluded by the Secretary of Defense);

“(B) the number of members who received each rate of allowance paid (estimated in the case of members described in the parenthetical phrase in subparagraph (A));

“(C) the number of months each member received the allowance (or would have received it in the case of members described in the parenthetical phrase in subparagraph (A)); and “(D) the total amount expended on the allowance.

“(4) For each of the armed forces, the data collection repository shall be able to indicate, for a fiscal year, the number of days that high demand, low density units (as defined by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff) were deployed, and whether these units met the force goals for limiting deployments, as described in the personnel tempo policies applicable to that armed force.”.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—Such section is further amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(f) OTHER DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1)(A) Subject to subparagraph (B), the term ‘dwell time’ means the time a member of the armed forces or a unit spends at the permanent duty station or home port after returning from a deployment.

“(B) The Secretary of Defense may modify the definition of dwell time specified in subparagraph (A). If the Secretary establishes a different definition of such term, the Secretary shall transmit the new definition to Congress.

“(2) The term ‘operating tempo’ means the rate at which units of the armed forces are involved in all military activities, including contingency operations, exercises, and training deployments.

“(3) The term ‘personnel tempo’ means the amount of time members of the armed forces are engaged in their official duties at a location or under circumstances that make it infeasible for a member to spend off-duty time in the housing in which the member resides.”.

“(1) a plan for the construction of combatant and support vessels for the Navy developed in accordance with this section; and

“(2) a certification by the Secretary that both the budget for that fiscal year and the future-years defense program submitted to Congress in relation to such budget under section 221 of this title provide for funding of the construction of naval vessels at a level that is sufficient for the procurement of the vessels provided for in the plan under paragraph (1) on the schedule provided in that plan.

“(b) ANNUAL NAVAL VESSEL CONSTRUCTION PLAN.—(1) The annual naval vessel construction plan developed for a fiscal year for purposes of subsection (a)(1) should be designed so that the naval vessel force provided for under that plan is capable of supporting the national security strategy of the United States as set forth in the most recent national security strategy report of the President under section 108 of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 404a), except that, if at the time such plan is submitted with the defense budget materials for that fiscal year, a national security strategy report required under such section 108 has not been submitted to Congress as required by paragraph (2) or paragraph (3), if applicable, of subsection (a) of such section, then such annual plan should be designed so that the naval vessel force provided for under that plan is capable of supporting the ship force structure recommended in the report of the most recent quadrennial defense review.

“(2) Each such naval vessel construction plan shall include the following:

“(A) A detailed program for the construction of combatant and support vessels for the Navy over the next 30 fiscal years.

Such assessment shall be coordinated in advance with the commanders of the combatant commands.

“(d) CBO EVALUATION.—Not later than 60 days after the date on which the congressional defense committees receive the plan under subsection (a)(1), the Director of the Congressional Budget Office shall submit to such committees a report assessing the sufficiency of the estimated levels of annual funding included in such plan with respect to the budget submitted during the year in which the plan is submitted and the future-years defense program submitted under section 221 of this title.

SEC. 1245. IMPOSITION OF SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO THE FINANCIAL SECTOR OF IRAN.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) On November 21, 2011, the Secretary of the Treasury issued a finding under section 5318A of title 31, United States Code, that identified Iran as a jurisdiction of primary money laundering concern.

(2) In that finding, the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network of the Department of the Treasury wrote, “The Central Bank of Iran, which regulates Iranian banks, has assisted designated Iranian banks by transferring billions of dollars to these banks in 2011. In mid-2011, the CBI transferred several billion dollars to designated banks, including Saderat, Mellat, EDBI and Melli, through a variety of payment schemes. In making these transfers, the CBI attempted to evade sanctions by minimizing the direct involvement of large international banks with both CBI and designated Iranian banks.”

(3) On November 22, 2011, the Under Secretary of the Treasury for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence, David Cohen, wrote, “Treasury is calling out the entire Iranian banking sector, including the Central Bank of Iran, as posing terrorist financing, proliferation financing, and money laundering risks for the global financial system.”

(b) DESIGNATION OF FINANCIAL SECTOR OF IRAN AS OF PRIMARY MONEY LAUNDERING CONCERN.—The financial sector of Iran, including the Central Bank of Iran, is designated as a primary money laundering concern for purposes of section 5318A of title 31, United States Code, because of the threat to government and financial institutions resulting from the illicit activities of the Government of Iran, including its pursuit of nuclear weapons, support for international terrorism, and efforts to deceive responsible financial institutions and evade sanctions.

(c) FREEZING OF ASSETS OF IRANIAN FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS.—The President shall, pursuant to the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.), block and prohibit all transactions in all property and interests in property of an Iranian financial institution if such property and interests in property are in the United States, come within the United States, or are or come within the possession or control of a United States person.

(d) IMPOSITION OF SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO THE CENTRAL BANK OF IRAN AND OTHER IRANIAN FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as specifically provided in this subsection, beginning on the date that is 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President—

(A) shall prohibit the opening, and prohibit or impose strict conditions on the maintaining, in the United States of a correspondent account or a payable-through account by a foreign financial institution that the President determines has knowingly conducted or facilitated any significant financial transaction with the Central Bank of Iran or another Iranian financial institution designated by the Secretary of the Treasury for the imposition of sanctions pursuant to the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.); and

(B) may impose sanctions pursuant to the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.) with respect to the Central Bank of Iran.

(2) EXCEPTION FOR SALES OF FOOD, MEDICINE, AND MEDICAL DEVICES.—The President may not impose sanctions under paragraph (1) with respect to any person for conducting or facilitating a transaction for the sale of food, medicine, or medical devices to Iran.

(3) APPLICABILITY OF SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO FOREIGN CENTRAL BANKS.—Except as provided in paragraph (4), sanctions imposed under paragraph (1)(A) shall apply with respect to a foreign financial institution owned or controlled by the government of a foreign country, including a central bank of a foreign country, only insofar as it engages in a financial transaction for the sale or purchase of petroleum or petroleum products to or from Iran conducted or facilitated on or after that date that is 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(4) APPLICABILITY OF SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PETROLEUM TRANSACTIONS.—

(A) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and every 60 days thereafter, the Administrator of the Energy Information Administration, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of State, and the Director of National Intelligence, shall submit to Congress a report on the availability and price of petroleum and petroleum products produced in countries other than Iran in the 60-day period preceding the submission of the report.

(B) DETERMINATION REQUIRED.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and every 180 days thereafter, the President shall make a determination, based on the reports required by subparagraph (A), of whether the price and supply of petroleum and petroleum products produced in countries other than Iran is sufficient to permit purchasers of petroleum and petroleum products from Iran to reduce significantly in volume their purchases from Iran.

(C) APPLICATION OF SANCTIONS.—Except as provided in subparagraph (D), sanctions imposed under paragraph (1)(A) shall apply with respect to a financial transaction conducted or facilitated by a foreign financial institution on or after the date that is 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act for the purchase of petroleum or petroleum products from Iran if the President determines pursuant to subparagraph (B) that there is a sufficient supply of petroleum and petroleum products from countries other than Iran to permit a significant reduction in the volume of petroleum and petroleum products purchased from Iran by or through foreign financial institutions.

(D) EXCEPTION.—Sanctions imposed pursuant to paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to a foreign financial institution if the President determines and reports to Congress, not later than 90 days after the date on which the President makes the determination required by subparagraph (B), and every 180 days thereafter, that the country with primary jurisdiction over the foreign financial institution has significantly reduced its volume of crude oil purchases from Iran during the period beginning on the date on which the President submitted the last report with respect to the country under this subparagraph.

(5) WAIVER.—The President may waive the imposition of sanctions under paragraph (1) for a period of not more than 120 days, and may renew that waiver for additional periods of not more than 120 days, if the President—

(A) determines that such a waiver is in the national security interest of the United States; and

(B) submits to Congress a report—

(i) providing a justification for the waiver; and

(ii) that includes any concrete cooperation the President has received or expects to receive as a result of the waiver.

(e) MULTILATERAL DIPLOMACY INITIATIVE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The President shall—

(A) carry out an initiative of multilateral diplomacy to persuade countries purchasing oil from Iran—

(i) to limit the use by Iran of revenue from purchases of oil to purchases of non-luxury consumers goods from the country purchasing the oil; and

(ii) to prohibit purchases by Iran of—

(I) military or dual-use technology, including items—

(aa) in the Annex to the Missile Technology Control Regime Guidelines;

(bb) in the Annex on Chemicals to the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on their Destruction, done at Paris January 13, 1993, and entered into force April 29, 1997 (commonly known as the “Chemical Weapons Convention”);

(cc) in Part 1 or 2 of the Nuclear Suppliers Group Guidelines; or

(dd) on a control list of the Wassenaar Arrangement on Export Controls for Conventional Arms and Dual-Use Goods and Technologies; or

(II) any other item that could contribute to Iran’s conventional, nuclear, chemical, or biological weapons program; and

(B) conduct outreach to petroleum-producing countries to encourage those countries to increase their output of crude oil to ensure there is a sufficient supply of crude oil from countries other than Iran and to minimize any impact on the price of oil resulting from the imposition of sanctions under this section.

(2) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and every 180 days thereafter, the President shall submit to Congress a report on the efforts of the President to carry out the initiative described in paragraph (1)(A) and conduct the outreach described in paragraph (1)(B) and the results of those efforts.

(F) FORM OF REPORTS.—Each report submitted under this section shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may contain a classified annex.

SEC. 4001. AUTHORIZATION OF AMOUNTS IN FUNDING TABLES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Whenever a funding table in this division specifies a dollar amount authorized for a project, program, or activity, the obligation and expenditure of the specified dollar amount for the project, program, or activity is hereby authorized, subject to the availability of appropriations.

(b) MERIT-BASED DECISIONS.—A decision to commit, obligate, or expend funds with or to a specific entity on the basis of a dollar amount authorized pursuant to subsection (a) shall—

(1) be based on merit-based selection procedures in accordance with the requirements of sections 2304(k) and 2374 of title 10, United States Code, or on competitive procedures; and

(2) comply with other applicable provisions of law.

(c) RELATIONSHIP TO TRANSFER AND PROGRAMMING AUTHORITY.—An amount specified in the funding tables in this division may be transferred or reprogrammed under a transfer or reprogramming authority provided by another provision of this Act or by other law. The transfer or reprogramming of an amount specified in such funding tables shall not count against a ceiling on such transfers or reprogrammings under section 1001 or section 1522 of this Act or any other provision of law, unless such transfer or reprogramming would move funds between appropriation accounts.

(d) APPLICABILITY TO CLASSIFIED ANNEX.—This section applies to any classified annex that accompanies this Act.

(e) ORAL AND WRITTEN COMMUNICATIONS.—No oral or written communication concerning any amount specified in the funding tables in this division shall supersede the requirements of this section.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1540), to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2012 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

Compliance with rules of the House of Representatives and Senate regarding earmarks and congressionally directed spending items

Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives and Rule XLIV(3) of the Standing Rules of the Senate, neither this conference report nor the accompanying joint statement of managers contains any congressional earmarks, congressionally directed spending items, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits, as defined in such rules.

Explanation of funding summary

The administration's budget request for national defense discretionary programs within the jurisdiction of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives for fiscal year 2012 was $689.0 billion. Of this amount $553.0 billion was requested for the base budget programs of the Department of Defense, $117.8 billion for overseas contingency operations, and $18.1 billion for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

The agreement authorizes $662.4 billion national defense discretionary programs and includes $530.0 billion for the base budget of the Department of Defense, $115.5 billion for overseas contingency operations, and $16.9 billion for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

The following two tables summarize the discretionary authorizations in the agreement and the equivalent budget authority levels for fiscal year 2012 defense programs.

DIVISION A—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE
AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE I—PROCUREMENT

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations
Authorization of appropriations (sec. 101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 101) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2012 funding levels for procurement for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Defense-wide activities as specified in funding tables in section 4101.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 101).

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2012 funding levels for procurement for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Defense-wide activities.

Subtitle B—Army Programs

Limitation on procurement of Stryker combat vehicles (sec. 111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 112) that would limit the procurement of Stryker combat vehicles to not more than 100 until the Secretary of the Army submits written certification that the program has stable requirements and cost estimates.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on retirement of C-23 aircraft (sec. 112)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would: (1) require the Secretary of the Army to maintain at least 42 C-23 Sherpa aircraft in inventory; and (2) prevent the Secretary from retiring any C-23 aircraft until the Director of the National Guard Bureau had conducted a study to determine the number of fixed-wing and rotary-wing aircraft required to support a number of missions at low, medium, moderate, high, and very-high levels of operational risk, including Homeland defense and disaster response.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 137) that would require that, if the Secretary of Army were to retire any C-23 Sherpa aircraft, the Secretary would have to offer those aircraft to the governors of the states within whose jurisdiction the C-23s had been operating at no cost to the Federal Government. It would also allow, notwithstanding the transfer of title to an aircraft to a State, the National Guard of the State to fly the aircraft using National Guard crews in a State status.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) delete the authority for the National Guard crews in State status to operate the aircraft; and (2) add a requirement that the Secretary of the Air Force conduct a study to determine the number of fixed-wing and rotary-wing aircraft required to support a number of missions at low, medium, moderate, high, and very-high levels of operational risk, including Homeland defense and disaster response.

Multiyear procurement authority for airframes for Army UH-60M/HH-60M helicopters and Navy MH-60R/MH-60S helicopters (sec. 113)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 113) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to enter a multiyear procurement contract in accordance with section 2306b of title 10, United States Code, for up to 5 years for UH-60M/HH-60M and MH-60R/MH-60S helicopter airframes.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 154).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle C—Navy Programs

Multiyear procurement authority for mission avionics and common cockpits for Navy MH-60R/S helicopters (sec. 121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 123) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a multiyear contract to purchase mission avionics and common cockpits for Navy MH-60R/S helicopters, subject to the Secretary providing a certification that all of the criteria in section 2306b of title 10, United States Code, have been met.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 121).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Separate procurement line item for certain Littoral Combat Ship mission modules (sec. 122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 124) that would require the Secretary of Defense ensure that the Navy budget includes a separate procurement line item for the three primary mission defense modules for the Littoral Combat Ship program: (1) surface warfare modules; (2) mine countermeasures modules; and (3) anti-submarine warfare modules.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Life-cycle cost-benefit analysis on alternative maintenance and sustainability plans for the Littoral Combat Ship program (sec. 123)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 125) that would require that the Secretary of the Navy to conduct a life cycle cost-benefit analysis, in accordance with the Office of Management and Budget Circular A-94, comparing alternative maintenance and sustainability plans for the Littoral Combat Ship program. The Secretary would be required to submit a report on that analysis to the congressional defense committees with the fiscal year 2013 budget request.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of Ford-class aircraft carrier construction authority (sec. 124)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 127) that would: (1) authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a multiyear contract for the Ford-class aircraft carriers designated CVN-79 and CVN-80 and for the construction of major components, modules, or other structures related to such carriers; and (2) amend section 121(a) of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364) to allow the Secretary to fund these aircraft carriers over a 5 year period. Section 121(a) now provides the authority for the Secretary to fund the ships over a 4 year period (“...in the fiscal year of the contract and the three succeeding fiscal years.”).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to fund these aircraft carriers over a 5 year period.

Subtitle D—Air Force Programs

Strategic airlift aircraft force structure (sec. 131)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 136) that would amend section 8062(g)(1) of title 10, United States Code, to reduce the number of strategic airlift aircraft the Air Force must maintain from 316 aircraft to 301 aircraft.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitations on the use of funds to retire B-1 bomber aircraft (sec. 132)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 131) that would prohibit the Secretary of the Air Force from retiring six B-1 bomber aircraft until January 1, 2018, and would identify minimum inventory levels for combat coded, primary, back-up and attrition reserve aircraft.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 134) that would prevent the Secretary of the Air Force from retiring any B-1 bomber aircraft until the Secretary submitted a modernization plan to the congressional defense committees.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to submit a B-1 modernization plan and would authorize the retirement of six B-1 bomber aircraft as follows: three training aircraft in fiscal year 2012, one combat-coded aircraft in fiscal year 2014, one combat-coded aircraft in fiscal year 2015, and one combat-coded aircraft in fiscal year 2016.

The conferees expect the Secretary of the Air Force to maintain non-retired B-1 aircraft in a condition that addresses Congressional intent of having a remaining fleet of 60 B-1 aircraft prepared to meet warfighting plans of the combatant commanders.

Limitation on retirement of U-2 aircraft (sec. 133)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 135) that would prohibit the retirement of the U-2 aircraft until the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD(AT&L)) certifies that the operating and sustainment (O&S) costs for the Global Hawk are less than the O&S costs for the U-2 on a comparable flight-hour cost basis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add an additional limitation, requiring that the Chairman of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council certify that the capability to be fielded at the same time or before the U-2 aircraft retirement would result in equal or greater capability available to the combatant commanders.

The USD (AT&L) certification in June, 2011, pursuant to the Global Hawk Nunn-McCurdy cost breach (section 2433a of title 10, United States Code), noted that the U-2 is less expensive to operate on a flight hour basis, but pointed out that, because the Global Hawk has greater endurance than the U-2, fewer sorties are required to fulfill requirements, such that the Global Hawk is less expensive in terms of a full mission profile. The conferees acknowledge this advantage, but believe that flight hour cost is a relevant metric that should favor the more modern, unmanned platform.

The conferees are concerned about Department of Defense (DOD) transition plans in U.S. Pacific Command (PACOM). The U-2 has been operated basically as a dedicated asset to support U.S. Forces Korea and Combined Forces Command, but the Global Hawks that are slated to replace them will be operated as a PACOM-wide asset, substantially reducing collection on the Korean Peninsula.

Global Hawk's imaging sensors also have substantially less range than the Senior Year Electro-optical Reconnaissance System (SYERS) and the Advanced Synthetic Aperture Radar System II carried by the U-2. In the high-threat Korean Peninsula, this range disadvantage equates to reduced coverage and/or increased risk from operating at reduced standoff ranges. The conferees are informed that the Air Force is considering development of a SYERS-like electro-optical imaging system that would fit in the Global Hawk. While this initiative is welcome, it may be years before it is available, and does not address the gap in radar performance.

DOD hoped that a Foreign Military Sale to South Korea of a number of Global Hawks would mitigate the gap in coverage created by DOD's Global Hawk transition plan in PACOM. This sale appears to have stalled, however. The conferees intend to assess whether the risk of a gap in intelligence collection in Korea is significant and to examine alternatives.

Availability of fiscal year 2011 funds for research and development relating to the B-2 bomber aircraft (sec. 134)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 132) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to use up to $20.0 million in prior year balances available in the B-2 bomber program in Aircraft Procurement and not needed for low observable signature and supportability modifications and trainer system upgrades, to continue the modifications necessary to allow the B-2 to carry a mix of conventional rotary launcher assembly and smart bomb rack assembly conventional weapons from a single aircraft. This effort was started in fiscal year 2011, is funded in the future-years defense program, but is not funded in the fiscal year 2012 budget request. This provision would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to use funds already in the B-2 program budget to continue the mixed load modifications.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change “shall be available” to “may be available”.

Availability of fiscal year 2011 funds to support alternative options for extremely high frequency terminal Increment 1 program of record (sec. 135)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 133) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to use up to $15.0 million in prior year balances available in the B-2 bomber program in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force (APAF), and not needed for low observable signature and supportability modifications and trainer system upgrades, to continue to explore alternatives to the Increment 1 Extremely High Frequency (EHF) terminal program of record. The provision would authorize the Secretary to use these funds as part of the EHF terminal program which is funded in APAF line 76. The EHF terminal will be used in the B-2 and other aircraft.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change “$15,000,000 shall be available” to “$15,000,000 may be available”.

Procurement of advanced extremely high frequency satellites (sec. 136)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 132) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into a fixed price contract to procure two Advanced Extremely High Frequency (AEHF) satellites, authorize incremental funding of the two AEHF satellites over a period not to exceed 5 years, and establish a limitation on the total funds to be obligated and expended for the procurement. This section would also require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on contract details, cost savings, and plans for reinvesting the cost savings into capability improvements for future blocks of AEHF satellites.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 131).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize a 6 year period and a sense of Congress that the Secretary should not enter into a fixed-price contract under subsection (a) for the procurement of two advanced extremely high frequency satellites unless the Secretary determines that entering into such a contract will save the Air Force not less than 20 percent over the cost of procuring two such satellites separately.

The conferees do not support the request for advanced appropriations authority and note that such authority has not been provided to the Department in the past and would limit the oversight ability of future Congresses.

*Subtitle E—Joint and Multiservice Matters
Limitation on availability of funds for acquisition of joint tactical radio system (sec. 141)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 143) that would limit the obligation of funds of the Joint Tactical Radio System to not more than 70 percent of the requested amount until the Secretary of the Army submits written certification that full rate production includes full and open competition.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for aviation foreign internal defense program (sec. 142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 144) that would prohibit more than 50 percent of the funds available in fiscal year 2012 for the procurement of fixed-wing non-standard aviation aircraft in support of the aviation foreign internal defense program from being obligated or expended until 30 days after the Commander of U.S. Special Operations Command submits a required report on the aviation foreign internal defense program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify the elements of the required report.

F-35 Joint Strike Fighter aircraft (sec. 143)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 152) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that, in entering into a contract for the fifth low-rate initial production (LRIP) contract lot for the F-35 Lightning II Joint Strike Fighter (JSF) aircraft: (1) the contract is a fixed price contract; and (2) the contract requires the contractor to assume full responsibility for costs under the contract above the target cost specified in the contract.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the provision to make the requirement apply to the sixth and all subsequent low-rate initial production contracts.

Additional oversight requirements for the undersea mobility acquisition program of the United States Special Operations Command (sec. 144)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 155) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to designate the undersea mobility acquisition program of the United States Special Operations Command as a major defense acquisition program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to make an assessment and determination, prior to any milestone B acquisition decision, on whether to treat the Dry Combat Submersible-Light, Dry Combat Submersible-Medium, Next-Generation Submarine Shelter, and any other future dry combat submersible programs of the United States Special Operations Command, as major defense acquisition programs. The Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics will include in his assessment a requirements validation by the Joint Requirements Oversight Council, an independent cost estimate prepared by the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation, a test and evaluation master plan reviewed by the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, and a technology readiness assessment reviewed by the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering. At least 30 days prior to any milestone B acquisition decision on the programs listed above, the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics shall provide to the congressional defense committees his determination of the appropriate acquisition category for these programs, including the validated requirements, independent cost estimate, test and evaluation master plan, and technology readiness assessment.

Inclusion of information on approved Combat Mission Requirements in quarterly reports on use of Combat Mission Requirement Funds (sec. 145)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 151) that would clarify the quarterly reporting requirements related to the use of Combat Mission Requirement Funds.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System aircraft re-engining program (sec. 146)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 157) that would require: (1) the Air Force Audit Agency to submit to the congressional defense committees the results of a financial audit of the funds previously authorized and appropriated for the Joint Surveillance/Target Attack Radar System (JSTARS) aircraft re-engining program; and (2) the Secretary of the Air Force to ensure that any funds described authorized and appropriated for the JSTARS re-engining program are obligated and expended for the purpose for which originally authorized and appropriated, including, but not limited to, the installation of two engine ship sets on two operational JSTARS aircraft and the purchase of two spare engines.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the requirement to install one engine ship set to be installed on one operational JSTARS aircraft.

Authority for exchange with United Kingdom of specified F-35 Lightning II Joint Strike Fighter aircraft (sec. 147)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 159) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to exchange an F-35B short take-off and vertical landing aircraft to the United Kingdom in exchange for an F-35C carrier variant aircraft. This exchange became desirable when the United Kingdom announced that they were not intending to continue any participation in the F-35B program, but had decided instead to pursue the F-35C variant. The provision would place certain terms and conditions on the exchange to ensure that the each government gets fair value in the transaction.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on probationary period in development of short take-off, vertical landing variant of the Joint Strike Fighter (sec. 148)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 158) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees about the criteria that the Secretary determines must be satisfied before the F-35B Joint Strike Fighter can be removed from the 2 year probationary status imposed by the Secretary on or about January 6, 2011, and several other matters.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Report on plan to implement Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 measures within the Joint Strike Fighter aircraft program (sec. 149)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 153) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to submit a report on the plans of the Department of Defense to implement the requirements of the Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-23), and the amendments made by that Act, within the Joint Strike Fighter aircraft program. The provision would require that the Under Secretary submit a report with the budget request for fiscal year 2013.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Legislative Provisions Not Adopted

Multiyear funding for detail design and construction of LHA replacement ship designated LHA-7

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 121) that would amend section 111(a) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) to allow the Navy to fund detail design and construction for LHA-7 in fiscal year 2013, in addition to fiscal years 2011 and 2012, as was originally authorized by section 111(a).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Multiyear funding for procurement of Arleigh Burke-class destroyers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 122) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a multiyear contract for the DDG-51 Arleigh Burke-class destroyers and government-furnished equipment associated with such destroyers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Limitation on availability of funds for F/A-18 service life extension program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 126) that would prevent the Secretary of the Navy from spending any funds on a program to extend the service life beyond 8,600 hours pending submission of that required report. The Navy submitted the required report after the House of Representatives passed the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (H.R. 1540).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Contracts for commercial imaging satellite capabilities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 142) that would repeal section 127 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

The conferees agree that commercial imaging satellites are a key part of the overhead imagery architecture, and the related legislation should not be overly prescriptive. The executive agencies should reach consensus on capability requirements and allow commercial imagery service providers to offer the best value solutions that meet the needs of the government. The conferees look forward to the executive agencies further identification of the role(s) and requirements of commercial imagery, specifically in the context of a broader intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance strategy. The conferees plan to actively monitor this important area and consider the need for additional legislation and existing statute.

Limitation on availability of funds for commercial satellite procurement

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 145) that would prohibit the Defense Information Systems Agency and the Air Force from obligating more than 20 percent of the funds available for fiscal year 2012 for commercial satellite procurement until the Secretary of Defense provides an independent assessment of the acquisition strategy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Separate procurement line item for non-lethal weapons funding

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 147) that would require future budget requests to include a separate procurement line item for each military department for non-lethal weapons.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Study on domestic capacity for manufacture of ship shafts and other forged components

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 148) that would require the Secretary of Defense to measure the domestic capacity to manufacture ship shafts and other forged components used by Navy combatants.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

The conferees understand that the Department is already conducting a review that will produce such a measurement of industry capacity.

Transfer of Air Force C-12 Liberty Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance Aircraft to the Army

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 156) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and implement a plan for the orderly transfer of the Air Force MC-12 Liberty intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) aircraft to the Army.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recesses.

The Senate based this position on the view that: (1) the Department of Defense (DOD) does not need two fleets of C-12-based ISR aircraft equipped with full-motion video and tactical signals intelligence sensors supporting ground forces (the MC-12 Liberty in the Air Force and the Enhanced Medium Altitude Reconnaissance and Surveillance System (EMARSS) in the Army); (2) the Army is more likely than the Air Force to maintain a commitment to this type of platform and mission; (3) the Army has an existing and available pool of C-12 pilots and infrastructure; and (4) the Air Force has a shortage of pilots for its rapidly growing unmanned aerial vehicle fleet.

The DOD leadership, including the Deputy Secretary of Defense, the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence (USD(I)), and the Secretaries of the Air Force and Army, informed the conferees that they all believe that the Air Force should continue to operate and manage the MC-12 Liberty fleet and assured the conferees that the Air Force is committed to the mission.

The conferees accept DOD's judgment, but note that other actions within the Department send mixed signals about the conclusions these officials have reached.

The conferees understand that the Air Force has already proposed to transfer the Liberty aircraft to the Air National Guard, despite assurances to the conferees from the USD(I) that this would not be allowed to happen. The conferees have concerns about the ability of the Air National Guard to sustain the levels of forward deployment and operational tempo required to meet the needs of Army, Marine Corps, and special forces ground units. The conferees are not opposed to having the Air National Guard contribute to this mission by operating at least a portion of these assets as the demand for high levels of forward deployment recedes. However, that level of participation should be consistent with meeting the demands of the combatant commanders, when considering the strains in operating tempo that would be placed on the Air National Guard force. The conferees urge the Department, in making any decision on transfers of this mission and aircraft to the Guard, to consider requirements for aircraft of this type to assist in border control and counter-narcotics operations.

The conferees expect that the decision to keep the Liberty aircraft in the Air Force as a theater-level asset would be reflected in a commitment by the combatant commanders to follow established allocation procedures through the Joint Forces Air Component Commander process in supporting deployed joint forces, obviating the need for a second fleet of EMARSS aircraft in the Army.

TITLE II—RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION BUDGET ITEM

Armored multipurpose vehicle program

The budget request included $53.3 million in PE 23735A for combat vehicle improvement. Of this amount, $31.4 million was requested for the Armored Multipurpose Vehicle (AMPV) program.

The House bill would authorize $78.3 million in PE 23735A, an increase of $25.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $53.3 million in PE 23735A for combat vehicle improvement.

The House recesses. The conferees strongly support the AMPV program moving forward as quickly as possible. The conferees note that in 2007 the Army identified the M-113 Armored Personnel Carrier for replacement due to its inadequate survivability and force protection. As currently planned, the AMPV's low-rate initial production will not occur until 2016. The conferees believe that this timeline is too long and that numerous options exist to accelerate the replacement of M-113s such as modified versions of existing Army tracked or wheeled vehicle systems. The conferees are concerned, however, that production of many of the Army's current tracked and wheeled combat vehicles will end before 2016. Therefore, the conferees urge the Army to carefully consider competitive selection from modified existing armored vehicle systems to control costs and avoid delay in development, testing, production, and fielding of an M-113 replacement vehicle. As part of this competitive selection, the conferees encourage the Army to consider the use of existing acquisition authorities to begin this M-113 replacement effort as an engineering change proposal or upgrade program, if that approach reduces cost, and shortens the development and testing timelines.

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations
Authorization of appropriations (sec. 201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 201) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2012 for the use of the Department of Defense for research, development, test, and evaluation.

The Senate bill contained an identical provision (sec. 201).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements,
Restrictions, and Limitations

Limitation on availability of funds for the ground combat vehicle program (sec. 211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would limit obligation or expenditure of funds to not more than 70 percent for the Ground Combat Vehicle (GCV) program until the Army provides a report containing an updated analysis of alternatives.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the obligation or expenditure of funds to not more than 80 percent for the program until submission of a report containing the Army's plans to carry out a dynamic analysis of alternatives and a description of the resources needed to conduct a separate assessment of selected non-developmental vehicles in accordance with the acquisition decision memorandum dated August 17, 2011.

The conferees continue to support the Army's goal of pursuing a modernized combat vehicle. However, before the Army starts another major development program that could cost $30.0 to $40.0 billion, the conferees want assurances that the GCV will be significantly more capable than a potentially less expensive upgraded version of currently fielded platforms. The conferees agree with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics directive for the Army to conduct a dynamic analysis of alternatives and separate assessment of selected non-developmental vehicles. The conferees are concerned about the differences between the Army's and the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation's unit cost estimates and expect these differences to be resolved during the technology development phase of the program.

(sec. 212)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require the Army to conduct an analysis of alternatives (AOA) for the Individual Carbine program and prohibit the approval of a full rate production decision until the AOA has been reported. The provision would also give the Secretary of Defense waiver authority.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a business case analysis instead of an AOA and modify the Secretary of Defense's waiver authority.

*Limitation on availability of funds for future unmanned carrier-based strike system (sec.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 223) that would prevent the Secretary of Defense from obligating more than 15 percent of the fiscal year 2012 program funds for the unmanned carrier launched airborne surveillance and strike (UCLASS) program until the Department made certain certifications and established acquisition baselines for the program. The provision would also require the Comptroller General to assess the acquisition strategy defined by the Department as part of that effort, and to report to the congressional defense committees on that assessment.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 213) that that would prevent the Secretary of Defense from obligating more than 50 percent of the UCLASS program funds until Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics certifies that the congressional defense committees that the acquisition strategy he approved at Milestone A requires implementation of open architecture standards for the program.

The conferees agree to a provision that would prevent the Navy from obligating more than 75 percent of the funds available to the program until 60 days after the date on which: (1) the Chairman of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council makes certain certifications about requirements; (2) the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Development, and Acquisition submits a report describing certain acquisition program attributes; and (3) the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics certifies certain aspects of the program plan.

assault vehicles of the Marine Corps
(sec. 214)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 214) that would prohibit the obligation of funds made available after the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 for Marine Corps amphibious assault vehicles until the Secretary of the Navy provided Congress a report on requirements and an analysis of alternatives (AoA) for amphibious assault vehicles.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 214) that would prohibit Milestone B approval of the Marine Personnel Carrier (MPC) until the AoA is submitted to Congress; allow the Marine Corps to obligate funds for amphibious assault vehicle research and development, and testing, necessary to support the AoA and the development of requirements for the Amphibious Combat Vehicle (ACV); and require the Director, Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation, to conduct life cycle cost assessments of the portfolio of Marine Corps ground vehicles prior to Milestone B approval.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would (1) allow the Marine Corps to obligate funds for amphibious assault vehicle activities to support survivability or other operational issues, to support the AoA, or to support the development of requirements for the ACV; (2) allow the Marine Corps to obligate funds for amphibious vehicles for other purposes after submitting a report to Congress on combatant commanders' requirements for amphibious assault vehicles; (3) prohibit Milestone B approval for the MPC until the requirements report is submitted to Congress; and (4) require a habitability assessment report based on ongoing Marine Corps evaluations.

*Limitation on obligation of funds for the F-35
Lightning II aircraft program (sec. 215)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would prohibit obligation or expenditure of any funds for performance improvements to the F-35 propulsion system unless the Secretary of Defense ensures competitive development and production of the F-35 propulsion system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would prevent the obligation of more than 80 percent of the research and development funding for the F-35 program until the Secretary of Defense certifies to the congressional defense committees that the acquisition strategy for the F-35 program includes a plan for achieving competition throughout operation and sustainment, in accordance with section 202(d) of the Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-23).

Limitation on use of funds for Increment 2 of B-2 bomber aircraft extremely high frequency satellite communications program (sec. 216)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 212) that would prohibit the Secretary from obligating or expending funds for Increment 2 of the B-2 Bomber aircraft Extremely High Frequency (EHF) Satellite Communications program, until the Secretary of the Air Force makes a series of certifications and a report with respect to the acquisition plan for Increment 2, which consists of the integration of an EHF terminal and low observable antenna for secure strategic communications. The required certifications would be that the U.S. Government owns the data rights for the antennas, and that the antenna technology selected is the most cost effective and lowest risk option for the B-2. The report would include a detailed plan setting forth the projected cost and schedule for the research, development, and testing of the antenna.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would prohibit spending 60 percent of funds available until the Secretary of the Air Force makes the above certification.

*Limitation on availability of funds for the Joint Space Operations Center management system
(sec. 217)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 217) that would limit the obligation or expenditure of funds authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2012 for Release 1 of the Joint Space Operations Center Management System (JMS) until the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics and the Secretary of the Air Force jointly provide to the congressional defense committees the acquisition strategy for JMS, to include a description of the acquisition policies and procedures applicable to JMS and any additional acquisition authorities that may be necessary.

This section would also express a sense of Congress that improvements to U.S. space situational awareness and space command and control capabilities are necessary, and the traditional defense acquisition process is not optimal for developing the services oriented architecture and net-centric environment planned for JMS.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for wireless innovation fund (sec. 218)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 218) that would limit the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency to obligating or expending not more than 10 percent of funds authorized to be appropriated for the wireless innovation fund until 30 days after the date on which the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics submits a report on how such funds will be managed and executed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Prohibition on delegation of budgeting authority for certain research and educational programs (sec. 219)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 222) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from delegating authority for the Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) program to any individual outside of the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct that any amounts appropriated for the HBCU/Minority Institutions program, in a program element other than PE 0602228087, shall be transferred to this program element for execution consistent with the requirements of this section.

Designation of main propulsion turbomachinery of the next-generation long-range strike bomber aircraft as major subprogram (sec. 220)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 220) that would require the Secretary of Defense to designate the main propulsion system of the next-generation long-range strike bomber aircraft as a major subprogram and would require the Secretary of the Air Force to develop a competitive acquisition strategy for the propulsion system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that changes "system" to "turbomachinery" and the designation date to "30 days after Milestone A".

Designation of electromagnetic aircraft launch system development and procurement program as major subprogram (sec. 221)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 221) that would require that the Secretary of Defense designate the electromagnetic aircraft launch system (EMALS) development and procurement program as a major subprogram of the CVN-78 Ford-class aircraft carrier major defense acquisition program, in accordance with section 2430a of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide that the requirement to maintain this major subprogram designation for EMALS would expire upon successful completion of operation testing.

Advanced rotorcraft flight research and development (sec. 222)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 219) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to conduct a program for flight research and demonstration of advanced helicopter technology.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Army, if they chose to award a contract, to use full and open competition as defined in section 2302(3)(D) of title 10, United States Code.

Preservation and storage of certain property related to F136 propulsion system (sec. 223)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 252) that would require the Secretary of Defense develop and implement a plan to store and preserve property owned by the Federal Government that was acquired under the F136 propulsion system development contract that would, with the aim of ensuring that the option of allowing the contractor to fund continued development of the F136 from within contractor funds would not be precluded by actions that the Defense Department might take in implementing the announced contract termination.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require that the Secretary of Defense develop a plan that would provide for the long-term sustainment and repair of such property pending a determination of whether such property: (1) can be used within the F-35 Lightning II aircraft program, in other government development programs, or in other contractor-funded development activities; (2) should be stored for use in future government development programs; or (3) should be disposed. The provision would also require the Secretary to identify how he intends to obtain maximum benefit to the U.S. Government from the investment already made in developing the F136.

Subtitle C—Missile Defense Programs

Acquisition accountability reports on the ballistic missile defense system (sec. 231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 231) that would amend chapter 9 of title 10, United States Code, to require acquisition baselines and annual acquisition accountability reports on the ballistic missile defense system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Comptroller General review and assessment of missile defense acquisition programs (sec. 232)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 231) that would amend section 225 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) to require the Comptroller General to review and assess the annual baseline acquisition reports of the Missile Defense Agency for fiscal years 2012 through 2015, and provide annual reports to Congress on those assessments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would make this a separate provision of law, since section 225 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 is repealed elsewhere in this Act.

Homeland defense hedging policy and strategy (sec. 233)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 233) that would establish policy for a hedging strategy for homeland missile defense of the United States, and would require the Department of Defense to develop and submit such a hedging strategy to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 234).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Department of Defense to submit a report on the homeland missile defense hedging strategy.

Ground-based Midcourse Defense program (sec. 234)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 234) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the need to take steps to correct the cause of two flight test failures of the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system, and would require the Department of Defense to establish and submit to Congress a plan to address the flight test failures.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 232).

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Department of Defense to report to Congress on the details and status of the plan to correct the cause of the flight test failures.

Limitation on availability of funds for the Medium Extended Air Defense System (Sec. 235)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 232) that would limit the availability of any funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2012 for the Medium Extended Air Defense System (MEADS) until the Secretary of Defense either (1) negotiates a multilateral termination of the contract covering the program, or (2) restructures the program to ensure that specific deliverables under the contract are transitioned to United States programs of record by not later than September 30, 2013. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit notification of the details of the plan to meet either of the options permitted.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision. However, the Senate amendment did include a provision (sec. 807) that would require the Department of Defense to conduct risk assessments of future international weapon development programs, to avoid problems such as the current MEADS situation. Furthermore, the Senate amendment would authorize no fiscal year 2012 funds for the MEADS program.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the availability of more than 25 percent of fiscal year 2012 funds for MEADS until the Secretary of Defense submits a plan to use such funds as final obligations under the MEADS program for either (1) implementing a restructured MEADS program of reduced scope, or (2) contract termination liability costs with respect to the contracts covering the program. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit the plan for using fiscal year 2012 funds for the purposes permitted, with details of such plan. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit a report, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, describing the efforts the Secretary has made with Germany and Italy, including involvement by the Secretary of State, to agree on ways to minimize the costs to each nation of implementing a restructured program or of unilateral or multilateral contract termination.

The conferees are extremely disappointed that in 2004 the Department of Defense negotiated and signed a Memorandum of Understanding on the Medium Extended Air Defense System with Germany and Italy that effectively created an unacceptable situation for the United States in the event of poor program execution, significant schedule delays, or significantly increased cost estimates, such as have taken place. It is the conferees' understanding that none of the partner nations—the United States, Germany, or Italy—intend to procure and field the MEADS system. Yet, Congress has been told that the United States still must face an obligation of more than $800.0 million for contract completion or for contract termination liability in the context of our fiscal crisis.

The conferees believe the Department of Defense failed the American taxpayer by signing the Memorandum in question, and believe that it is the Department's urgent responsibility, at the highest levels, to engage with Germany and Italy to minimize possible further costs to the United States of implementing a restructured program or multilateral contract termination.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 333) that would express the sense of Congress concerning the importance of improving the integration of ballistic missile defense training across and between the combatant commands.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle D—Reports

Extension of requirements for biennial roadmap and annual review and certification on funding for development of hypersonics (sec. 241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 251) that would extend the biennial reporting requirement from the Department of Defense on hypersonic weapons development from 2012 to 2020.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the reporting requirement from 2012 to 2016.

Report and cost assessment of options for Ohio-class replacement ballistic missile submarine (sec. 242)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that contained a series of findings and expressed a sense of Congress on the program to replace the Ohio-class ballistic missile submarine. The House provision would also limit, to not more than 90 percent, the obligation or expenditure of fiscal year 2012 funds authorized or otherwise made available for such program until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the congressional defense committees on the program including, among other matters, the analysis and cost estimates that supported the Department of Defense decision to reduce the planned number of missile tubes per submarine to 16.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Navy and the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command to jointly submit a report, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, assessing several options for the number of submarines and the number of missile tubes per submarine for the Ohio-class replacement program. The report would be required to assess the procurement cost and total life cycle cost of each option, the ability for each option to meet Strategic Command's at-sea requirements that are in place as of the date of enactment of this Act and any expected changes to such requirements, and the ability for each option to meet nuclear employment and planning guidance in place as of the date of enactment of this Act and any expected changes to such guidance. The report would also be required to include a description of the postulated threat and strategic environment used to inform selection of a final option, as well as how each option provides flexibility for responding to changes in the threat and strategic environment.

Report on the electromagnetic rail gun system (sec. 243)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 243) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the feasibility of developing and deploying the electromagnetic rail gun system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the reporting authority to the Secretary of the Navy, focusing on development, future deployment, and operational challenges within the Navy program. The Secretary of the Navy would be required to brief the congressional defense committees with an interim update within 90 days of enactment of this Act, and a full report within 180 days.

Annual Comptroller General report on the KC-46A aircraft acquisition program (sec. 244)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 241) that would require the Comptroller General to submit an annual report on the KC-46A program, beginning in fiscal year 2012 and concluding in fiscal year 2017. The reports would include assessment of various aspects of the program, including whether the Air Force was making any changes to the program's requirements or documentation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Independent review and assessment of cryptographic modernization program (sec. 245)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 242) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct an independent review through an appropriate entity outside of the Department of Defense (DOD) of the DOD cryptographic modernization program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on increased budget items (sec. 246)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1699F-1) that would require reports on increased budget items authorized to be appropriated by section 201 of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require a one-time report. The conferees intend the Secretary of Defense to describe the justification for awarding a contract using other than full and open competition, in the case of contracts against which funds will be obligated that were not included in the President's fiscal year 2012 budget request.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Repeal of requirement for Technology Transition Initiative (sec. 251)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 251) that would repeal the requirement for the Technology Transition Initiative.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make the repeal effective on October 1, 2013.

Further, the conferees note that the repeal of the Technology Transition Initiative is incumbent upon the receipt, no later than March 31, 2012, of the report directed in section 253 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417). The Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics has failed to comply with this statutory requirement, which was required no later than October 1, 2009.

Contractor cost-sharing in pilot program to include technology protection features during research and development of certain defense systems (sec. 252)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 261) that would require the contractor of certain research and development programs to bear at least one half of the cost of such activities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Extension of authority for mechanisms to provide funds for defense laboratories for research and development of technologies for military missions (sec. 253)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 253) that would extend the authority for funding mechanisms from October 1, 2013, till September 30, 2016.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 905(b)) that would make the authority permanent.

The Senate recedes.

However, conferees remain concerned about the Department of Defense's execution of section 219 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417). The statute requires the establishment of mechanisms under which the director of a defense laboratory may use an amount of funds equal to not more than 3 percent of all funds available to the defense laboratory for specified purposes. Current implementation varies from service to service and the conferees expect the Department and the services to establish consistent mechanisms that clearly follow the provisions of this statute. Furthermore, the conferees direct the service secretaries, in coordination with the Director of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering Laboratories Office, to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 31, 2012, on all barriers or impediments to fully implementing the statute.

National defense education program (sec. 254)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 257) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from using K-12 education funds within the National Defense Education Program (NDEP) to make up the difference should the amount authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2012 be less than the amount requested by the President.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees strongly encourage the Department that however it allocates non-K-12 funding within NDEP, existing Science, Mathematics and Research for Transformation scholarships and internships should not be impacted.

Laboratory facilities, Hanover, New Hampshire (sec. 255)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 262) that would allow the Secretary of the Army to acquire property in the vicinity of Hanover, New Hampshire, as may be needed for the Engineer Research and Development Center laboratory at the Cold Regions Research and Engineering Laboratory.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress on active matrix organic light emitting diode technology (sec. 256)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 255) that would establish a sense of Congress on the importance of organic light emitting diode (OLED) technology. The provision urges the Secretary of Defense to utilize existing programs to support the reduction of costs and risks related to the technology.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE III—OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations Operation and maintenance funding (sec. 301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 301) that would authorize fiscal year 2012 funding levels for all operation and maintenance accounts.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 301).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Energy and Environmental Provisions

Designation of senior official of Joint Chiefs of Staff for operational energy plans and programs and operational energy budget certification (sec. 311)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 311) that would require the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to designate a senior official to be responsible for operational energy plans and programs for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Joint Staff, and for coordinating with the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Operational Energy, Plans, and Programs and implementing initiatives pursuant to the operational energy strategy established by the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Operational Energy, Plans, and Programs. The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 315).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that eliminates the 270 day deadline for the reporting of a discharge necessary for purposes of securing the safety of the ship, the health of the ship's personnel, or saving life at sea.

Modification to the responsibilities of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Operational Energy, Plans, and Programs (sec. 314)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 315) that would designate one of the military departments to serve as the executive agent for alternative fuel development for the Department of Defense (DOD).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would modify the responsibilities of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Operational Energy, Plans, and Programs, in consultation with the military departments and the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering, to include development and oversight of alternative fuels activities and the streamlining of alternative fuel investments.

The conferees note that the amendment would also include a modification to the reporting requirement set forth in section 2925(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code.

Energy-efficient technologies in contracts for logistics support of contingency operations (sec. 315)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 316) that would require the Secretary of Defense to give favorable consideration in the award of logistics support contracts for contingency operations to offers that include energy-efficient or energy reduction technologies or processes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

Health assessment reports required when waste is disposed of in open-air burn pits (sec. 316)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 317) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a health assessment report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives when certain waste is disposed of in open-air burn pits during contingency operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Streamlined annual report on defense environmental programs (sec. 317)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 312) that would streamline the Defense Department's Annual Report to Congress on Defense Environmental Programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that the report would cover fiscal years vice calendar years, and to reference the "environmental restoration program" instead of the "installation restoration program."

The conferees note that the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the military departments present their environmental account information to the defense committees in varying formats. It is the intention of the conferees that this streamlined report will include the total funds expended by account by the Department of Defense and by each military department. It is also the intention that the Defense Department use consistent nomenclature and metrics when reporting its environmental data to ensure that the defense committees can exercise proper oversight of the environmental program funding.

Payment to Environmental Protection Agency of stipulated penalties in connection with Jackson Park Housing Complex, Washington (sec. 318)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 313) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to pay a stipulated penalty to the Environmental Protection Agency.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1089).

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Logistics and Sustainment

Definition of depot-level maintenance and repair (sec. 321)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 321) that would modify and clarify the definition of depot-level maintenance and repair.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the study on the future capability of the Department of Defense maintenance depots directed by section 322 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417) found that the existing statutory definition was ambiguous and subject to interpretation. The conferees are concerned that these ambiguities are directly affecting the development of core depot maintenance capabilities and allocation of sustaining workloads. To resolve these ambiguities, the conferees specifically addressed in the provision the depot-level maintenance of software and the installation of modifications or upgrades. The conferees have removed exceptions from the definition and have addressed that issue more appropriately in the core depot-maintenance capability provision provided for elsewhere in this Act.

Designation of military arsenal facilities as Centers of Industrial and Technical Excellence (sec. 322)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 323) that would amend 10 U.S.C. 2474 by allowing military industrial facilities to be designated as Centers of Industrial and Technical Excellence (CITE).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 323).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would ensure that Army arsenals are designated as CITE.

Permanent and expanded authority for Army industrial facilities to enter into certain cooperative arrangements with non-Army entities (sec. 323)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 325) that would give permanent and expanded authority to the Secretary of the Army to enter into certain cooperative arrangements with non-Army entities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 341) that would increase the limit of cooperative arrangements and expand the expiration clause.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that 10 U.S.C. 4544 is the appropriate partnering authority for cooperative arrangements with non-Army entities. The conferees further note that the Secretary of the Army shall evaluate all cooperative arrangements previously entered into under the Arsenal Support Program Initiative to determine which, if any, cooperative arrangements should be continued and transferred under the appropriate authority of 10 U.S.C. 4544.

Implementation of corrective actions resulting from corrosion study of the F-22 and F-35 aircraft (sec. 324)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 327) that would require the Department of Defense (DOD) to implement the recommendations of the Government Accountability Office (GAO) study of the F-22 Raptor and F-35 Joint Strike Fighter aircraft or submit to Congress a written justification for any decision not to do so.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 825).

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that language from the Senate provision requiring DOD to address corrosion issues at the time of milestone decisions is addressed in a separate provision of the bill.

The GAO study found that the DOD had not adequately addressed the problem of corrosion and resulting material degradation in the design, development, and testing of these weapon systems. The conferees agree that renewed focus in the area of corrosion prevention and mitigation, with the active participation of the Director of Corrosion Policy and Oversight, is needed to address material degradation issues that can significantly impact the affordability and sustainability of a major weapon systems over its entire service life.

In addressing the recommendations of the GAO report, the conferees expect the Department to specifically address the following issues: (1) with regard to the F-22 Raptor program, the need for a plan to manage cumulative corrosion damage in order to mitigate long-term structure risk to the aircraft; and (2) with regard to the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program, the need for an update to the F-35 Corrosion Prevention and Control plan with lessons learned from the F-22 program, a plan for full climatic testing early in the program to robustly address the effects of severe wet weather, temperature extremes, and high humidity, an appropriate corrosion risk mitigation follow-on plan (including management of the corrosion risk of parts qualified by similarity), expanded involvement of the Naval Air Systems Command corrosion testing capability and Air Force Research Laboratory low-observable testing capability, reconsideration of the selection of materials and coating, and responsibility for management of the Autonomic Logistics Information System link with the Aircraft Structural Integrity Program.

Modification of requirements relating to minimum capital investment for certain depots (sec. 325)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 328) that would modify the requirements relating to minimum capital investment for certain depots.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 321).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure that capital investment funds are spent solely to modernize or improve the efficiency of depot facilities, equipment, work environment, or processes in direct support of depot operations.

The conferees note that sustainment operation and maintenance funding does not count towards the 6 percent minimum capital investment requirement, but restoration and modernization operation and maintenance funding does.

Reports on depot-related activities (sec. 326)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 324) that would require a report from the Secretary of Defense on the status of the drawdown, retrograde, and reset program for the equipment used in support of operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The provision would also require a report on the alignment, organizational reporting, and performance rating of Air Force system program managers, product support managers at Air Logistics Centers or Air Logistics Complexes, and a review of the civilian and military command structure associated with the Air Force Materiel Command realignment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Core depot-level maintenance and repair capabilities (sec. 327)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 322) that would modify core logistics capabilities requirements (10 U.S.C. 2464) and require an annual report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the study on the future capability of the Department of Defense (DOD) maintenance depots directed by section 322 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417) found that the existing core determination process should be revised to ensure that it is visible and readily understood. Through this conference agreement, the conferees confirm the criticality of a government-controlled source of repair to support warfighter requirements. The conferees believe a streamlined core policy that eliminates exclusions and exemptions and instead provides for conditional waivers of government performance is in keeping with the section 322 study's recommendations. To provide greater transparency of the core determination process, the conference agreement includes an annual core report that should align capital investment to support current and emerging core requirements and better align sustainment planning with acquisition and development.

Subtitle D—Readiness

Modification of Department of Defense authority to accept voluntary contributions of funds (sec. 331)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 331) that would make a technical amendment to section 358(g) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) to clarify that voluntary contributions received from developers to offset the cost of mitigating adverse impacts on military operations and readiness and may be used for the purpose of conducting studies and will remain available until expended.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 344).

The Senate recedes.

Review of proposed structures affecting navigable airspace (sec. 332)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 332) that would require the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration to develop procedures to allow the Department of Defense and the Department of Homeland Security to review and comment on aeronautical studies prior to completion of such studies.

The Senate amendment no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle E—Reports

Annual certification and modifications of annual report on prepositioned materiel and equipment (sec. 341)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 341) that would, upon the arrival of the President's budget request for a fiscal year under section 1105 of title 31, require the Secretary of Defense to certify in writing that the prepositioned stocks of each of the military departments meet all operational plans, in both rate of fill and readiness. The provision also would require the Secretary of Defense to report on the inclusion of non-standard items selected for inclusion in prepositioned stocks and the long-term sustainment plan beyond current operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Additional matters for inclusion in and modified deadline for the annual report on operational energy (sec. 342)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 346) that would increase the reporting requirements for the annual report on operational energy.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 334) that would modify the deadline for the annual report on operational energy.

The Senate recedes.

Study on Air Force test and training range infrastructure (sec. 343)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 331) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to conduct a study on the ability of the major air test and training range infrastructure to support the full spectrum of Air Force operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Study on training range infrastructure for special operations forces (sec. 344)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 332) that would require the Commander of U.S. Special Operations Command to conduct a study on existing training ranges used by special operations forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Study on United States force posture in the United States Pacific Command area of responsibility (sec. 346)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 345) that would require the Secretary of Defense to study training requirements in the United States Pacific Command area of responsibility.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1079) that would require an independent assessment of the United States force posture in East Asia and the Pacific.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require an independent assessment of the United States military force posture throughout the Pacific Command area of responsibility.

The conferees note that over recent years, the United States has embarked on a number of initiatives in the Pacific Command area of responsibility that are intended to realign our military force structure to respond to regional interests and, in this regard, U.S. bilateral security arrangements, especially with Japan and the Republic of Korea. Our continued strong alliance and cooperation with these two countries maintain a significant part of the foundation that supports our force posture and military activities in the region. Accordingly, the conferees direct that the assessment required by this provision include a particular focus on the current posture and plans for United States force realignments in Korea, Okinawa, and Guam.

The amendment also includes a requirement for an independent study of the overseas basing presence of United States forces, as codified in section 347.

Study on overseas basing presence of United States forces (sec. 347)

The conferees agreed to a study on overseas basing presence of United States Forces. Inclusion of assessment of joint military training and force allocations in Quadrennial Defense Review and National Military Strategy (sec. 348)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 344) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct an assessment of joint military training and the effectiveness of the Joint Staff in carrying out the missions of planning and experimentation formerly accomplished by United States Joint Forces Command.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include the assessment of joint military training and force allocations in the Quadrennial Defense Review and National Military Strategy.

Modification of report on procurement of military working dogs (sec. 349)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 343) that would amend section 358 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417), which is codified at section 2302 (note) of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to provide additional information on the use of military working dogs on a contracted basis, the status of the Department's breeding programs, and the future military working dog force structure.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would retain the data elements currently required in the report and change the reporting interval to biennial vice annual.

Subtitle F—Limitations and Extension of Authority

Adoption of military working dog by family of deceased or seriously wounded member of the armed forces who was the dog's handler (sec. 351)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 351) that would amend section 2583(c) of title 10, United States Code, to clarify the circumstances justifying the adoption of a military working dog prior to the end of its useful life and to authorize the adoption of a military working dog by certain family members of a deceased or seriously wounded member of the armed forces who was the handler of the dog.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Prohibition on expansion of the Air Force food transformation initiative (sec. 352)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 352) that would prohibit the expansion of the Air Force food transformation initiative until 270 days after the Secretary of the Air Force reports to the congressional defense committees on the implementation and impact of the initiative.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would prohibit the expansion of the initiative until the Secretary submits the report, and simplifying the reporting requirement.

Designation and limitation on obligation and expenditure of funds for the migration of Army enterprise email services (sec. 353)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 353) that would limit the obligation or expenditure of funds for the migration of Army enterprise email services until the Secretary of the Army delivers a report comparing the service provided by the Defense Information Systems Agency and the Army Knowledge Online system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would designate the Army enterprise email services program a formal acquisition program under the oversight of the Army acquisition executive, and change the limitation from 2 percent of the funds to no funds. It also adds additional provisions to the report required to lift the limitation.

The conferees note their concern about the execution of the migration of Army enterprise email services, but also recognize that currently many Army users have already migrated to the new Defense Information Systems Agency-provided solution. The conferees interpret the existing legislative language to be a limitation only on funds for the continued migration of users and not for the sustainment and maintenance of those users already migrated.

One-year extension of pilot program for availability of working-capital funds to Army for certain product improvements (sec. 354)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 354) that would extend section 330(f) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (P.L. 110-181) by 1 year.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle G—Other Matters

Commercial sale of small arms ammunition and small arms ammunition components in excess of military requirements, and fired cartridge cases (sec. 361)

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 343) that would amend section 346 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) by making available for sale any small arms ammunition and small ammunition components which are in excess of military requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the intent of section 346 of Public Law 111-383, as amended, is to clarify that the only fired cartridge cases (referred to as expended small arms cartridge cases) subject to the provision are intact expended small arms cartridge cases and that the provision does not apply outside the continental United States or overrides established Department of Defense (DOD) trade security controls or explosives safety controls. The conferees note that the DOD would be permitted to demilitarize and recycle expended small arms cartridge cases covered by the provision so long as there is not a significant decrease in intact expended small arms cartridge cases being made available for sale and there is no evidence that commercial demands are not generally being met. The conferees note that based on its current force structure and training requirements, the DOD currently makes approximately 6-8 million pounds of intact (non-demilitarized) expended small arms cartridge cases available each year for commercial sales. The conferees recognize that the amount made available may change as the DOD's force structure or training requirements change. The conferees note that the DOD would be responsible for assessing commercial demands for the purpose of implementing this requirement; the conferees understand that the DOD may choose to conduct market surveys or studies to assess commercial demands for this purpose.

Comptroller General review on space-available travel on military aircraft (sec. 362)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 346) that would add a new section 2641c to title 10, United States Code, that would codify the authority of the Secretary of Defense to establish a program to provide transportation to active and reserve members, retirees, dependents, and non-remarried widows of service members on Department of Defense aircraft on a space available basis and in a budget-neutral manner. The provision would also require a Comptroller General study on the Department's space-available travel program, including a review of the cost and capacity of the system and a discussion of logistical and management issues.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would strike the provisions concerning codification of the space available program, and would require the Comptroller General in his review to assess the effect on the cost and capacity of the program if the program were extended to un-remarried widows of active and reserve component members, and expanded for gray area retirees to include overseas travel.

Authority to provide information for maritime safety of forces and hydrographic support (sec. 363)

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1023).

The agreement includes this provision.

Deposit of reimbursed funds under reciprocal fire protection agreements (sec. 364)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 363) that would, as requested by the Department of Defense (DOD), amend section 1856d(b) of title 42, United States Code, to ensure that reimbursements to the DOD under the Reciprocal Fire Protection Agreements (42 U.S.C. chapter 15A) do not expire and that the command which provides fire protection services in the event of an emergency is able to merge the reimbursed funds with those in the current appropriation, fund, or account, which is used for DOD fire protection services.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1004).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Clarification of the airlift service definitions relative to the Civil Reserve Air Fleet (sec. 365)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 366) that would refine the definition of Civil Reserve Air Fleet aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1045).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 883).

The Senate recedes.

Policy on active shooter training for certain law enforcement personnel (sec. 367)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 369) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a policy and promulgate guidelines to ensure that civilian and military law enforcement personnel charged with security functions on military installations shall receive active shooter training as described in finding 4.3 of the document entitled, "Protecting the Force: Lessons from Fort Hood."

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Procurement of tents or other temporary structures (sec. 368)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 146) that would require the Secretary of Defense to consider the total life cycle costs of tents or structures, including the costs associated with any equipment or fuel needed to heat or cool such tents or structures, when procuring tents or other temporary structures, and award contracts that provide best value to the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Legislative Provisions Not AdoptedConsideration of energy security and reliability in development and implementation of energy performance goals

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 316) that would consider energy security and reliability in the development and implementation of energy performance goals.

Command, the Maritime Administration, or the U.S. Transportation Command.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Working-capital fund accounting

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 342) that would amend section 2208(k) of title 10, United States Code, to align the two separate dollar thresholds for procurement of capital assets.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees continue to be concerned with an apparent disconnect in thresholds for capital assets between auditing standards and financial management regulations. The conferees note that while section 342 of the Senate amendment could resolve internal disconnects amongst financial enterprise systems, it would not comply with auditing standards.

Regardless, the conferees strongly urge the Department of Defense to continue to work to resolve this apparent disconnect.

Modification of report on SEAD/DEAD mission requirements of the Air Force

The House contained a provision (sec. 355) that would amend section 334 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383). Section 334 required a report on the suppression of enemy air defenses/destruction of enemy air defenses (SEAD/DEAD) mission requirements for the Air Force. Section 355 would have modified the due date for the report, and made other technical corrections.

The Senate contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees received the SEAD/DEAD report, including a classified annex, in August, 2011, as would have been required by the modifications in section 355. The report addressed the feasibility and desirability of expanding the role of the Air National Guard in conducting the SEAD/DEAD mission and incorporated the suggested changes proposed in section 355.

Limitation on obligation and expenditure of funds for migration of management of Air Force Enterprise Logistics Systems Program Executive Office pending cost-benefit analysis

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 356) that would limit Air Force funds for the migration of the Air Force Enterprise Logistics Systems Program Executive Office subject to a cost-benefit analysis.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Consideration of foreclosure circumstances in adjudication of security clearances

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 361) that would require the Secretary of Defense to give special consideration during security clearance adjudications to service members with a foreclosure on the member's credit report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that protections are already included in the December 29, 2005, Revised Adjudicative Guidelines for Determining Eligibility for Access to Classified Information. Guideline F of the Adjudicative Guidelines specifically addresses procedures for financial considerations, to include foreclosures, as part of the security clearance review process. The conferees further note that this should help ensure that clearances are reviewed individually and personnel security clearances are not denied solely on financial circumstances that are beyond the individual's control.

Reduction in amounts otherwise authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for printing and reproduction

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 364) that would decrease the operation and maintenance accounts of the military departments by 10 percent for printing and reproduction.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the operation and maintenance accounts for printing and reproduction for the military departments were decreased by 10 percent in the section 4301 budget tables.

Reduction in amounts otherwise authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for studies, analysis, and evaluations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 365) that would decrease the operation and maintenance accounts of the military departments by 10 percent for studies, analysis, and evaluations.

The conferees note that the operation and maintenance accounts for the military departments were decreased for studies, analysis, and evaluations by 10 percent in the section 4301 budget tables.

Sense of Congress on proposed Federal Aviation Administration changes to flight crew member duty and rest requirements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 368) that would express the sense of Congress that, among other things, the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), in consultation with the Commander of the United States Transportation Command (TRANSCOM), should develop guidelines that address not only crew fatigue, but also enhance safety while minimizing the impact on the mission of TRANSCOM and the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision. The Senate report (S. Rept. 112-26) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (S. 1253) would direct the Commander of TRANSCOM to provide a report to the appropriate committees of Congress assessing, among other things, the potential effects of the proposed rulemaking by the FAA on TRANSCOM operations and what steps are available to TRANSCOM and other government agencies who rely on Civil Reserve Air Fleet support to mitigate the effects of a potential FAA rule making.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree that the Department of Defense should conduct an assessment as outlined in the Senate report, but that the Secretary should decide on how to produce the report, including perhaps relying on an independent analysis group to lead that effort.

Assistance for homeland defense mission training

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 370) that would authorize the Department of Defense to provide funding assistance for the operation and maintenance of training facilities capable of providing emergency response training.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE IV—MILITARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS*Subtitle A—Active ForcesEnd strengths for active forces (sec. 401)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 401) that would authorize the following end strengths for active-duty personnel of the armed forces as of September 30, 2012: Army, 562,000; Navy, 325,739; Marine Corps, 202,100; and Air Force, 332,800.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 401) that would authorize active-duty end strength for the Navy of 325,700.

The House recedes.

End strength levels for the active forces for fiscal year 2012 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2011 authorized	FY 2012		Change from

The conferees strongly urge the Department of Defense to use all available educational assistance tools, including HPSP, to alleviate any potential shortages in health care personnel, to include an assessment of current or projected shortfalls in qualified physical and occupational therapy personnel within the military departments and at major military medical treatment facilities specializing in the rehabilitation of wounded, ill, and injured members of the armed forces.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees emphasize the importance of a careful and objective assessment of the effectiveness of the DIB pilot program, since it could serve as a model for other critical infrastructure sectors. The Defense Cyber Crime Center (DC3) reports that the so-called "threat indicators" they have compiled for the Department of Defense networks and the defense industrial base, respectively, reflect a very small overlap. According to DC3, the overlap between these threat indicators and those of the financial sector is significantly smaller still. These statistics are interpreted to indicate that each sector is experiencing attacks from different threat actors using different tactics and techniques. If correct, this would mean that signatures developed for one sector could have limited utility for a different sector or organization. If the intelligence community is to provide threat signatures to defend all of the government departments and agencies, and all of the critical infrastructure sectors, the resources required could be very extensive.

The conferees request that the assessment required by this section address this specific issue.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense (DOD) mentor-protégé program is the oldest of the federal mentor protégé programs, and the only one to provide appropriated funds for cost reimbursement for mentors that support small businesses. The conferees believe that this has been a valuable program to both the Department, as well as to small businesses and encourage the DOD mentor-protégé program to look at opportunities to align with the Small Business Administration (SBA) mentor-protégé program. Further, the conferees encourage the Department to add into future DOD mentor-protégé annual reports descriptions of efforts being made to align with the program standards of the SBA mentor-protégé program, identification of opportunities for synergy, and analysis of technical, legal or regulatory impediments to closer alignment with the program standards of the SBA mentor-protégé program.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect the Department of Defense (DOD) to manage its business operations in an efficient manner. At the same time, the conferees understand that the consolidation of contracts for base services and construction can have a detrimental impact on the ability of small businesses to compete for such contracts. This issue has been addressed by Congress in the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-240), the Small Business Reauthorization Act of 1997 (Public Law 105-135), the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136).

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to review DOD’s compliance with provisions of law and regulation addressing contract consolidation and bundling with regard to contracts for base services and construction. The Comptroller General’s report should address the scope of consolidation or bundling undertaken by the Department, the justification provided for such consolidation or bundling, and the impact of such consolidation or bundling on contracting with small business concerns. The report should also address associated issues, including the need for training, the availability of alternative contracting approaches, and any recommendations the Comptroller General may have to improve the Department’s performance in this area.

The Secretary’s report should provide, at a minimum, an assessment of the following: (1) the number of sole-source contracts in excess of $20.0 million that have been awarded to each category of 8(a) participant; (2) the dollar amounts associated with such contracts; (3) the justifications cited for the award of such sole-source contracts; (4) a description of the goods or services that were or are to be provided under such contracts; (5) the percentage of work on such contracts that was subcontracted by the awardee or performed by an entity other than the awardee; and (6) any measures taken by the Department of Defense or the Small Business Administration to ensure that such contracts are not abused.

The conferees further direct the Comptroller General to provide the committees, no later than 90 days after DOD submits the March 1, 2012, and March 1, 2013, reports, with his own assessment of the extent to which the Department's implementation of section 811 ensures that sole-source contracts are awarded in applicable procurements only when those awards have been determined to be in the best interest of the Department.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than March 31 of 2013, 2014, and 2015, on non-competitive and one-offer contracts awarded by the Department of Defense during the preceding fiscal year. The Comptroller General's reports should address the number and dollar amounts of non-competitive and one-offer contracts awarded, the basis for exceptions from competitive procedures and the adequacy of the justifications for such exceptions, and the impact of recent Department of Defense guidance on one-offer contracts.

The conferees agree that Department of Defense (DOD) oversight of private security contractors in Afghanistan has been deficient, and that significant improvements are needed in this regard. However, the issue of oversight and accountability of contractors performing private security functions in areas of combat operations was recently addressed in section 831 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the inventory, when fully developed in accordance with statutory requirements, will provide the Department with useful workforce information for identifying inherently governmental functions inappropriately performed under contract, informing strategic human capital planning, and facilitating an appropriate mix of military, civilian, and contractor personnel. At the same time, a compliant inventory will be an important acquisition tool, enabling the Department to better leverage its buying power, rationalize its supplier base, foster competitive procurements, and ensure the best value for the taxpayers' dollar.

The conferees are disappointed that the Department has yet to take the steps needed to achieve full compliance with the statutory requirements. The conferees are encouraged by the Department's recent development of a plan to achieve such compliance and urge the Department to implement this plan as rapidly and completely as practicable.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strike the sense of Congress and modify language regarding the review's recommendations.

The conferees note that the report accompanying the Quadrennial Defense Review (QDR) is an important strategic document intended to be based upon an analysis unconstrained by the budgetary environment. The conferees emphasize that the QDR should allow Congress to assess the levels of acceptable strategic risk and then evaluate the extent to which the Department of Defense's budget request achieves the objectives associated with the national security strategy and national military strategy.

The Senate recedes.

Strategy to acquire capabilities to detect previously unknown cyber attacks (sec. 953)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 931) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and implement a strategy to acquire advanced threat discovery capabilities to complement current cybersecurity systems that depend heavily on advance knowledge of specific attacks.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Military activities in cyberspace (sec. 954)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 962) that would clarify that the Secretary of Defense has the authority to conduct clandestine cyberspace activities in support of military operations pursuant to the Authorization for the Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40; title 50 United States Code, section 1541 note) outside of the United States or to defend against a cyber attack on an asset of the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

The conferees recognize that because of the evolving nature of cyber warfare, there is a lack of historical precedent for what constitutes traditional military activities in relation to cyber operations and that it is necessary to affirm that such operations may be conducted pursuant to the same policy, principles, and legal regimes that pertain to kinetic capabilities.

The conferees also recognize that in certain instances, the most effective way to deal with threats and protect U.S. and coalition forces is to undertake offensive military cyber activities, including where the role of the United States Government is not apparent or to be acknowledged. The conferees stress that, as with any use of force, the War Powers Resolution may apply.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Redesignation of the Department of the Navy as the Department of the Navy and Marine Corps

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 902) that would redesignate the name of the Department of the Navy as the Department of the Navy and Marine Corps. Additionally, the article would redesignate the titles of the Secretary of the Navy, the Under Secretary of the Navy, the Assistant Secretaries of the Navy and the General Counsel of the Navy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Modification of temporary suspension of public-private competitions for conversion of Department of Defense functions to contractor performance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 937) that would lift the temporary suspension of public-private competitions that was included in section 325 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees recognize that the conduct of public-private competitions can be a useful tool for implementing total force management decisions. However, the conferees note that the Department has not yet complied with the statutory requirements for an inventory of contract services. The conferees conclude that the appropriate use of public-private competition is predicated on a sound planning process and the availability of accurate information, including the information that would be supplied by a compliant inventory.

Assessment of appropriate Department of Defense and contractor personnel for the Defense Medical Readiness Training Institute

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 940) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct an assessment of the appropriate mix of military, civilians, and contractor personnel to carry out the mission of the Defense Medical Readiness Training Institute.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that elsewhere in this Act the Secretary is required to establish policies and procedures for determining the most appropriate and cost efficient mix of military, civilian and contractor personnel to perform the mission of the Department of Defense. The conferees expect that the Secretary will implement such policies across all programs, including medical readiness training programs.

Transfer of provisions relating to quadrennial roles and missions review

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 951) that would amend title 10, United States Code, to transfer the requirement for the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to conduct an assessment of the roles and missions of the armed forces from section 118n to section 153, and to enhance the Chairman's role in advising the Secretary of Defense on the assignment of functions of the armed forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to use the Quarterly Roles and Missions Review (QRMR) required by section 118b of title 10, United States Code, to identify capability gaps and areas of unnecessary duplication. The conferees believe that QRMR, if conducted as intended, would provide a solid basis for reducing waste while also improving the joint warfighting capability of the Department of Defense.

Revisions to the quadrennial roles and missions review

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 952) that would amend section 118b of title 10, United States Code, to modify the requirements of the Quadrennial Roles and Missions Review.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Amendment to presentation of future-years budget and Comptroller General report on budget justification material

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 953) that would amend section 222(b) of title 10, United States Code, to include the functions of each of the armed forces as identified under the most recent Quadrennial Roles and Missions Review. This section also would require the Comptroller General of the United States to review Department of Defense regulations, policies, and guidance governing the construction of budget exhibits and to provide recommendations for their improvement.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has not complied with the requirement in section 222 of title 10, United States Code, to present the future-years budget by core mission areas identified as a result of the Quarterly Roles and Missions Review. The conferees note also that it is difficult to relate how the Department's annual budget request, including the future-years defense program, supports the services' core missions and functions as determined by the Quarterly Roles and Missions Review. The conferees will continue to seek a better understanding of the budgetary challenges associated with aligning and communicating how requested resources support core missions and functions.

Deadline revision for report on foreign language proficiency

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 961) that would modify the date on which an annual report on language proficiency is submitted.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

Sense of Congress regarding the performance of commercially-available activities by Department of Defense civilian employees

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 965) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the performance of commercially-available activities by Department of Defense civilian employees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Clarification of status of participants of defense industrial base active cyber defense pilot project

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 966) that would establish that, notwithstanding any other provision of law, any nongovernment entity or personnel participating in the defense industrial base active cyber defense pilot project shall not be considered an agent of the government.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are aware that programs like the defense industrial base active cyber defense pilot are important components of the Department of Defense's (DOD) cyber defense strategy. The conferees are also aware that information sharing is critical to making pilots like this, and overall cyber defense strategy, effective. The conferees believe that there are issues that may be impeding better information sharing of threats and vulnerabilities by industry, resulting in concerns that industry may be acting as agents of the government.

Therefore, the conferees direct the DOD Chief Information Officer to brief the congressional defense committees 90 days after the enactment of this Act on any issues impeding industry's ability to share cyber threat or vulnerability information with the government, and any recommendations for addressing those concerns.

Expansion of oversight offices in Department of Defense

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 967) that would require the establishment of a new Senate-confirmed position of Assistant Secretary of Defense for Contingency Contracting and a new Office of Contingency Contracting.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on the manufacturing policy of the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1099L) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to Congress on the manufacturing industry of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Commercial space launch cooperation

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 911) that would recommend as stated in the Senate report accompanying S. 1235 (S. Rept. 112-26) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 a "provision that would facilitate cooperation between the private sector and the Department of Defense (DOD) in using DOD space transportation infrastructure. The provision would authorize the Secretary of Defense to maximize the use of the space transportation infrastructure by the private sector, and maximize the effectiveness and efficiency of DOD's use of the infrastructure, reduce costs, and encourage commercial space activities through the use of contracts or other cooperative agreements. The DOD would be authorized to enter into such contracts or agreements with private sector entities to provide or receive specific space launch and reentry range support and services. Before entering into any such contracts or agreements the Secretary would have to determine that such contract or agreement is in the best interest of the government, would not interfere with DOD requirements and would not compete with commercial space entities, unless the competition is in the national security interest of the United States. Pursuant to a contract or agreement, which must be managed in accordance with DOD procurement regulations, the Secretary of Defense could accept funds, services, or equipment to enable participation in joint space transportation infrastructure improvements with the private sector. The provision would also establish an account in the Treasury of the United States into which the Secretary would deposit any funds received. In addition, the Secretary would submit to the congressional defense committees an annual report describing how any funds, equipment, or services were used during the preceding fiscal year.”

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees ask that the Department of Defense submit legislation that does not have mandatory scoring associated with the acceptance of funds by private entities and consider other processes or authorities in statute to accomplish this objective.

Enhancement of authorities relating to the United States Northern Command and other combatant commands

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1607) that would designate the United States Northern Command and the United States Pacific Command as the combatant commands principally responsible for the support of civil authorities in the United States by the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE X—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Financial Matters

General transfer authority (sec. 1001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1001) that would provide the Department with general transfer authority totaling $4.0 billion in fiscal year 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1001) that would provide the Department with $5.0 billion in general transfer authority.

The Senate recedes with an amendment providing the Department with $4.0 billion in general transfer authority and a provision that allows the Secretary of Defense to transfer up to $125.0 million to the Secretary of Energy from amounts appropriated to the Department of Defense, for weapons activities of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

Budgetary effects of this Act (sec. 1002)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would determine the budgetary effects of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 4).

The Senate recedes.

Additional requirements relating to the development of Financial Improvement and Audit Readiness Plan (sec. 1003)

The House bill contained two provisions that would address the Department of Defense's Financial Improvement Audit Readiness (FIAR) plan and report. The first provision (sec. 1066) would require that the report include additional detail on subordinate activities and interim milestones for audit readiness. The second provision (sec. 1067) would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a corrective action plan to address weaknesses and deficiencies in the execution of the FIAR plan.

The Senate bill also contained two provisions that would address the FIAR plan and report. The first provision (sec. 1005) would require that the Department achieve a complete and validated full Statement of Budgetary Resources (SBR statements) by no later than September 30, 2014. The second provision (sec. 1006) would require the Department to develop a plan, including interim objectives and milestones for achieving this objective.

The House recedes with an amendment that would combine the House and Senate provisions. The conference amendment would require the Department to establish a specific plan, with interim objectives and milestones, for meeting the September 30, 2014, deadline for audit-ready SBR statements, to develop metrics and mitigating strategies for missed milestones and program delays, and to report to Congress on the steps taken and to be taken.

Today's challenging fiscal environment requires that management decisions be based on sound and reliable financial data. For this reason, the conferees are concerned that the Department's financial management remains on the Government Accountability Office's High Risk List of government programs and activities that are subject to waste and mismanagement. Achieving audit-ready SBR statements by the 2014 deadline would be a significant accomplishment and an important milestone on the Department's path to achieving full audit-readiness by the 2017 statutory deadline.

While achieving a clean audit opinion is a necessary step toward removing the Department's financial management from the High Risk list, it is far from sufficient. To be meaningful, a clean audit statement must be repeatable. For this reason, the conference amendment would require that the Department's FIAR plan be based on improvements to the Department's business processes and controls as well as efforts to modernize its business systems to a degree sufficient for the Department to prepare timely, reliable, and complete financial management information on a repeatable basis.

Display of procurement of equipment for the reserve components of the armed forces under estimated expenditures for procurement in future-years defense programs (sec. 1003A)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1606) that would require the Department of Defense, in its future-years defense program submitted with its annual budget request, to display separately the estimated expenditures and item quantities for each reserve component of the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that this provision would display estimated expenditures and item quantities that are included in the service budgets. The future-years defense program budget information for reserve components procurement is already available to Congress in the Department's detailed budget justification materials (Exhibit P-40, Budget Item Justification Sheet) as prepared by the military departments and submitted with the annual budget request.

Subtitle B—Counter-Drug Activities

Extension of authority for joint task forces to provide support to law enforcement agencies conducting counter-terrorism activities (sec. 1004)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1011) that would extend, by 1 year, the support by joint task forces under section 1022(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), as most recently amended by section 1012(a) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1014) that also would prohibit the Department from utilizing this authority until it complies with section 1012(b) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011.

The House recedes.

Three-year extension and modification of authority of Department of Defense to provide additional support for counterdrug activities of other governmental agencies (sec. 1005)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would extend, by 1 year, the authority of the Department of Defense to provide additional support to counterdrug activities of other governmental agencies under section 1004 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991 (Public Law 101-510).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1011) that would extend, by 5 years, the authority of the Department of Defense to provide additional support to counterdrug activities of other governmental agencies under section 1004 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991. The Senate amendment also would modify the authorized recipients of support under this authority to include tribal law enforcement entities, as defined by section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the authority for 3 years and would incorporate definitions for “Indian tribe,” “tribal government,” and “tribal law enforcement agency”.

Two-year extension and expansion of authority to provide additional support to counterdrug activities of certain foreign governments (sec. 1006)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would extend, by 1 year, the authority to provide support for counterdrug activities of certain foreign governments under subsection (a)(2) of section 1033 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85), as most recently amended by section 1014(a) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would extend, by 5 years, the authority to provide support for counterdrug activities of certain foreign governments under subsection (a)(2) of section 1033 of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year 1998, as most recently amended by section 1014(a) of the Ike Skelton NDAA for Fiscal Year 2011. The provision also would amend subsection (e)(2) of section 1033 of the NDAA for Fiscal Year 1998 by increasing the authorized maximum annual amount of support to $100.0 million, and would amend subsection (b) of section 1033 of the NDAA for Fiscal Year 1998 to expand the list of countries eligible to receive support to include the Governments of Benin, Cape Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Jamaica, Liberia, Mauritania, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, and Togo.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend, by 2 years, the authority to provide support for counterdrug activities of certain foreign governments, increase the authorized maximum annual amount of support to $100.0 million, and expand the list of countries authorized to receive assistance under this authority to match the Senate amendment.

Extension of authority to support unified counter-drug and counterterrorism campaign in Colombia (sec. 1007)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1014) that would extend, by 1 year, the unified counter-drug and counterterrorism campaign in the Republic of Colombia under section 1021 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375), as most recently amended by section 1011 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1015).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Reporting requirement on expenditures to support foreign counter-drug activities (sec. 1008)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would extend, by 1 year, the reporting requirement on expenditures to support foreign counterdrug activities under section 1022(a) of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), as amended.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Naval Vessels and Shipyards

Budgeting for construction of naval vessels (sec. 1011)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1022) that would encourage the Secretary of the Navy to name the next available naval vessel after United States Marine Corps Sergeant Rafael Peralta.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with amendment to state the sense of Congress that the Secretary of the Navy should name the next available naval vessel after Marine Corps Sergeant Rafael Peralta.

Limitation on availability of funds for placing Maritime Prepositioning Ship squadrons on reduced operating status (sec. 1013)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1021) that prohibits the authorization of funds for placing a Maritime Prepositioning Ship squadron (MPSRON) on reduced operating status until Congress receives a report from the Secretary of Defense, the Chief of Naval Operations, and the Commandant of the Marine Corps which assesses the impact on military readiness for placing any MPSRON, or component thereof, on reduced operating status.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on policies and practices of the Navy for naming the vessels of the Navy (sec. 1014)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1024) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a report on the policies and practices of the Navy for naming vessels of the Navy.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of certain high-speed ferries to the Navy (sec. 1015)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1026) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to provide up to $35.0 million to the Maritime Administration of the Department of Transportation for the transfer by the Maritime Administration to the Department of the Navy of jurisdiction and control over the two high-speed ferries. The Maritime Administration currently holds title to these two vessels due to the bankruptcy of the former operator of these vessels.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1022) that would amend section 1011 of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364) to allow the Navy to dispose of the ex-John F. Kennedy.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Assessment of stationing of additional DDG-51 class destroyers at Naval Station Mayport, Florida (sec. 1017)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1025) requiring an assessment of the stationing of additional DDG-51 class destroyers at Naval Station Mayport, Florida.

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle D—Counterterrorism

Affirmation of authority of the Armed Forces of the United States to detain covered persons pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (sec. 1021)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1034) that would affirm that the United States is engaged in an armed conflict with al-Qaeda, the Taliban, and associated forces.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1031) that would affirm the authority of the Armed Forces of the United States to detain certain covered persons pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40). The provision would not affect existing law or authorities relating to the detention of United States citizens, lawful resident aliens of the United States, or any other persons who are captured or arrested in the United States.

The House recedes.

Military custody for foreign al-Qaeda terrorists (sec. 1022)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would require military custody for foreign al-Qaeda terrorists who are captured in the course of hostilities authorized by the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40), subject to a national security waiver. Under the provision, the President would have broad authority to issue implementation procedures, including but not limited to deciding who makes a determination of coverage, how the determination is made, and when it is made.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment providing that nothing in this provision shall be construed to affect the existing criminal enforcement and national security authorities of the Federal Bureau of Investigation or any other domestic law enforcement agency with regard to a covered person, regardless whether such covered person is held in military custody. The law enforcement and national security tools that would not be affected in any way by this provision include, but would not be limited to, Grand Jury subpoenas, national security letters, and actions pursuant to the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (Public Law 95-511). The amendment would also authorize the President, rather than the Secretary of Defense, to waive the requirements of the provision.

The conferees note that while section 1021 of this bill would apply to "al Qaeda, the Taliban, or associated forces that are engaged in hostilities against the United States or its coalition partners," this section would apply to "al Qaeda or an associated force that acts in coordination with or pursuant to the direction of al Qaeda." The conferees agree that while the Taliban is covered by section 1021, it is not covered by this section.

Procedures for periodic detention review of individuals detained at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (sec. 1023)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1036) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a process to review the detention of each individual detained at Guantanamo.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1035) that would require the Secretary to submit to Congress a report on procedures for implementing the periodic review process required by Executive Order No. 13567 for such detainees.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the periodic review process applies to any individual who is detained as an unprivileged enemy belligerent at Guantanamo at any time on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

The conferees understand that the review process established by the Executive Order is not a legal proceeding and does not create any discovery rights in the detainee, his personal representative, or private counsel. For this reason, the conferees expect the procedures established under this section to provide that: (1) the compilation of information for the review process should be conducted in good faith, but does not create any rights on behalf of the detainee; (2) the mitigating information to be provided to the detainee is information compiled in the course of this good faith compilation effort; (3) the decision whether to permit the calling of witnesses and the presentation of statements by persons other than the detainee is discretionary, and not a matter of right; and (4) access to classified information on the part of private counsel is subject to national security constraints, clearance requirements, and the availability of resources to review and clear relevant information.

Procedures for status determinations (sec. 1024)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1036) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures for determining the status of persons captured in the course of hostilities authorized by the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40), including access to a military judge and a military lawyer for an enemy belligerent who will be held in long-term detention.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment clarifying that the Secretary of Defense is not required to apply the procedures for long-term detention in the case of a person for whom habeas corpus review is available in federal court.

Because this provision is prospective, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to determine the extent, if any, to which such procedures will be applied to detainees for whom status determinations have already been made prior to the date of the enactment of this Act.

The conferees expect that the procedures issued by the Secretary of Defense will define what constitutes "long-term" detention for the purposes of subsection (b). The conferees understand that under current Department of Defense practice in Afghanistan, a detainee goes before a Detention Review Board for a status determination 60 days after capture, and again 6 months after that. The Department of Defense has considered extending the period of time before a second review is required. The conferees expect that the procedures required by subsection (b) would not be triggered by the first review, but could be triggered by the second review, in the discretion of the Secretary.

Requirement for national security protocols governing detainee communications (sec. 1025)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1035) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a national security protocol governing communications and related issues for each individual detained at Guantanamo.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and submit a single national security protocol including policies and procedures governing communications and related issues for individuals detained at Guantanamo.

Prohibition on use of funds to construct or modify facilities in the United States to house detainees transferred from United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (sec. 1026)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1037) that would prohibit the use of funds authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2012 to build any facility in the United States to house Guantanamo detainees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1034).

The House recedes.

Prohibition on the use of funds for the transfer or release of individuals detained at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (sec. 1027)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1039) that would prohibit the use of fiscal year 2012 Department of Defense funds to bring Guantanamo detainees, or any other individuals detained by the Department of Defense overseas pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40), to the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would continue for fiscal year 2012 the prohibition on the use of Department of Defense funds to bring Guantanamo detainees to the United States.

Requirements for certifications relating to the transfer of detainees at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to foreign countries and other foreign entities (sec. 1028)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1040) that would continue for another year the certification requirements for transfer of Guantanamo detainees to foreign countries and other foreign entities and modify the requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1033) that would continue the existing requirements for another year and authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive certain certification requirements in the interest of national security if alternative actions are taken to address the underlying purpose of the requirements.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Requirement for consultation regarding prosecution of terrorists (sec. 1029)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would require the Attorney General to consult with the Director of National Intelligence and the Secretary of Defense before initiating the prosecution in federal court of an alien for a terrorist offense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the consultation requirement to: (1) a person who is determined to be a foreign al Qaeda terrorist pursuant to the requirements of section 1022 of this bill; and (2) any other person who is held in military detention outside of the United States pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40).

Clarification of right to plead guilty in trial of capital offense by military commission (sec. 1030)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1033) that would clarify the right of a defendant to plead guilty in a trial of a capital offense by a military commission.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1037).

The Senate recedes.

Counterterrorism operational briefing requirement (sec. 1031)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide quarterly briefings to the congressional defense committees outlining Department of Defense counterterrorism operations not later than March 1, 2012.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

National security planning guidance to deny safe havens to al-Qaeda and its violent extremist affiliates (sec. 1032)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1045) that would require the President to issue national security planning guidance to deny safe havens to al Qaeda and its violent extremist affiliates and strengthen at-risk states. The provision would require the submission of the guidance to Congress and would also require that the agencies involved in executing the guidance enter into a memorandum of understanding related to the implementation of the guidance.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strike: the findings, the requirement to submit any issued guidance to Congress, the requirement for memorandums of understanding between agency heads, and requirement to update and review the memorandums of understanding.

While the conferees struck the requirement to provide the guidance to Congress, the conferees expect to be briefed on the guidance issued by the President.

Extension of authority to make rewards for combating terrorism (sec. 1033)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would extend the authority for the Secretary of Defense to offer and make rewards to a person providing information or nonlethal assistance to U.S. Government personnel or government personnel of allied forces participating in a combined operation with U.S. Armed Forces through fiscal year 2014 and change the annual reporting timeline from December to February.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend, for 2 years, the underlying authority, shift the due date of the annual reporting timeline from December to February, and adjust the elements of the annual reporting requirement.

Amendments relating to the Military Commissions Act of 2009 (sec. 1034)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would make technical corrections to the Military Commissions Act of 2009 (Title XVIII of Public Law 111-84), as requested by the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle E—Nuclear Forces

Biennial assessment and report on the delivery platforms for nuclear weapons and the nuclear command and control system (sec. 1041)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would amend chapter 23 of title 10, United States Code, to require (as stated in the House report accompanying H.R. 1540 (H. Rept. 112-78) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012) that the “director of the Strategic Systems Program, U.S. Navy, commander of the Global Strike Command, U.S. Air Force, and Commander, U.S. Strategic Command to each complete an assessment of the safety, security, reliability, sustainability, performance, and military effectiveness for each type of nuclear weapons delivery platform and the nuclear command and control system of the United States within their direct responsibility. This section would further require that these assessments be submitted to the Secretary of Defense and Nuclear Weapons Council not later than December 1 of each year, along with several other reporting requirements. The Secretary of Defense would then be required to submit to the President each report along with any comments that the Secretary considers appropriate, not later than March 1 of each year. Finally, the President shall forward to Congress the reports provided by the Secretary of Defense along with any comments the President considers appropriate. The first submissions to Congress would be required by March 15, 2012”.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1073) that requires (as stated in the Senate report accompanying S. 1235 (S. Rept. 112-26) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012) “that the Secretary of Defense in each odd-numbered year, to conduct an assessment of the safety, security, reliability, sustainability, performance, and military effectiveness of each type of U.S. platform for the delivery of nuclear weapons and of the nuclear command and control system”.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the House provision to a biennial reporting requirement with the first report due 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Plan on implementation of the New START Treaty (sec. 1042)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1052) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Air Force, and the Commander of the United States Strategic Command to submit a report no later than December 12, 2011, with a plan for the Department of Defense to implement the nuclear force reductions, limitations, and verification and transparency measures contained in the New START Treaty, and would require a Comptroller General review of such plan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the reporting requirement to 30 days after date of enactment of this Act.

Annual report on the plan for the nuclear weapons stockpile, nuclear weapons complex, nuclear weapons delivery systems, and nuclear weapons command and control system (sec. 1043)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1053) that would require the President to submit an annual report to relevant congressional committees on plans for the modernization of the nuclear weapons stockpile, nuclear weapons complex, and nuclear weapons delivery platforms. The report would be required to include a detailed description of the plan to enhance the safety, security, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile; to modernize the nuclear weapons complex; to maintain, modernize, or replace the delivery platforms for nuclear weapons; and to retire, dismantle, or eliminate any covered nuclear system. The report would also be required to include a detailed estimate of the costs associated with such plans. The report would be required to be submitted in unclassified form, but could include a classified annex.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the report to also include plans to sustain and modernize the nuclear weapons command and control system.

Sense of the Congress on nuclear force reductions (sec. 1044)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1054) that would express the sense of Congress that any reduction in the nuclear forces of the United States should be supported by a thorough assessment of the strategic environment, threat, and policy, as well as the technical and operational implications of such reductions. This section would also state that specific criteria are necessary to guide future decisions regarding further reductions in such nuclear forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strike the findings of the House provision.

Nuclear force reductions (sec. 1045)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1055) that would limit the obligation of amounts authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available to the Department of Defense or the Department of Energy for any of the fiscal years 2011 through 2017, to retire, dismantle, eliminate, or remove from deployed status any covered nuclear system of the United States as required by the New START Treaty. The provision would allow the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Energy to jointly waive this limitation if they submit written notice to the congressional defense committees of the status of carrying out the modernization plan described in the most recent report required by section 1053 of the House bill H.R. 1540 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012. If the written notice describes that the modernization plan is being carried out, no funds could be obligated or expended for a period of 30 days following the date on which the President submits the report required by section 1053 of the House bill describing the proposed retirement, dismantlement, or elimination. If the notice describes that the modernization plan is not being carried out, no funds could be obligated or expended for a period of 180 days following the date on which the President submits the report required by section 1053 of the House bill. The House provision contained an exception to this limitation for any activities determined by the Secretary of Defense to be necessary to ensure the continued safety, security, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

The House provision further prohibited the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Energy from obligating or expending amounts appropriated or otherwise made available to their departments to retire, dismantle, or eliminate any non-deployed strategic or non-strategic nuclear weapon until 90 days after the Secretary of Energy submits written certification to the congressional defense committees that the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement Nuclear Facility (CMRR-NF) and the Uranium Processing Facility (UPF) are fully operational; that CMRR-NF and the Plutonium Facility-4 are together able to deliver to the nuclear weapons stockpile not less than a total of 80 pits per year; that the UPF is able to deliver to the nuclear weapons stockpile not less than 80 refurbished or new canned subassemblies per year; and that the nuclear security enterprise has a capacity that supports two simultaneous life extension programs. The provision includes an exception such that this limitation would not apply to the dismantlement of legacy warheads that are awaiting dismantlement, or have been designated for retirement, on the date of enactment, and a further exception that this limitation would not apply to activities determined by the Secretary of Defense to be necessary to ensure the continued safety, security, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

The House provision contained a third limitation that would prohibit the President from unilaterally retiring, dismantling, or eliminating—or preparing to retire, dismantle, or eliminate—any nuclear weapon of the United States if such action would reduce the number of nuclear weapons to a level that is less than that described in the New START Treaty, unless such action is required by a treaty or international agreement approved with the advice and consent of the Senate or such action is specifically authorized by an Act of Congress. The House provision would include an exception to this limitation for activities determined by the Secretary of Defense to be necessary to ensure the continued safety, security, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1047) that would require the President, as soon as practicable after the date on which the President makes a proposal to reduce the number of deployed nuclear weapons below the level prescribed in the New START Treaty or a proposal to reduce the number of nuclear weapons in the hedge stockpile, to submit to the congressional defense committees a net assessment. The net assessment would be required to compare and assess the current and proposed nuclear forces of the United States with those of other countries to determine whether the proposed U.S. nuclear forces would be capable of meeting U.S. objectives of nuclear deterrence, extended deterrence, assurance of allies, and defense. The Senate provision would include an exception to the requirement for a net assessment if the reduction is associated with routine stockpile stewardship activities.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, by March 1, 2012, and annually thereafter, on the nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States. The report would be required to include an accounting of all of the weapons in the stockpile at the end of the fiscal year preceding the submission of the report and the planned force levels for each category of nuclear weapon over the course of the future-years defense program submitted to Congress under section 221 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress that the United States is committed to maintaining a safe, secure, reliable, and credible nuclear deterrent; the United States should undertake and support an enduring stockpile stewardship program and maintain and modernize nuclear weapons production capabilities to ensure the safety, security, reliability, and credibility of the U.S. nuclear deterrent and to meet requirements for hedging against possible international developments or technical problems; the United States should maintain nuclear weapons laboratories and plants to preserve the intellectual infrastructure, competencies, and skill sets; and the United States should provide the necessary resources to achieve these goals and use as a starting point the funding levels set forth in the President's 10 year plan provided to Congress pursuant to section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84).

The conference agreement would also require the President to submit a report to Congress each year in which the President determines that the appropriations provided fail to meet the resource requirements set forth in the plan referred to in section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) or if the President determines that more resources are required to carry out such plan than were estimated in the report referred to in section 1251 of Public Law 111-84. The report required by the conference agreement would include a plan to address the resource shortfall identified by the President; if more resources are required, the level of funding needed and a detailed explanation of the purpose for the additional resources; any effects of the shortfall or need for additional resources on the safety, security, reliability, or credibility of U.S. nuclear forces; and an explanation of whether any planned reductions in U.S. nuclear forces are still in the national interest of the United States given the resource shortfall or the need for additional resources.

The conference agreement would also express a sense of Congress that sustained investments in the nuclear weapons stockpile and the nuclear security complex are needed to ensure a safe, secure, reliable, and credible nuclear deterrent and that such investments could enable additional reductions in the hedge stockpile in the future. The conference agreement further requires the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, by March 1, 2012, and annually thereafter, on the nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States. The report would be required to include an accounting of all of the weapons in the stockpile at the end of the fiscal year preceding the submission of the report and the planned force levels for each category of nuclear weapon over the course of the future-years defense program submitted to Congress under section 221 of title 10, United States Code.

Finally, the conference agreement would, in any year in which the President makes a proposal to reduce the number of nuclear weapons in the active or inactive stockpiles of the United States to a level that is lower than the level on the date of enactment of this Act, require the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command to conduct a net assessment of the current and proposed nuclear forces of the United States and of other countries to determine whether the proposed U.S. nuclear forces would be capable of meeting U.S. objectives of nuclear deterrence, extended deterrence, assurance of allies, and defense. The Secretary of Defense would be required to submit the Commander's unaltered net assessment, together with any explanatory views of the Secretary, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives. In any such year, the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration would also be required to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, a report describing the current capacities of the U.S. nuclear weapons infrastructure to respond to strategic developments or technical problems in the nuclear weapons stockpile. The conference agreement would include an exception to these requirements for any reductions that are a direct result of activities associated with routine stockpile stewardship—including stockpile surveillance, logistics, or maintenance—and for any nuclear weapons that are retired or awaiting dismantlement on the date of enactment of this Act. These requirements would terminate on December 31, 2017.

Nuclear employment strategy of the United States (sec. 1046)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1056) that would have prohibited the President from making any changes to the nuclear employment strategy of the United States unless the President submitted a report to Congress describing the implications of such changes, certified that such changes do not require a change in targeting strategy from counterforce to counter value targeting, and certified that such proposed changes preserve the nuclear force structure triad. The President would have been required to wait a period of 90 days from submission of such report until changes to the nuclear employment strategy may be made.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1075) which would not have conditioned changes in the nuclear employment guidance, but which required reporting to Congress after a change.

The House, encouraged by a letter that Chairmen Buck McKeon and Michael Turner received from the Secretary of Defense on November 2, 2011, and having received further assurances from the Office of the Secretary of Defense, recedes with an amendment that would require a report to be submitted concurrently with the issuance by the President of a modified employment strategy. The report would require a description of the modification, the impact on the nuclear posture of the United States, and the implications for the flexibility and resilience of U.S. strategic forces and their ability to meet the nuclear deterrence objectives of the United States. The House amendment also expresses the sense of Congress concerning the importance of congressional oversight of the nuclear war plan of the United States.

Comptroller General report on nuclear weapon capabilities and force structure requirements (sec. 1047)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1057) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study on the strategic nuclear weapon capabilities, force structure, employment policy, and targeting requirements of the Department of Defense (DOD). The study would update the September 1991 Government Accounting Office (GAO) report titled 'Strategic Weapons: Nuclear Weapons Targeting Process' (GAO/NSIAD-91-319FS). The study would also assess the process and rigor used by DOD to determine the effectiveness of nuclear-related capabilities and policies in achieving the goals of deterrence, extended deterrence, assurance, and defense, and would also include an assessment of the Department of Defense's requirements for strategic nuclear bomber aircraft and intercontinental ballistic missiles. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Energy to provide the Comptroller General with full cooperation and access to appropriate officials and information for the purposes of conducting this study. The provision would require the Comptroller General to submit one or more reports on the study to the appropriate congressional committees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment clarifying that the reports required by this provision must be submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The conferees note that, for the purposes of this study, the Department of Defense need not grant the Comptroller General access to sensitive operational information such as specific target locations or the complete target list.

Report on feasibility of joint replacement fuze program (sec. 1048)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 216) that would limit the obligation and expenditure of funds authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2012 for the Air Force for the joint/common replacement fuze program for Air Force and Navy nuclear warheads to not more than 75 percent until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the congressional defense committees on the feasibility of the program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of the Air Force to jointly submit a report to the congressional defense committees, no later than December 31, 2012, on the feasibility of the joint replacement fuze program. The report would be required to include an assessment of the feasibility of including various options in the joint fuze and how the inclusion of such options will affect safety, security, reliability, and adaptability, as well as the program schedule and budget.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1077) that would require the Secretary of Commerce to conduct a comprehensive review of the current restrictions on the resolution of electro-optical imagery that commercial satellite imagery data providers are permitted to sell or disseminate.

The provision would require the Secretary to take into consideration a series of factors in evaluating whether the current restriction on resolution to 0.5 meters should be relaxed. These factors would include: (1) the availability of foreign satellite systems capable of collecting at resolutions sharper than what U.S. data providers are allowed to sell; (2) the lead time involved in securing funding for new satellites, and designing, constructing, and launching them, to enable U.S. data providers to match or exceed the capabilities of new foreign satellites; (3) whether the current restrictions remain consistent with the President's National Space Policy, which is to maintain U.S. commercial leadership; (4) the greater utility that higher resolution unclassified commercial satellite imagery would have for U.S. military forces, the intelligence community, cooperation with allies, scientific research, and support to domestic disaster monitoring; and (5) the national security risks, if any, of relaxing the current restrictions.

The provision would require a report from the Secretary of Commerce to the appropriate committees of Congress by April 15, 2012.

In conducting this analysis the Department should consider issues and matters that are unique and challenging to comparisons between active and reserve components such as, but not limited to: a pro-rated share of active component borne overhead costs (e.g., generating force, schools, ranges, training centers, and material/sustainment) required to prepare and sustain the reserve component when not mobilized and deployed; relative days spent training and preparing per year to personnel cost per year; cost of procurement and sustainment of non-deployable equipment excess to unit tables of organization and equipment; and impact of unavailable domestic response capabilities when respective components are deployed (e.g., what capabilities Governors lose when reserve component forces are deployed).

The conferees note that DOD conducted an internal study of its cyberspace workforce at congressional direction in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84). The conferees agree that DOD's implementation of the results of that study should proceed for an additional period of time before an independent evaluation should be conducted.

The conferees also note that DOD is seeking approval through the interagency review process of a proposal for expedited hiring authority for cybersecurity personnel. This proposal will be evaluated in the context of the cyberspace personnel needs government-wide, and especially in the Department of Homeland Security, and the hiring authorities available to address them. The conferees support initiatives to improve the expertise of government employees engaged in this critical area.

The conferees are encouraged by recent improvements in the Army's analysis, planning, and management of its equipment modernization programs. However, the recommendations provided by the 2010 Army Acquisition Review Panel (also known as the Decker-Wagner Report) identify several areas for continued or additional improvement of modernization planning and execution. The conferees therefore direct that the Secretary of the Army provide the congressional defense committees with a detailed update on its implementation of those Panel recommendations that the Secretary has agreed to adopt. The conferees further direct that the Secretary periodically provide implementation update briefings to the congressional defense committees.

Comptroller General report on Department of Defense Science and Technology Programs

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

In current times of fiscal austerity, the conferees firmly believe that all activities within the Department of Defense (DOD) must be reviewed to identify potential cost-savings and increase efficiencies. In the President's fiscal year (FY) 2012 budget request, over $12.0 billion would be dedicated to 6.1 through 6.3 Science and Technology programs. This funding level is a little more than 2 percent of DOD's overall budget, and hence it is vital that S&T investments are most efficiently made across the spectrum from basic exploration of knowledge to advanced technology development for the next generation of weapons systems. In addition, the conferees believe that there is potential within DOD's S&T activities to better align, consolidate, or eliminate lower priority programs.

The conferees note that in the report language accompanying S. 1235 (S. Rept. 112-26) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 directed the Comptroller General to conduct a study of the effectiveness of the Department's various technology transition programs due no later than 1 year after the enactment of this Act. The conferees direct that the Comptroller General expand its study efforts in the area of defense S&T over the longer term and focus on non-basic research activities to conduct a holistic review of the Defense S&T enterprise, including its investment strategy, technology development and transition activities. In addition, the scope of this broader review should include the Department's S&T related interactions with industry and academia.

Comptroller General report on Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math initiatives

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees firmly believe that the education of America's students in the STEM fields is vital to national security interests. In an increasingly globalized world, the United States is facing growing competition in technological advancement. Ensuring that the United States remains a leader in these areas will rest on the shoulders of current and future generations. Giving students the opportunities to excel in the STEM fields—from K-12 through post-graduate research—will guarantee our success as a world leader, and safeguard our national interests.

The conferees look forward to reviewing the current study being conducted by the Comptroller General on government-wide STEM educational initiatives, planned to be published early in 2012. The conferees strongly urge the Department of Defense to continue working in close collaboration with the Comptroller General to produce this report. The anticipated results of the study will help the conferees better understand the challenges ahead, and offer guidance on how to best assist the Department of Defense in developing and managing successful STEM educational programs, including the balance between K-12, undergraduate, graduate, and junior faculty programs.

The House recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that rules of engagement applicable to members of the armed forces provide for self defense. However, the conferees also acknowledge that military commanders may restrict service members' ability to carry or employ weapons to achieve mission success. The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to ensure that members of the armed forces serving in hostile fire areas have the means to exercise self defense to the maximum extent practicable and consistent with their mission.

Improving the transition of members of the armed forces with experience in the operation of certain motor vehicles into careers operating commercial motor vehicles in the private sector

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that another provision in this report requires a pilot program to assess the feasibility and advisability of permitting enlisted members of the armed forces to obtain civilian credentialing or licensing for skills required for military occupational specialties or qualification for duty specialty codes. The conferees encourage including the feasibility of obtaining a commercial driver's license as an element of this pilot program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with an amendment that would authorize the program until 2016, and grant 10 new positions to DOT&E.

The conferees recognize the specialized hiring needs of agencies requiring a highly technologically competent workforce, such as DARPA. The conferees are concerned, however, that increasing the number of available billets for this specialized hiring authority for DARPA does not have a solid analytic basis, and does not fully account for the other means by which skilled personnel can be hired, such as Highly Qualified Expert (HQE) and Intergovernmental Personal Act (IPA) authorities. The conferees encourage DARPA to develop a better analytical framework for comprehensively detailing and justifying the human resource needs of the Agency, and the means by which those needs will be addressed.

The conferees understand that the Department recently rescinded the delegation of authorities for civilian senior executive positions, including those for HQEs and IPAs, and are concerned about potential delays this might cause. To address those concerns, the conferees encourage DARPA to become a member of the working group established by the Washington Headquarters Service that was established to determine business procedures for HQE and IPA actions.

Furthermore, the conferees direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness and the Director of the Washington Headquarters Service, within 90 days of enactment of this Act, to provide the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives with an implementation plan for the centralized appointment of HQE and IPA positions. Further, the conferees direct DARPA to provide a report to the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the hiring timelines for any HQE or IPA positions they may fill in fiscal year 2012.

Second, an exception would be allowed if the President certifies that North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member states have considered the reduction, consolidation, or withdrawal within the NATO High Level Group; that NATO has decided to support the reduction, consolidation, or withdrawal; and that the remaining nuclear forces of the United States that are based in Europe after such reduction, consolidation, or withdrawal would provide a commensurate or better level of assurance and credibility as before. It also states that for the purposes of such negotiations, non-strategic nuclear weapons should be considered when weighing the balance of the nuclear forces of the United States and Russia and that geographical relocation and consolidated or centralized storage of non-strategic nuclear weapons by Russia should not be considered a reduction or elimination of such weapons.

Regarding extended deterrence, the provision states that it is the sense of Congress that the commitment of the United States to extended deterrence in Europe and the nuclear alliance of NATO is an important component of ensuring and linking the national security of the United States and its European allies. Finally, it would express the sense of Congress that the nuclear forces of the United States are a key component of the NATO nuclear alliance and that the presence of United States nuclear weapons in Europe—combined with NATO's unique nuclear sharing arrangements under which non-nuclear members participate in nuclear planning and possess specially configured aircraft capable of delivering nuclear weapons—provides reassurance to NATO allies who feel exposed to regional threats.

TITLE XXI—ARMY

Authorized Army construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2101) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Army for fiscal year 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2101).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

The budget request included an authorization of appropriations of $31.0 million for the Department of the Army to construct road and infrastructure improvements at Fort Belvoir, Virginia to support the construction of the National Museum of the United States Army, which would be funded with private donations. The conferees agree to authorize $25.0 million for infrastructure improvements to construct utilities for the new museum. The conferees have not included an authorization of appropriations for this project, since the Department of the Army has indicated that funds are available through unobligated balances as a result of bid savings for other military construction projects.

The conferees are concerned that the project must comply with statutes regarding the construction of complete and usable facilities. Therefore, the conferees have included a statutory provision that requires the Secretary of the Army to certify to the congressional defense committees prior to an award of a contract for the infrastructure project that sufficient funds from private donations have been raised and a construction contract has been awarded for the "baseline" museum. Finally, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to establish and maintain a clear and auditable separation of accounts between appropriations and private donations to ensure that the military construction appropriations are used only for the infrastructure and utilities up to the museum building exterior. The conferees agree that amounts appropriated for military construction should not be used to construct the museum.

The budget request included an authorization of appropriations of $24.0 million for the Department of the Army to construct a vehicle maintenance facility at Fort Bliss, Texas and a separate request for $14.6 million to construct infrastructure for the vehicle maintenance facility. The Senate amendment did not include the authorization of appropriations for these two projects.

The Department of the Army notified the conferees that a portion of infrastructure project was required to ensure that a separate Electronics Maintenance Facility included in the budget request would not be complete and usable without the infrastructure project. Therefore the conferees agree to authorize $11.6 million for the infrastructure project.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to ensure that the authorization for each military construction project in the budget request will include a scope of work that will result in a complete and useable facility without relying on the authorization of a separate project, even if that project is included in the same budget request.

The conferees are also concerned that the authorization of appropriations for a military construction project for infrastructure or utilities is considered by the United States Corps of Engineers to constitute a complete and usable facility even if the infrastructure or utilities do not service a military facility. The conferees do not agree with this interpretation of military construction statutes as it would permit the construction of 'infrastructure to nowhere' and a waste of taxpayer funds.

Family housing (sec. 2102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2102) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Army for fiscal year 2012. The conference agreement includes the provision.

Tour normalization (sec. 2111)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2113) that would prevent the obligation or expenditure of funds for tour normalization until certain conditions were met.

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the term, "tour normalization", refers to a proposal to allow all married service members to serve accompanied tours in Korea. Within tour normalization, unmarried or unaccompanied (no dependents authorized) members would serve 24 months and accompanied members would serve 36 months. Command sponsorship opportunities are not available to all service members and are controlled by U.S. Forces Korea. U.S. Forces Korea allocates command sponsorship based on the readiness contribution of stabilizing key leaders and critical skill positions for longer periods of time. Command sponsorship opportunity is contingent upon the availability of facilities and services and is currently capped at 4,645 positions across the peninsula, covering all services. The conferees' intent is to restrict the increase of command sponsorship opportunities above 4,645.

TITLE XXII—NAVY

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorized Navy construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2201) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Navy for fiscal year 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2201).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

The budget request included an authorization of appropriations of $45.2 million for Waterfront Development, Phase 4 at Naval Support Activity Bahrain, which included the construction of a climate controlled warehouse, a vehicle wash rack, and a fleet recreation center. The conferees note that phase 3 of the project has not yet been awarded.

The conferees encourage the Department of the Navy to review the timing and phasing of the recapitalization of the Navy's existing facilities to ensure that only the most critical projects in direct support of Naval operations in the Central Command area of responsibility are carried out in a difficult budget environment.

The budget request included authorizations of appropriations of $77.3 million for Finegayan Water Utilities, Guam and $78.7 million for North Ramp Utilities, Increment 2 at Anderson Air Base, Guam. The conferees defer the authorization of appropriations for these two projects pending receipt of information required by section 2207 of this Act.

The conferees determined that the Massey Avenue Corridor Improvements Project had merit to support requirements at the Naval Station Mayport, Florida, whether or not a nuclear powered aircraft carrier was home ported there.

Family housing (sec. 2202)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2202) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Navy for fiscal year 2012. It would also authorize funds for facilities that support family housing, including housing management offices and housing maintenance and storage facilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2202).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Improvements to military family housing units (sec. 2203)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2203) that would authorize funding for fiscal year 2012 to improve existing family housing.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2203).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Authorization of appropriations, Navy (sec. 2204)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2204) that would authorize appropriations for the active component military construction and family housing projects of the Navy for fiscal year 2012. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2012 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active-duty component of the Navy.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2204).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2008 project (sec. 2205)

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2009 projects (sec. 2206)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2206) extending the authorization for certain projects.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2206).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Guam realignment (sec. 2207)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2208) preventing the obligation or expenditure of funds to execute the realignment of Marine Corps personnel from Okinawa to Guam until certain conditions are met.

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that extends the limitation on the use of funds authorized to be appropriated in the Act with certain exceptions. The amendment also requires the Secretary of Defense to obtain a specific authorization for the use of appropriated funds in fiscal year 2012 to be used to construct or acquire public infrastructure on Guam.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense has not overcome a number of obstacles, including lengthy environmental studies, legal challenges, and land use issues, thereby delaying its execution of planned military construction projects associated with the realignment that have been authorized and appropriated in previous acts.

The conferees also note that while the congressional defense committees have been briefed on the Marine Corps' preferred force lay-down on Guam, the Secretary of Defense has yet to provide Congress with a master plan for construction of facilities and infrastructure to support the Marine Corps' preferred option.

As was noted in the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (P.L. 111-383), the conferees continue to support a comprehensive approach in the Pacific that supports our strategic interests. Guam is an essential element in the framework of the United States' theater security plan, but the continued lack of a comprehensive master plan and the inability of the Government of Japan to demonstrate tangible progress for the Futenma Replacement Facility provide additional risk in our ability to quickly move forward with the realignment.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to promptly provide the committees with a master plan, as well as a cost-mitigation strategy, for the realignment of forces to Guam.

Reduction of Navy military construction authorization (sec. 2208)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2207) that would reduce the Navy's military construction authorization.

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

TITLE XXIII—AIR FORCE

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Authorized Air Force construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2301) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Air Force for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2301).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

The budget request included an authorization of appropriations of $128.0 million for the Department of the Air Force to construct a Fuel Maintenance Hangar at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam as part of the Guam Strike program. According to budget documents provided to Congress, Guam Strike could cost more than $2.9 billion though the Air Force future-year defense program only contains approximately $450.0 million for the program.

The conferees believe that completing the Guam Strike program would be a significant investment and the Air Force should therefore re-assess the affordability of such an investment for a rotational presence.

Family housing (sec. 2302)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2302) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Air Force for fiscal year 2012. It would also authorize funds for facilities that support family housing, including housing management offices and housing maintenance and storage facilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2302).

Authorization of appropriations, Air Force (sec. 2304)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2304) that would authorize appropriations for the active component military construction and family housing projects of the Air Force for fiscal year 2012. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2012 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active-duty component of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2304).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2010 project (sec. 2305)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2305) that amends the table in section 2301(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (division B of Public Law 111-84) to allow for a scope increase of a Ground Control Tower at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2305).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Extension of authorization of certain fiscal year 2009 project (sec. 2306)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2306) that would extend the authorization for an Air Force fiscal year 2009 military construction project at Spangdahlem Air Base, Germany.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2306).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Reduction of Air Force military construction authorization (sec. 2307)

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Limitation on implementation of consolidation of Air and Space Operations Center of the Air Force

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2307) limiting the implementation of consolidation of the Air and Space Operations Center of the Air Force.

The conferees note that the Air Force announced a decision not to pursue a plan to consolidate Air Operations Centers in the United States.

Additional budget items relating to Air Force construction and land acquisition projects

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2308) authorizing the Secretary of the Air Force additional funding.

The Senate amendment did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XXIV—DEFENSE AGENCIES

Subtitle A—Defense Agency Authorizations

Authorized defense agencies construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2401) that would authorize military construction projects for the defense agencies for fiscal year (FY) 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2401).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

The agreement does not contain authorization for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Headquarters Facility, in Brussels, Belgium. The conferees believe that this facility is more appropriately funded through the NATO Security Investment Program, which has available unobligated balances.

The agreement contains authorization of a replacement elementary school at Baumholder, Germany with language that requires the Secretary of Defense to certify that Baumholder is an enduring location.

The agreement contains authorization for a Medical Center Replacement Facility at Rhine Ordnance Barracks, Germany. The conferees support the project, but are concerned that the overall scope exceeds demand requirements. Therefore, the conferees request the Secretary reassess the scope of this project and submit the results of this assessment in the form of an amended fiscal year 2013 request.

The President's budget request included an authorization of appropriations for military construction of $54.6 million to fit out the third floor of the National Geospatial Agency's (NGA) Technology center at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. This facility was constructed in 2010 as a result of the 2005 Defense Base Closure and Realignment (BRAC) Round. During review of the classification of work for this project, the conferees received a ruling from the Office of General Counsel of the Department of Defense that "that specifically authorized MILCON is the appropriate approach for this project." As a result, the conferees are concerned that the original BRAC military construction project may not have complied with section 2801 of title 10, United States Code, which requires a military construction project to include all military construction work necessary to produce a complete and usable facility. Therefore conferees direct the Comptroller General of the United States to prepare a report for the congressional defense committees no later than June 30, 2012 on the following:

1. A review of the BRAC project authorization for the NGA Technology center and a determination whether the Department of Defense carried out the full scope contained in the budget justification documents to construct a complete and usable facility;

2. The circumstances that resulted in a portion of the completed facility not able to be used for the purpose for which it was constructed;

3. An assessment of use of the facility to determine whether the facility category code that was proposed at the time of authorization of construction is consistent with its current and proposed use of the third floor;

4. An analysis of the proposed scope of the new work for the fit out of the third floor to determine why specifically authorized military construction funds are required;

5. An assessment whether the project was in compliance with federal laws regarding military construction; and

6. Any other matters the Comptroller General determines are appropriate in the review of this project.

The President's budget request included an authorization for military construction of $860.6 million and an authorization of appropriations of $29.6 million for a High Performance Computing Center (HPCC-2) at Fort Meade, Maryland. The conferees strongly support the requirement and note the criticality of a timely completion of the center to national security.

The budget justification documents supporting this project included estimated dates of February 2012 to complete a request for proposals, September 2012 to award a design build construction contract, December 2012 to start construction, and December 2015 to complete construction. The conferees note that the National Security Agency (NSA) did not plan to award a design build contract until the last month of FY 2012.

Given the relatively high cost of this project, the history of NSA's military construction project management, and the critical importance of the mission, the conferees are concerned about providing the full authorization for military construction of $860.6 million that is not validated by a cost estimate informed by any degree of actual design of the facility. The conferees note that Congress provides separate appropriations to the NSA annually for military construction planning and design specifically to permit the Agency to get as much as a two year head start on the design of projects of critical importance to national security while reducing the risk to U.S. taxpayers that funds will only be used to carry out the essential military requirements identified during the design phase. These funds also permit the agency to be able to award a construction contract as soon as congressional authorization is received, as opposed to having to wait for that authorization to start design, which can potentially add significant time to total acquisition timeline.

The Director of National Intelligence stated in an appeal to the conferees that "in FY 2012, the National Security Agency requested $29.6 million in military construction for planning and design of the HPCC-2 facility; the budget funded the construction costs of $831 million in FY 2013 and FY 2014, for a total cost of $861 million."

The conferees agree that the request of appropriations totaling $29.6 million in FY 2012 will only be enough to pay for planning and design costs for the HPCC-2 and that the remaining $830.0 million for construction will be subject to review by the Administration in future budget requests given the need to reduce defense spending. The conferees therefore agree to an authorization of $29.6 million to complete the design, initiate site preparations, and to order equipment that are considered long lead items for the construction of the facility. The conferees note that the NSA has already initiated a design contract using planning and design appropriations to minimize the impact of any delay in congressional authorizations in order to keep this critical project on schedule.

The Director of National Intelligence also informed the conferees that the House and Senate Intelligence committees have authorized an amount for the HPCC-2 project in the FY 2012 Intelligence Authorization bill. The conferees note a history of actions by the NSA to appeal to the intelligence committees for the approval of military construction projects, most recently an upgrade to the electrical infrastructure of the north side of Fort Meade, at amounts that put the successful award of projects and timely completion of construction at risk. As such, the conferees strongly encourage the NSA to continue to work with the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives as the committees of jurisdiction regarding the authorization of military construction projects in order to ensure proper and legal execution of projects that are critical to the national security of the United States.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2402) that would authorize certain energy conservation projects for fiscal year 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2402).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The budget request included authorization of appropriations for $135.0 million for the Energy Conservation Investment Program (ECIP). The conferees note that the budget justification documents accompanying the budget request contained a list of projects by service that would be carried out with funds authorized for the ECIP account. The conferrees determined that greater transparency and oversight is required to ensure that the projects proposed in the budget request for ECIP are actually carried out. Therefore, the conferees have included in the table at section 4601 of this Act, a list of specific ECIP project authorizations that exceed $2.0 million that have been added to the military construction tables by project, name, and location. The conferees also note that an authorization of appropriations of $18.0 million still remains in an unspecified account for various locations for ECIP, which is intended to be used for those projects less than $2.0 million that were included in the budget request. The conferees note that none of these projects listed in the table at section 4601 are in addition to, or a deviation from the list of projects included in the budget request for this activity.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2403) that would authorize appropriations for military construction and family housing projects of the defense agencies for fiscal year 2012. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2012 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active-duty component of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2403).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

TITLE XXVII—BASE REALIGNMENT AND CLOSURE ACTIVITIES

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2702).

The Senate recedes.

Completion of specific base closure and realignment recommendations (sec. 2703)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2704) that would authorize the Department limited authority to extend the implementation period of not more than seven decisions contained in the 2005 Defense Base Closure and Realignment (BRAC) round beyond the statutory deadline.

The Senate amendment did not contain a similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Defense to complete all 2005 Defense BRAC actions as expeditiously as possible.

Closing unnecessary defense facilities has historically been difficult because of public concern about the economic effects of closures on communities and the perceived lack of impartiality in the decision-making process. The Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510) (BRAC) created an independent commission to review a list of bases for realignment and closure submitted by the Secretary of Defense.

The Department of Defense has now undergone five BRAC rounds. The 2005 Base Realignment and Closure round was the biggest, most complex, and costliest round of BRAC to date. The final BRAC 2005 Commission forwarded a total of 182 closures or realignments to the Congress, including 177 of the 190 recommendations submitted by the Secretary of Defense and five closures or realignment recommendations from the eight installations it considered on its own initiative. These recommendations resulted in 22 major closures and 33 major realignments.

The Secretary of Defense was required to complete all BRAC actions by September 15, 2011. This deadline was directed in statute in order to guide investments and to provide a degree of certainty to local communities around military bases affected by base closures and realignments.

The budget request for fiscal year 2012 included a legislative proposal from the Department of Defense that would provide legislative relief to the statutory deadline for up to 10 BRAC recommendations. The conferees continued to monitor the recommendations that were in danger of missing the BRAC deadline throughout the year.

By the deadline, September 15, 2011, the Department of Defense notified the conferees that essentially all but two recommendations were completed.

The conferees note that the 2005 BRAC Commission acknowledged in their report that the Umatilla Depot in Oregon might not be closed by the deadline due to chemical demilitarization treaty obligations.

The successful completion of the BRAC decision to consolidate medical commands was dependent on actions by other congressional committees to approve a prospectus for a lease carried out by the General Services Administration. While the lease has been approved, the Department is still in the process of carrying out the move.

The conferees expect that both closures will be carried out in accordance with the BRAC statute regarding land disposal and the movement of personnel.

Special considerations related to transportation infrastructure in consideration and selection of military installations for closure or realignment (sec. 2704)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2706) that would require the secretary concerned to include transportation assessment of a proposed closure or realignment of civilian personnel that exceed certain thresholds.

The Senate amendment did not contain a similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Authorization of appropriations for Base Realignment and Closure activities funded through Department of Defense Base Closure account 2005

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2703) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2012 for ongoing activities that are required to implement the decision of the 2005 Base Closure and Realignment.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2703).

The House and Senate recede.

Reduction of military construction authorization for base realignment and closure activities authorized through the Department of Defense Base Closure Account 1990

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2704) that would reduce the Base Closure Account 1990 military construction authorization.

The House bill did not contain a similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Increased emphasis on evaluation of costs and benefits in consideration and selection of military installations for closure or realignment

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2705) that would increase the emphasis on the evaluation of costs and benefits in consideration and selection of military installations for closure and realignment.

The Senate amendment did not contain a similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees support the ability of the Department to reduce force structure commensurate with the workload and mission requirements; however, the conferees are concerned with the perception that the Department of Defense may have bypassed the limitations of section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, by completing a reduction in force at a defense activity and then realigning the balance of the workforce. The conferees believe that such a contravention of section 2687 would be inappropriate. Activities that exceed the thresholds of section 2687 at the time of the Secretary's decision to reorganize a particular activity should be specifically submitted in accordance with the notification process delineated in section 2687.

Limitation on BRAC 133 project implementation

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2707) that would limit the number of parking spaces at the BRAC 133 project location until the Secretary of Defense provides certain documents and certification.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Administrator for Nuclear Security and the Secretary of Defense (as needed), to conduct a study on nuclear waste processing and Generation IV reactor technology. The study would include a review of prior studies conducted by the Department of Energy and the NAS related to nuclear waste reprocessing and the use of mixed oxide fuel in reactors, including Generation IV reactors. The study would determine the waste streams from reprocessing and the use of mixed oxide fuel, analyze the nuclear nonproliferation risks of reprocessing and using mixed oxide fuel, and compare the costs and proliferation risks of nuclear waste reprocessing technologies used in other countries with direct disposal. The provision would also require the Secretary of Energy, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense, to analyze the feasibility of deploying Generation IV reactors or other nuclear reactors using mixed oxide fuel at military installations. The report would be due 180 days after date of enactment of this Act.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Sense of Congress on the use of savings from excess amounts for certain pension plan contributions (sec. 3131)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3113) that as stated in the House report accompanying H.R. 1540 (H. Rept. 112-78) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 would “require the Administrator for Nuclear Security and the Assistant Secretary of Energy for Environmental Management to make determinations throughout each fiscal year, until the end of fiscal year 2016, regarding the level of funds needed to meet the minimum funding standard required by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-406) for any defined-benefit pension plan operated by management and operating contractors of either the Department of Energy Office of Environmental Management or National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA). If economic conditions improve, or efficiencies are identified, such that the amounts originally budgeted for contributions to the contractors’ pension plans exceed the minimum required by statute, this section would require the Administrator and the Assistant Secretary to promptly obligate or expend the excess funds on high priority budgetary shortfalls, as identified by the Administrator or the Assistant Secretary, respectively. This section would authorize the Administrator and the Assistant Secretary to transfer any such funds as needed to fulfill this purpose, and would require the Administrator and the Assistant Secretary to promptly notify the congressional defense committees if such excess funds are identified or transferred. The authorities authorized by this section would terminate on September 30, 2016."

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express a sense of Congress that employee pension plans maintained by contractors who operate and manage the NNSA and the Office of Environmental Management laboratories, plants, and other facilities, should be fully funded consistent with law to ensure retention of high quality personnel. The sense of Congress would also state that if economic conditions improve, or efficiencies are identified, any funds appropriated for these pensions that are in excess to the contributions required by law should be re-directed and promptly obligated or expended on high-priority mission activities of the NNSA or the Office of Environmental Management.

DIVISION E—SBIR AND STTR
REAUTHORIZATION

Reauthorization of the SBIR and STTR programs (sec. 5001–5168)

The Senate amendment contained several provisions (secs. 5001–5503) that would reauthorize the Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) and the Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) programs for 8 years. The SBIR/STTR Reauthorization Act of 2011 gradually increases the SBIR allocation from 2.5 percent to 3.5 percent and the STTR allocation from 0.3 percent to 0.6 percent. In addition, it allows entities majority-owned by multiple venture capital firms to compete for SBIR awards.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes and the conferees agree to reauthorize SBIR and STTR for 6 years. The SBIR allocation will increase incrementally from 2.5 percent to 3.2 percent and the STTR allocation will increase incrementally from 0.3 percent to 0.45 percent. The conference agreement also expands the allowance of venture capital firms to include participation by firms that are majority owned by multiple hedge funds or private equity firms.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 112th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 157

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 2011

No. 190

Senate

The Senate met at 2 p.m., and was called to order by the Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS, a Senator from the State of Delaware.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

God, our King, You are clothed in majesty and strength. Your throne has been established from the beginning and You existed before time began.

Help our lawmakers today to do their work, striving to labor for Your glory. Give them the purity of life and honesty of purpose to walk in Your way. Lord, strengthen their heart and mind that they may worthily measure up to the role You have ordained for them. Thus, may they fulfill their vocation to the glory of Your Name and the advancement of Your kingdom.

We pray in Your sacred Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. INOUE).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, December 12, 2011.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS, a Senator from the State of Delaware, to perform the duties of the Chair.

DANIEL K. INOUE,
President pro tempore.

Mr. COONS thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, following leader remarks, the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 4:30 this afternoon. Following morning business, the Senate will be in executive session to consider the nominations of Norman Eisen to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic and Mari Aponte to be Ambassador to El Salvador.

At 5:30 p.m. there will be at least two rollcall votes in relation to the nominations.

NOMINATIONS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, today the Senate will vote on two nominations: those of Norman Eisen to serve as Ambassador to the Czech Republic and Maria Carmen Aponte to serve as Ambassador to El Salvador.

These two Ambassadors are in their positions as we speak, having been given recess appointments. These nominees are accomplished, qualified public servants who will continue to represent their Nation with distinction. For my Republican colleagues, however, being qualified and dedicated doesn't seem to be enough anymore. Last week, they blocked the nomination of a brilliant legal mind, Caitlin Halligan, to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Obviously, they don't mind there are these vacancies because Republicans were in the majority in that court. So they wanted to defeat this competent woman, and that is what they did with these vacancies still there in that court.

They blocked the nomination of Richard Cordray to lead the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, despite his obviously deep qualifications for the job. He has a long history of protecting the middle class against unfair practices by financial predators and he would have been a great asset in our fight to protect Main Street from the kind of Wall Street greed that caused the 2008 financial crisis. Yet Republicans denied Mr. Cordray's nomination—I should say confirmation—and all it does is weaken the agency he was nominated to lead.

I hope Republicans will not turn every confirmation process into a political three-ring circus. The candidates today, Mr. Eisen and Ms. Aponte, have jumped through enough hoops already. Ms. Aponte's accomplished record as Ambassador to El Salvador over the past 15 months speaks for itself. Experts in the region from across the political spectrum support her confirmation. The same enthusiasm is there for Ambassador Eisen. If Republicans block the confirmation of these excellent, qualified candidates, it will only be for nakedly partisan reasons.

PAYROLL TAX CUT EXTENSION

Mr. REID. Mr. President, also under partisan assault this month is a Democratic proposal to grant a $1,000-tax decrease on working families.

Senate Republicans have blocked four proposals to protect middle-class pocketbooks. Every hour they delay and every day they filibuster is one more the Senate, by necessity, will have to stay in Washington to get its work done.

Republicans have opposed our plan to pay for this legislation with a tiny surtax on a tiny fraction of America's highest earners. The tax would only apply to the second or third or fourth million the wealthiest Americans make. But Republicans say the richest of the rich in our country—even those who make millions every year—shouldn't contribute more to get our economy back on track. They call our plan, time after time, a tax on job creators—and I say so-called job creators—because every shred of evidence contradicts this red herring.

For example, there have been many outlets, but I will concentrate on one: National Public Radio went looking for one of these fictitious millionaire job creators. A reporter reached out to business groups, the antitax lobby, and Republicans in Congress hoping to interview one of these millionaires. Days ticked by with no luck. Many of our job creators are similar to unicorns; they are impossible to find and don't exist. That is because only a tiny fraction of people making more than $1 million—probably less than 1 percent—are actually small business owners, and only a tiny fraction of that tiny fraction is a traditional job creator. Most of these businesses are hedge fund managers or wealthy lawyers. They don't do much hiring and they don't need more tax breaks.

One reporter looked for millionaire job creators hiding on Facebook. This time they found a few, and they actually supported our plan. These people on Facebook actually supported our plan to ask the richest of the rich to pitch in to improve the economy for all Americans. This is what Jason Burger, owner of a contracting company that is hiring like crazy, said:

It's only fair that I put back into the system. That is the entire reason for my success.

Mr. Burger may be a millionaire, but he is not one in a million. The majority of people who make more than $1 million a year say they would gladly contribute more to improve the economy.

It is often said that what is good for business is good for America. I hope my Republican colleagues will remember, as Mr. Burger does, what is good for America is also good for business.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican leader is recognized.

MIDDLE CLASS TAX RELIEF AND JOB CREATION ACT

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, later this week Senators will have an opportunity to do three big things with a single vote.

By voting for the Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act that will soon come over from the House, Senators will be able to extend the temporary tax relief working Americans continue to need nearly 3 years into this administration, prevent more job losses in the middle of a jobs crisis by blocking a new regulation on U.S. manufacturers, and facilitate the creation of tens of thousands of new jobs through the construction of the Keystone XL Pipeline. One vote, three accomplishments. That is to say nothing of the other things the bill would do such as the doc fix and unemployment insurance.

My suggestion is that once this legislation comes over from the House, we pass it without delay. Based on the merits of the bill, it should be a strong bipartisan vote. Nothing could be more bipartisan right now than preventing job loss or facilitating the creation of new private sector jobs.

The President has said job creation is his top priority. Here is a bill that helps him achieve it without a dime of taxpayer money. The President says he wants to extend the payroll tax extension. Here is a bill that does it. The President says he wants unemployment insurance extended. This bill does that. The President says he wants the two parties to compromise. This is it. There is no reason this legislation shouldn't have the President's enthusiastic support.

The only reason—the only reason—for Democrats to oppose this job-creating bill would be to gain some political advantage at a time when every one of them says job creation is a top priority.

Here is what the junior Senator from West Virginia, a Democrat, had to say just today about the pipeline measure contained in the House bill:

I'm for the Keystone Pipeline. All the trade unions, everyone's for it. It creates thousands of jobs.

I couldn't say it better.

The House actually had a stand-alone vote on the Keystone XL back in July. Forty-seven House Democrats voted for it. I would suggest to my friends on the other side that they join with us and close out the year on a bipartisan note.

The Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act was written to appeal to both parties, and I have yet to hear anyone on the other side offer a single good reason for opposing it. So far, the only reason Democrats have given for opposing this bill is that they would rather extend the payroll tax cut on its own without adding language about a pipeline that many of them say they support anyway. So evidently they would vote for both these things separately but not together. That makes absolutely no sense.

Look, you are either for this pipeline project and the jobs that would come with it or you are not. If you are for it, there is no reason to oppose it just because it is not offered as a stand-alone measure. That doesn't make any sense.

It is time to stop the posturing. Here is a bill that contains top priorities from both sides. Let's take it up and pass it without any more theatrics. Let's pass this job-creating bill and give Americans the certainty and the jobs they deserve.

I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 4:30 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

Mr. McCONNELL. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

USE OF THE FILIBUSTER

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, last week, the highlight of the Senate was two Republican filibusters. Those are efforts by the Republicans to demand 60 votes for the Senate to take action. It used to be rare. In fact, it was so rare that Jimmy Stewart made a movie about it: "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." My colleagues may remember it. It wasn't this Chamber, but it looked a lot like it, and Jimmy Stewart was at a desk in the back row because he was a freshman Senator and he literally spoke until he dropped, physically, but he won the argument, won the day—a great triumph in Washington. He used the filibuster effectively to stop what he thought was a greedy move, a selfish move by his colleagues.

That is the movies. What is real life? Real life is when a Republican Senator says: I declare a filibuster and I will see you later; I am going out to dinner.

That is how it works around here. If we had a few more Jimmy Stewart moments on the floor, where those who are pushing for a filibuster—an exceptional, extraordinary 60-vote margin—had to actually stay on the floor and argue their point, I think they would go away. That is because 9 times out of 10, 19 out of 20, maybe even more, it turns out there is no solid basis for what they are doing.

What they did last week with their filibusters was to stop a woman from being appointed to the circuit court in the District of Columbia. Her name is Caitlin Halligan. She is from New York. She is an extraordinary person who has argued many cases before the Supreme Court. I do not have her résumé in front of me, but I spoke to her nomination last week. She was found unanimously well-qualified by the American Bar Association, and yet she was filibustered by the Republicans, and we could only come up with one Republican vote to support us—only one. All the rest said: The filibuster continues.

To put that in historic perspective, a few years ago we had a big confrontation in the Senate, before the Acting President pro tempore was elected to the Senate, so I do not implicate him in any way. But before the Acting President pro tempore was elected, there was an argument about whether you should filibuster nominees.

Well, a group of 14, a bipartisan group, said: only under extraordinary circumstances. Last week, with the filibuster of this nominee, they completely forgot that—except for one, Senator MURKOWSKI of Alaska. She remembered that promise, and she kept it. She joined us in voting to break the filibuster. It was not enough. That nominee fell by the wayside.

It was not enough, though. One filibuster a week is not enough for the other side. They came up later in the week with another one—that seems to be the sum and substance of their strategy in the Senate—and this filibuster was of Richard Cordray. Richard Cordray is a former attorney general of the State of Ohio. He is now working at the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, and the President wants him to be the Director.

What is this bureau? Created by the Dodd-Frank financial reform bill, it will put in place for the first time in the history of the United States an agency of government focused on making certain families and consumers know what they are signing when they get into financial transactions, and to stop those who are exploiting Americans and American families. The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. We have a ton of agencies that work with the financial institutions. Some of them are good, close friends of those institutions. This would be the one agency of government on the side of consumers.

I know a little bit about it because I heard a speech once from Elizabeth Warren. Elizabeth Warren, a Harvard law professor, one of the most articulate spokespersons for consumer rights in America—and the watchdog on the bailout funds Congress gave to the banks. She gave a speech once and said: We ought to have one agency that says to the American people, here are the tricks and traps you might find in a mortgage or a credit card agreement, and here are some things we should not allow under the laws of America.

I liked it so much, I went up to her afterward and said: I wish to introduce the bill. She and I worked on it. We introduced it. I put the first bill in. It gained support and popularity to the point where, when we came to the floor with the Dodd-Frank bill, Senator Chris Dodd took my idea and, I will say, improved it dramatically—he did a great job—and included it in financial reform.

My hope—the hope of many people—was that Elizabeth Warren, the person who conceived this idea, would head this agency. She was stopped cold. The banking interests and financial institutions in America said not only no, but heck no, we are not going to allow her to be the head of this agency.

She worked at it, trying to get it up and running, get the right people in place, and eventually went on, and I will not talk here about what her next effort will be. You can read about it anywhere in the papers. But she was the inspiration for this, and Richard Cordray was by her side, as they put this agency together.

The banks hate the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau like the devil hates Holy Water. The idea there would actually be an independent agency looking over their transactions and their legal instruments and informing the American people when they have stepped over the line is something they find unacceptable.

Let me tell you about another person working over at the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. Her name is Holly Petraeus. If her name rings a bell, it should. Her husband, General Petraeus, has probably been in the forefront of keeping America safe since 9/11 more than any other individual, serving both Republican and Democratic administrations. He has risked his life serving his country overseas. He is completely committed to our men and women in the military, and he is currently head of the CIA. His wife is cut from the same cloth. She believes in the military in her heart and soul, and she has worked at the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to stop predatory lenders who are taking advantage of military families. That is the kind of work that can be done and is being done there. But they do not have a Director. They do not have a leader.

So last week we brought Richard Cordray's nomination to the floor. It has been here for a long time. No one—no one—has argued this man is not extremely well qualified for the job. He is. The vote came up, and there was another Republican filibuster. He fell by the wayside—just what the banks want. They want to make certain this Bureau does not have a leader and cannot use its resources effectively. They are doing everything they can to cripple it.

Well, Mr. President, if that were the end of the story—two bad filibusters last week—hold on to your hats because here we come again. This week we are going to have Ambassador Mari Aponte, President Obama's choice to represent our Nation as U.S. Ambassador to El Salvador, before the Senate.

We know Ambassador Aponte is more than qualified for this assignment because she is already performing that job with distinction. President Obama appointed her by recess appointment nearly a year ago.

Let me tell you about two of the things she has achieved in a year as our chief diplomat in El Salvador.

First, she persuaded El Salvador to send troops to assist the NATO training mission in Afghanistan in August. This is the first time—the first time—any Latin American country has put troops on the ground in Afghanistan in support of American troops.

This represents a significant achievement for El Salvador. Twenty years ago, the people of El Salvador were struggling in the midst of a bloody civil war. Today, they are strong enough and stable enough to help others around the world in Afghanistan establish their own stable democracy.

Ambassador Aponte has proven to be very effective advocating for U.S. interests in Latin America—a region immediately on our doorstep and with which we have many strategic interests.

Ambassador Aponte has helped to advance America's security interests in Latin America by expertly negotiating an agreement with El Salvador to open a new jointly funded electronic monitoring center to fight transnational crime.

What are we talking about here? Drug dealing and terrorism. Such gang and narcotics-related crime impacts both our nations, Central America, and the world. This skilled diplomat is able to work now, as a recess appointment by President Obama, to ensure that El Salvador remains a strong ally in the fight against these dangers.

She has already proven herself to be an accomplished diplomat in a short period of time. She has a long history of public service and experience in both the private and nonprofit sectors.

One of America's greatest strengths is that we are a diverse nation. Ambassador Aponte helps demonstrate that strength to the world. She is one of the few Puerto Rican Ambassadors serving our Nation.

But despite everything I have said to you, her nomination has been met with unjustified resistance on the Republican side of the aisle.

In 1998, Ambassador Aponte was appointed by then-President Clinton to be Ambassador to the Dominican Republic. She withdrew her nomination, in 1998—13 years ago—after a Miami newspaper reported allegations that a former naturalized Cuban-American boyfriend from the early 1990s was actually a Cuban intelligence agent who was trying to recruit her.

The FBI looked into the matter. They investigated it. Aponte cooperated completely, and she also severed all her ties with this individual. She was never the subject of any FBI investigation or ever accused of any wrongdoing.

Despite her full cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ultimately the FBI found no evidence to support the allegations against her—none.

When President Obama looked at Ambassador Aponte's record of public service, he nominated her to serve as America's Ambassador to El Salvador in 2009. Once again, the critics raised the same allegations about her former relationship, even though they had been thoroughly investigated and dismissed and discredited by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Senator DEMINT of South Carolina objected to her nomination. He was the only Senator objecting. So this time around, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Senator JOHN KERRY of Massachusetts, along with Senator MENENDEZ, our only Hispanic Senator on the Democratic side, from the State of New Jersey, made an unprecedented move. They said to Senator DEMINT of South Carolina: We will allow you to personally review the FBI files on Ambassador Aponte.

So Senator DEMINT appeared to raise a new objection to Aponte at that point. And listen to this one: This objection—new one—by Senator DEMINT stems from an editorial the Ambassador wrote in a popular El Salvadoran newspaper in June about Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Pride Month. The article was entitled “For the elimination of prejudices wherever they exist.” Her op-ed disavowed violence and hatred against individuals based on their sexual orientation, urging education and understanding. Those are hardly radical ideas. Most Members of the Senate—at least, let's say, many Members of the Senate—have given speeches along these lines.

Well, the Senator from South Carolina calls this op-ed provocative and argues that it is disrespectful of El Salvador's culture and that it inflamed tensions with an important ally. There is no evidence to support what he said—none.

To the contrary, El Salvador itself had already taken—before she published this editorial—steps toward more equal rights with the passage of Decree 56 in May 2010. That law prohibits all forms of discrimination by the Government of El Salvador based on sexual orientation—just what the Ambassador had asked for in her editorial.

Decree 56 was signed 1 year before Ambassador Aponte wrote her article, 4 months before she was sworn in as Ambassador. The record is there.

El Salvador reaffirmed its national commitment to equality again last June when it joined the United States and more than 80 other nations in signing the declaration for the elimination of violence against the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender community during the Human Rights Council of the United Nations.

Let me also note that Ambassador Aponte wrote that op-ed pursuant to cables from the State Department that went out to all ambassadors around the world, suggesting they write similar pieces or hold a related event. In fact, similar editorials to what Ambassador Aponte wrote were written and events were held at American embassies and posts all around the world.

Why is one Senator picking on this Ambassador? Quite simply, the nomination of a U.S. Ambassador to a strategically important ally such as El Salvador is no time for a political debate that has little or nothing to do with time-honored and accepted principles in the United States and around the world.

Ambassador Aponte deserves a vote in the Senate based on her work, her achievements, and her demonstrated ability to effectively advocate for the United States in El Salvador.

She has been thoroughly vetted by the FBI and the State Department, as is every nominee. She has passed two separate top secret security clearances. She has shown she is able to work with Salvadoran leaders and achieve way beyond what many believed could be achieved because of her skill.

We live in challenging times. Our ambassadors are the eyes and ears of America around the world. Some of the posts they serve in are very dangerous. Look at what Ambassador Robert Ford has been doing in Syria amid that country's upheaval. Blocking qualified and talented Americans from serving in El Salvador or any place in the world is not in America's best long-term interests.

During our recent Foreign Relations Committee markup, which the Acting President pro tempore attended, related to Ambassador Aponte's nomination, Chairman KERRY offered Senator DEMINT another opportunity to review all the materials we have regarding Ambassador Aponte. I hope he took advantage of that offer. Should he still oppose her nomination, I disagree with him, of course, but respect his rights in the Senate. He can register his vote along with the other Senators. But I certainly hope this critical and important nomination will not be unfairly held up and discredited with another filibuster. It is time for the Senate to move beyond filibusters, to work in an effort to try to solve our problems.

PAYROLL TAX CUT

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, there was a recent survey of how many families in America have an immediate member of the family who is serving in the military. The number is one of the lowest in history. It turns out the families who actually know someone or have someone serving in the military are a small percentage of this great Nation.

My family has a nephew serving in Afghanistan with the 10th Mountain Division. Not long ago, as a college student, he worked as a doorman here in the Senate. But Michael is now serving overseas in Afghanistan. I think about him all the time. I send him boxes of things. I do not know if he will have any use for them or enjoy them, but it is my way of reminding him we do not forget him.

We have a big family, and I am sure he gets plenty of stuff. I know some of that must be a joy for him to receive. But more important than any material sent to him, I hope it is an expression of how we feel about him, about the sacrifice he is making, as so many others are making, thousands around the world, as we meet in the safety of this Senate Chamber.

We ask an awful lot of our men and women in uniform. We ask them to risk their lives for America. Many come back injured. Some do not return, having given that promise and that pledge. They make a sacrifice which many of us have never been asked to make.

I think about that in terms of the debate we enter into this week in the Senate. We are trying to turn this economy around because so many people are out of work. Businesses are struggling. The President put forward a jobs bill and has for months been pushing for its passage. We have considered a lot of parts of it.

One part relating to veterans we actually agreed on. It was a breakthrough. I am glad we did. But when it came to all of the others, the million who are out of work in America, there is still wide disagreement. We hope to finish this matter this week and head home for the holidays where we all want to be. But, unfortunately, we are embroiled in a political fight again. The fight is over something very basic. It is this: Should we ask the wealthiest in America to pay a little more in taxes so that we can provide a payroll tax cut for almost 160 million Americans? That is it.

What we hear from the other side of the aisle over and over again is, no; we cannot impose a new burden on the wealthiest in America. We cannot ask any more sacrifice from people who are already earning at least—at least—$1 million a year. I thought about that. I thought about my nephew and so many like him who sacrifice every single day for this great Nation, and to think that we could not ask the wealthiest among us to pay a little more in taxes to help us get out of this recession and put America back to work.

Those two things, unfortunately, are in sharp contrast. I think it is time for us to pass this payroll tax cut. It is desperately needed. We need to maintain our unemployment insurance because we still have too many people out of work: four unemployed Americans for every available job. That is a fact. Things are getting better slowly but too slowly. In the meantime, these people are looking every single day for a job while they do their best to keep their families together, to keep their families with the basics in life, to make sure they pay the rent, the mortgage, the utility bills.

The first casualty in many of these families is health insurance. Can you imagine raising children not knowing if one trip to the emergency room will be something you could never hope to afford. Unemployment benefits allow people to keep their families together and to continue looking for work.

I urge my colleagues, before we consider leaving for the holiday season, let's get the job done. President Obama has made it clear. He will not allow us to go home until we get this job done. Extend the payroll tax cut for 160 million Americans; maintain unemployment benefits for those millions who are counting on them to put bread on the table and keep their families together during a very difficult time and let's pass a spending bill. We agreed on the limits on what we would spend. Let's pass the bill now in a bipartisan fashion. I hope we can reach that point.

One last point. I now hear the Republican Senate leader come to the floor and tell us this entire debate, this entire breakdown, all the problems we have had is about an oil pipeline. Now, I did not know that until last week. I wish he would have spoken up a lot earlier, that an oil pipeline, the Keystone Pipeline, which has been controversial, has to be part of any deal. He said at one point that it may even create 20,000 jobs.

I am quick to remind my colleague, there are 14 million Americans out of work and 160 million counting on this payroll tax cut. So 20,000 jobs is important. I would love to see every job we can responsibly bring to this country. But let's not stop the business of government, let's not stop helping this economy recover over one issue, whatever it may be—whether it is a pipeline or whatever it may be.

We owe to the people who sent us here to respect them, to show that we will do our best to keep this country moving forward and do it in the name of so many of our men and women in uniform who are sacrificing today as we meet in the safety and security of this Chamber.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BLUMENTHAL). Without objection, it is so ordered.

SPENDING AND TAXES

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, over the last few weeks the Senate has been engaged in a familiar exercise. The Democratic majority, urged on by the President, offers up an increase in spending to be paid for by an increase in taxes. If anything, this familiar refrain should cement in the minds of the American people that President Obama and his congressional allies remain committed to a policy of tax and spend. Let's not mistake any of this for carefully designed stimulus spending or tax policy. No, the series of tax-and-spend proposals brought to the Senate floor during the past few months were designed for political reasons only. It remains unclear what any of this has to do with job creation. In fact, I suspect that much of this bread and circus routine is meant to distract the families and taxpayers from the President's mediocre record on job creation and economic growth.

For months the Senate has been asked to consider higher taxes, including surtaxes on the so-called rich to pay for whatever the Democrats have settled on as their spending idea of the week. Most of those ideas were sold as stimulus even though they include things such as an infrastructure bank, which would be a brandnew GSE to gobble taxpayer resources—just like Fannie and Freddie—and which would take years just to get off the ground. Most of the ideas have been designed to appease Democratic constituencies—mostly unions—and to construct campaign-season talking points attacking Republicans for their failure to increase taxes on the evil rich in order to pay for the Democrats' spending sugar highs. The focus on politics has become such a priority for the President that he is now in the unusual position of making a raid on Social Security's trust funds his principal policy objective.

At first, to pay for the very massive new stimulus plan of the President's, the Democrats wanted to limit deductions for people earning $200,000 or more, which in September was evidently how they defined the so-called rich. Next came a proposed surtax of 5.6 percent on people earning $1 million or more to pay for the President's stimulus scheme. We can't be sure, but I suspect this jump in the income threshold for the Democrats' tax increases came when high-income Democrats in high-income jurisdictions such as New York, California, and New Jersey made it clear that this is where they had to part company with the President. Next came a surtax of 0.5 percent on high-income earners to give funds to States to help pay mostly union workers. Then came a surtax of 0.7 percent on those earners to help pay for a new Fannie and Freddie called an infrastructure bank. This was followed by a surtax of 3.25 percent on those earners for a payroll tax expenditure. Finally came a surtax of 1.9 percent on those earners for the payroll tax expenditure.

The pattern is clear: Democrats roll out their stimulus spending plan of the week, find out how much it will cost, and then find out what surtax to slap on high earners, including business income recipients. That is how we get tax proposals with rates of 5.6 percent, then 0.5 percent, then 0.7 percent, then 3.25 percent, and then 1.9 percent. Who knows what will come next. Never mind that businesses across this country have been clear that massive uncertainty about the current administration's policies, regulations, and tax increases is holding back their hiring, job creation, and the economy. People are uncertain about what their future health care costs will be, what their future energy costs will be, what their future regulatory environment will be, and what their future taxes will be. Given the past few months of tax rate roulette being played by the Democrats, is it any wonder that families and businesses are uncertain and pessimistic about the future?

These tax rates have nothing to do with designing optimal tax policy and everything to do with scoring cheap political points and growing an already bloated Federal Government. These tax rates have nothing to do with engineering greater wealth or income equality through the Tax Code. These tax rates have nothing to do with creating a foundation for growth in jobs and the economy. They have everything to do with paying for politically favored, poll-tested stimulus spending.

In the President's $800 billion-plus stimulus of 2009, we were told that the measures would be temporary and we would "pivot" later to fiscal austerity. But the promised pivot never comes. Still today we are told to spend more now and pivot later, but the promised pivots never come. Unfortunately, unless we pivot, we will run off a budgetary cliff and face the deficit and debt crisis plaguing Europe today.

These tax rates recently proposed by Democrats have nothing to do with long-term economic growth and more to do with the President's vision of government as the benevolent allocator of people's hard-earned income. Not content with his average deficits being close to 25 percent of the entire size of our economy—which we have not seen since the years surrounding World War II—the President and my Democratic friends here in the Senate want to permanently enshrine a European-sized government in the American economy. They don't just want additional infrastructure spending, they want a brandnew government bureaucracy free of Congress to tax and spend. They want an all-powerful, unchecked government czar to control the provision and costs of consumer credit cards. They want an overzealous EPA to control reliable sources of energy no matter what the cost of their policies. They want an activist Labor Department to control how workers and companies can bargain to control where they can operate a business and to push people into their union voting base whether they support the union or not. The President's pursuits are not those of someone who thinks that in certain instances government is constitutionally authorized to act and can occasionally do some good. His record is that of someone who is confident that in most cases, government technocrats can do better things with Americans' hard-earned incomes than Americans can do for themselves.

When we look at the variable menu of recent tax rates proposed by Democrats, we have to ask whether, once enshrined into law, the 5.6-percent rate or the 0.5-percent rate or whatever happens to be their flavor of the week is where my friends on the other side of the aisle would leave things. I have every reason to doubt they would stop at those rates and every reason to believe they will work as hard as they can to keep increasing those rates, demolishing businesses and jobs as they go. I have every reason to believe the current President will stick with his commitment to "spread the wealth around" and ask the so-called rich—and that could mean people who earn as little as $200,000, according to Democrats—to pay "just a little bit more."

So where will they stop? What is the optimal tax-the-rich rate of taxation? Economist Peter Diamond, who was nominated by the President to serve on the Federal Reserve Board, has proposed in recent writings that "tax policy needs to be socially acceptable" and then finds it acceptable to go on to say that the so-called optimal top tax rate could be as high as 73 percent. The current top marginal tax rate on earnings in the U.S. economy is around 42.5 percent when we combine income tax rates of 35 percent with the Medicare tax and average State taxes. The cutoff for the top percentile of tax filers is about $400,000, according to Diamond's analysis.

When we consider the liberal conventional wisdom about how businesses operate, the American people, it seems to me, should be careful about where the Democrats' tax hike proposals might lead. The bottom line is that the sky is the limit.

Consider the New York Times' December 9 editorial, tucked in between advertisements for jewelry, properties, and baubles that only the tremendously megarich could afford, where the liberal press offered the following guidance on tax policy:

The latest Democratic bill to cut the payroll tax, blocked by Republicans on Thursday, called for a 1.9 percent surtax on income over $1 million. More important, for any savvy business owner, a surtax would have no bearing on hiring decisions. If new workers are profitable before tax, they will be profitable after tax, even if the employer has to pay slightly more of the profit in taxes.

This perfectly encapsulates the understanding of the economy by folks who have never run a business or tried to turn a profit. The liberal notion is that business owners are immune to basic economics and that their hiring decisions are entirely unaffected by tax rates.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. HATCH. I ask unanimous consent to be able to speak for just a few minutes more.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATCH. With this view in mind, it is not hard to imagine proposals for taxes upward of 73 percent because those megarich business owners simply won't flinch.

The Democrats' burning desire to raise taxes seems to confuse income and wealth. They abhor the outsized wealth accumulation of the megarich, even though they love the campaign contributions flowing from them. They seem to think that massive increases in income taxes will cure the growth in inequality observed over decades in the United States and in many foreign economies.

Some of our Nation's wealthiest individuals, such as Bill Gates and Warren Buffett, join this chorus and call for higher taxes on others, even though they channel large portions of their wealth to private foundations, revealing their preference for resources to be allocated in the private sector rather than by the government.

Even our President calls for more taxes on himself, although he could write a check to the IRS at any moment. He calls for a Buffett rule, even though he paid a tax rate of 26.3 percent in 2010, which, according to a recent Congressional Research Service analysis, means the President violates his own idea of the Buffett rule by paying a lower tax rate than well over 10 million more moderate income taxpayers.

The past few months have witnessed a variable menu of tax rates offered by my friends on the other side of the aisle. They claim these tax increases will secure equality, economic growth, job creation, and more.

Those claims are false. The evidence is clear that the recent proposals from Democrats have been more of the same: tax and spend, move toward a permanently larger government, and design politically motivated bills they know will fail in the Congress in order to hone election year talking points.

We need to be clear with the American people that these proposals might be good for government, but they will do little to cure the ills of our economy.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for up to 15 minutes in morning business.

CLASS WARFARE

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, last Thursday marked the fifth time this year the majority has initiated a vote on the so-called millionaires' surcharge—a tax that primarily affects small businesses—in order to "pay for" a piece of legislation. Notably, Thursday also marked the fifth time this year this tax increase failed to pass the Senate, which suggests, of course, it is being used for political purposes.

President Obama and his supporters have argued that the tax increases they support—such as the millionaires' surcharge—will not affect anyone but the wealthiest Americans, and that those people have to start doing "their fair share" because they "can afford it." They repeat the phrase "shared sacrifice."

In a recent campaign speech in Kansas, President Obama took the class warfare argument to a whole new level, injecting his speech with false economic moralisms and evoking what he calls the "you're on your own" economics of Republicans and suggesting that the "breath-taking greed of a few"—these are his words I am using—has been crushing the middle class. The President's object seems to be purposefully conflating all upper income taxpayers with those reckless few who helped cause the financial crisis, ignoring, I might add, those in Congress who also helped to create that crisis.

The President's rhetoric is not only wrongheaded, in my view it is irresponsible. I wish to make three points in response.

First, the President of the United States should not be pitting Americans against each other. Class warfare has no place in American debates. It is divisive, and it is unhelpful to the national discourse. It is especially unbecoming of the President, who is the only person elected to represent all Americans. He should speak for all Americans, especially in times of high unemployment and high economic uncertainty, not pit them one against each other for short-term political gain.

America is not a caste society. There is no formal class structure engrained into our way of life. The opposite is true. That is why millions of people left the old countries in Europe and elsewhere to come here for economic opportunity and to compete in our free markets.

Why doesn't the President offer encouragement about America's strengths and its future, rather than play into some Americans' fears? In other words, why doesn't he run the kind of campaign he ran in 2008—one based on unity and hope?

The answer, I am afraid, is because the President's record during the last 3 years does not inspire much hope: a massive stimulus filled with special-interest goodies, a government takeover of health care, a failed cap-and-trade agenda, an EPA power grab, and more new job-killing regulations than one can count.

Obviously, the policies of the last 3 years have not left Americans in better shape than they were 3 years ago. Indeed, about three-quarters of Americans say the country is on the "wrong track." As columnist Charles Krauthammer wrote in a recent column: "Obama has spent three years on signature policies that ignore or aggravate" structural problems, such as high unemployment, weak growth, vast debt, and our strained safety net and dysfunctional Tax Code.

So the President cannot run on his record. And he does not want voters to focus on how his policies may have prolonged our economic troubles or that his party controlled Washington for the first 2 years of his Presidency. His way out is to blame others.

But rather than stir up resentment and unease, I suggest the President focus on strengthening opportunity for all Americans. That gets to the second point, which addresses the assertion that upper income taxpayers are not doing their fair share. This is patently false. Let me provide a few instructive numbers.

According to IRS data, the top 1 percent of taxpayers pays 38 percent of total income taxes but earns only 20 percent of total income. In other words, the top 1 percent earns 20 percent and pays almost double that in their share of Federal income taxes.

The top 2 percent of taxpayers pays almost half of all the taxes—48.68 percent, to be exact. They only earn a little under 28 percent of the total income and pay almost 50 percent. So the top 2 percent are paying almost 50 percent of all the taxes. And this is not a fair share? This is not doing their part?

The top 5 percent of taxpayers pays 58.7 percent. They earn just a little over one-third of all of the income. In fact, the top 5 percent pays more than the bottom 95 percent, total. The top 5 percent pays more taxes by far than the rest of the 95 percent. And they are not doing their fair share?

The top 10 percent of taxpayers pays almost 70 percent and still earns less than 50 percent of total income—45.7 percent, to be exact.

The bottom 95 percent of taxpayers pays 41.3 percent. They earn 65.3 percent of total income. So the bottom 95 percent—this is a big chunk of American taxpayers—is earning a lot more in percentage than they are paying in percentage of income taxes.

The Joint Committee on Taxation estimates that 51 percent of all households, which includes both filers and nonfilers, had either zero or negative income tax liability for the year 2009. Such progressive taxation is, in fact, “shared sacrifice.” The United States has the most progressive income Tax Code of any country among developed nations. So the argument that top-tier earners are not doing enough does not hold water, and somebody needs to call the President on this false argument of his because it attempts to pit one group of Americans against the other when in point of fact the President, of all people, should be unifying Americans.

The third point is related to who actually would pay this millionaires’ surcharge that the President advocates and our colleagues have been urging us to vote for yet again. This proposed tax increase will presumably be trotted out again and again. It cannot get the votes to pass, but it makes a nice political charge.

The President and his supporters claim it would only affect the wealthiest of the wealthy. Well, the fact is this tax would crush small business owners. Many small businesses are organized as “pass-through” entities. That means they pay their taxes as individuals. They are not organized as corporations. They do not pay their taxes as corporations. They pay as individuals.

So when the plumbing company or the air conditioning company pays taxes, that small business owner pays them as an individual and, therefore, he pays at the individual income tax rates. If you are in one of the top two rates—and 50 percent of small business income is reported in those top two rates—you are going to get clobbered by this surtax on millionaires. And these are the very businesses, the most successful small businesses, that create many of America’s new jobs.

According to the National Association of Manufacturers’ December 5 weekly report:

Small and medium-sized payrolls (those with less than 500 employees) accounted for the bulk of the net new jobs, continuing a familiar trend. This was true for both the goods-producing as well as the service-producing sectors.

There is a lot of data that shows many of these job-creating small businesses would be slammed by a millionaires’ surcharge.

For example, a Wall Street Journal editorial reports that the Joint Committee on Taxation has estimated that taxpayers will declare $1.2 trillion in business income in 2013. Of this reported tax income, 34 percent would be “on tax returns with modified adjusted gross income in excess of $1 million.” As the Journal notes, that means about $400 billion in business income would be subjected to the so-called millionaires’ surcharge tax.

And who pays that? As the Journal writes, the Treasury Department examined IRS data in 2007 and found 392,000 tax returns with incomes above $1 million, 311,000 of which were classified by the Treasury Department as “business owners.” So 80 percent of a payroll tax surcharge will fall on these small business owners. That is a direct tax on job creation. What could you think of that would do more harm to creating jobs in America than imposing a brandnew tax on the people who we hope are going to create the new jobs coming out of this recession? Remember too that taxes are already set to go up in 2013 when the current tax rates expire. On top of that, business investors will also face a 3.8-percent ObamaCare “investment income tax surcharge” set to begin in 2013.

How is taking money away from these small businesses going to allow them to expand and hire more workers?

John Mackey, who is the cofounder of the wildly successful Whole Foods chain, wrote an op-ed last month explaining, from his point of view, what policies can help and harm job growth. He writes:

One hundred years ago the total cost of government at all levels . . . was only 8 percent of our gross domestic product. In 2010, it was 40 percent. Government is gobbling up trillions of dollars from our economy to feed itself through higher taxes and unprecedented deficit spending—money that could be used by individuals to improve their lives and by entrepreneurs to create jobs.

Policymakers would do well to listen to the advice of entrepreneurs such as John Mackey about a real growth agenda. Americans are counting on job creators in the private sector to help turn the economy around by putting capital at risk and hiring new employees. Relentless class warfare and obsessing over income redistribution are not real policy prescriptions.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the op-ed piece by Charles Krauthammer which I mentioned.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, Dec. 8, 2011]

OBAMA’S CAMPAIGN FOR CLASS RESENTMENT
(By Charles Krauthammer)

In the first month of his presidency, Barack Obama averred that if in three years he hadn’t alleviated the nation’s economic pain, he’d be a “one-term proposition.”

When three-quarters of Americans think the country is on the “wrong track” and even Bill Clinton calls the economy “lousy,” how then to run for a second term? Traveling Tuesday to Osawatimie, Kan., site of a famous 1910 Teddy Roosevelt speech, Obama laid out the case.

It seems that he and his policies have nothing to do with the current state of things. Sure, presidents are ordinarily held accountable for economic growth, unemployment, national indebtedness (see Obama, above). But not this time. Responsibility, you see, lies with the rich.

Or, as the philosophers of Zuccotti Park call them, the 1 percent. For Obama, these rich are the ones holding back the 99 percent. The “breathtaking greed of a few” is crushing the middle class. If only the rich paid their “fair share,” the middle class would have a chance. Otherwise, government won’t have enough funds to “invest” in education and innovation, the golden path to the sunny uplands of economic growth and opportunity.

Where to begin? A country spending twice as much per capita on education as it did in 1970 with zero effect on test scores is not underinvesting in education. It’s misinvesting. As for federally directed spending on innovation—like Solyndra? Ethanol? The preposterously subsidized, flammable Chevy Volt?

Our current economic distress is attributable to myriad causes: globalization, expensive high-tech medicine, a huge debt burden, a burst housing bubble largely driven by precisely the egalitarian impulse that Obama is promoting (government aggressively pushing “affordable housing” that turned out to be disastrously unaffordable), an aging population straining the social safety net. Yes, growing inequality is a problem throughout the Western world. But Obama’s pretense that it is the root cause of this sick economy is ridiculous.

As is his solution, that old perennial: selective abolition of the Bush tax cuts. As if all that ails us, all that keeps the economy from humming and the middle class from advancing, is a 4.6-point hike in marginal tax rates for the rich.

This, in a country $15 trillion in debt with out-of-control entitlements systematically starving every other national need. This obsession with a sock-it-to-the-rich tax hike that, at most, would have reduced this year's deficit from $1.30 trillion to $1.22 trillion is the classic reflex of reactionary liberalism—anything to avoid addressing the underlying structural problems, which would require modernizing the totemic programs of the New Deal and Great Society.

As for those structural problems, Obama has spent three years on signature policies that either ignore or aggravate them:

—A massive stimulus, a gigantic payoff to Democratic interest groups (such as teachers, public-sector unions) that will add nearly $1 trillion to the national debt.

—A sweeping federally run reorganization of health care that (a) cost Congress a year, (b) created an entirely new entitlement in a nation hemorrhaging from unsustainable entitlements, (c) introduced new levels of uncertainty into an already stagnant economy.

—High-handed regulation, best exemplified by Obama's failed cap-and-trade legislation, promptly followed by the Environmental Protection Agency trying to impose the same conventional-energy-killing agenda by administrative means.

Moreover, on the one issue that already enjoys a bipartisan consensus—the need for fundamental reform of a corrosive, corrupted tax code that misdirects capital and promotes unfairness—Obama did nothing, ignoring the recommendations of several bipartisan commissions, including his own.

In Kansas, Obama lamented that millions “are now forced to take their children to food banks.” You have to admire the audacity. That's the kind of damning observation the opposition brings up when you've been in office three years. Yet Obama summoned it to make the case for his reelection!

Why? Because, you see, he bears no responsibility for the current economic distress. It's the rich. And, like Horatius at the bridge, Obama stands with the American masses against the soulless plutocrats.

This is populism so crude that it channels not Teddy Roosevelt so much as Hugo Chavez. But with high unemployment, economic stagnation and unprecedented deficits, what else can Obama say?

He can't run on stewardship. He can't run on policy. His signature initiatives—the stimulus, Obamacare and the failed cap-and-trade—will go unmentioned in his campaign ads. Indeed, they will be the stuff of Republican ads.

What's left? Class resentment. Got a better idea?

Mr. KYL. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I apologize for interrupting my colleague, and I will not for long. I think my colleague wants to speak on the subject of the nominations that are going to be contained within an hour of debate, equally divided. I want to make certain the comments of the Senator are going to be part of that time period. So if I could ask, for my colleague—I believe we are almost at the hour where we have to go to executive session and report the two nominations. I would be happy, then, to yield to my colleague to speak first, if he wishes.

Would my colleague agree with that?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I am willing to do that, but I thought I maintained the right to the floor by—

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that after we have moved to executive session, the Senator from Iowa be the first to speak in the time period allotted to the opponents.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

NOMINATION OF NORMAN L. EISEN TO BE AMBASSADOR EXTRAORDINARY AND PLENIPOTENTIARY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA TO THE CZECH REPUBLIC

NOMINATION OF MARI CARMEN APONTE TO BE AMBASSADOR EXTRAORDINARY AND PLENIPOTENTIARY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA TO THE REPUBLIC OF EL SALVADOR

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the following nominations, en bloc, which the clerk will report.

The bill clerk read the nominations of Norman L. Eisen, of the District of Columbia, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Czech Republic, and Mari Carmen Aponte, of the District of Columbia, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Republic of El Salvador.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will be 1 hour of debate equally divided in the usual form.

The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I want to speak about one of the votes we are going to have this afternoon, and it has nothing to do with Mr. Eisen's job as Ambassador. It is about why he has not been confirmed to this point.

The President announced Mr. Eisen's nomination to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic on June 28, 2010. On September 20, 2010, I provided public notice of my intention to object to the nomination. In other words, as I always do when I put a hold on something—a bill or a nomination—I put a reason in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD so that everybody knows it is me. I am not a secret-holds guy.

The reason for my objection is not related to the substance of his duty as Ambassador; I object to his nomination because of the way Mr. Eisen handled the controversial firing of Gerald Walpin and the congressional inquiry into that firing. Mr. Walpin was the inspector general at the Corporation for National Community Service, AmeriCorps. Mr. Eisen was at the White House Counsel's office at the time.

Any attempt to undermine the independence and integrity of inspectors general raises serious concerns with me, and anybody ought to know that about this Senator. An inspector general who does his or her job runs the risk of losing friends at any agency as well as maybe the White House. The Congress must not sit idly by when an inspector general is removed improperly.

After the President abruptly removed Inspector General Walpin from office, there were allegations that he was fired for political reasons. So I started the investigation. There was evidence that the removal may have been motivated by a desire to protect a friend and political ally of the President, mayor of Sacramento Kevin Johnson.

The inspector general and CNCS management were clashing over an inquiry into misuse of Federal grant money at a charity run by Johnson. There were allegations that the grant money was used to pay for personal services for Johnson such as maybe washing his car. There seemed to be evidence of that. There were allegations that the grant money has been used to pay for political campaign work. So what would you expect an inspector general to do?

The IG was pushing aggressively to require Johnson to repay the Federal grant money that his charity could not account for. The inspector general was also pushing to have Johnson prohibited from receiving future Federal grant funds. This caused, as you might expect, a political uproar because some people feared that might prevent the city of Sacramento from receiving Federal stimulus dollars during the financial crisis.

All of this background cried out for further investigation. I also learned that Mr. Eisen personally delivered an ultimatum to Inspector General Walpin. He demanded the inspector general resign or be terminated within 1 hour. At the time he delivered the ultimatum, no notice had been given or provided to Congress as is legally required under the Inspector General Reform Act.

The IG Act requires the President to tell Congress the reasons for removal of an inspector general 30 days before taking action. That is what the law requires. Now, ironically, I cosponsored this provision with Senator Obama before he became President Obama. The goal of that provision is to make sure Congress is aware of why an inspector general is being removed.

We need independent inspectors general. They should not be removed for political reasons. So we need to make sure Congress is informed of the reasons for getting rid of an inspector general. Mr. Eisen's 1-hour ultimatum was an attempt to avoid that provision of law. If the inspector general had resigned under that pressure, Congress would not have received any notice and the reasons for his removal would have remained a secret, but Inspector General Walpin did not resign, and the President began the process of removing him with a 30-day notice. At first the notice merely said he had lost confidence in the inspector general. Senators from both political parties agreed that was too vague. So Mr. Eisen provided a second more detailed explanation. The second explanation said the inspector general had been "confused and disoriented" at a board meeting on May 20, 2009. It essentially implied that he might be senile.

So my staff met with Mr. Eisen to try to learn more. So here I give you another reason for my hold on Mr. Eisen. During that interview with the congressional staff on June 17, 2009, Mr. Eisen refused to answer at least 12 very direct questions. I wrote to the White House Counsel's office immediately after the interview. I listed the 12 questions he refused to answer and asked for written answers.

I never got a satisfactory reply. So I had to gather the facts independently. So Mr. Eisen did provide some information during this interview that very day in 2009. The problem is, the information turned out to be not true. Eisen tried to assure the staff that the firing was not politically motivated. He claimed the agency's bipartisan board of directors unanimously supported the removal of Inspector General Walpin before the President decided to remove him. He also claimed the White House conducted "an extensive review" in response to concerns raised by the board about Walpin's fitness for that office. He said this review was prompted by that incident at the May 20, 2009, board meeting where it appeared that the inspector general was disoriented.

When congressional investigators interviewed eyewitnesses, however, their accounts differed slightly. At a minimum, all agreed the inspector general lost his train of thought during the presentation. Others described it as being a more serious episode.

The chairman of the board of directors suggested telling the White House about what happened. No one on the board objected. So he went and met with Mr. Eisen in the White House Counsel's office.

Now, think about that, would you, please. If you think the inspector general might be suffering from some mental incapacity or illness, why would you run straight to the White House Counsel's office? It seems to me you would talk to his family or the people who worked with him every day about your concerns. That would be the only way to find out if there had been similar incidents or if it was only a one-time occurrence.

Instead, the chairman of the board asked Mr. Eisen at the White House Counsel's office to look into it. According to Mr. Eisen, he conducted "an extensive review" which then formed the basis for the President's decision to remove Walpin from office. However, our investigation finds no evidence that Mr. Eisen's review consisted of anything more than simply asking the CNCS management to describe their complaints about Mr. Walpin. Unlike the congressional review, Mr. Eisen did not interview each of the board members present at the May 20 meeting. He also did not interview the other Office of Inspector General employee who was present with Mr. Walpin during that board meeting where they said he was disoriented. Instead, Eisen merely collected from the agency details about various routine disagreements with the inspector general.

Now, get this. None of the evidence the agency provided to the White House related to Mr. Walpin's mental capacity to serve, even though that was the question that supposedly prompted the review in the first place. Mr. Eisen accepted the agency's version of those disagreements without even giving the inspector general a chance to respond.

Obviously, any agency is going to have some clashes with an inspector general, at least if that office operates as a truly independent and aggressive watchdog. Mr. Eisen did not provide Mr. Walpin or anyone else in the Office of Inspector General an opportunity to reply or give their side of the story. Mr. Eisen took action based upon incomplete information provided only by agency officials who had adversarial relationships with that inspector general.

He told Congress the May 20 incident was the reason for removing the inspector general. But Mr. Eisen failed to give Inspector General Walpin or anyone close to him a chance to tell his side of the story. To put it as simply as possible: That is just not fair.

On June 17, 2009, I wrote to White House counsel Gregory Craig listing 12 specific direct questions that Eisen refused to answer that day. Question No. 4 was this: Which witnesses were interviewed in the course of Mr. Eisen's review?

This question followed a more general question about what Mr. Eisen did in the course of his review. His answer to that prior more general question included the claim that he conducted witness interviews of the board members. However, he refused to specify which witnesses or how many witnesses he interviewed. Then he resorted to talking points rather than answering specific questions.

He replied along these lines: No. 1, we did an extensive review; No. 2, I am not going to get into the details; and, No. 3, all of the board members agreed, including the Republican board members.

Mr. Eisen clearly led the staff to believe that the President's decision was based in part on the unanimous agreement of the board that the inspector general should go. That was false. The account of Eisen's interview is based on memories of both House and Senate staff present at that time. Also present was a career law enforcement agent from the executive branch on temporary detail to my oversight and investigations staff whose recollections confirm this account as well.

In short, Mr. Eisen's lack of candor and cooperation cannot be mistaken for a misunderstanding or a miscommunication. There was no miscommunication. Attempts to remove an IG must be evaluated with strict scrutiny. When administration officials are asked to provide information to Congress, I expect to rely on those officials to provide the unvarnished truth. Evidence that a witness may have misled Congress is extremely serious.

Just last month, Mr. Eisen finally admitted his earlier statements were not true. He sent me a letter, and I ask unanimous consent to have it printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

NOVEMBER 20, 2011.

DEAR SENATOR GRASSLEY: Thanks very much for meeting with me. I know how busy you are and I very much appreciate you and your staff taking the time to talk about my service as Ambassador to the Czech Republic. I also appreciate the opportunity to discuss your concerns about my interactions with staff relating to the removal of Gerald Walpin as the Inspector General of the Corporation for National Community Service (CNCS).

With respect to the Walpin matter, you have asked me to clarify certain steps that were taken by the Administration prior to my June 10, 2009 phone call with Mr. Walpin about the President's decision to remove him from office. On May 20, 2009, the Chair of the CNCS Board, Alan Solomont, notified the White House that the Board had serious concerns about Mr. Walpin's performance. I personally spoke with Mr. Solomont and obtained his independent recollection of the events of the May 20 Board meeting. To be clear, at that time, CNCS Board Members did not express to the White House, verbally or otherwise, unanimous support for the removal of Mr. Walpin. I believe that, on or about June 8 or 9, 2009, White House personnel also communicated with a Republican Board member, Vice-Chair Goldsmith. I do not recall any other conversations with Board members prior to the removal.

Thanks again for seeing me and for allowing me to convey my apology in connection with my June 17, 2009 meeting with Congressional staff. It is now my understanding that I answered a few of the questions inaccurately, although at the time I thought they were accurate. Of course, it was not my intent to mislead staff in any way, but to the extent that I was unclear in my responses, or that my declining to answer questions created confusion, I regret it and I sincerely apologize. I have tremendous respect for the role that you and your staff have played in supporting the Inspector General community. I look forward to working with you in the future on items of mutual interest.

Sincerely yours,

NORMAN L. EISEN.

Mr. GRASSLEY. He sent me a letter on November 20 admitting his answers were “inaccurate.” He also acknowledged in a meeting with me that the key factual findings in the staff report were correct. He said he did not intentionally provide false information, and he has apologized.

I am sure he sincerely regrets the way he handled the questions, especially since it has led to the difficulty in his confirmation process and probably, if we had had that letter as we asked for late last year, he would have been confirmed at that particular time.

Now after my meeting with him this year, I accepted his apology about the false or “inaccurate” statements. I agreed to proceed to the nomination with a 60-vote margin required for confirmation. The majority leader did not agree with that, so he decided to invoke cloture instead.

I will oppose cloture because I am still opposed to the nomination. My opposition was always based on more than one or two false statements. Lack of candor is broader than whether a particular statement is technically true. It includes his failure to be forthcoming and responsive to those questions that were asked on June 17, 2009. His evasiveness caused House and Senate staff to spend much more time and resources uncovering the truth.

If he had just answered a few simple factual questions, that would not have been necessary. For example, in relation to the 1-hour ultimatum, he refused to answer specific questions about his June 10, 2009, conversation with Mr. Walpin. He would only say that he disagreed with certain aspects of Mr. Walpin’s account without specifying which aspects.

Word games and evasiveness of that sort are incompatible with being a candid and forthcoming witness and ought to be incompatible with a person representing the United States as an ambassador. My reasons for opposing his nomination also include all of the other circumstances surrounding the way Mr. Eisen handled Mr. Walpin’s removal.

Mr. Eisen’s attempt to force the inspector general to resign with a 1-hour ultimatum would have amounted to a constructive removal. It would have evaded the congressional notice requirement if he had been successful. However, Inspector General Walpin refused to resign and even filed lawsuits to try to keep his position. He did not win his lawsuit because ultimately the White House did comply with the technical requirements of the 30-day notice provision.

After the controversy erupted, the inspector general was placed on administrative leave until 30 days after the second more detailed notice to Congress.

That is why Walpin lost his lawsuit, but that does not change the nature and the fact that Norm Eisen attempted to evade the statute.

He tried to force a quiet resignation and thus remove the inspector general from office without the 30-day notice to Congress the law requires.

Because Inspector General Walpin did not yield to the pressure, no court had a chance to rule on whether that would be appropriate.

I am also opposed to this nomination because of the way the White House decided to avoid these issues last year with a recess appointment. Senate confirmation, under the advice and consent clause, is one of the strongest checks on executive branch power.

Recess appointments are meant to fill vacancies that arise during a long recess, not to bypass the confirmation process. This vacancy arose on January 20, 2009. Yet the President waited 18 months before making an appointment.

There had already been a lot of controversy over Mr. Eisen’s actions at the time of his appointment. The White House should have known there would be issues with his confirmation. Rather than listening to my concerns, the White House decided to bypass Congress. President Obama rewarded Mr. Eisen by using a recess appointment to install him as Acting U.S. Ambassador to the Czech Republic.

Mr. Eisen had several opportunities to address my concerns last year. He was scheduled to meet with my staff on December 16, 2010, at 11:30 a.m., and at approximately 11:15 a.m., the White House postponed the meeting until 2:15 p.m. At approximately 2 p.m., the meeting was canceled by the White House Office of Legislative Affairs without further explanation.

By calling off a face-to-face meeting in favor of a recess appointment, the White House sent the message that the President is not interested in hearing the concerns of Republican Members of Congress.

Once he had his recess appointment, Mr. Eisen did not seek to meet with me or my staff again until that appointment was about to expire at the end of this year. Only then did he apologize and admit that the statements in his staff interview were not accurate. Remember, our President, at the time of his inauguration, made a commitment to be the most transparent of any administration in our history.

In summary, Mr. Eisen took action on behalf of the President that ran afoul of the Inspector General Reform Act. Mr. Eisen only listened to the agency’s complaints about the inspector general rather than conducting a fair, thorough, and responsible investigation, and then he misled congressional investigators about his review and about the true basis of the President’s decision to fire the inspector general. He admitted in this letter to me that he provided inaccurate information but claimed it was unintentional.

This is the second time in the last 2 months an official from the Obama administration has done that. The Deputy Attorney General just withdrew a letter sent to me on Operation Fast and Furious earlier this year because of its “inaccuracies.”

I am afraid there is a pattern developing with this administration about not leveling with Congress in its constitutional responsibility of oversight. When we ask for information from the executive branch, we expect honest, forthcoming, and truthful answers. We can disagree on policy; we are all entitled to our opinion, but we are not entitled to our own facts. Getting the facts straight should not be akin to pulling teeth. We need to send a signal that congressional oversight matters and there are consequences in misleading Congress.

It should come as no surprise to anybody that doing our constitutional job of oversight is very important to this Senate. I know Ambassador Eisen recognizes that. I got that very clearly from him in our last meeting in October.

I don’t like interference by people in either a Republican or Democratic administration who don’t cooperate with my investigations, and I will bet every Senator will say that. Therefore, for the reasons I just gave, I ask my colleagues to oppose cloture and oppose this nomination.

I yield the floor and reserve the remainder of the time on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, momentarily, I am going to yield time to the Senator from New Jersey.

Before I do that, I wish to say very quickly—and I am not going to make all my comments right now—to my colleague from Iowa, first of all, I have great respect for his diligent approach to these issues. He has been tremendously receptive to a continuing dialog. I express my gratitude to him for that. When asked, he met with Ambassador Eisen, and he certainly listened to the facts as they were presented by others who have a different point of view.

Obviously, every Senator here always does draw their own conclusions. First, I thank Senator GRASSLEY for his willingness to agree to have these votes that we will have today and to move forward with some resolution with respect to this nomination.

I understand he has chosen to oppose the nominee. I simply say to him, and I think to others, sometimes in these processes, sometimes in the questions for the record, as we call them, where people submit written questions, and even in the interviews, there are miscommunications, misinterpretations, and misstatements that are not intentional and not meant to somehow mislead or deceive somebody.

I simply say to the Senator that I know he has met with Ambassador Eisen and we have now heard why he intends to vote no. I am convinced several different individuals and entities have thoroughly investigated and examined the removal of Inspector General Walpin, and they have found there was no wrongdoing. The Foreign Relations Committee looked into it in conjunction with the consideration of this nomination, and the Homeland Security Committee examined this issue. It was, in fact, litigated in Federal district court and before the DC Circuit Court. None of these entities—not one—found that either the President somehow acted wrongly or illegally or inappropriately in connection with the removal of Mr. Walpin from the office.

To the contrary, the U.S. district court specifically rejected Mr. Walpin's claims that he was improperly removed from this position, and they dismissed his lawsuit.

Our friends, Senator LIEBERMAN and Senator COLLINS, both of whom enjoy strong reputations for integrity within the Senate, stated their belief, as ranking and chair of the Homeland Security Committee, that the President met the letter and spirit of the Inspector General Reform Act.

I do believe there was some miscommunication. I have talked to the Senator from Iowa about it. I think it was unfortunate, and I wish it had been cleared up earlier. I believe it was genuinely a miscommunication, not an intentional act, and I appreciate the fact that Mr. Eisen has apologized to Senator GRASSLEY for his sense of that miscommunication—the difference between review and removal and a sense of what may have happened in the course of that.

I also appreciate Senator GRASSLEY's willingness to look beyond that and to enforce his principles, as he is privileged to do as an individual Senator, but also to allow the Senate to try to do its work today.

I will say a few words about Mr. Eisen and the job he is doing. He is doing an outstanding job in Prague on our behalf.

First, the Senator from New Jersey is here to speak about a different nominee. I will yield up to 10 minutes to the Senator from New Jersey.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I thank the chairman for yielding. I have come to the floor to address the nomination of an extraordinary woman—a qualified, talented Latina—to be the U.S. Ambassador to El Salvador.

Unfortunately, some of my Republican colleagues have made Ambassador Mari Carmen Aponte a target of inside-the-beltway politics, where the political points gained from bringing down an administration's nominee supersedes the value gained from having a superior ambassador, promoting and guarding American interests at a critical time.

Born in Puerto Rico, Ambassador Aponte became the executive director of the Puerto Rico Federal Affairs Administration in 2001. She has served as a director at the National Council of LaRaza and the Puerto Rican Legal Defense and Education Fund. She has presided over the Hispanic Bar Association of the District of Columbia and the Hispanic National Bar Association. She has excelled in her field, and she has won the respect of her colleagues and the diplomatic community.

Let's look at the record. Nearly 2 years ago, I chaired the nomination hearing for Ambassador Aponte to serve as President Obama's Ambassador in San Salvador. At that time, one of my Republican colleagues objected to her nomination because he was not given access to her FBI file to review information about a personal relationship Ambassador Aponte had with a Cuban national some 20 years ago.

Pursuant to precedent, one Democrat and one Republican reviewed that file. I was the Democrat. There was nothing in the file to substantiate the concerns raised by my colleagues.

On this issue, I take a backseat to no one when it comes to promoting democracy in Cuba and opposing the Castro regime or anybody who sympathizes with such a despotic regime. I certainly would never, for a moment, let down my guard when it comes to that regime.

I can assure every colleague on both sides of the aisle that if I had any concern that Ambassador Aponte would let her guard down or had any questionable relationship with a Cuban national or if there was any relationship of the Castro regime in her background, I would not be supporting her today.

This is a respected American diplomat who has been on the job and has served this Nation with distinction. In the 15 months since Ambassador Aponte was sworn in as U.S. Ambassador to El Salvador during a recess appointment, she has impressed the diplomatic establishment with her professionalism and won the respect of parties both right and left in El Salvador. She has won the respect of civilian and military forces. She has won the respect of the public and private sector. She has won everyone's support and fostered a strong U.S.-Salvadoran bilateral relationship that culminated with President Obama announcing El Salvador as only one of four countries in the world, and the only country in Latin America, chosen to participate in the Partnership for Growth Initiative.

Most important, Ambassador Aponte has been an advocate for American national security and democratic values. As a result of her advocacy, El Salvador is again a key ally in Central America, and its troops are the only ones from a Latin American country fighting alongside American troops in both Iraq and Afghanistan.

Ambassador Aponte has consistently fought efforts by Cuba and Venezuela to gain influence in Central America.

As a result of her negotiating skills, the United States and El Salvador will open a new joint electronic monitoring center—jointly funded, by the way—that will be an invaluable tool in fighting transnational crime.

This is a record of success. It is a record of honor. It is a record of diplomatic and political distinction. It is the record of a dedicated, qualified, experienced, and engaged American diplomat—a 15-month record that brought our nations together and pursued our interests. What more could we ask? What more should we ask?

Having said that, because of my strong belief that Ambassador Aponte is fully and uniquely qualified for this post, during the last several months, I worked with the distinguished chairman, Senator KERRY, to find a way—despite committee precedent—to allow an additional Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee to review the Ambassador's FBI file. As a result, not one but two Republicans—my colleague and friend from Florida, Mr. RUBIO, and the Senator from South Carolina, Mr. DEMINT—were able to review her file. Since the concern had been not having access to the file, we presumed that once they were reviewed, they would lift their objections and allow a vote on her nomination. Why? Because there is nothing in that file that would indicate otherwise. But we were wrong. It wasn't about the file. That appeared to just be a delay tactic. The opposition to Ms. Aponte's nomination turned out to be about one thing and one thing only; that is, politics. Our good-faith effort to provide full access to information and address concerns about Ms. Aponte was summarily dismissed.

At her nomination hearing in November, Republican members of the committee raised a new concern—an editorial penned by Ambassador Aponte on tolerance and nonviolence during Gay Pride Month in June. Republicans decried it as disregarding Salvadoran culture and questioned her motives for writing the editorial, despite the fact that this editorial was the result of a cable edict to all embassies from the State Department urging missions to write editorials during these events.

The true irony of this trumped-up allegation is that the editorial, which Republicans assert “stirred controversy and was rebuked throughout Latin America,” mirrored a May 2010 decree by Salvadoran President Funes prohibiting discrimination by the Government of El Salvador based on sexual orientation.

So let's be honest, there is no question about Ambassador Aponte's qualifications or performance on the job or about whether an editorial on tolerance is grounds for sacking an ambassador. This is just another Republican dog and pony show to undermine the President's policy objectives and attack a qualified Democratic nominee to an essential post.

When the facts, when the files—when there was nothing that corroborated the vicious allegations about Ms. Aponte's past, those on the other side argued that her editorial on the elimination of prejudice was the basis for their opposition. When they learned that the Government of El Salvador itself supports this view, Republicans again changed their tune. Four weeks after her November 29 nomination hearing on the eve of the Foreign Relations Committee business meeting, these Members decided they wanted to attack from a different angle. They called for a new classified hearing to vet her nomination, to permit questions to FBI and diplomatic security investigators about whether they had been subjected to political interference for determining that Ambassador Aponte was eligible for a security clearance.

I find it pretty appalling that Members of the Chamber would essentially suggest without evidence that professional FBI and diplomatic security members would bend to political pressure or that any administration would apply such pressure, risking U.S. national security, on behalf of any person. Those Members knew that the content and timing of their request would make it impossible to fulfill. To his credit, the chairman of the committee, Senator KERRY, over the last several weeks has nonetheless sought to resolve the situation. In fact, there has been an offer made to Senator DEMINT to go over the whole essence of the background of the diplomatic security clearance.

The shifting basis of the opposition to Ambassador Aponte reveals, to me at least, that the motive for this operation is pure partisan politics, driven by pure partisan interest, fueled by a pure partisan desire to derail an administration nominee for the sake of derailment alone, without any regard for the consequences for American foreign policy or for the Nation.

I have seen this Ambassador. She has succeeded beyond anybody's wildest expectations in a country that has dramatically turned the course of events in a way we want to see it. I urge my colleagues to support Ambassador Aponte's nomination. I urge them to put partisan politics aside, recognize the benefits to America's security and foreign policy interests that her tenure has delivered, and allow Ambassador Aponte to continue serving our Nation.

With that, I yield the floor, and I yield back to the chairman any time I may not have consumed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. DEMINT. Mr. President, I rise today to express my opposition to the nomination of Mari Carmen Aponte to be Ambassador to El Salvador. Her confirmation has been unanimously opposed twice by all Republicans on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and for good reason.

Before I discuss Ms. Aponte, I would like to clarify some facts about the nomination process. Several Democrats have voiced complaints recently about Senate Republicans' supposed obstruction when it comes to President Obama's nominees, but most of his nominees have not even been contested. In fact, since Obama became President, the Senate has confirmed 1,198 of his nominees. Only a small fraction of these nominees have been so controversial that they have been blocked by the Senate.

As a Member of the Senate, I take the Senate's constitutional duty to provide advice and consent to the President regarding his nominees seriously. While the overwhelming majority of nominees are easily confirmed, some do rise to such a level that further debate and scrutiny are required by the Senate. Ms. Aponte is one of these nominees.

This is not the first time the Senate has considered confirming Ms. Aponte for an ambassadorship. She was first nominated by former President Clinton in 1998 to be the Ambassador to the Dominican Republic. At the time, Senator Jesse Helms, who was chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, learned of possible background issues and concerns by investigators relating to Ms. Aponte's ties to Cuban intelligence. Primarily, the question centered around the 12-year romantic relationship she had with a man who was targeted as part of an FBI counterintelligence investigation and allegedly worked for Cuba's spy agency. A high-ranking Cuban defector claimed that Cuban intelligence tried to recruit Ms. Aponte to be a spy for the Cuban Government. Rather than discuss her past relationship, Ms. Aponte withdrew her nomination, and it was filled by someone else.

Eventually, Ms. Aponte was given a top security clearance by the State Department despite what some have described as serious objections from career officials.

When President Obama nominated Ms. Aponte in March of 2010 to be Ambassador to El Salvador, Republicans asked for more information to address the allegations that had previously surfaced—namely, information about the scope of the 1998 investigation, including an update to that file; second, information about the Cuban defector who was handled by the CIA who publicly alleged that Cuban intelligence had attempted to recruit Ms. Aponte through her longtime live-in boyfriend; and third, information about the FBI's counterintelligence investigation that led to Ms. Aponte's refusal to take a lie detector test in 1994, as requested by the FBI. Serious questions, honest questions.

Instead of allowing Senators to access that information and alleviate our concerns, President Obama went around the Senate and granted Ms. Aponte a recess appointment in August of 2010. For nearly a year and a half, Republicans have been continually denied access to Ms. Aponte's full FBI record and other information, as the Obama administration has rebuffed our requests related to Ms. Aponte's past.

Shortly after Ms. Aponte was first nominated by President Obama, I, along with four other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, wrote a letter to Secretary of State Hillary Clinton asking for her assistance in obtaining this information. That same month, all eight Republican members of the committee wrote to Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman JOHN KERRY stating that committee members had not received requested information needed to fully vet the nominee.

Let me remind everyone that we never received that information. Ms. Aponte was recess-appointed by the Obama administration later that summer. We have continued our efforts to work with the administration to get access to this information. Chairman KERRY was able to convince the White House to allow me to see a summary of the diplomatic security background investigation; however, that summary did not address the fundamental questions that have arisen, and that summary left me with more questions than answers.

Committee Republicans wrote another letter to Chairman KERRY about our concerns last month. In the letter, we said:

We recognize the need to balance highly sensitive materials during the confirmation process. However, we believe that in this particular case, the scope of the background review was not appropriately complete.

We went on to say:

The background summary that was provided was based on an updated investigation, but it did not encompass numerous allegations that the initial background investigation in 1998 was tainted by political interference. News reports and other sources alleged that Ms. Aponte received security clearance despite objections from career officials due to outside pressure. However, these allegations and the circumstances surrounding them were not part of the current background investigation. Without additional information, Senators have no way of determining the validity of media stories and rumors that have been circulating about this nominee's past.

We also asked for a closed hearing due to these lingering issues. We wrote:

We believe that the circumstances warrant additional committee review in the form of a closed hearing. A closed hearing would allow Senators to review and discuss the classified and sensitive data relevant to the nomination and discuss the unresolved issues with investigators and relevant intelligence community officials. As the issue involved both a high-ranking Cuban defector and FBI counterintelligence investigations, a closed hearing would be the most beneficial format available to the committee to rectify the deficiency of information provided.

Senator KERRY declined to hold a closed briefing and wrote a letter back stating:

In my view the process we have followed with regard to Ms. Aponte's nomination has afforded committee members ample time and opportunity to consider her nomination and secure answers to any relevant questions.

He also said:

We should all be in a position now to debate Ms. Aponte's nomination on its merits.

Senator KERRY then offered to work with my office further to get answers from the administration. I believe he did work in good faith with our office, but in the end the White House once again denied our requests for information.

While I would agree with Senator KERRY that there has been ample time spent on Ms. Aponte's nomination, we still lack critical information. The Senate cannot in good faith confirm a nominee who has repeatedly refused to answer simple necessary questions related to her past.

In addition to questions about her past, Ms. Aponte's current judgment is also in question. In her recess-appointed capacity as Ambassador to El Salvador, Ms. Aponte has inflamed tensions in the very country where she should be improving diplomatic relations. Her decision to publish an opinion piece hostile to the culture of El Salvadorans presents even more doubts about her fitness for the job. This op-ed upset a large number of community and pro-life groups in El Salvador who were insulted by Ms. Aponte's rhetoric.

A coalition of more than three dozen groups has since written the Senate asking its Members to oppose Ms. Aponte's confirmation. I quote from their letter, in which they wrote:

We respectfully request that Ms. Aponte be removed from post as soon as possible so that El Salvador may enjoy the benefits of having a person as a government representative of your noble country.

Meanwhile, Republicans on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are still trying to get access to information about Ms. Aponte's past. Two days ago, the White House again denied Senators the right to be briefed or review information relevant to this nomination.

Senators should not be forced to vote on a nominee without a complete understanding of her background. I urge you to join us in voting against cloture.

Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of the Republican time. How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Ten seconds.

Mr. DEMINT. That is pretty good timing.

I thank the Chair, and I yield back.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I yield 4 minutes to the Senator from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank my friend from Massachusetts, and I rise, Mr. President, to speak in support of the nomination of Norm Eisen to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic.

I know Norm in a very personal capacity, so I feel very strongly about this nomination. Since I was fortunate to be elected to the Senate and came to Washington in the late 1980s, I joined a synagogue in Georgetown, and Norm

Eisen and his wife and children are members of that synagogue, so I have gotten to know them in a totally non-political, nondiplomatic way. Based on that, I start with a real appreciation of this fine, honorable, public-spirited man.

He happened to have gone to law school with President Obama. I think as a result of that the President knew him and asked him to be the ethics counsel in the White House in the first years of the administration. I think anybody you talk to, or most anybody you talk to, about his performance in that job would say he did an excellent job. He was demanding ethically and intellectually. His honor and his quest to have the government and those who serve in government act in an honorable way is very high.

When there was a vacancy in the position of Ambassador to the Czech Republic, President Obama asked Norm Eisen if he would serve. And the President did something that really had a lot of meaning to it. Apart from Norman's quite considerable resume as a private attorney, being successful and highly regarded and very effective, Norm Eisen is the child of survivors of the Holocaust. His mother was actually born in the Czech Republic. So what a remarkable moment for President Obama to ask him to return to the country from which his family was essentially chased—and some worse—in the position as Ambassador of the greatest country in the world, the superpower of the United States of America.

We now have a record of his performance in that position. There was a problem with the nomination before, raised by Senator GRASSLEY at that time, and so he was a recess appointment. But now he has been there, and he has done an extraordinary job. I know from conversations with people in Prague that he is very highly regarded by the leadership of the Czech Republic. An extraordinary, bipartisan group of foreign policy experts has also endorsed his confirmation.

It would actually be extremely disruptive if we did not confirm Norm Eisen in terms of our relations—diplomatic, economic, security relations—with the Czech Republic, which are so important.

So I think if you were considering this nomination and put the various arguments on the scales of justice, on one side you have a record of public service, of honor, of great family values, of intellectual excellence, of belief in public service, of a great record now in the time he has been in Prague as our Ambassador. On the other side, you have a question about how Norman, while he was in the White House as ethics counsel, handled the case of this one individual inspector general at the Corporation for National and Community Service.

I have been over this in great detail. In our Governmental Affairs part of the Homeland Securities Committee, we oversee the IGs. Senator COLLINS and I have gone over this. And with respect to Senator GRASSLEY, who has been very thorough and fair about this and is probably the leading protector and defender of the IGs in the Senate, in the matter that bothers him, there was a misunderstanding. There was not, in my opinion, after looking at this very thoroughly, an intentional act of deceit. There was a misunderstanding, and Ambassador Eisen has now apologized for that misunderstanding of stating unintentionally an inaccuracy.

So on one side of the scales of justice, you have all these extraordinary positives and on the other a question raised about this one case he handled, which Senator GRASSLEY and others working for him say was deceitful. Ambassador Eisen says it was a misunderstanding, for which he apologizes.

To me, it is not only in the interest of the United States but also in the interest of fairness and justice—with which we like to believe we conduct our proceedings here—that the Senate today cross party lines and confirm the nomination of Norm Eisen to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic.

Mr. CASEY. Mr. President, I stand in support of Norman L. Eisen's appointment to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic. It is with great confidence in Ambassador Eisen's skill, qualifications, and record that I support this appointment. Ambassador Eisen will greatly advance U.S.-Czech relations and directly benefit American diplomatic and business interests, possibly helping to create 9,000 jobs in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and elsewhere in America.

Ambassador Eisen was first nominated to be Ambassador to the Czech Republic on June 29, 2010. He was given a recess appointment on December 29, 2010 and has served with distinction as Ambassador in Prague since that time.

Ambassador Eisen is highly qualified and suited for this post. He speaks Czech, knows and respects Czech culture, and understands the country's history in a deeply personal way. His mother was born in the former Czechoslovakia and survived Auschwitz. The State Department notes that the Ambassador resides in the former Nazi General Staff Headquarters, where he and his family now celebrate the Sabbath in the same room where Nazis dined 70 years ago "a powerful Czech-American message about the triumph of good."

Accompanying his strong multicultural qualifications is Ambassador Eisen's quintessentially American personal history. He was the first in his family to graduate from high school, college, and law school—all with honors. He had a long and successful practice as a private attorney at a major D.C. law firm; founded a government watchdog group, and served in the White House for two years—2009–10—as Special Assistant and Special Counsel to the President. This history prepared Norm Eisen to be a successful ambassador representing American interests, culture, and values abroad.

Ambassador Eisen's track record as Ambassador to the Czech Republic speaks for itself. Since assuming his post, Ambassador Eisen has ensured the U.S. can look to the Czech Republic as a partner troop-contributing nation in Afghanistan, opponent of human rights violations by Iran, and an ally in the European Union and at the United Nations on important issues such as Israel.

Due to Ambassador Eisen's efforts, the defense relationship between the U.S. and the Czech Republic is at an historic high point. He has been an eloquent advocate in urging Prague to retain the 600 soldiers it has sent to Afghanistan, making it one of our most supportive NATO allies. The National Review notes that during Ambassador Eisen's tenure, "defense ties with the Czech Republic have broadened and deepened."

Energy and technology developments have also strengthened the relationship between our two nations during Ambassador Eisen's tenure. He assisted the Czech government to develop a Center for Civilian Nuclear Safety in Prague that would build on efforts to ensure the safety of radiological materials. Of special importance to Pennsylvanians, Ambassador Eisen has worked in support of Westinghouse's efforts to provide civilian nuclear reactors in the Czech Republic. Westinghouse employs over 6,000 Western Pennsylvanians and over 9,000 Americans in other areas of the country.

A successful Westinghouse bid in the Czech Republic would create an estimated 9,000 direct and indirect high-paying U.S. jobs over the next 5 years. These jobs will be not only in western Pennsylvania, but also in States employing hundreds of high-tech nuclear energy industry workers, such as Connecticut, Minnesota, New Hampshire, South Carolina, and Utah.

The American Chamber of Commerce has noted that Ambassador Eisen's "presence in the country has been and will be essential to our common efforts to advance the interests of U.S. business" and has "invigorated our community and . . . expanded their export possibilities, which should add much needed jobs in the U.S. manufacturing sector."

In addition to defense, energy, and business developments, Ambassador Eisen has championed causes important to both Americans and Czechs. Having founded a watchdog group and worked on ethics and government reform in the White House, Ambassador Eisen is strongly qualified to help the Czech Republic address corruption. He helped launch the first ever "World Forum on Governance" in Prague, at which 100 Czech, U.S., and international anti-corruption champions met to develop innovative new solutions. The head of Transparency International in the Czech Republic has said that "Ambassador Eisen's efforts have contributed to progress in fighting corruption and his continued presence in Prague is vital to help maintain that trend."

Ambassador Eisen has earned the respect and trust of Czech leaders and senior officials. In the words of Defense Minister Alexandr Vondra, who formerly served as the Czech Ambassador to the U.S.: "Norm Eisen is one of the most energetic, optimistic ambassadors I have ever seen. The bilateral U.S.-Czech relationship needs him."

It is clear that Norm Eisen has excelled at the duties entrusted to him as the U.S. Ambassador to the Czech Republic, and I fully support his appointment.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. KERRY. I thank the Senator. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from New Hampshire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAHEEN. I rise also to speak in support of the confirmation of Norm Eisen to be U.S. Ambassador to the Czech Republic.

In the year since his recess appointment to this position by President Obama, Ambassador Eisen has proven to be a strong advocate for the United States. He has brought a renewed focus to our defense relations with the Czech Republic, resulting in an expansion of our bilateral and NATO military cooperation, and the Czech Republic has increased its troop contribution in Afghanistan and strongly supported international efforts on Iran and the U.S. policy on Israel with the EU and the United Nations during his tenure.

As Chair of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on European Affairs, I had the privilege of chairing both of Ambassador Eisen's nomination hearings. Throughout the nomination process, he has demonstrated a strong understanding of the complexities of our relationship with the Czech Republic, a drive to fully represent American interests and values, and a special humility in having the opportunity to represent the United States.

I would hope that all of our colleagues in the Senate this evening will join us in supporting Norm Eisen to be the Ambassador to the Czech Republic.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from New Hampshire very much. I know she cut her time a little bit because we are getting toward the end of these comments with respect to the nominees and to the vote.

Likewise, I haven't said anything about either nominee, and I want to say a couple words about each, if I can, and I want to specifically answer a couple points made by the Senator from South Carolina with respect to Mari Aponte.

First, with respect to Norm Eisen. He has been an extraordinarily effective Ambassador for the United States in terms of our relationship with the Czech Republic and he has, by everybody's measure, deepened that partnership on key national security interests, and he has been a key supporter of American economic interests.

He has aggressively backed the Westinghouse Company's pursuit of a $27 billion contract to construct civilian nuclear reactors in the Czech Republic, and that would mean thousands of jobs here in the United States. The Chamber of Commerce has called him one of the most effective ambassadors to hold this post. He has assisted the Czech Government with its plans to develop a center for nuclear safety in Prague, and he has been an eloquent advocate of urging Prague to retain the 600 soldiers they have sent from the Czech Republic to Afghanistan, making it one of our most supportive NATO allies. He has supported the Czech Government's efforts to pool defense resources with neighbors, and he has supported and enhanced the Czech efforts to establish a NATO Center of Excellence for helicopters.

Finally, he has enthusiastically supported the Czech leadership's efforts to promote the stabilization and democratization of six states between the EU and Russia—Ukraine, Georgia, Belarus, Armenia, Moldova, and Azerbaijan.

I think that in every respect Ambassador Eisen has earned the respect of the Senate. He understands the culture of the Czech Republic. He speaks the language, which is a critical asset for our ambassadors in any country in any part of world. And as was mentioned by the Senator from Connecticut, he is the son of a Holocaust survivor from the former Czechoslovakia and, believe me, he understands the history of that part of the world and that country in a very personal way.

I might also comment that the country's leaders trust him. National Review this week said that his efforts have been publicly recognized by innumerable Czech officials, including the leading transatlanticists: Prime Minister Petr Necas, Foreign Minister Karel Schwarzenberg, and Defense Minister Sasha Vondra.

I hope our colleagues today will recognize that he is exactly the right person we need in Prague at this time.

Now let me speak, if I may, to Ambassador Aponte.

I would hate to see the Senate take this good person and make her a part of the political back and forth that has consumed this city and to deny her the right to the full appointment as ambassador, given the outstanding job she has done in that capacity.

Let's talk about the accomplishments, rather than talk about something from 1990 that, frankly, has been vetted several times not just by the committees in her appointments but by the professionals in the national security establishment of the United States who have three times—not once but three times—given her national security clearances at the highest level.

It seems to me we should recognize that she has done a spectacular job of negotiating an agreement with the Salvadoran Government to open a new jointly funded electronic monitoring center to fight transnational crime. She has helped secure the deployment of Salvadoran troops to Afghanistan—the only country in South America and Latin America to be doing so, and I think that is no small accomplishment. It is clear she has gained the respect of the Salvadoran Government.

The Foreign Relations Committee has received many letters in support of her nomination, including one signed by eight former foreign ministers and 18 members of the Salvadoran Congress.

We heard the Senator from South Carolina a few moments ago say that he wanted somehow to get additional information. I think the Senator from South Carolina knows I have bent over backward to try to help provide that information.

The first time she was nominated, two members of our committee were permitted to look at the FBI report, and we designated Senator MENENDEZ and Senator BARRASSO. They looked at it, and there was nothing in it that struck either of them as restraining people from being able to vote for her.

Then she was a recess appointment, because Senator DEMINT at that time objected to the nomination. And subsequently, with this nomination now, we were again appointing two people to see the FBI record. On this occasion we bent the rules, and both Senator RUBIO and Senator DEMINT were allowed to look at the FBI record.

Subsequent to that we went through a process of trying to schedule the nomination. Senator LUGAR and I had agreed we would try to do so. So Senator DEMINT reviewed the background file on November 3; Senator RUBIO reviewed it on November 7. Her nomination hearing was held on November 8, and her nomination was put on the agenda for the November 15 committee business meeting. The day of that business meeting—not before it—the day of the meeting, I received a request that her nomination be held over until the next business meeting. I honored that request and, indeed, we held it over. That same day I sent a letter to the members of the Foreign Relations Committee saying that the next business meeting would be rescheduled for 2 weeks later, which was the Tuesday after Thanksgiving, November 29.

Then late in the Thanksgiving recess, I received a letter asking that it be deferred indefinitely. The stated reason was to permit the committee to hold a closed-door hearing in which we could examine whether the FBI properly conducted its investigation relating to Ms. Aponte—not for her nomination now, not for her nomination a few months ago or last year, but looking into what the FBI did or didn't do in the 1990s.

I understand that everybody is busy. We all have a lot to do around here. But to wait until the 11th hour to ask for a hearing of that sort is, frankly, puzzling. And carrying out an investigation of the FBI is no small matter. To suggest that on the several occasions she has received a top secret clearance somehow the FBI or the CIA or some other entity in our intelligence community bent under political pressure is insulting to them. And believe me, if that were true, we would have been reading about it on the front pages of the Washington Post or New York Times or all the papers a long time ago.

Let me recap. The background file was reviewed on November 3. No request for a closed hearing. Not during the November 8 nomination hearing was there a request for a closed hearing. Not in the written request on November 15 for a holdover was there a request for a closed hearing. And even after the Foreign Relations Committee voted out this nomination, I bent over backward to try to help Senator DEMINT be able to get the answers to his questions, and the White House said they would make available to him a briefing at the time of his choosing. That request was never responded to.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the letter from the White House Director of Legislative Affairs.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, DC, December 9, 2011.

Hon. JOHN F. KERRY,
Chairman, Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN KERRY: I write to update you on our efforts to provide background information to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in connection with their review of the nomination of Mari Carmen Aponte to be Ambassador to El Salvador. Ms. Aponte was originally nominated for this post in December 2009, and later recess appointed in August 2010. She was re-nominated to this position in February 2011. Before detailing our most recent efforts to provide information to the Committee, we believe it is useful to describe our standard practice in this area and detail the substantial steps that have been taken to date. As you know, it has been the practice, for many years and through previous administrations, to balance between protecting highly sensitive materials and accommodating a legitimate need to access relevant information about pending nominees. In this case, we have pushed that balance far in the direction of disclosure to several Committee members.

It is the standard practice of the White House to make background investigations of nominees before your Committee available, upon request, for review by the Chair and Ranking Member, or their designees, only. Former Counsel to the President, Robert F. Bauer, explained the basis for this longstanding practice in a March 17, 2010 letter to Senator and Committee Ranking Member Lugar, “[o]ver many years and multiple Administrations, this policy has successfully struck the appropriate balance between protecting the confidentiality of highly sensitive materials and accommodating the Senate's legitimate need to access relevant information about pending nominees.”

In 2010, when Ms. Aponte's nomination was first under consideration, both you and Senator Lugar designated other members of the Committee—Senators Menendez and Barrasso—to review Ms. Aponte's background investigation in advance of her confirmation hearing. The White House provided those briefings in March 2010. At that time, Senator DeMint made his first request to be briefed on the background investigation despite standard practice limiting that review to only two members of the Committee. Accordingly, Mr. Bauer denied the request.

Earlier this year, as the Committee considered Ms. Aponte's nomination for the second time, the Committee made the unusual request to have the background investigations made available for re-inspection. The White House in good faith accommodated this request. Senator Lugar designated his review to Senator Rubio, and you allowed Senator Menendez to designate your review to Senator DeMint. The White House provided the briefing to Senator DeMint on November 3, and to Senator Rubio on November 7. Despite this briefing, during the November 29 Committee Business Meeting, Senator DeMint stated that he still had questions regarding Ms. Aponte's background investigation. In a further display of good faith, you committed to working with the Administration to address Senator DeMint's concerns.

To this end, the White House has worked in close coordination with the State Department to arrange an additional briefing for Senator DeMint. The proposed briefing would have been conducted by Under Secretary Pat Kennedy, Assistant Secretary of Diplomatic Security Eric Boswell, and Donald Reid, who is Senior Coordinator for Security Infrastructure at the Bureau of Diplomatic Security. These three career State Department officials share the ultimate responsibility for conducting background investigations of candidates for Ambassadorial positions and issuing security clearances for such officials. Senator DeMint has to date declined this proposed briefing.

We are confident that the extraordinary steps that we have taken in this case have afforded Committee members the ability to thoroughly evaluate Ms. Aponte's nomination. Yet every accommodation has been met with a new demand. We are not prepared to make further briefings beyond what has already occurred and been offered. We appreciate your continued work on the timely consideration and confirmation of Administration nominees. Please let me know if I can provide additional information.

Sincerely,

ROBERT L. NABORS II,
Assistant to the President and Director of the Office of Legislative Affairs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, fair is fair around here. I do not think this nominee ought to be the victim of a prolonged delay process. She has done the job well. She deserves to be sent back. I hope colleagues will not filibuster her nomination today.

CLOTURE MOTION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, pursuant to rule XXII the clerk will report the motion to invoke cloture.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 71, the nays are 16. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn having voted in the affirmative, the motion is agreed to.

Under the previous order, the question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Norman L. Eisen, of the District of Columbia, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States of America to the Czech Republic?

The nomination was confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be 2 minutes of debate prior to the next vote.

The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, Mari Carmen Aponte is an excellently qualified Latina who is being politically discriminated against despite a record of accomplishment for the United States in El Salvador, which is universally recognized as extraordinary, from getting Salvadoran troops to fight alongside us—the only Latin American country to do so—to creating a new monitoring center to fight transnational crime. To suggest that the FBI and diplomatic security would give her not one but two top secret clearances that were not merited is the ultimate insult to those agencies. It is simply wrong to use alleged nameless, faceless accusers to falsely impugn her reputation.

I urge my colleagues to allow an up-or-down vote on her nomination and to vote for cloture so we can get to that vote to let this qualified Latina continue to work on behalf of the United States and El Salvador as she has successfully done.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. DEMINT. Mr. President, all of us regret when there is a situation where one of us has to oppose a nomination of a President, and 1,198 nominations have gone through without being contested. But this is one that rises to the level of concern.

Republicans have been asking questions about this nominee for months—in fact, much longer than that—going back to why she refused to take a lie detector test, why she withdrew her name when she was first nominated for ambassador under Clinton, and why the files have not been properly updated. We have asked the White House for private meetings with the FBI and CIA to give us updated knowledge of what happened in this circumstance so we can make a good decision. But there was never an offer to do that. We had offers of low-level folks to come talk only to me, not to Republicans on the committee. But there are enough questions here for honest answers, and we have not gotten them.

I encourage my colleagues to vote against this nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. KERRY. Do we have any time remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No time remains.

CLOTURE MOTION

Under the previous order, pursuant to rule XXII, the Chair lays before the Senate the pending cloture motion, which the clerk will state.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

RISK-BASED SECURITY SCREENING FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES ACT

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I come to the floor to discuss and pass the Risk-Based Security Screening for Members of the Armed Forces Act.

How many times have you been at an airport screening line, you are getting ready to go through the machines that are going to determine you are safe to travel and standing right there in the line is a man or woman in their military fighting gear—their camouflage and their combat boots—and they are having to take off their combat boots, many times in their 2-week R&R period between their stints in Afghanistan or Iraq, and you think: Oh, my gosh. It is unbelievable that our military people—who are putting their lives on the line, who are sacrificing so much—are having to go through a procedure that does not have a commonsense feel about it.

Last week, Senator ROCKEFELLER, Senator BURR, and I introduced S. 1954, the Risk-Based Security Screening for Members of the Armed Forces Act. The bill was a modification of the House companion bill that was recently passed by Representative CRAVAACK from Minnesota in a unanimous decision by the House.

It requires the TSA, the Transportation Security Agency, to create a system to speed members of our uniformed services through airport security.

I would also like to thank Senators LIEBERMAN and COLLINS for their input on this piece of legislation. We have all worked hard to move this bill through quickly, and it is the House bill we will be taking up very shortly with the modifications I have mentioned.

The bill establishes a timeline for the Transportation Security Administration and the Department of Defense together to develop and implement a program to establish expedited security screening procedures for military personnel and their families.

I think we can all agree our military men and women make sacrifices for our Nation every day. The least we can do is try to make their lives a little easier when they travel around the country they defend.

I think they have earned the right to at least go to the head of the line or have some kind of trusted passenger status.

Our Armed Forces are comprised of over 1.4 million brave men and women. They are stationed at more than 6,000 military bases worldwide. For all the hardships they endure, I think they deserve to be at the front of the line in some kind of procedure that expedites their security clearance.

Airports, airlines, and TSA recognize this issue, and they want to reduce the delays. Currently, TSA uses the same screening protocols for all passengers.

The TSA has indicated that it would like to improve the process and to move forward to risk-based screening procedures. They certainly have my support and I know that of many Members, if not an overwhelming majority in Congress, to do that.

Mr. Pistole, the head of the Transportation Security Administration, has testified before our Commerce Committee about the risk-based screening procedures they are trying to put in place that will give them a better opportunity to target people who are more at risk or more under suspicion, while letting frequent flyers and people in the military go through on an expedited basis.

I would say the first identifiable group to get risk-based screening processes should be those who are fighting this war, those with boots on the ground. Members of our military and their families traveling on orders and in uniform should benefit from these new rules. In a time of limited resources, the establishment of procedures to expedite the screening of a pool of travelers who are most certainly our trusted travelers would better allow the TSA to focus their attention on areas of real threats.

Earlier this year, the House passed Congressman CRAVAACK's bill unanimously, just a couple of weeks ago. I hope our quick and unanimous action will allow the House to quickly reconsider the modified measure and get the bill signed into law as soon as possible.

As we are going into this traveling season—we have been through Thanksgiving, and we are now approaching Christmas. The bill is not going to be implemented by this season. They cannot do it in 2 weeks. But surely by the next holiday season, our trusted travelers, the members of our military and their families, will be able to have this expedited procedure. I hope that as they are traveling in this year's rush through the processes to get home to their loved ones, they will know we are working on something that will make their lives easier and expedite their travels while they are home on leave from fighting the war that is protecting our freedoms and our way of life.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Commerce be discharged from further consideration of H.R. 1801 and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the bill by title. The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1801) to amend title 49, United States Code, to provide for expedited security screenings for members of the Armed Forces.

Without objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment at the desk be agreed to, and I urge passage of the bill, as amended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 1458), in the nature of a substitute, was agreed to, as follows:

(Purpose: In the nature of a substitute)

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Risk-Based Security Screening for Members of the Armed Forces Act".

SEC. 2. SECURITY SCREENING FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 44903 of title 49, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(m) SECURITY SCREENING FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Assistant Secretary of Homeland Security (Transportation Security Administration), in consultation with the Department of Defense, shall develop and implement a plan to provide expedited security screening services for a member of the armed forces, and, to the extent possible, any accompanying family member, if the member of the armed forces, while in uniform, presents documentation indicating official orders for air transportation departing from a primary airport (as defined in section 47102).

“(2) PROTOCOLS.—In developing the plan, the Assistant Secretary shall consider—

“(A) leveraging existing security screening models used to reduce passenger wait times;

“(B) establishing standard guidelines for the screening of military uniform items, including combat boots; and

“(C) incorporating any new screening protocols into an existing trusted passenger program, as established pursuant to section 109(a)(3) of the Aviation and Transportation Security Act (49 U.S.C. 114 note), or into the development of any new credential or system that incorporates biometric technology and other applicable technologies to verify the identity of individuals traveling in air transportation.

“(3) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall affect the authority of the Assistant Secretary to require additional screening of a member of the armed forces if intelligence or law enforcement information indicates that additional screening is necessary.

“(4) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—The Assistant Secretary shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report on the implementation of the plan.”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Assistant Secretary shall implement the plan required by this Act.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill (H.R. 1801), as amended, was read the third time and passed.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table and that any statements related to the measure be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. I am very pleased we have been able to pass this bill for the expedited travel procedures for our military personnel. The TSA will have about 180 days working with the Department of Defense to get procedures in place to do this.

I hope our military people, wherever they are in the world, know how much America appreciates their service. We know they are fighting for our way of life to prevail for our children and future generations.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CASEY). The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. I echo the words of the senior Senator from Texas in support of our men and women who might be home on leave, might have been sent somewhere on Active Duty, that this is the least we can do.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. BROWN of OHIO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business until 7:30 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

CHINA POLICY

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, 10 years ago this month—10 years ago actually tomorrow, I believe—the People’s Republic of China officially joined the World Trade Organization. American businesses, we were told, would gain new access to Chinese markets through the removal of trade barriers, through increased transparency, through more stringent protection of intellectual property rights.

China promised to follow the rule of law, to reform its legal system, and, in turn, would gain new access to global markets. At the time of joining the World Trade Organization, China made a number of promises. Chinese leaders pledged to reduce trade barriers and open markets. They promised to increase transparency, protect intellectual property rights, and reform their legal system.

Supporters of the People’s Republic of China, including a strong majority, unfortunately, of Members of this body and a much thinner majority in the House of Representatives—other supporters of the People’s Republic of China were most of America’s, almost all of America’s largest corporate CEOs—argued that the WTO membership would bring human rights and freedom and the rule of law to China.

Now 10 years later we see a very different picture, a picture of a number of Members of the House in those days and some Members of the Senate and some opponents to allowing China into the World Trade Organization. We have seen something very different. American workers have seen millions of jobs shipped to China. Factories in places such as Youngstown and Charleston and Huntington and Dayton have moved to Wuhan and Shenzhen and Shanghai, with final products sold back to the United States.

Think about this. The business plan of a number of American corporations is to shut down production in Mansfield, OH, and in Zanesville, OH, and move that production to Beijing, China, set up companies there, and ship products back to the United States. To my knowledge, never in history has there been a country where such a huge number of companies have set up that business plan. Think about that—shut down production in the country where you are located, lay off workers who have made you a successful company, hurt a community by closing down that plant, doing terrible damage to the schools, to the police departments, to the city services and all of that, and move your production to another country because you can work there more cheaply and sell products back to the United States. To my knowledge—and I could be mistaken about this, but nobody has ever shown me otherwise—to my knowledge, never in world history has that been the business plan for so many companies.

American manufacturers that stay here have been undermined by a flood of cheap Chinese imports priced artificially low.

When a large corporation moves to China, so often that corporation’s supply chain—the tool and die shop, tool and die maker, a machine shop—a small manufacturer that makes components and that sells to the larger company does not have the wherewithal to follow it to China, so they lose one of their biggest customers.

Those American manufacturers that stay here have been undermined by a flood of cheap Chinese imports priced artificially low. Some of those Chinese imports came from American companies that moved overseas to China.

Chinese citizens so often face poor work conditions, continual human rights violations. The country’s sole Nobel Peace Prize winner is languishing in prison.

The big winners? The big winners are the multinational corporations here that have outsourced jobs, and the other big winner is the Chinese Communist Government and the apparatchiks they have enriched. Think about that. The big winners in this China trade policy are large American corporations that have outsourced jobs to China and the Chinese Communist Party, which apparently seems to be their allies in this, and the people in the Chinese Communist Party, the high-ranking apparatchiks.

So while American companies that stay here and American workers are following World Trade Organization rules intended to provide a common set of laws to ensure a level playing field for global trade, the Chinese are gaming the system. It is clear that China does not live up to its promises, does not live up to the unrealistic expectations of its supporters.

Far from becoming freer, the Chinese people are burdened with limited rights to basic freedoms of speech, religion, and assembly. I can’t count the number of CEOs whom I saw walk the Halls—I was in the House of Representatives—of Congress and say: You know, if we pass PNTR, we are going to see freedom, all of this capitalism in China. All of these jobs in China are going to bring freedom—freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of assembly in China.

No, it has enriched the country of China, to be sure. It has especially enriched the Communist Party, enriched the People’s Liberation Army, enriched some of the capitalists in China in this Communist Party system. And it is getting worse. From the harsh crackdown on human rights lawyers and activists after the Arab Spring in the Middle East, to the brutal policies in Tibet that have led to a recent wave of self-immolations—imagine the depth of feeling and passion and hopelessness and anger at an oppressive government that people who have such strong feelings would actually set themselves on fire in protest. From the crackdown on human rights lawyers, to the brutal policies in Tibet, the Chinese Community Party shows no sign of easing its grip on the Chinese people. Not only did their membership—their joining the WTO—not bring freedom and democracy to China, it did not bring fair trade either.

China has flouted WTO rules. China has gamed the system to its advantage. While China has chosen to comply with some WTO rules, overall the list of China's WTO violations is a long one: rampant intellectual property theft, massive subsidies for China's exports, hoarding of rare earths and other raw materials. China has refused to commit to the WTO's Agreement on Government Procurement.

I have stood here, as you have seen, Mr. President, in your time in the Senate, arguing for "Made in America" language so that when taxpayer dollars are spent buying products, those products should be made in America, paid for by U.S. taxpayers. I have heard conservative Washington politicians defending China, for all intents and purposes, saying: No, that would create a trade war, even though China will not sign on to an agreement on government procurement, which is exactly what their "Made in China" policy is all about. These violations not only show China's lack of respect for the rule of law, they also cost American jobs, and they also tend to stymie our economic growth.

American intellectual property-intensive firms alone have lost some $50 billion to intellectual property rights violations. Those same firms are reporting that better intellectual property enforcement could lead to almost 1 million new jobs. Some of the worst hit companies are in my State, struggling to compete against a country that manipulates its currency and subsidizes its manufacturers.

Given our companies' well-founded fear of retaliation by Chinese regulators and companies if they speak up, we in government must give voice to their concerns. Let me explore that for a minute.

When we have launched—typically a labor union in the United States will launch a petition for a trade complaint, if you will, alleging violations by China of trade rules. Often the American company where these workers work is unwilling to join that petition. Why? Because they do business in China, and they know China will, in some cases, exact some kind of revenge against them. So our companies are not willing to stand up to the Chinese because they know what the Chinese will do when they are doing business in China. So it is up to us, as these companies' representatives, as these workers' representatives, as these community representatives, to stand up.

Probably the most damaging of China's violations is its continual manipulation of its currency. By deliberately holding down the value of its currency to boost exports, China is not only violating WTO commitments, they have built the largest trading surplus in history to the detriment of other leading trading partners.

The Senate fought back this fall by passing the Currency Exchange Rate Oversight Reform Act. I authored this legislation with a bipartisan group of Senators—Senator SNOWE from Maine, a Republican; Senator SCHUMER from New York, a Democrat; Senator GRAHAM of South Carolina, a Republican; Senator SESSIONS of Alabama, a Republican; Senator STABENOW of Michigan, a Democrat; Senator CASEY of Pennsylvania, a Democrat, and several others. This bill is the largest bipartisan bill that passed the Senate this year. It passed with 63 votes—joined, in fact, by the junior Senator from my State. Senator PORTMAN, former Trade Representative in the Bush administration, voted for this bill. This bill would crack down on China currency manipulation and provide an opportunity for Republicans and Democrats to come together to put American jobs and American workers first.

They said it represented the largest bipartisan jobs bill passed this session of Congress.

Currency manipulation provides an unfair subsidy to Chinese exports—of up to 40 percent, according to most economists. Almost all economists agree it is at least 25 percent. C. Fred Bergsten, an economist with the Peterson Institute for International Economics, who is fairly conservative, has asserted that China's intervention in currency markets and other subsidies they have provided makes up the most protectionist policy of any major country since World War II.

American politicians and CEOs are always afraid of standing up to the Chinese. They say we will look protectionist or that it looks as though we are starting a trade war. When Fred Bergsten, a mainstream economist, says that what China does is the most protectionist policy of any country since World War II, it is time we stood up and forced them to play fair. That is not a trade war. That comes from China. They have been waging a trade war against the United States for 10 years. That is why we have seen our budget deficit grow from double figures a decade ago to more than a half billion dollars a day, day in and day out, 7 days a week.

Additionally, American manufacturers seeking to sell products to China—our Nation's fastest growing export market—are hit with the same percentage in what amounts to an unfair tariff. If a company in Brunswick, OH, wants to sell products in China, they are hit with a 25-percent or larger currency tax and currency tariff. So the product costs 25 percent more, at least. When a Chinese company wants to sell a product in Brunswick, competing with that company, they get a 25-percent bonus or advantage. That is hardly a way to practice fair trade.

A report released this fall estimates that our trade deficit with China, exacerbated by Chinese currency manipulation, has caused the loss of more than 2.8 million American jobs in the past 10 years—with two-thirds of the lost jobs in the manufacturing industry. The Presiding Officer, when he goes to Altoona, Bethlehem, or if he comes to Dayton or Toledo, sees the kind of damage this trade policy has done to American manufacturing. All of our problems in manufacturing are not because of our relationship with China and because they have gamed the system, but millions of jobs here have been lost and undermined because of China's gaming the system.

The first President Bush said a billion dollar trade deficit or surplus is equivalent to 13,000 jobs. So when we have a greater than $200 billion persistent year-in and year-out trade deficit with China, that means we sell $200 billion worth of fewer goods to them than they sell to us. Do the math. It is 13,000 jobs per billion dollar budget deficit.

Addressing currency manipulation through the trade remedies included in our bill, cosponsored by Senators GRAHAM, SNOWE, SCHUMER, SESSIONS, HAGAN, CASEY, and others, would provide immediate relief to American job creators. A report released earlier this year showed that addressing currency manipulation would support the creation and retention of more than 2 million American jobs, without requiring any government spending. That is why this is such an important jobs bill, because it is not spending any taxpayer dollars, it is just saying level the playing field for our companies and our workers dealing with China.

After years of China gaining benefits of WTO membership without adhering to its rules—and they promised they would under the rule of law 10 years ago this week when they joined the WTO—after years of them getting membership and getting the benefits of WTO membership, without agreeing to its rules, it is time for Congress and the administration to act in our Nation's interest. The Congress should pass a bill and the President should sign the bill.

American workers and American manufacturers can compete with anyone. But they cannot compete on a playing field that is far from level as long as we continue to let China do what it wants without repercussions.

Over the last 10 years, China has sought to sidestep and reshape the WTO to benefit China at our expense. That is not competing, that is cheating. We must act while we still have a chance.

I yield the floor.

TRIBUTE TO MR. JERRY LOLLEY

• Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. President, today I recognize the public service of a veterans service officer from South Dakota who is retiring after nearly 40 years of dedicated military and public service to veterans and their families.

Jerry Lolley has served as Meade County veterans service officer since 1992. Jerry's wife Harriet, known as "Granny," and children Grant and Lara have always supported Jerry while he has provided tireless service to thousands of veterans seeking assistance with benefit claims, medals requests, records searches, payment issues, and health care issues. He has always been a valuable source of needed information for the families of veterans as well.

Military service and an understanding of the needs and issues of our military service personnel and veterans is deeply rooted with Jerry. After spending 2 years at South Dakota School of Mines and Technology, he served in the U.S. Air Force from 1968 to 1988 and retired as an E-7, providing dedicated service as an aircraft mechanic. His father served in General Patton's Army in World War II.

But Jerry's service extends also to the numerous issues impacting veterans and their families. He has been a constant advocate for veterans on Federal, State, and local issues of importance. He monitors Federal legislative issues and has shared valuable insight with me and my staff regarding potential impacts of legislation or VA agency decisions. He has always put the veteran first and foremost in his efforts, especially when it comes to improving health care resources, access, and level of care for veterans. He has also provided valuable insight on educational, spousal, dependent, and burial benefits.

During the Persian Gulf war, Operation Enduring Freedom, and Operation Iraqi Freedom, Jerry has been diligent in providing returning soldiers with important information about deadlines involving access to health care services, assisting soldiers with applications for various benefits, and providing general information to assist in their return home.

My staff and I have always valued Jerry's advocacy for veterans. He is rarely short on opinions on important matters and is quick to offer well-targeted questions toward agency officials to learn the basis for decisions and actions on various issues and even takes great care to request background information to verify or dispel the occasional rumor or misconception that may surface within the veterans community. His steadfast dedication to veterans has made him a great public servant and his service will be greatly missed.

I wish Jerry and his family all the best in his retirement, and it is my hope that he can find other options to continue serving veterans in the future. I congratulate him on his military service and his great public service career.●

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. INOUE (for himself, Mr. BEGICH, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, Ms. SNOWE, Ms. MURKOWSKI, and Mr. ROCKEFELLER):

S. 1980. A bill to prevent, deter, and eliminate illegal, unreported, and unregulated fishing through port State measures; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I am pleased to introduce the Pirate Fishing Elimination Act, a bill to implement the international Agreement on Port State Measures to Prevent, Deter, and Eliminate Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated, IUU, Fishing as adopted by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization in November of 2009. The agreement is the first binding global instrument focused specifically on combating IUU, also known as pirate fishing, and the United States was a primary participant in its negotiation and was one of its first signatories.

Pirate fishing is a global problem that threatens healthy ocean ecosystems and sustainable fisheries both here and abroad. It is estimated that annual lost revenues from pirate fishing activities may be as much as $23 billion worldwide and that as much as 40 percent of the total catch for some fish stocks is caught illegally. The impacts of these activities are felt throughout the fishery supply chain, from the fisherman through the consumer, and affect food security and socio-economic stability in many parts of the world. This includes the United States where our own sustainable domestic fisheries may be undermined through unfair competition with illegally caught international product.

The Pirate Fishing Elimination Act, and the underlying international agreement, would combat this threat by establishing an inspection regime that would raise global standards for access to seafood markets to levels similar to those that we set here in the U.S. It would also explicitly prohibit known pirate fishing vessels from entering our ports and from introducing their tainted goods to our healthy seafood supply chain. As the world's third largest seafood importer, our actions can make a real difference by dramatically increasing the risks and costs associated with pirate fishing. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this crucial legislation.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

HONORING MR. WILLIAM DALE
GIBBS

HON. W. TODD AKIN

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. AKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor and remember Mr. William Gibbs a veteran of World War II who passed into glory on 19 October 2011.

The youngest son of John and Maimi Gibbs, William Dale Gibbs was born on 21 June 1926 in Salem, Missouri, in the heart of the Ozarks. Like many in those years, Mr. Gibbs' parent found work hard to come by and eventually moved the family to St. Louis to find employment.

At the age 18, with World War II still raging, Mr. Gibbs enlisted in the United States Army and was assigned to the 82nd Airborne Division, 325th Glider Regiment. The 82nd was the Army's first Airborne Division. Mr. Gibbs and his unit played a lead role in blunting the German advance during the Battle of the Bulge. He and his unit saw heavy fighting, suffering heavy casualties, throughout World War II.

Mr. Gibbs saw and experienced many things during his service in Europe, but none seemed to impact him as much as the following . . .

“ . . . Upon completion of their objectives, the division moved again towards the Rhine River and Cologne. From there, the order of duty was to push forward into the Rhineland, and then moved again towards Berlin, winding up in a town called Ludwigslust. Here they captured a concentration camp (Camp Wobbelin) which held several thousand prisoners, many were already dead and the remaining were in very poor condition. The survivors were so elated, they were out of control. Their weak mental conditions coupled with the language barrier made it very difficult to administer to their needs. Out of respect for the prisoners, General [James “Jumpin’ Jim”] Gavin ordered a proper burial of the dead prisoners in the center of town. A formal memorial and burial service was conducted by the 325th division Chaplin, Major [George B.] Wood. The German townspeople were forced to dig the graves and attend the service. There were approximately 10,000 Germans in attendance.

After the encounter at Concentration Camp Wobbelin, the unit moved ahead towards the Elbe River. They had great pleasure in liberating some POW camps along the way. The soldiers were reunited with some of the 82nd Airborne Division who had been POWs captured in Italy over a year before.”

According to his son, David, Mr. Gibbs related this story many times over his life. It was during his earliest memory of this story that David first saw his father cry.

Like so many of his generation, at the end of the war, Mr. Gibbs returned home, married and went to work. After completing his education and finding employment with International Shoe Company, he married Shirley Mae Warfel and together they raised a family of three boys and a girl—though they experienced the loss of their first born to leukemia at age five.

The passing of William Dale Gibbs reminds me that all too soon we will lose the World War II generation to history. While we may be losing them, we should not lose their stories and the lessons they teach; one of which is there are, in fact, things for which we should fight, and if necessary, die to preserve and protect.

On behalf of a grateful nation, thank you Mr. Gibbs for your service and sacrifice in Europe; and for returning home and raising sons and a daughter who were so very proud to call you “Dad”.

RECOGNIZING THE 70TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE INVASION OF GUAM DURING WORLD WAR II

HON. MADELEINE Z. BORDALLO

OF GUAM

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Ms. BORDALLO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the invasion of Guam and the beginning of the Pacific theater of World War II. In the early morning of December 10, 1941, two days after the aerial attacks on Pearl Harbor and Sumay Village, soldiers of the Imperial Japanese Army invaded the shores of Guam.

The Japanese invasion faced resistance at the Plaza de Espata in Hagota by the members of the Guam Insular Guard, who were recruited by the Navy eight months prior to the invasion of Guam. With limited military training, and lightly armed, the Insular Guard was all that stood between the invaders and our people. The Guam Insular Guard fought with great courage in defense of our island but they were overwhelmed in a short time by the superior numbers and arms of the invasion force. This encounter marked the only ground battle against the invading Japanese force on Guam. Shortly thereafter that early morning, U.S. Naval Captain George J. McMillin, Naval Governor of Guam, and a handful of U.S. sailors, surrendered the island to the Japanese Army.

These events marked the beginning of the Japanese occupation on Guam for the next thirty two months. The occupation of Guam was marked by abuse and violence against the people of Guam including forced labor, forced marches, internment in camps, injuries and executions. Throughout the occupation, the people of Guam remained patriotic to America and never lost faith that U.S. forces would return to liberate our island. While we can never truly comprehend the suffering endured by our manamko' (elders) during the Japanese occupation, we continue to honor them for who they are, what they have endured, and how they have impacted our lives and our community.

As we commemorate this solemn anniversary, we pay tribute to these Insular Guardsmen for their courage and bravery. We also acknowledge Guam's greatest generation, those who endured the war and survived. Lastly, we pray for the civilians who died during the war and the members of the U.S. armed forces who fought to liberate our island. We must never forget their suffering and their sacrifices during the brutal occupation and liberation. God bless Guam and God bless the United States of America.

SUPPORT FOR DESIGNATING JANUARY 5TH AS NATIONAL BIRD DAY

HON. MIKE QUIGLEY

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my support for designating January 5th as “National Bird Day.” I also wish for my colleagues to consider the following:

That the beauty, songs, and flight of birds have long been sources of inspiration, and that nearly 12 percent of the world's 9,800 bird species may face extinction within the next century, including nearly one-third of the world's 330 parrot species;

That birds are sentinel species whose plight serves as a barometer of ecosystem health and an alert system for detecting global environmental ills;

That many of the world's parrots and songbirds are threatened with extinction due to pressures from the illegal pet trade, disease, and habitat loss;

That public awareness and education about the physical and behavioral needs of birds can go far in improving the welfare of the millions of birds kept in captivity, and that the survival and well-being of the world's birds depends upon ending the illegal pet trade and supporting public education and conservation;

Finally, that the United States Congress has enacted specific laws to protect birds, including the Wild Bird Conservation Act and Migratory Bird Treaty Act, and that January 5, 2012 is being celebrated by Born Free USA as National Bird Day with the intent to raise awareness about bird conservation and protection.

I urge my colleagues to stand with me to support the designation of January 5th as National Bird Day and to encourage their State and local governments to observe the day with appropriate activities that promote bird awareness. Furthermore, I encourage all avian experts and professionals working with birds to use this day to create greater public awareness and appreciation of birds, leading to further protection of bird species. Finally, I encourage individuals across the Nation to become more aware of their local avian community so they can be more effective stewards of bird conservation.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to join the members of the Central Labor Council of New Haven, Connecticut as they raise a toast and salute a very special member of Connecticut's labor movement, and my dear friend, Nicholas Aiello. One of the first organizers in the City of New Haven, Nick has long been a strong voice on behalf of working families and is known to many as one of the architects of Connecticut's labor movement.

One of fourteen children, all of whom were garment workers in New Haven's shirt factories, Nick was no stranger to hard work, low pay, and less than ideal working conditions. As Nick recounts in Anthony Riccio's The Italian Experience in New Haven: Images and Oral Histories, "When New York got completely organized, the 'runaway shops' came to New Haven. They ran to New Haven where there were no union shops. And they would open up a storefront. They'd put twenty, thirty machines on the fourth floor and most of the stitching plants were on the fourth floor with no elevator. Conditions were horrible . . . Then in the 1930s came the Amalgamated and they started organizing drives in the area." It was with Amalgamated that Nick began as an organizer, taking to the streets of New Haven, rallying workers, and demanding better from industry management. He would go on to become a business agent for Amalgamated and still today remains involved with the Central Labor Council of New Haven. Nick is a pillar of Connecticut's labor movement and has earned the respect and admiration of labor and community leaders alike.

Much has changed from Nick's days in the factories, however, he wanted to make sure that future generations understood the battles that were undertaken to ensure the rights of America's workers. A few years ago, Nick spearheaded the Greater New Haven Labor History Project—an organization whose mission was to collect, preserve, and share the history of working people in the Greater New Haven Area. Nick was determined to see this project succeed and, like in his early organizing days, went door to door to garner support. The response was extraordinary and today its members and staff create traveling exhibits and install them in community venues; preserve and maintain an archival repository of individuals' papers and local union records, documents and artifacts of historical significance; organize public events such as workshops, walking tours, book-signings, film festivals, and talks by esteemed labor historians; offer Records Inventory Services and access by appointment to many of their historical archives; as well as conduct projects such as oral history interviews with retired workers. In addition, the group also presents the August Lewis Troup Award annually to individuals in recognition of their personal contributions to the labor community. None of this would have been possible without Nick's persistence and unyielding determination to see it become a reality and he continues in his efforts by serving as the President of the Greater New Haven Labor History Project Association.

I would be remiss if I did not extend a personal note of thanks to Nick for his many years of friendship and support. He has been in my corner from the very beginning and even today he still volunteers some of his time in my District Office. I could not be more appreciative of all of his good work on my behalf.

For his many contributions to our community and particularly for his invaluable efforts with the Connecticut labor movement, I am proud to join the members of the Central Labor Council of New Haven in extending my heartfelt thanks to Nicholas Aiello. I extend my very best wishes to Nick and his son, Michael, for many more years of health and happiness.

CONGRATULATING AL AND CHRIS BELILACQUA ON THEIR INDUCTION INTO THE NATIONAL WRESTLING HALL OF FAME

HON. JIM JORDAN

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to recognize the achievements of 2012 National Wrestling Hall of Fame inductees Al and Chris Bevilacqua—the first father and son to be so honored in the same year.

For nearly a half century, Al Bevilacqua has worked tirelessly to advance the sport of wrestling as a coach, organizer, mentor, and teacher. Named USA Wrestling's Coach of the Year in 1983, Al has managed successful programs at the high school and college levels, including two years at Division I Hofstra University. Al's greatest contribution to the sport, however, may be his role as co-founder of Beat the Streets, a New York City-based wrestling program that promotes the values of hard work, dedication, and self-discipline among the area's youths. He will receive the Hall of Fame's Order of Merit for his many contributions to the sport.

A two-time All-American at Pennsylvania State University, Chris Bevilacqua has continued his father's legacy of athletic excellence and community involvement. A fixture in the sports media industry, Chris helped found CSTV, the first 24-hour cable network dedicated to college and amateur athletics, which was sold to CBS in 2005. Chris currently serves as CEO of the Bevilacqua Media Company, a strategic advisor to media and entertainment interests. He will receive the Hall's Outstanding American Award.

Al, Chris, and their fellow honorees will be recognized in June during the Hall's induction ceremony in Stillwater, Oklahoma. I congratulate them and join their family and friends in celebrating their many contributions to the wrestling community.

SYNTHETIC DRUG CONTROL ACT OF 2011

SPEECH OF

HON. RUSS CARNAHAN

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, December 7, 2011

Mr. CARNAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to clarify my position on H.R. 1254, the Synthetic Drug Control Act.

My vote in support of H.R. 1254 is not without reservations. I support this legislation because the health and safety of our citizens is my primary concern. This legislation will protect our communities, and particularly our youth, from more than forty new and dangerous synthetic drugs. These substances have been the cause of violent incidents and numerous deaths around the nation and it is preferable to immediately list them as Schedule I as opposed to allowing them to continue to be abused in our communities.

Criminalizing these substances, however, will not solve the root problem of drug abuse in our communities. I have serious concerns about the over-criminalization of drugs. Mandatory minimum sentences lead to over-capacity criminal justice and prison systems at significant burden to taxpayers. I have long advocated for a comprehensive approach to drug abuse treatment, including education, prevention, treatment, research, and enforcement. In fact, I have authored legislation to expand accessible treatment, especially for underserved communities, and research into cutting edge treatment therapies. Responsible law enforcement is just the way to address this issue, and it must be executed in conjunction with a robust and multifaceted approach that targets the root of drug abuse problems.

I also have concerns about the impact of penalties in H.R. 1254 on our scientific research processes. While, it is regrettable that H.R. 1254 circumvents the process for listing drugs as laid out in the Controlled Substances Act (CSA), it is necessary in this circumstance. The evidentiary procedure in CSA has worked well for determining the listing of new substances. Unfortunately, it can be time-intensive and the law enforcement community, including the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) and the Department of Justice, supports the immediate listing of these synthetic drugs because of the harm they inflict on our communities. This bill increases the length of time that a new substance can be temporarily scheduled by the DEA, thereby allowing more time for the usual CSA listing process to be carried out.

Throughout my career I have supported scientific research. The study of synthetic drugs is important for understanding their impact on health and their potential beneficial uses. Unfortunately, most of the substances included in this legislation have not been subjected to extensive scientific study, and I am concerned that listing them as Schedule I drugs may inhibit the study of these drugs. While the DEA has a procedure for scientists to study Schedule I controlled substances, it presents greater barriers for scientists to work with these drugs. As of October 4, 2011, the DEA has 325 researchers conducting research with Schedule I controlled substances. These researchers include research centers and universities who seek to better understand the effects of Schedule I controlled substances. Additionally, as of October 4, 2011, the DEA has 3,983 active registrants who manufacture, research, and conduct chemical analysis with Schedule I controlled substances. I encourage the scientific community to continue their efforts to understand these and other drugs.

HONORING THE LIFE AND WORK OF NOEL CUNNINGHAM

HON. DIANA DeGETTE

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Ms. DeGETTE. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise to honor the life of Noel Cunningham, a restaurateur and philanthropist I had the pleasure of knowing for almost 20 years.

A resident of Denver, Noel was a true citizen of the world. Born in Ireland in 1949, he went to work at London's famed Savoy Hotel, achieving the rank of sous chef by age 23, before moving to California in the 1970's. In 1986 he moved to Denver and opened Strings, a bistro in Denver's Capitol Hill neighborhood that quickly became a community institution, hosting local celebrities, politicians, community and charity events and romantic date-nights.

While his professional biography will be defined by his extraordinary culinary talents, Noel's legacy will forever be based on the impact his philanthropic efforts had in Denver and across the world.

While in California he met Pat Miller, the noted restaurant critic known as the "Gabby Gourmet," and the two developed a lifelong friendship. Together, they started "Taste of the Nation," a nation-wide fundraiser that by 2010 had raised almost $80 million to fight hunger and poverty across the United States.

With his wife Tammy, Noel founded The Cunningham Foundation, which included Quarters for Kids, to help educate children about local hunger and homelessness, and 4 Quarters for Kids, a project he named in reference to the four quarters it takes per day to provide an Ethiopian child with breakfast, lunch, a school uniform, and a teacher and books. Firm in his belief that philanthropy could strengthen a local community while enriching the lives of those across the globe, Noel targeted 4 Quarters primarily to local children, who held carwashes, concerts, pledge drives, and silent auctions to help create a better future for their Ethiopian peers.

Noel was active with the local Volunteers of America, and served on the board of the national nonprofit Share Our Strength. On weekday afternoons, it was not uncommon to drive by Strings and see Noel serving meals to the homeless in between the persistent lunch and dinner rushes. He was committed to building a better community, both locally and globally, and was not afraid to enlist the help of others to achieve his goals; he worked with local hospitals to provide life-saving treatments for Ethiopian children, and local businesses to ship supplies and other necessities to Africa. He founded "A Dinner of Unconditional Love"—a charity dinner to raise funds for Dr. Rick Hodes, an American Doctor living in Ethiopia whose mission is to help heal the poor—and had planned to expand the program across the country so that he could raise the $10 million Hodes needs to build his own hospital in Ethiopia.

Mr. Speaker, from the streets of Denver to the farms of Ethiopia, Noel Cunningham spent each and every day making a difference in the lives of those around him. Never content to settle, he pursued perfection in his restaurant and in his charitable endeavors, never once falling short in all the years I have known him. His life stands as proof that any individual can have an extraordinary impact, and his tragic passing leaves a monumental crater in the global community that spans from Denver to Ethiopia and beyond.

OUR UNCONSCIONABLE NATIONAL DEBT

HON. MIKE COFFMAN

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, on January 26, 1995, when the last attempt at a balanced budget amendment passed the House by a bipartisan vote of 300–132, the national debt was $4,801,405,175,294.28.

Today, it is $15,052,444,423,722.81. We've added $10,251,039,248,428.53 dollars to our debt in 16 years. This is $10 trillion in debt our nation, our economy, and our children could have avoided with a balanced budget amendment.

IN RECOGNITION AND APPRECIATION FOR HENRY FORD HEALTH SYSTEMS

HON. GARY C. PETERS

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to rise today to recognize the achievements of the Henry Ford Health System which, under the strong and dynamic leadership of its CEO, Nancy Schlichting, has earned a 2011 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award. This award recognizes and encourages benchmark business practices; once reserved only for manufacturing and similar businesses, the Baldrige Award has been expanded to include health care organizations. As a recipient of the Baldrige award, Henry Ford Health System continues to serve as a role model for other companies across the country. The award puts a spotlight on the amazing work being done at the Henry Ford Health System to deliver top quality health care to its patients.

Henry Ford Health System has established itself as one of the Nation's premier health care providers. Henry Ford Health System uses innovative strategies and solutions which have been developed and implemented for the past decade, helping reduce unintended patient harm and establishing a "zero-defect, no-excuses" approach to health care outcomes. Over the years, the Henry Ford Health System has developed a reputation for delivering the best possible outcomes for patients. Because of this dedication to putting patients first, it is one of just 4 organizations around the Nation to receive this award and the only one in Michigan.

With approximately $5.8 billion in economic impact through payroll, operating expense and capital expenditures, Henry Ford Health System is not only an effective health care entity, but a major contributor to Michigan's economy. As a top 5 employer in Southeast Michigan, the Henry Ford Health System boasts an impressive 24,000 employees and is responsible for 37,500 additional jobs through direct and indirect employment at 7 hospitals and 33 ambulatory care sites. With more than 2,000 physicians system wide, it is also one of the Nation's largest non-university research programs.

Earning the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award is no easy feat, with many companies each year following the Baldrige criteria as a model for proper organization and action. Henry Ford Health Systems now joins the ranks of companies such as Boeing Aerospace Support, Cadillac, and the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Company as innovators in their respective fields.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to recognize the Henry Ford Health System and the 2011 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award that it has earned. The Henry Ford Health System's achievements serve as a beacon to other businesses countrywide.

FARM DUST REGULATION
PREVENTION ACT OF 2011

SPEECH OF

HON. FRANK D. LUCAS

OF OKLAHOMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 8, 2011

Mr. LUCAS. Mr. Chair, I rise in support of the Farm Dust Regulation Prevention Act.

This bipartisan legislation is necessary to ensure that farmers and ranchers will not be subjected to excessive regulation from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA currently has the ability to tighten regulatory standards for dust under the Clean Air Act.

Should the EPA do so, farmers, ranchers, and rural economies could be devastated. On dry days, production could come to a standstill as producers focus on controlling dust rather than producing food.

After months of receiving questions and concerns from farmers, ranchers, and their Representatives in Congress, the Administrator of the EPA finally stated that her agency does not intend to change the current standards.

However, as long as EPA Administrator Jackson retains unchecked power to implement stricter standards, farmers and ranchers could be subject to oppressive regulations at any time.

A legislative fix is the only way to give farmers and ranchers the certainty they need to invest in the future without worrying about the influence of overzealous activists on EPA's regulations.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

IN HONOR OF BOB CONNERS UPON HIS RETIREMENT FROM 610-WTVN

HON. PATRICK J. TIBERI

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor and recognize Bob Connors upon his retirement from 610-WTVN Columbus.

The often transient nature of a career in radio remains a hard truth for those who choose this field. The industry sometimes forces these men and women to relocate to different stations and towns across the country. These individuals come and go, sometimes without developing a strong connection with a community. Over the years, however, one voice has remained a mainstay in Columbus, representing the pinnacle of morning radio hosting. As a proud central Ohioan and occasional guest on his show, I am deeply honored to show my sincere appreciation for one of the greatest radio hosts in this city's history, Bob Connors.

Bob came to Columbus from Pittsburgh over 40 years ago and since then has brought acclaim to and instilled pride in the central Ohio community. His morning show, Bob Connors in the Morning became one of the most popular shows in the area, attracting listeners from miles around. Known as the "Morning Monarch" for his longstanding service to the station, Bob eloquently presented national and local news, along with sports, weather and traffic reports.

For years he delivered the news to millions of citizens. His on-air disposition and the consistency of his presence made waking up to his voice a pleasurable morning routine for an entire generation. I fondly remember listening to his show when I was growing up and how honored I was each time I was asked to speak with him on-air.

While he has retired from hosting the show, Bob's legacy and uplifting presence will resonate throughout our community for years to come. I am proud to wish him the best of luck as he moves on to the next exciting phase in his life. He not only remains one of the city's most recognizable voices, he also is one of Columbus's favorite sons.

SYNTHETIC DRUG CONTROL ACT
OF 2011

SPEECH OF

HON. CHRIS VAN HOLLEN

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, December 7, 2011

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose H.R. 1254, the "Synthetic Drug Control Act of 2011."

I share the concerns that supporters of this bill have about the sale of synthetic drugs that are determined to be harmful. The issue here is what process should be used to determine whether a drug is harmful and should be banned. I oppose this bill because it circumvents the established process for scheduling controlled substances as illegal for any uses without proper scientific review. This bill short-circuits that process and substitutes the less-informed judgment of Congress for the more considered view of scientists and experts.

We already have a process for banning drugs temporarily on an emergency basis. Indeed, the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) has temporarily prohibited the sale or manufacture of many of the compounds banned in this bill as more in-depth scientific reviews are conducted. I also support Maryland's Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's decision to ban the sale of many of these drugs in the State. I believe that the temporary ban by the DEA and the State bans of these drugs are sufficient at this point to protect our society from the harms caused by these synthetic drugs. Congress should only act to add these drugs to the list of Schedule I controlled substances after the process laid out in the Controlled Substance Act is completed.

The process established in the Controlled Substance Act requires that the Attorney General request from the Secretary of Health and Human Services "a scientific and medical evaluation, and his recommendations, as to whether such drug or other substances should be so controlled. . . ." This process is important for many reasons and should not be circumvented by this bill. Without proper scientific review this bill could create significant hurdles for medical research of cures and treatments for various diseases. During the bill mark up in the Judiciary Committee, statements from medical researchers were submitted stating that this bill could hamper their ability to determine lawful uses of these substances by making them illegal to possess. R. Gil Kerlikowske, the Director of the Office of the National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), stated that these drugs are dangerous, but acknowledged that there is "a lack of sufficient data regarding the prevalence of bath salt stimulant drugs." Additionally, the penalties for possessing and distributing Schedule I drugs are serious. Adding over 35 additional substances to the list of Schedule I drugs, for which people can be incarcerated, should not be taken lightly by Congress.

I urge my colleagues to join me in opposing this bill.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JESSE L. JACKSON, JR.

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. JACKSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, on Thursday, December 8, I was unavoidably detained in Illinois attending to district/constituent matters and missed recorded votes for H. Res. 487, H.R. 1633, the Farm Dust Regulation Prevention Act, and H.R. 1254, the Synthetic Drug Control Act.

If I had been present, I would have recorded my vote as a nay for rollcall vote 902, nay for rollcall vote 903, nay for rollcall vote 904, and nay for rollcall vote 905.

As I have confirmed in a number of meetings and correspondence, I do not support efforts by the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate fine and coarse particulate matter or "farm dust". While the EPA exists to protect the health of Americans and the stability of our environment, I am concerned by overly burdensome regulations and the impact they have on our smaller businesses and family farms. With that said, EPA Administrator Lisa Jackson has explicitly stated that she has no intention of revising any regulations on "farm dust". H.R. 1633 is another waste of the House's time and energy, as the clock continues to tick down on much more important issues like Unemployment Insurance and the payroll tax holiday.

For that reason, had I been present I would have recorded my vote as yea for rollcall vote 906, yea for rollcall vote 907, yea for rollcall vote 908, yea for rollcall vote 909, yea for rollcall vote 910, yea for rollcall vote 911 and nay for rollcall vote 912.

CONGRATULATORY REMARKS FOR OBTAINING THE RANK OF EAGLE SCOUT

HON. SANDY ADAMS

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mrs. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Eric Thomas Pugnet for achieving the rank of Eagle Scout.

Throughout the history of the Boy Scouts of America, the rank of Eagle Scout has only been attained through dedication to concepts such as honor, duty, country and charity. By applying these concepts to daily life, Eric has proven his true and complete understanding of their meanings, and thereby deserves this honor.

I offer my congratulations on a job well done and best wishes for the future.

TRIBUTE TO FORMER PUBLIC PRINTER ROBERT W. HOUK

HON. JIM JORDAN

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of former Public Printer of the United States Robert W. Houk, who passed away unexpectedly on Sunday.

Mr. Houk, a Michigan native who later moved to Shelby, Ohio, was a graduate of Michigan State University and Wayne State University. He was a proud U.S. Army veteran, rising to the rank of first lieutenant after serving throughout Europe during World War II and serving stateside during the Korean Conflict.

The management and leadership skills he learned in the Army were put to good use during his long and impressive career in the business world. He worked for the Ford Motor Company and at Detroit's Rotary Manifold before cofounding UFORMA/Shelby Business Forms in 1966. For more than two decades, he served as UFORMA's president and chief executive officer.

Mr. Houk's leadership in the printing industry was widely recognized by his peers. He was tapped as chairman of the board of International Business Forms Industries in 1976 and as chairman of the Printing Industries of America in 1987. Business Forms and Systems magazine named him Man of the Year in 1980.

In 1990, President George H. W. Bush appointed Mr. Houk as the 22nd Public Printer of the United States, a position he held until 1993. In that role, he oversaw the work of more than 3,000 Government Printing Office employees across the nation. He also earned a doctorate from Heidelberg University in Tiffin, Ohio, during his term as public printer.

Mr. Houk was very active in the Shelby community, chairing the boards of the Rehabilitation Center of North Central Ohio, the Mansfield Symphony Society, and The Ohio State University's Mansfield Campus. He also enjoyed playing trumpet in many area bands and was a charter member of the Ashland Area Community Concert Band.

Mr. Speaker, Robert Houk is survived by his wife, Sally; his son, Raymond; his daughter, Lisa; and their families. On behalf of the people of Ohio's Fourth Congressional District, I offer them my condolences as they gather in Shelby on Saturday to celebrate his life and his many contributions to the community and our nation.

HONORING NATALA K. (TALLY)
HART UPON HER RETIREMENT
FROM THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

HON. PATRICK J. TIBERI

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. TIBERI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor and recognize Natala K. (Tally) Hart upon her retirement from The Ohio State University.

Expressing how much Tally Hart has meant to The Ohio State University and the many students who have felt the impact of her unwavering commitment to higher education remains no easy task. As a graduate of Ohio State and an admirer of this remarkable person, it gives me great pleasure to add my personal appreciation.

For over three decades, Tally has dedicated herself to helping students achieve their dreams of attending college. After serving at various institutions around the country, in 1996 she was hired as Ohio State's Director of Financial Aid. In this position she gained national recognition for not only her unrivaled ability to obtain funding for students, but also the strength of her character and the sincerity of her efforts. In 2006 Tally was named Senior Advisor for Economic Access. In this role she was given the opportunity to lead a new program that allowed her to create programs that benefit thousands of disadvantaged students and make Ohio State a leader in college access and success initiatives.

Upon her retirement, Tally will leave behind a legacy that will permeate throughout central Ohio for years to come. Like fellow Buckeyes before her, she has become a beloved figure at our school. Through her selfless pursuits and deep passion for Ohio State, Tally has added greatly to the school's storied history and rich tradition.

While she is moving on to the next phase in her life, Tally will surely never stop doing what she loves: helping others. On behalf of the citizens of Ohio's 12th Congressional District, I would like to wish Tally the best of luck and thank her for her devotion to Ohio State.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. GENE GREEN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to state that I meant to vote "nay" on H.R. 1633, the Farm Dust Regulation Prevention Act, when it was considered on the House Floor on December 9, 2011.

I am strongly opposed to this unnecessary bill and voted "aye" by accident.

CONGRATULATING ALFRED UNIVERSITY UPON THE CELEBRATION OF ITS 175TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. TOM REED

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. REED. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate and recognize Alfred University, a major educational institution in my district which is celebrating its 175th anniversary this year. Their official commemoration and activities were held the week of December 5, 2011. I am honored to have the privilege of representing such a fine university that provides an excellent education to its 2000 undergraduate and 300 graduate students.

Alfred's commitment to academics is nationally known, with the Inamori School of Engineering consistently ranked top in the country for its Masters of Science degrees. Additionally, students at Alfred can choose between over 40 undergraduate majors to study.

As an alum, I can personally attest to the excellence of this institution and its world class academics.

Please join me in congratulating Alfred University in reaching this incredible milestone as it celebrates its 175th Anniversary.

REMEMBER PEARL

HON. JOE WILSON

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, Remember Pearl "A Date Which Will Live in Infamy" in solemn remembrance of Pearl Harbor on the 70th anniversary, December 7, 1941. The following poem was authored by Albert Carey Caswell, who is a Capitol Building tourguide noted for his thoughtful and heartfelt tours for Wounded Warriors and his devotion to servicemembers, military families, and veterans.

REMEMBER PEARL

(By Albert Carey Caswell)

In every country's history . . .

There are but those defining moments that which so indeed!

That which define there very destinies!
As out into a future but plant such seeds!
To so define her and give her all that she so needs!

Remember Pearl . . .
That day that will live in Infamy!

As . . .
For as a Nation, we must all so remember . . .

That dark and dreary, very cold and bleak
December . . .

When . . .
When there, on one beautiful Sunday morning . . .

As America so lie all in harms way and in ruin, so all without warning . . .

As it was seventy years ago this day . . .

All in a cowards way!
When, so very unexpectedly!
As "A Date Which Will Live In Infamy" . . .
Was but a calm before the storm, as they . . .
As they so tried to take America's very heart away . . .

As lies now so all etched in Infamy . . .

War! Pearl Harbor! The Devil's Creed!

Feeding Evil's needs!

When, so many heroes died indeed!

Bless them all, God Speed!

All in one of our Nation's darkest of all days . . .

As a Nation so slept, had they . . .

And so wept upon that day . . .

As out across the world, such an Evil so unfurled . . .

As this darkness all towards them so crept, towards our little boys and girls . . .

Goodness . . . Evil . . . Darkness . . . Light . . .

Those brave hearts who evil must fight!

Who but bring their light!

Who Evil must fight!

Would this Evil stand?

As it was nearly eight on that morning, when each woman, child, and man!

All without such warning, when a sleeping giant so awoke!

As from out of all of this heartache and such hell, and scenes of horror . . . as all in their fine hearts what would dwell!

Such a story to our children tell!

One of Such Faith and Courage . . .

As America's heart grew stronger, all in what their fine souls so nourished!

While, against all odds . . . such darkness, could not discourage . . .

As somehow America so found the hope and courage!

All in how they so heroically behaved, and so fought and died on that day . . .

As out across a Nation, The Mothers Cried . . .

As over one thousand were so wounded, and twenty-five hundred heroes on that day so died!

And, still America would not so lose hope . . . for we all somehow survived!

All because of what, all within their most magnificent hearts so lie!

As from out of all of those ashes, death and fury . . . as was invoked such a story!

Came a Pearl, a gem so formed of which to all the world so spoke!

A story, all about America's Courage and Glory . . . and yes so hope!

For rising from out of such hell, all of their fine hearts so chose to swell!

As 18 ships were lost or crippled on that day, names like USS Arizona come to mind who were so sent to their watery graves . . .

As the waters now above gently caress their souls, as deep below in these ships their sacred bodies hold!

As upon our knees, with tears in eyes for all of them we now so pray!

As the bombs rained down upon Pearl on that day!
 As almost two hundred planes were shot down or on run ways lie ruin to decay!
 But, they say our Lord has his hand in it on that day . . .
 Because, our carriers were far out to sea . . . far out of harms way!
 Giving our Country Tis of Thee, that chance to come back from such Infamy!
 And suddenly now as a Nation, we were all on the march . . .
 all ahead full . . . as our hearts they could not so parch!
 As we collectively so sent the word, "Over There . . . Send The Word To Beware!"
 As this was the defining moment, when America So Set Out To Save The World!
 So teach your children well, that out of Such Infamy and Such Hell . . .
 Can come such light, Wherever Faith In Hearts So Dwells . . .
 And that America's Heart, will always find a way to swell!
 That in our darkest of all hours, our Faith will all so shower!
 With The Strength To Over Evil, To So Tower!
 So on this day upon your knees, remember all of these . . .
 And, "That Day Which Will Live In Infamy"! But, not forget what over Evil, Hearts of Faith and Courage Can So Achieve!

INTRODUCING THE INVESTING IN AMERICA'S SMALL BUSINESSES ACT OF 2011

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce the Investing in America's Small Businesses Act of 2011, or the "Micro Biz" Bill.

This bill fills an important need in this country to advance the practice of microlending to small start ups, and because it allows Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) to do more of the great work that they already do.

This bill will expand a vital source of seed money for entrepreneurs who don't have access to bank loans. The billion-dollar corporation that began in a dorm room or a garage is no urban myth, as the employees of Facebook and Hewlett-Packard can tell you, but the Great Recession has made it harder than ever for entrepreneurs to access credit. It's my hope that this "micro biz" bill will be a bridge not only to vital financing for entrepreneurs, but also to a brighter economic future for our country.

Indeed, we in Congress talk quite often about the need to create jobs. And even with the unemployment rate falling to 8.6% from a high of 9.2%, our economic recovery is slower than all of us would like. So the goal of my bill is to get to the heart of job creation, the small business—and more specifically, the small startup. And because I think this is a goal that even big business should share, a critical component of the bill is to foster public private partnerships. I have focused on CDFIs because they are on the ground every day financing projects, lending to small businesses, and engaging in economic development in underserved areas.

My bill will provide grants to CDFIs to create or enhance their loan-loss reserves so they can either begin to do micro lending or so they can do more of it. Loan-loss reserves are critical for institutions to be able to extend loans and for corporations to partner with them. Loan-loss reserves cover the institution in the case of a loan default but also allow the institution to be in the "first loss" position. So, if a larger institution or corporation wants to partner with them, the loan-loss reserve ensures that the CDFI, not the larger institution or corporation, will be on the hook should the loan default. I should note, though, that historically, loans in this category through the CDFI's have a very low loan default rate—just 3% in the first quarter of 2011. But the loan-loss reserve provides critical protections for CDFIs and their partners.

The bill also provides grants for technical assistance so that CDFIs can engage with small businesses and help them get off the ground. Loans made through this program must be under $25,000 and the CDFI must be able to match the grant by 50%. Most importantly, for every dollar of public money, the CDFIs can leverage six dollars of private money.

I believe this bill is essential to helping CDFIs create new financial products and services that are appropriate and accessible for millions of American small businesses that do not have access to the financial mainstream.

Often we are talking about a young Steve Jobs who invents the first computer in his basement but needs startup capital to get it out there. Unfortunately most entrepreneurs aren't Steve Jobs and need loans to get their ideas off the ground. But if they do, they grow, they take on a partner and business takes off from there. Job creation flows from that first loan.

That is exactly what this bill is about and why I think it is so important. It is not a comprehensive solution, but it is a way to get money out there to small business and support job creation from the ground up.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important legislation.

IN HONOR OF JACK WINGATE

HON. SANFORD D. BISHOP, JR.

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart and feeling of fond remembrance that I rise today to pay tribute to a close personal friend, committed community leader, avid conservationist and one of America's most accomplished and legendary bass fishermen—the late Jack Wingate. Mr. Wingate, affectionately known as the "Sage of Seminole," passed away on Thursday, December 8, 2011 at his residence in Recovery, Georgia.

A large gathering that consisted of family members, friends, colleagues and his expansive network of admiring fans, paid their respects to Mr. Wingate at his funeral service that was held on Monday, December 12, 2011, at Calvary Baptist Church. The funeral service was followed by an interment at Cool Springs Cemetery and Masonic graveside rites were provided by the Faceville Masonic Lodge number 487 along with military honors that were bestowed by the United States Navy.

Mr. Wingate, an immensely popular and universally respected public figure in the Decatur County, Georgia community for several decades, was born on September 1, 1929 in Faceville, Georgia. The son of William Paul Wingate and Myrtle Bates Wingate, he was a 1947 graduate of Faceville High School and was a Korean War veteran.

After honorably serving in the military during the Korean conflict, Mr. Wingate returned to his home state of Georgia and founded the famous Lunker Lodge on Lake Seminole in Bainbridge, Georgia. This nationally renowned lodge has hosted several prestigious fishing tournaments and has earned a reputation as a favored compound for expert bass fishermen and notable celebrities. Jack also operated the Wingate's Fishing Camp for Boys at Lunker Lodge and introduced many young men and future expert anglers to the outdoors for 33 years.

Along with operating the Lunker Lodge, Jack had a very successful career as a media commentator and columnist. Over several decades he served as a columnist for the Bainbridge Post-Searchlight newspaper and frequently made appearances on local TV and radio stations throughout Southwest Georgia to discuss current events, tell fishing stories, and provide in-depth updates on conditions at Lake Seminole.

Jack Wingate achieved numerous successes in his life, but none of this would have been possible without the grace of God and his loving wife of 59 years, Joyce E. Wingate. Jack was also the proud father of three daughters—Katherine W. Kent and her husband, Lamar, of Chattahoochee, Florida; Peggy W. MacDonald and her husband, Wayne, of Macon, Georgia; and Jacquie Wingate of Recovery, Georgia. Jack is also survived by two beloved grandchildren.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me today in paying tribute to Mr. Jack Wingate for being an outstanding ambassador and unyielding supporter of communities throughout Southwest Georgia and for all the outstanding work he did on behalf of working families throughout our United States of America.

THE AFFIRMATION OF APOSTLE
DR. JOHN H. BOYD, SR.

HON. GREGORY W. MEEKS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Mr. MEEKS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House of Representatives recognize the Affirmation of Dr. John Haywood Boyd, Sr. as an Apostle of the New Greater Bethel Ministries, located in Cambria Heights and Queens Village with the Sixth Congressional District of New York. Dr. Boyd is a well-known and much-admired figure in clerical and civic circles in southeast Queens. He began his ministry in 1972 in a small canvas tent at the intersection of Francis Lewis and Linden Boulevards in Cambria Heights.

From that site New Greater Bethel Ministries grew in number, influence, and impact, having established a food pantry and soup kitchen which fed hundreds of homeless individuals and families. Under Pastor Boyd's guidance, New Greater Bethel Ministries established a prison ministry to tend to the spiritual needs of incarcerated men and women. Pastor Boyd himself did outstanding work with the Inmate Community Improvement Program for which he received a certificate of recognition from the superintendent of the Queensboro Correctional Facility.

In 1993, the New Greater Bethel Ministries expanded with the addition of a location on Jamaica Avenue in Queens Village. Where rundown structures once stood, Dr. Boyd built a 1500 seat worship and community service facility, complete with a Christian Literature and Media Center, a digital recording studio, a television studio, and a drama center. Later, Dr. Boyd opened the K-12 Bethel Christian Learning Academy and the New Greater Bethel Bible Institute.

Despite episodes of illness and having now reached 85 years of age, Dr. Boyd still provides dynamic leadership to New Greater Bethel Ministries, ensuring that the church to which he had devoted his life continues to minister to the spiritual and material needs of several thousand members of its congregation as well as thousands of residents in the surrounding communities. Dr. Boyd studied at the Manhattan Bible Institute and earned his doctor of divinity from the United Christian College of New York. Over the course of his ministry he has received numerous award commendations from federal, state, and municipal elected officials, clergy, religious organizations, and community groups. He has been named "Man of the Year" by The New York Christian Times.

Dr. Boyd has been married to his wife, Mother Margie Boyd, for over 60 years. He has six children and numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren.

On December 10, 2011, over 1,000 congregants, community residents, and guests attended the ceremony at which Dr. John Haywood Boyd, Sr. was affirmed as an Apostle of the New Greater Bethel Ministries.

RECOGNIZING TERESA WOODRUFF, PH.D., AND THE WOMEN'S HEALTH SCIENCE PROGRAM FOR HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS AT NORTH-WESTERN UNIVERSITY

HON. JANICE D. SCHAKOWSKY

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Dr. Teresa Woodruff and the Women's Health Science Program for High School Girls, developed by the Institute for Women's Health Research at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine, on their receipt of the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science, Mathematics and Engineering Mentoring.

The Women's Health Science Program for High School Girls targets primarily African American and Latina girls from disadvantaged backgrounds in Chicago. The young women have the opportunity to study at four different Northwestern academies: cardiology, physical science, infectious disease, and oncology.

There is a tremendous opportunity for women to make a difference in improving America's innovative capacity and global competitiveness. A study from last year from the American Association of University Women (AAUW) entitled, "Why So Few?" underscores the point that attracting and retaining more women in the STEM workforce will maximize innovation, creativity, and competitiveness.

The AAUW study suggests that there are a number of ways to cultivate young women's interest and persistence in science and engineering, including mentoring. As Dr. Woodruff and the Women's Health Science Program prove, mentoring plays a crucial role in the academic and personal development of students—especially for young women and underrepresented minorities—who choose to study science and engineering. Of the 90 students who participated in the Women's Health Science Program, 18 are seniors in high school, 70 attend college, and 2 have received undergraduate degrees. Of those attending college, 51 percent are pursuing science majors.

We stand on the precipice of major discoveries and advancements. We need more women and minorities in STEM-related fields to ensure that our workforce and the solutions they develop to solve the problems of today—and tomorrow—are designed better and designed with everyone in mind.

There is a place for initiatives that motivate students to pursue STEM throughout their educational careers. With targeted action—like that of Dr. Woodruff and the Women's Health Science Program—we can remain global leaders in this vital field.

Again, I want to congratulate Dr. Woodruff for this well-deserved award in recognition of her outstanding work to provide opportunities for girls and women to improve our community and world.

CBC SPECIAL ORDER

HON. BARBARA LEE

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, December 12, 2011

Ms. LEE of California. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to include extraneous materials and statements into the RECORD.

First let me thank Chairman CLEAVER for organizing this timely special order and for his leadership on these issues that are so critical for millions of Americans who are looking for work and living on the edge.

Mr. Speaker, I rise with my Congressional Black Caucus colleagues to call for an immediate extension of emergency unemployment benefits and to extend the vital payroll tax holiday for millions of Americans.

We must not fail to do the work of the American people and we must not fail to extend these critical benefits before they run out.

Republican politicians continue to play games with the American people and threaten the recovery of our entire economy just to score political points with their extreme Tea Party base.

If you believed, even for a moment, that Republican politicians truly cared about the plight of the millions of Americans who are struggling to find a job and did not care just about protecting their special interests and getting more tax breaks for the super rich, then this bill should end all doubt.

H.R. 3630 reveals their true colors.

This latest bill, the so called Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2011, is another slap in the face to the millions of Americans who are struggling to find a job and are living in poverty or on the edge of falling into poverty.

Republicans are holding hostage critical unemployment benefits and threatening every working American with a tax hike so that they can advance the special interest agenda.

I call on Republicans to quickly bring a clean bill to the floor that extends emergency unemployment for the millions of jobseekers who continue to struggle to find a job in the middle of the economic disaster that the careless deregulation of the banks created.

Let's have an up or down vote on a clean bill that extends the temporary reduction of the payroll tax for millions of Americans that has been critical in boosting demand and lifting our economy.

Let's have an up or down vote on a clean bill that isn't bogged down with riders and special interest spending.

Let's have an up or down vote on a clean bill that keeps millions of families and 1 million children out of poverty.

Failing to extend these critical benefits would cripple our recovery and cost the economy over half a million jobs.

If you speak to nearly any business person, they will tell you that they are not hiring and not expanding, not because of “uncertainty about the tax code” or “burdensome regulation,” but because they are certain that they don’t have customers.

Failing to extend these critical benefits and cutting off unemployment benefits during the holidays would strip 2 million customers out of the economy by March and over 6 million customers out of the economy by the end of the year.

We could not make a worse decision than to cripple our recovery by failing to protect millions of families and children from poverty, because that is just what unemployment benefits does, it keeps 1 million children from falling into poverty.

Mr. Speaker, our economy is on the way to recovery, but much more must be done.

We may have seen a small drop in the national unemployment last month, but during that same month that saw a .4 percent drop in unemployment nationally, we saw a .4 percent rise in unemployment for African Americans.

There can be no clearer reminder of the ongoing racial and ethnic disparities that continue to plague our Nation and keep minority communities suffering disproportionately higher rates of unemployment, poverty, and tragic health disparities like the unconscionably higher rates of HIV infection.

100 million people—1 in 3 Americans—live in poverty or the zone just above poverty. The budget shortfalls caused by the Bush tax cuts for the wealthy and his two unfunded wars are causing massive lay-offs in States, counties and cities across the country and those lay-offs are again striking minority communities at disproportionate rates.

Not only must we immediately extend the emergency unemployment benefits, but we should also immediately pass legislation that I, along with my colleague Congressman BOBBY SCOTT introduced, H.R. 589. Our legislation would add an additional 14 weeks of tier I unemployment benefits for the millions of Americans who have already completely exhausted their benefits.

Mr. SCOTT and I have introduced an amendment which would replace the draconian cuts to unemployment benefits contained in the Republican bill with a clean extension of the existing Emergency Unemployment Compensation and H.R. 589 which would give some help to the 99ers who have completely run out of unemployment benefits.

We cannot ignore the needs of the millions of Americans who have run out of time and are now losing their homes, falling out of the middle class, and relying more and more on other forms of government assistance.

We should be taking strong action to implement targeted programs and policies that ensure that we are a Nation that truly does provide equal opportunity and equal access to the American Dream.

This is nothing short of a national emergency and more must be done immediately to put in place programs that directly address the on-going crisis of poverty and unemployment in America by creating millions of new jobs now.

ONLINE CONSENT FOR SHARING VIDEO SERVICE USE

SPEECH OF

HON. HANSEN CLARKE

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, December 6, 2011

Mr. CLARKE of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, today the House of Representatives is considering H.R. 2471. H.R. 2471 would amend the Video Privacy Protection Act (VPPA), a 1988 law that prohibits video rental stores from disclosing a consumer’s rental history. Currently, the only way such information can be shared is with the consumer’s written consent each time the video tape service provider wants to share their information. H.R. 2471 would allow video tape service providers to obtain a consumer’s consent on an ongoing basis and that consent may be obtained through the Internet. In recent years, the Internet has changed how we share movies and other media. This is why I originally supported the bill. Ultimately, I am voting against H.R. 2471 because the bill could undermine the key provision of the VPPA which is the consumer’s right to give meaningful consent to disclose their personal information. H.R. 2471 transfers control from the consumer to the company in possession of the data and diminishes consumer’s control over their personal information.
