

- Would you like to teach the public when to call 911?
- Would you like to teach the public when not to call 911?
- Would you like to teach the public what 911 can do?
- Would you like to teach the public what 911 can't do?

911 is the number to know. April is National 911 Education Month. And for the first time, there is a national campaign to help individual 911 call centers, regional 911 authorities, and state and national 911 organizations to speak together with one voice, and still retain the ability to send or choose their own primary outreach messages.

The 911: The Number to Know campaign is designed to support—not replace—any messages you want to send out. Using the 911: The Number to Know logo on your materials makes your message part of a national, coordinated campaign. To learn more about the campaign and to download resources, go to www.know911.org.