

Announcing 2011-2012 White House Fellows Regional Candidates

This select group of men and women will be competing for the nation's most prestigious program for leadership and public service. The White House Fellowship offers exceptional young men and women first-hand experience working at the highest levels of the federal government.

Individuals chosen to be White House Fellows are placed in the offices of Cabinet Secretaries, senior White House staff, and other high-level Executive Branch officials. As part of their education program, Fellows regularly meet in roundtable discussions with renowned leaders from the private and public sectors and travel domestically and internationally to study U.S. policy in action. Fellowships are awarded on a strictly non-partisan basis.

Distinguished civic, community, and business leaders from around the country will interview the following candidates and recommend the most qualified to meet with the President's Commission on White House Fellowships in Washington DC this summer. The President's Commission will then select 11 to 19 candidates to be awarded a White House Fellowship.
