SSG Edmund Perez, The Grill Sergeant

SSG Perez hails from San Antonio, Texas and has been in the Army for nine years. He and his wife, Angie, have four daughters, ranging in age from 18 months to 9 years old. SSG Perez' MOS is 92G - Food Service Specialist, and he is currently stationed at Fort Sam Houston on a compassionate reassignment for his oldest daughter. At Fort Sam Houston he serves as the 'Better Opportunities for Single Soldiers' (BOSS) President, and was most recently selected as BOSS President of the Year at the DA BOSS Conference.

SSG Perez was featured at the 2008 BOSS Conference, where he demonstrated how to make a 5-course meal in the microwave in 30 minutes. In addition to 'The Grill Sergeants', he currently appears on the Pentagon Channel's 'FNG' show (For New Guys), where he shows new troops how to make simple microwave meals in their dorms in his 'Nuke It' segments. SSG Perez has been on four U.S. Army Culinary Arts Teams and was Team Captain for two of them.

SSG Perez currently attends school at the University of the Incarnate Word, where his goals are to continue his education in both the culinary arts and business marketing.
