

U.S. Virgin Islands – Hurricane Earl FEMA-1939-DR

Declared September 28, 2010

On September 19, 2010, Governor John P. de Jongh, Jr. requested a major disaster declaration due to Hurricane Earl during the period of August 29-31, 2010. The Governor requested a declaration for Public Assistance and Hazard Mitigation for all islands in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands. During the period of September 3-7, 2010, joint Federal and Territorial Preliminary Damage Assessments (PDAs) were conducted in the requested islands and are summarized below. PDAs estimate damages immediately after an event and are considered, along with several other factors, in determining whether a disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the Territory and the affected local governments, and that Federal assistance is necessary.¹

On September 28, 2010, President Obama declared that a major disaster exists in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands. This declaration made Public Assistance requested by the Governor available to the Territory and eligible local governments and certain private nonprofit organizations on a cost-sharing basis for emergency work and the repair or replacement of facilities damaged by Hurricane Earl on the islands St. Croix, St. John and St. Thomas, including Water Island. This declaration also made Hazard Mitigation Grant Program assistance requested by the Governor available for hazard mitigation measures for all islands in the Territory of the U.S. Virgin Islands.²

² When a Governor's request for major disaster assistance under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, as amended (Stafford Act) is under review, a number of primary factors are considered to determine whether assistance is warranted. These factors are outlined in FEMA's regulations (44 CFR § 206.48). The President has ultimate discretion and decision making authority to declare major disasters and emergencies under the Stafford Act (42 U.S.C. § 5170 and § 5191).

³ Degree of damage to impacted residences:

- Destroyed – total loss of structure, structure is not economically feasible to repair, or complete failure to major structural components (e.g., collapse of basement walls/foundation, walls or roof);
- Major Damage – substantial failure to structural elements of residence (e.g., walls, floors, foundation), or damage that will take more than 30 days to repair;
- Minor Damage – home is damaged and uninhabitable, but may be made habitable in short period of time with repairs; and
- Affected – some damage to the structure and contents, but still habitable.

⁴ By law, Federal disaster assistance cannot duplicate insurance coverage (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(5)).

⁵ Special populations, such as low-income, the elderly, or the unemployed may indicate a greater need for assistance (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).

⁶ Ibid (44 CFR § 206.48(b)(3)).
