THE NATIONAL COUNTERTERRORISM CENTER COUNTERTERRORISM CALENDAR 2011

Islamic Calendar

The Islamic calendar is based on the movement and observation of the moon. The Islamic year contains 12 months, none of which can exceed 30 days. Each month starts when the lunar crescent is first seen after a new moon. Because 12 lunar months multiplied by 29.53 days equals 354.36 days, the Islamic calendar will always be approximately 11 days shorter than the Western, or Gregorian, calendar. For example, 1 Muharram, the first day of Islamic year 1432 (known in the West by the Latin term Anno Hegirae, or A.H.), fell on 8 December 2010; in A.H. 1433, 1 Muharram falls on 27 November 2011; and in A.H. 1434, 1 Muharram will fall on 15 November 2012. As indicated in the footnotes of this calendar, holidays begin at sundown of the previous day. Because of lunar observation and differences in time zones, the observance of Islamic holidays may vary from region to region.

Spelling of Arabic Names and Terms

While there is no universally accepted transliteration of Arabic names and terms, this edition of the Counterterrorism Calendar adheres to a transliteration system that is generally used throughout the US Government. In this system, the letters “u” and “a” are preferred over “o” and “e.” For example, the name of the al-Qa’ida operative who was detained on 1 March 2003 is Khalid Shaykh Muhammad, not Sheikh Mohammed. We have retained, however, the spellings used on the Rewards for Justice and FBI Most Wanted Terrorists Web pages; these are designed for easy recognition and therefore do not strictly conform to these rules.

Map Boundaries

Boundary representation is not necessarily authoritative.

The information in this calendar is valid as of 20 October 2010. This publication contains only information in the public domain that has been verified and disseminated by US Government sources.

The US National Counterterrorism Center is pleased to present the 2011 edition of the Counterterrorism (CT) Calendar. This edition, like others since the Calendar was first published in daily planner format in 2003, contains information across a wide range of terrorism-related issues: terrorist groups, wanted terrorists, and technical pages on various threat-related topics. The Calendar marks dates according to the Gregorian and Islamic calendars, and contains significant dates in terrorism history as well as dates that terrorists may believe are important if planning attacks to commemorate particular events.

The CT Calendar is designed as a ready reference guide for law enforcement, intelligence, military, and security personnel; contingency planners; or citizens concerned about terrorist threats. The CT Calendar is oriented primarily to readers in the United States, but we hope it will be useful for citizens of other countries as well. Readers are invited to visit the interactive version of the calendar at www.nctc.gov.

Al-Qa'ida (AQ)

Established by Usama Bin Ladin in 1988 with Arabs who fought in Afghanistan against the Soviet Union, al-Qa'ida's declared goal is the establishment of a pan-Islamic caliphate throughout the Muslim world. Toward this end, al-Qa'ida seeks to unite Muslims to fight the West, especially the United States, as a means of overthrowing Muslim regimes al-Qa'ida deems "apostate," expelling Western influence from Muslim countries, and defeating Israel. Al-Qa'ida issued a statement in February 1998 under the banner of "the World Islamic Front for Jihad Against the Jews and Crusaders" saying it was the duty of all Muslims to kill US citizens—civilian and military—and their allies everywhere. The group merged with the Egyptian Islamic Jihad (al-Jihad) in June 2001.

On 11 September 2001, 19 al-Qa'ida suicide attackers hijacked and crashed four US commercial jets—two into the World Trade Center in New York City, one into the Pentagon near Washington, D.C., and a fourth into a field in Shanksville, Pennsylvania—leaving nearly 3,000 people dead. Al-Qa'ida also directed the 12 October 2000 attack on the USS Cole in the port of Aden, Yemen, killing 17 US sailors and injuring another 39, and conducted the bombings in August 1998 of the US embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, killing 224 people and injuring more than 5,000. Since 2002, al-Qa'ida and affiliated groups have conducted attacks worldwide, including in Europe, North Africa, South Asia, Southeast Asia, and the Middle East.

In 2005, Bin Ladin's deputy, Ayman al-Zawahiri, publicly claimed al-Qa'ida's involvement in the 7 July 2005 bombings in the United Kingdom. In 2006, British security services foiled an al-Qa'ida plot to detonate explosives on up to 10 transatlantic flights originating from London's Heathrow airport. Also in 2006, al-Zawahiri announced that the Algerian Salafist Group for Preaching and Combat had joined al-Qa'ida, adopting the name al-Qa'ida in the Lands of the Islamic Maghreb. In 2009, extremist leaders in Yemen and Saudi Arabia reportedly announced they had merged to fight under the banner of al-Qa'ida in the Arabian Peninsula.

From early 2008 through 2010, al-Qa'ida lost significant parts of its command structure, based in the tribal areas of Pakistan, in a succession of blows as damaging to the group as any since the fall of the Afghan Taliban in late 2001. Key leaders killed included Abu Shaykh Mustafa Abu al-Yazid, one of al-Qa'ida's most senior leaders; Abu Khabab al-Masri, the group's leading expert on explosives and chemical attacks; Khalid Habib, al-Qa'ida's military chief; Abu Layth al-Libi, a key military commander and link between al-Qa'ida and its affiliates in North Africa; and Usama al-Kini, an operational planner who was involved in the 1998 embassy bombings in East Africa.

Despite leadership losses, al-Qa'ida remains committed to conducting attacks in the United States and against American interests abroad. In April 2009, senior al-Qa'ida leader Abu Yahya al-Libi advocated attacking US military, political, economic, and financial targets. Al-Qa'ida trained and deployed Najibullah Zazi, who was arrested in September 2009 for conspiring to use explosives within the United States. Al-Qa'ida is also focused on attacking Europe and has encouraged affiliates to target European interests. Al-Qa'ida also has increased its support for and participation in attacks inside Pakistan, working closely with Pakistani militant allies.

Husayn Muhammed al-Umari

Up to $5 Million Reward

Husayn Muhammed al-Umari is wanted by the FBI for his alleged participation in the 11 August 1982 bombing of Pan American World Airways flight 830, which resulted in the murder of one passenger, the wounding of 16 passengers, and the attempted murder of 267 passengers and the crew on board. Al-Umari was one of three people indicted for this terrorist act and is alleged to have designed and built the explosive device which detonated while the aircraft was in flight from Narita, Japan, to Honolulu, Hawaii.

Al-Umari was charged in the District of Columbia's US District Court with: (1) Conspiracy to commit assault and damage to property; (2) conspiracy to commit murder, (3) murder; (4) aircraft sabotage; (5) damaging aircraft used in foreign commerce; (6) placing bombs on aircraft; (7) assault; (8) attempted aircraft sabotage, and (9) aiding and abetting. In 1998, a co-conspirator, Mohammad Rashed, who placed the bomb on the aircraft, was arrested and brought to the United States. He pleaded guilty to his role in the bombing and signed a cooperation agreement as part of his plea.

Abderraouf Ben Habib Jdey

Up to $5 Million Reward

WANTED

Abderraouf Jdey has an extensive history of extremist affiliations. He has been closely linked with al-Qa'ida operatives and involved in plans for conducting hijacking/terrorist operations. Jdey is an associate of Tunisian terror suspect Faker Boussora, and the two may have traveled together in the past.

Jdey left his native Tunisia in 1991 and immigrated to Montreal, Canada, becoming a Canadian citizen in 1995. He departed Canada in 1999 and received combat training and experience in Afghanistan through 2000. He engaged in fighting against the Afghan Northern Alliance and authored a suicide letter stating his intention to become a martyr for jihad. Jdey also appeared in a well-known martyrdom video that was later found in an al-Qa'ida leader's house in 2001.

Following a return to the Montreal area in 2001 in which he consorted with extremists on methods of joining the jihad, Jdey left Canada. Authorities remain concerned that

Al-Qa'ida in Iraq (AQI)

Al-Qa'ida in Iraq, also known as the Islamic State of Iraq, was initially established as Jama'at al-Tawhid wa-al Jihad, "Unity and Jihad Group," in April 2004 by long-time Jordanian jihadist Abu Mus'ab al-Zarqawi. Using such tactics as vehicle-borne improvised explosive devices (VBIEDs), suicide bombers, and executions of hostages by beheading and other means, the group targeted Coalition forces and attempted to pressure foreign governments and companies to leave Iraq, pushed Iraqis to stop supporting the United States and the Iraqi Government, and successfully attracted additional cadre to its ranks.

In a 17 October 2004 statement, al-Zarqawi pledged allegiance to Usama Bin Ladin and renamed the group Tanzim Qa'idat al-Jihad fi Bilad al-Rafidayn ("The Base Organization of Jihad in the Land of the Two Rivers," a common reference for Iraq). As part of its plan to spread jihad into "Greater Syria"—Syria, Lebanon, Israel, and Jordan—and establish an Islamic state there, AQI expanded its targeting outside of Iraq in August 2005 by attempting a rocket attack on a US Navy ship in the Port of Aqaba, Jordan; and in November 2005 with the bombing of three hotels in Amman that left 67 dead and more than 150 injured. In an attempt to unify Sunni jihadists in Iraq, in January 2006 AQI created the Mujahidin Shura Council, an umbrella organization that five other small jihadist groups joined. Al-Zarqawi made it a priority to foster sectarian violence between the Shia and Sunni in Iraq to incite civil war, primarily through the targeting of Shia civilians.

Al-Zarqawi was killed in a US airstrike on 7 June 2006. His successor, Abu Ayyub al-Masri, in October 2006 announced the formation of the "Islamic State of Iraq," led by Iraqi national Abu Umar al-Baghdadi, in an attempt to politicize AQI's terrorist activities and place an "Iraqi face" on their efforts. AQI's continued targeting of Iraqi civilians caused a backlash against the organization, primarily from Sunni tribal and local community leaders. The growth of local anti-AQI groups, along with Coalition and Iraqi security operations, denied AQI its safehavens and restricted the organization's freedom of movement, resulting in a decreased operational tempo. A renewed focus on propaganda and an uptick in high-profile attacks in mid-2009 and into 2010 demonstrated the group's attempt to maintain relevance in the wake of the Coalition withdrawal from Iraqi cities and efforts to posture itself to take advantage of the changing security environment. In April 2010 AQI's top two leaders, Abu Ayyub al-Masri and Abu Umar al-Baghdadi, were killed, marking a significant loss for the organization. In the wake of their deaths, however, the group has continued to engage in high-profile terrorist attacks in Iraq.

Hizballah

Formed in 1982 in response to the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, Hizballah (the “Party of God”), a Lebanon-based radical Shia group, advocates Shia empowerment within Lebanon. The group also supports Palestinian rejectionist groups in their struggle against Israel and now provides training for Iraqi Shia militants attacking Coalition forces in Iraq. Hizballah is known or suspected to have been involved in or provided support to numerous anti-US terrorist attacks, including the suicide truck bombings of the US Embassy in Beirut in April 1983, the US Marine barracks in Beirut in October 1983, and the US Embassy annex in Beirut in September 1984, as well as the hijacking of TWA 847 in 1985 and the Khobar Towers attack in Saudi Arabia in 1996. Hizballah primarily operates in the Al Biqā’ (Bekaa Valley), Hermil, the southern suburbs of Beirut, and southern Lebanon. The group has established cells in the Middle East, Europe, Africa, South America, North America, and Asia.

Since the passage of UN Security Council Resolution 1559 in fall 2004, which called for the disarmament of all armed militias in Lebanon, Hizballah has focused on justifying its retention of arms by casting itself within Lebanon as the only reliable bulwark against Israeli aggression. To this end, Hizballah kidnapped two Israeli soldiers on the Israeli side of the Israel-Lebanon border on 12 July 2006 in a gambit to negotiate the release of Lebanese and other Arab prisoners being held by Israel. In response, Israel launched an extensive military campaign against Hizballah in Lebanon with the aim of eradicating the organization. Following the UN-brokered cease-fire in August 2006, Hizballah claimed victory by virtue of its survival and has since sought to use the conflict to justify its need to retain its arms as a Lebanese resistance force.

In February 2008, Hizballah’s military chief ‘Imad Mughniyah was killed by a vehicle bomb set off by unknown persons in Damascus. Hizballah Secretary General Hassan Nasrallah publicly blamed Israel and continues to promise retaliation.

Press reporting since 2009 has cast Hizballah as the main suspect in the UN Special Tribunal for Lebanon’s (STL) investigation of former Lebanese Prime Minister Rafiq al-Hariri’s assassination—Hariri was killed by a car bomb in Beirut on 14 February 2005. In a March 2010 television interview, Nasrallah agreed to cooperate with the STL under certain conditions but continues to stress the role of Hizballah members as witnesses instead of suspects. He stressed Israel was the first to accuse Hizballah of involvement in al-Hariri’s killing, and repeated past claims that Israel and the United States are driving the investigation.

HAMAS

HAMAS formed in late 1987 at the beginning of the first Palestinian Intifada (uprising). Its roots are in the Palestinian branch of the Muslim Brotherhood, and it is supported by a robust social/political structure inside the Palestinian territories. The group's charter calls for establishing an Islamic Palestinian state in place of Israel and rejects all agreements made between the PLO and Israel. More recently, HAMAS has publicly expressed a willingness to accept a long-term cessation of hostilities if Israel agrees to a Palestinian state based on the 1967 borders with Jerusalem as its capital. HAMAS's strength is concentrated in the Gaza Strip and areas of the West Bank.

HAMAS has a paramilitary arm, the Izz al-Din al-Qassam Brigades, which, beginning in the 1990s, has conducted many anti-Israeli attacks in Israel and the Palestinian territories. These have included large-scale terrorist bombings against Israeli civilian targets, as well as small-arms attacks, improvised roadside explosives, and the launching of rockets into Israel. While the group receives some support from foreign countries and movements, it remains independent.

In early 2006 HAMAS won legislative elections in the Palestinian territories, ending the secular Fatah party's hold on the Palestinian Authority and challenging Fatah's leadership of the Palestinian national movement. HAMAS continues its refusal to recognize Israel or renounce violence against Israelis and, over the past few years, has conducted one suicide bombing, which killed one civilian, and numerous mortar and rocket attacks that injured civilians. The US Government has designated HAMAS as a Foreign Terrorist Organization.

HAMAS in June 2008 entered into a six-month agreement for calm with Israel that significantly reduced rocket attacks. Following the temporary calm, HAMAS resumed its rocket attacks, which precipitated the launching of a major military operation by Israel on 27 December 2008. After destroying much of HAMAS's infrastructure in the Gaza Strip, Israel declared a unilateral cease-fire on 18 January 2009. Through 2009 and into 2010, HAMAS has worked to rein in attacks from other groups and enforce the cease-fire, though sporadic low-level attacks against Israeli forces along the Gaza border have continued.

In May 2010, the Israel Defense Forces intercepted a flotilla of humanitarian aid vessels bound for the Gaza Strip, which since 2007 has been under a strictly enforced Israeli blockade. The seizure of the ship led to a violent confrontation and resulted in the death of nine passengers. HAMAS publicly condemned the incident, which it characterized as a massacre, and urged international activists to continue their attempts—with additional flotillas if necessary—to break the blockade. In late August, an Izz al-Din al-Qassam Brigades spokesman claimed responsibility for the shooting deaths of four Israeli settlers, an attack widely believed to be aimed at scuttling peace talks between Palestinians and Israelis in Washington.

Jemaah Islamiya (JI)

Jemaah Islamiya is an Indonesia-based clandestine terrorist network formed in the early 1990s to establish an Islamic state encompassing southern Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Brunei, and the southern Philippines. Its operatives, who trained at camps in Afghanistan and the southern Philippines, began conducting attacks in 1999. The network's existence was discovered in late 2001 when Singaporean authorities disrupted a cell that was planning to attack targets associated with the US Navy. JI is responsible for a series of lethal bombings targeting Western interests in Indonesia and the Philippines from 2000-2005, including attacks in 2002 against two nightclubs in Bali that killed 202 people; the 2003 car bombing of the JW Marriott hotel in Jakarta that killed 12; the 2004 truck bombing of the Australian Embassy that killed 11; and the 2005 suicide bombing of three establishments in Bali that killed 22. A JI splinter group under Noordin Mat Top in July 2009 conducted a suicide bombing at two hotels in Jakarta.

Southeast Asian governments since 2002 have captured more than 300 suspected terrorists, significantly degrading JI's network. Thai authorities detained JI's operations chief in 2003. Indonesian police killed JI's most experienced bombmaker in 2005 and arrested its two senior leaders in mid-2007. Malaysian authorities arrested two senior JI operatives in Kuala Lumpur in early 2008 and in April 2009 recaptured fugitive Singapore JI leader Mas Selamat Kasteri, who escaped from his Singaporean prison cell in early 2008. Indonesian police in September 2009 killed Noordin Top and in February 2010 disrupted an extremist training camp in Aceh led by former JI operative and Philippines-based terrorist Dulmatin, who was implicated in the 2002 Bali bombings. Police killed Dulmatin in March 2010 and continue to pursue fugitives from the camp, including at least 14 previously incarcerated terrorists.

Since 2009, JI's activities have been overshadowed by the activities of its fragments and other Indonesia-based terrorists, some of whom are experienced operatives previously affiliated with JI or convicted terrorists who completed prison sentences and have since resumed their activities. As of May 2010, the Indonesian Government had released 192 detainees convicted on terrorism charges since 2003. Only 13 of 70 terrorists convicted for their role in JI's attacks from 2002-2004—which killed 238 people—remain incarcerated.

Zulkarnaen

WANTED

Zulkarnaen is one of al-Qa'ida's point men in Southeast Asia and is one of the few people in Indonesia who have direct contact with Usama Bin Ladin's terror network. Zulkarnaen earned a degree in biology from an Indonesian university, and in the 1980s he was among the first Indonesian militants to go to Afghanistan for training to become an expert in sabotage. Zulkarnaen now leads a squad of militants called Laskar Khos, or "special force," whose members were recruited from some 300 Indonesians who trained in Afghanistan and the Philippines.

Zulkarnaen was a protégé of Abdullah Sungkar, founder of JI and the Islamic boarding school al-Mukmin where Zulkarnaen and other senior militants studied. In the mid-1980s, Sungkar sent a small group of Indonesians to Afghanistan to train in a camp led by mujahidin commander Abdul Rasul Sayyaf. Before Sungkar's death in 1999, Zulkarnaen was often seen by his mentor's side, helping to organize conferences and arrange the agenda of the elder radical.

Aliases/Name Variants: Aris Sumarsono, Zulkarnaen, Daud

Date of Birth: 1963

Place of Birth: Central Java, Jakarta

Build: Thin, small

Zulkarnaen, whose real name is Aris Sumarsono, is called Daud by fellow militants. US and Indonesian officials state that Zulkarnaen became operations chief for Jemaah Islamiya (JI) after the arrest of his alleged predecessor, Riduan Isamuddin, also known as Hambali, in Thailand. Zulkarnaen is described by those who know him as a small man of few words. Zulkarnaen is believed to have helped organize fighting in the Maluku islands in the 1990s, and organized a meeting among militants who trained in Afghanistan at different times, enabling them to join forces.

Zulkarnaen has been identified as possibly the highest-ranking leader of the Southeast Asian terrorist group Jemaah Islamiya. He is believed to head the elite squad that helped carry out the suicide bombing at Jakarta's Marriott Hotel that killed 12 people in 2003 and helped to prepare the bombs that killed 202 people in Bali in 2002.

Abdul Basit Usman

Up to $1 Million Reward

Nationality: Philippines

WANTED

Abdul Basit Usman, a Filipino citizen, is a bomb-making expert with links to two terrorist organizations operating in the southern Philippines: the Philippines-based Abu Sayyaf Group and the Indonesia-based Jemaah Islamiya (JI). Because of these associations, US authorities consider Basit to be a threat to US and Filipino citizens and interests. Basit is believed to have orchestrated several bombings that have killed, injured, and maimed many innocent civilians. Basit is believed to be hiding in central Mindanao.

Basit has been indicted in the Philippines for his role in multiple bombing incidents since 2003, and the Government of the Philippines has issued a warrant for his arrest.

Abu Sayyaf Group (ASG)

The Abu Sayyaf Group (ASG) is the most violent of the Islamic separatist groups operating in the southern Philippines and claims to promote an independent Islamic state in western Mindanao and the Sulu Archipelago. Split from the Moro National Liberation Front in the early 1990s, the group currently engages in kidnappings for ransom, bombings, assassinations, and extortion, and has ties to Jemaah Islamiya (JI). The ASG operates mainly in Basilan, Sulu, and Tawi-Tawi Provinces in the Sulu Archipelago and has a presence on Mindanao. Members also occasionally travel to Manila.

The ASG has used terror both for financial profit and to promote its jihadist agenda. In April 2000, an ASG faction kidnapped 21 persons—including 10 Westerners—from a Malaysian resort, and, in May 2001, the ASG kidnapped three US citizens and 17 Filipinos from a resort in Palawan, Philippines, later murdering several of the hostages, including one US citizen. On 27 February 2004, members of ASG leader Khadafi Janjalani's faction bombed a ferry in Manila Bay, killing 116, and on 14 February 2005 they perpetrated simultaneous bombings in the cities of Manila, General Santos, and Davao, killing at least eight and injuring about 150. In 2006 Janjalani's faction relocated to Sulu, where it joined forces with local ASG supporters who are providing shelter to fugitive JI members from Indonesia.

In July 2007, the ASG and Moro Islamic Liberation Front engaged a force of Philippine marines on Basilan Island, killing 14. In November 2007, a motorcycle bomb exploded outside the Philippine Congress, killing a Congressman and three staff members. While there was no definitive claim of responsibility, three suspected ASG members were arrested during a subsequent raid on a safehouse. In January 2009, the ASG kidnapped three International Red Cross workers in Sulu province, holding one of the hostages for six months. Philippine marines in February 2010 killed Albader Parad, one of the ASG's most violent sub-commanders, on Jolo Island.

Isnlon Hapilon

Up to $5 Million Reward

WANTED

Isnlon Hapilon is a senior leader of the Abu Sayyaf Group (ASG), a foreign terrorist organization operating in the southern Philippines. The group and its leadership are integrated with the worldwide network of Islamic terrorists, including Jemaah Islamiya and al-Qa'ida.

On 27 May 2001, the ASG kidnapped three American citizens from the Dos Palmas Resort on Palawan in the Philippines. The three Americans were identified as Guillermo Sobero and Martin and Gracia Burnham, an American missionary couple. On 11 June 2001, ASG spokesman Abu Sabaya claimed Guillermo Sobero had been executed as a "birthday present" for Philippine President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo. On 7 October 2001, a human skull was recovered from Basilan Island, which was found to be that of Guillermo Sobero. In June 2002, Martin Burnham died in a crossfire between Filipino soldiers and the ASG; Gracia Burnham was injured but was rescued and repatriated to the United States. Isnlon Hapilon was involved in the Dos Palmas attack.

Khair Mundos

Up to $500,000 Reward

Hair: Dark

Eyes: Dark

WANTED

Khair Mundos is a key leader and financier of the Philippines-based Abu Sayyaf Group.

Mundos's May 2004 arrest on the first-ever money laundering charges against terrorists grew out of an investigation initiated by the US Government in coordination with Philippine officials. While in police custody, Mundos confessed to having arranged the transfer of funds from al-Qa'ida to Abu Sayyaf Group leader Khadafi Janjalani to be used in bombings and other criminal acts throughout Mindanao. In February 2007, Mundos escaped from a Kidapawan provincial jail. Because of his leadership position in the Abu Sayyaf Group, whose terrorist attacks have resulted in the death of US and Filipino citizens, US authorities consider Mundos to be a threat to US and Filipino citizens and interests.

Mundos is believed to be hiding in southern Mindanao.

Radullan Sahiron

Up to $1 Million Reward

WANTED

Radullan Sahiron is a senior leader of the Philippines-based Abu Sayyaf Group. The group split from the much larger Moro National Liberation Front in the early 1990s under the leadership of Abdurajak Abubakar Janjalani, who was killed in a clash with Philippine police in December 1998. Abdurajak Janjalani's younger brother, Khadafi Janjalani, replaced him as the nominal leader of the group. In September 2006, Khadafi Janjalani was killed in a gun battle with the armed forces of the Philippines. Radullan Sahiron is assumed to be the new ASG leader.

Many innocent men, women, and children have died or have been seriously injured as a result of Sahiron's actions. Sahiron played a role in the May 2001 Dos Palmas kidnapping of three US citizens—Martin and Gracia Burnham and Guillermo Sobero—and 17 Filipinos from a tourist resort in Palawan, Philippines. Several of the hostages, including Sobero, were murdered.

Hair: Gray

Eyes: Dark

Scars/Distinguishing Characteristics: Sahiron is missing his right hand.

Sahiron is believed to be hiding in southern Mindanao, where he continues to plot terror schemes that affect many communities. Because of his leadership position within the ASG, whose terrorist attacks have resulted in the deaths of US and Filipino citizens, US authorities consider Sahiron to be a threat to US and Filipino citizens and interests.

Sahiron lost his right hand fighting security forces in the 1970s. He is fluent in Arabic and Tausug.

Al-Qa'ida in the Lands of the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM)

Al-Qa'ida in the Lands of the Islamic Maghreb is an Algeria-based Sunni Muslim jihadist group that originally formed in 1998 as the Salafist Group for Preaching and Combat (GSPC), a faction of the Armed Islamic Group, which was the largest and most active terrorist group in Algeria. The GSPC was renamed in January 2007 after the group officially joined al-Qa'ida in September 2006. The GSPC had close to 30,000 members at its height, but the Algerian Government's counterterrorism efforts have reduced the group's ranks to fewer than 1,000.

Since the 1990s, the group has focused most of its attacks on Algerian security personnel and facilities to achieve its primary goal of overthrowing the Algerian Government and establishing an Islamic caliphate. Following its formal alliance with al-Qa'ida, AQIM expanded its aims and declared its intention to attack Western targets. In late 2006 and early 2007, it conducted several improvised explosive device (IED) attacks against convoys of foreign nationals working in the energy sector. AQIM in December 2007 attacked United Nations offices in Algiers with a car bomb and in February 2008 attacked the Israeli Embassy in Nouakchott, Mauritania, with small arms.

AQIM, which operates primarily in northern coastal areas of Algeria and in parts of the desert regions of southern Algeria and northern Mali, mainly employs conventional terrorist tactics, including guerrilla-style ambushes and mortar, rocket, and IED attacks. Its principal sources of funding include extortion, kidnapping, donations, and narcotics trafficking. The group added the use of suicide bombings in April 2007, with attacks against government ministry and police buildings in Algiers that killed more than 30 people. AQIM leader Abdelmalek Droukhal announced in May 2007 that suicide bombings will become the group's main tactic. The group claimed responsibility for a suicide truck bomb attack that killed at least eight soldiers and injured more than 20 at a military barracks in Algeria on 11 July 2007, the opening day of the All-Africa Games. AQIM continues to target Westerners and has successfully kidnapped numerous Westerners for ransom, a tactic that predates the merger with al-Qa'ida. In May 2009, AQIM announced it had killed a British hostage after months of failed negotiations. The group publicly claimed responsibility for killing an American citizen in Mauritania because of his missionary activities. This was the first time the group has killed an American in North Africa.

In 2010, AQIM failed to conduct the high-casualty attacks in Algeria that it had in previous years, and multinational counterterrorism efforts—including a joint French-Mauritanian raid in July against an AQIM camp—resulted in deaths and possibly disrupted some AQIM activity.

Al-Qa'ida in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP)

Saudi operatives under a common banner and signaled the group's intention to serve as a hub for regional operations targeting local government and Western interests both in Yemen and Saudi Arabia. The group is now pursuing a global strategy. The leadership of this new organization was composed of the group's amir Nasir al-Wahishi, deputy amir Sa'id al-Shahri, and military commander Qasim al-Rimi, all veteran extremist leaders.

AQAP's predecessor, al-Qa'ida in Yemen (AQY), came into existence after the escape of 23 al-Qa'ida members from prison in the Yemeni capital, Sanaa, in February 2006. Several escapees helped reestablish the group and later identified fellow escapee al-Wahishi as the group's new amir.

AQY operatives conducted near-simultaneous suicide attacks in September 2006 against separate oil facilities in Yemen, the first large-scale attack by the group. AQY later claimed responsibility for the attack and, in its first Internet statement in November 2006, vowed to conduct further attacks. Al-Qa'ida's second-in-command Ayman al-Zawahiri in a statement in December 2006 congratulated AQY and encouraged additional attacks.

AQY in early 2008 dramatically increased its operational tempo, carrying out small-arms attacks on foreign tourists and a series of mortar attacks against the US and Italian Embassies in Sanaa, the Presidential Compound, and Yemeni military complexes. In September 2008 the group conducted its largest attack to date, targeting the US Embassy in Sanaa using two vehicle bombs that detonated outside the compound, killing 19 people, including six terrorists.

AQAP is based primarily in the tribal areas outside of Sanaa, which for the most part remain outside the control of the Yemeni Government.

Yemen-based al-Qa'ida in the Arabian Peninsula since 2009 has orchestrated high-profile attacks and expanded its activities outside of Yemen, most notably by sending Nigerian-born Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab, who attempted to detonate an explosive device aboard a Northwest Airlines flight on 25 December 2009—to engage in the first US homeland attack by an al-Qa'ida affiliate since 11 September 2001. Dual US-Yemeni citizen and radical ideologue Anwar al-Aulaqi is a known leader of AQAP. Al-Aulaqi has been named a Specially Designated Global Terrorist by the United States Government.

Al-Shabaab

The Harakat Shabaab al-Mujahidin (al-Shabaab)—also known as al-Shabaab, Shabaab, the Youth, Mujahidin al-Shabaab Movement, Mujahideen Youth Movement, Mujahidin Youth Movement, and other names and variations—was the militant wing of the Somali Council of Islamic Courts that took over most of southern Somalia in the second half of 2006. Although the Somali government and Ethiopian forces routed the group in a two-week war between December 2006 and January 2007, al-Shabaab—a clan-based insurgent and terrorist group—has continued its violent insurgency in southern and central Somalia. The group has exerted temporary and, at times, sustained control over strategic locations in southern and central Somalia by recruiting, at times forcibly, regional sub-clans and their militias, using guerrilla asymmetrical warfare and terrorist tactics against the Transitional Federal Government (TFG) of Somalia and its allies, African Union peacekeepers, and nongovernmental aid organizations.

Al-Shabaab is not centralized or monolithic in its agenda or goals. Its rank-and-file members come from disparate clans, and the group is susceptible to clan politics, internal divisions, and shifting alliances. While most of its fighters are predominantly interested in the nationalistic battle against the TFG and not supportive of global jihad, al-Shabaab's senior leadership is affiliated with al-Qa'ida, and certain extremists aligned with al-Shabaab are believed to have trained and fought in Afghanistan. Al-Shabaab has issued statements praising Usama Bin Ladin and linking Somalia to al-Qa'ida's global operations. The group has claimed responsibility for many bombings—including various types of suicide attacks—in Mogadishu and in central and northern Somalia, typically targeting Somali government officials and perceived allies of the TFG. Al-Shabaab was likely responsible for a wave of five coordinated suicide car bombings in October 2008 that simultaneously hit targets in two cities in northern Somalia, killing at least 26 people, including five bombers, and injuring 29 others. Al-Shabaab has been accused by Ugandan officials of conducting the twin suicide bombings in Kampala, Uganda, on 11 July 2010 that killed more than 70 people. Al-Shabaab's leaders also have ordered their fighters to attack African Union peace-keeping troops based in Mogadishu. Al-Shabaab is responsible for the assassination of Somali peace activists, international aid workers, numerous civil society figures, and journalists.

On 29 February 2008, the US Government designated al-Shabaab as a Foreign Terrorist Organization under Section 219 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (as amended) and as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist under Section 1(b) of Executive Order 13224 (as amended).

Ansar al-Islam (AI)

Ansar al-Islam, formerly known as Ansar al-Sunna (AS), is a Sunni extremist group of Iraqi Kurds and Arabs intent on establishing a Salafi Islamic state in Iraq. AI has worked with al-Qa'ida senior leadership and al-Qa'ida in Iraq (AQI) in the past and has carried out joint operations in Iraq. Some AI members trained in al-Qa'ida camps in Afghanistan, and the group provided safehaven to al-Qa'ida fighters in northern Iraq before Operation Iraqi Freedom commenced in March 2003.

Now detained Ansar al-Sunna leader Abu 'Abdallah al-Shafi'i in December 2007 announced that the group was reverting to its original name of Ansar al-Islam, previously used from the time of its establishment in 2001 until mid-2003. Al-Shafi'i claimed the change was intended to signify a consolidation of the group's Salafi jihadist principles. It may have also been an attempt to distance itself from members of AS who, in May 2007, announced an agreement with the Islamic Army in Iraq and the Army of the Mujahidin to form a united group called "The Jihad and Reformation Front." In late July 2009, several AI members, including the group's deputy and operational commander, Mullah Halgurd, were arrested. In May 2010 Iraqi security forces arrested AI leader al-Shafi'i. The capture of al-Shafi'i, along with other key AI figures, represents a significant blow to the group's operational capabilities.

AI operates primarily in northern Iraq and consistently claims the second-largest number of Sunni jihadist attacks in Iraq (behind AQI). The group regularly targets Coalition forces, Iraqi Government and security forces, and Iraqi political parties, including the suicide bombing of a US military dining facility in Mosul in December 2004 that killed 22 US and Coalition soldiers. AI continues to conduct and claim responsibility for car bombings, assassinations, and kidnappings in Iraq.

In the first seven months of 2010, Ansar al-Islam released 54 statements claiming responsibility for attacks on US and Iraqi forces or expressing ideological and political messages. In their statements, Ansar al-Islam criticized the Iraqi elections, praised attacks on US and Iraqi military forces, eulogized the death of AQI leader Mustafa Abu al-Yazid, and discussed religious decrees and rulings.

Greek Domestic Terrorism

Greek domestic terrorism stems from radical leftist and anarchist ideologies that developed as part of the resistance to the military dictatorship that ruled Greece from 1967 to 1974. Shortly after the dictatorship's collapse, radical leftist elements that opposed this junta, and what they regarded as US and other Western support for it, emerged to form two of Greece's most notorious terrorist groups, Revolutionary Organization 17 November (17N) and Revolutionary Popular Struggle (ELA).

17N, which took its name from the date of the dictatorship's violent suppression of student protests at the Athens Polytechnic University on 17 November 1973, espoused a violently anti-US, anti-NATO, and anti-imperialist agenda. 17N's first major operation was the assassination of US diplomat Richard Welch on 23 December 1975. Over the next 25 years, 17N became Greece's most lethal terrorist group, responsible for the deaths of at least 23 individuals, including four Americans. ELA also appeared in 1975 and became Greece's most prolific terrorist organization, conducting approximately 250 attacks against a wide range of targets.

These two groups, as well as several more obscure radical leftist organizations, terrorized Greek, US, and Western government and commercial interests until the early 2000s through targeted bombings and assassinations. ELA claimed its last operation in 1994, while Greek authorities largely disrupted 17N in 2002 in an effort to stem domestic terrorism prior to the beginning of the Olympic Games in Athens in 2004.

Greek domestic terrorism has witnessed a steady resurgence following the 2004 Athens Olympics, with activity spiking after Greek police killed a teenager on 6 December 2008 in Exarcheia, a Bohemian and counterculture section of Athens known as a hangout for leftist and anarchist extremists. Two of the most prominent active groups are Revolutionary Struggle (EA) and Conspiracy of Fire Nuclei (SPF), who have targeted Greek, US, and other Western government and commercial interests for attacks over the past few years.

EA is an armed, radical leftist group that is ideologically aligned with 17N; it emerged in September 2003, when it conducted a bombing at an Athens courthouse where trials of 17N members were being held. EA has conducted a number of high-profile terrorist operations against Greek and Western interests, most notably a rocket-propelled grenade attack against the US Embassy in Athens on 12 January 2007. Greek authorities arrested six EA members and confiscated a large weapons and explosives cache in April 2010, but the whereabouts and activities of the group's remaining members are unknown.

SPF, a radical anarchist terrorist group, has conducted coordinated attacks in Greece's two major urban centers, Athens and Thessaloniki, against Greek Government targets and may be implicated in a March 2010 bomb attack against a US bank in Athens.

Lashkar-e-Tayyiba (LT)

Lashkar-e-Tayyiba, also known as Army of the Righteous, is one of the largest and most proficient of the Kashmir-focused militant groups. LT formed in the early 1990s as the military wing of Markaz-ud-Dawa-wal-Irshad, a Pakistan-based Islamic fundamentalist missionary organization founded in the 1980s to oppose the Soviets in Afghanistan. Since 1993, LT has conducted numerous attacks against Indian troops and civilian targets in the disputed Jammu and Kashmir state, as well as several high-profile attacks inside India itself, and concern over new LT attacks in India remains high. The United States and United Nations have designated LT an international terrorist organization. The Pakistani Government banned the LT and froze its assets in 2002. In 2008 the US Treasury Department imposed sanctions on four senior LT leaders.

The Indian Government implicated LT in the 26–29 November 2008 attacks in Mumbai, in which gunmen using automatic weapons and grenades attacked several sites, killing more than 160 people. Pakistani authorities have detained and are prosecuting several LT leaders for the Mumbai attacks. David Headley, an American citizen who acknowledged attending LT training camps, pleaded guilty in March 2010 to scouting targets for the Mumbai attacks. India also implicated LT for other high-profile attacks, including the 11 July 2006 attack on multiple Mumbai commuter trains that killed more than 180 people, and the December 2001 armed assault on the Indian Parliament building that left 12 dead. Indian authorities have speculated that LT also may have contributed surveillance and planning for the 13 February 2010 bombing of a German bakery in Pune.

LT's exact size is unknown, but the group probably has several thousand members, predominantly Pakistani nationals seeking a united Kashmir under Pakistani rule. Elements of LT are active in Afghanistan and the group also recruits internationally, as evidenced by Headley's arrest and the indictment of 11 LT terrorists in Virginia in 2003. LT maintains facilities in Pakistan, including training camps, schools, and medical clinics. In March 2002, senior al-Qa'ida lieutenant Abu Zubaydah was captured at an LT safehouse in Faisalabad, suggesting that some LT members assist the group.

LT coordinates its charitable activities through its front organization, Jamaat-ud-Dawa, which spearheaded humanitarian relief to the victims of the October 2005 earthquake in Kashmir. JUD activities, however, have been limited since December 2008 by the UN's designation of the group as an alias for LT. During the 2010 floods in Pakistan, Jamaat-ud-Dawa and an affiliated charity, the Falah-i-Insaniyat Foundation, were widely reported to have provided aid to flood victims.

Islamic Jihad Union (IJU)

The Islamic Jihad Union—also known as al-Djihad al-Islami, Dzhamaat Modzhahkedov, and the Islamic Jihad Group of Uzbekistan, among other names—is an extremist organization that splintered from the Islamic Movement of Uzbekistan in the early 2000s. It adheres to an anti-Western ideology, opposes secular rule in Uzbekistan, and seeks to replace the current regime with a government based on Islamic law.

The group first conducted attacks in April 2004, targeting a popular bazaar and police at several roadway checkpoints. These attacks killed approximately 47 people, including 33 terrorists, some of whom were suicide bombers, and marked the first use of suicide bombers in Central Asia. The IJU's claim of responsibility, which was posted to multiple militant Islamic Web sites, denounced the leadership of Uzbekistan.

In July 2004 the group struck again, with near-simultaneous suicide bombings of the US and Israeli Embassies and the Uzbekistani Prosecutor General's office in Tashkent. The IJU again claimed responsibility via an Islamic Web site and stated that martyrdom operations by the group would continue. The statement also indicated that the attacks were committed in support of IJU's Palestinian, Iraqi, and Afghan brothers in the global insurgency. The date of the July attack corresponded with the trial of individuals arrested for their alleged participation in the April 2004 attacks.

In September 2007, German authorities detained three IJU operatives, disrupting an IJU plot against unidentified US or Western facilities in Germany. The operatives had acquired about 700 kg of hydrogen peroxide and an explosives precursor, which was enough raw material to make the equivalent of approximately 1,200 lbs of TNT. The IJU subsequently claimed responsibility for the foiled plot. The three operatives, along with a fourth man detained several months later in Turkey, were put on trial in Germany in 2009. All four were convicted and given jail terms of up to 12 years.

Turkish authorities in April 2009 seized weapons and detained extremists with ties to the group. The IJU claimed responsibility for the May 2009 attacks in the Andijon region of Uzbekistan that killed one policeman. IJU members are scattered throughout Central Asia and parts of South Asia, including Afghanistan, where the group has claimed responsibility for attacks against Coalition forces.

Jaish-e-Mohammed (JEM)

Jaish-e-Mohammed (JEM)—also known as the Army of Mohammed, Khudamul Islam, and Tehrik ul-Furqaan among other names—is an extremist group based in Pakistan. It was founded by Masood Azhar in early 2000 upon his release from prison in India. The group’s aim is to unite Kashmir with Pakistan and to expel foreign troops from Afghanistan. JEM has openly declared war against the United States. Pakistan outlawed JEM in 2002, and by 2003 JEM had splintered into Khuddam ul-Islam (KUI), headed by Azhar, and Jamaat ul-Furqan (JUF), led by Abdul Jabbar. Abdul Jabbar was detained for suspected involvement in the December 2003 assassination attempts against President Pervez Musharraf, but was released from Pakistani custody in August 2004. Pakistan banned KUI and JUF in November 2003.

JEM continues to operate openly in parts of Pakistan despite the 2002 ban on its activities. Since JEM founder Masood Azhar’s release in 2000, JEM has conducted many lethal terrorist attacks, including a suicide bombing of the Jammu and Kashmir legislative assembly building in the Indian-administered Kashmir capital of Srinagar in October 2001 that killed more than 30. In July 2004, Pakistani authorities arrested a JEM member wanted in connection with the 2002 abduction and murder of US journalist Daniel Pearl. In 2006 JEM claimed responsibility for a number of attacks, including the killing of several Indian police officials in Srinagar. JEM members also were involved in the 2007 Red Mosque uprising in Islamabad. In 2009, Pakistani authorities detained several JEM members suspected of taking part in a 3 March attack on the Sri Lankan cricket team in Lahore.

In June 2008, JEM reportedly was working to resolve its differences with other Pakistani extremist groups and began shifting its focus from Kashmir to Afghanistan in order to step up attacks against US and Coalition forces. Rogue factions of JEM, in conjunction with other regional groups, may conduct attacks against Western interests in Pakistan as well as attack Pakistani Government entities.

JEM has at least several hundred armed supporters located in Pakistan, India’s southern Kashmir and Doda regions, and in the Kashmir Valley. Supporters are mostly Pakistanis and Kashmiris, but also include Afghans and Arab veterans of the Afghan war against the Soviets. The group uses light and heavy machineguns, assault rifles, mortars, improvised explosive devices, and rocket-propelled grenades in its attacks.

Kongra-Gel (KGG)

Kongra-Gel, formerly the Kurdistan Worker's Party (PKK), is a Kurdish separatist group primarily active in part of northern Iraq and southern Turkey. Composed mostly of Turkish Kurds, the group in 1984 began a campaign of armed violence, including terrorism, which has since resulted in over 30,000 deaths. The KGG's stated goal is to create an independent Kurdish state. Historically, KGG has directed members to target mainly Turkish security forces, government offices, and villagers who opposed the group. However, KGG's imprisoned leader, Abdullah Ocalan, publicly called for a KGG "unilateral cease-fire" in October 2006, which in practice meant stopping terrorist attacks and limiting violence to "defensive" attacks against Turkish soldiers and security forces.

Despite the unilateral cease-fire, attacks continued in response to Turkish security operations against the group. In particular, the KGG-affiliated Kurdistan Freedom Hawks (TAK) began using terrorist tactics—including suicide bombings—to target Turkish tourist destinations in 2005 in order to damage the Turkish economy. The KGG in July 2008 kidnapped three German tourists on Mount Ararat, Turkey, in retaliation for German actions against the group, including banning KGG's primary media outlet, Roj-TV, from operating in Germany. In early 2008 Germany convicted two KGG members on terrorism charges. Using the KGG-affiliated Firat News Agency Web site, in February 2008 TAK announced a new wave of terrorist actions against Turkey; the announcement was similar to the group's March 2007 statement that it would continue targeting Turkish tourist sites, specifically citing the February 2007 arrests of KGG members in Europe and warning that "we [TAK] are going in particular to target European tourists."

In November 2009, the Turkish Government announced its plan to grant social and economic rights to Turkey's Kurdish population, largely to undercut support for the KGG. This initiative has faltered, however, due to public and political opposition, and Ocalan in June 2010 announced an end to the unilateral cease-fire. The KGG has since stepped up its violent campaign against the Turkish military, which has conducted air raids and small-scale ground operations against KGG strongholds in northern Iraq.

Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC)

Established in 1964 as the military wing of the Colombian Communist Party, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (Fuerzas Armadas Revolucionarias de Colombia) is Latin America's oldest, largest, most capable, and best-equipped insurgency of Marxist origin—although it only nominally fights in support of Marxist goals today. The FARC primarily operates in Colombia, with some activities—extortion, kidnapping, weapons acquisition, and logistics—in neighboring countries.

FARC tactics include bombing, murder, mortar attack, kidnapping, extortion, and hijacking, as well as guerrilla and conventional military action against Colombian political, military, and economic targets. The FARC has well-documented ties to a range of drug trafficking activities including taxation, cultivation, and distribution. The group considers US persons to be legitimate military targets because of US support for the Colombian Government.

The group had a number of setbacks in 2009 highlighted by the loss of several key mid-level commanders and the continuing decline of its fighting force, now down to 8,000 members. The FARC in October 2009 attempted to confront the Colombian Government with an offensive aimed at a wide range of military and civilian targets. Colombian security forces largely thwarted the attacks in another setback for the group. Bogota frustrated similar FARC attempts to disrupt the March 2010 congressional and May 2010 presidential elections. In September 2010, Colombian forces killed veteran FARC military commander Victor Julio Suarez Rojas, better known as Mono Jojoy.

Juan Manuel Santos, elected as president in May 2010, will likely continue Bogota's policy of aggressive military operations—known as Democratic Security—against the FARC. Santos, a former defense minister, has publicly vowed to strengthen Colombia's military and police forces in order to defeat the FARC and end the conflict, now nearly 50 years long.

Afghan Taliban

The Taliban is a Sunni Islamist nationalist and pro-Pashtun movement founded in the early 1990s that ruled most of Afghanistan from 1996 until October 2001. The movement's founding nucleus—the word “Taliban” is Pashto for “students”—was composed of peasant farmers and men studying Islam in Afghan and Pakistani madrasas, or religious schools. The Taliban found a foothold and consolidated their strength in southern Afghanistan.

By 1994, the Taliban had quickly captured province after province from various armed factions fighting a civil war that ensued after the Soviet-backed Afghan government fell in 1992. By September 1996, the Taliban had captured Kabul, killed the country's president, and established the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan. The Taliban's first move was to institute a strict interpretation of Qur'anic instruction and jurisprudence. In practice, this meant often merciless policies on the treatment of women, political opponents of any stripe, and religious minorities.

In the years leading up to the 11 September 2001 attack in the United States, the Taliban provided a safehaven for al-Qa'ida. This gave al-Qa'ida a base in which it could freely recruit, train, and deploy terrorists to other countries. The Taliban held sway in Afghanistan until October 2001, when they were routed from power by the US-led campaign against al-Qa'ida.

The Afghan Taliban's leader is Mullah Mohammad Omar, who was the president of Afghanistan during the Taliban's rule. The US Government is offering a $10 million reward for information leading to his capture.

Tehrik-e Taliban Pakistan (TTP)

Tehrik-e Taliban Pakistan (TTP) is an alliance of militant groups in Pakistan, formed in 2007 to prevent the military from dividing and conquering the Federally Administered Tribal Areas and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa. TTP leaders also hope to impose a strict interpretation of Qur'anic instruction throughout Pakistan and to expel Coalition troops from Afghanistan.

Islamabad has blamed TTP for most attacks within Pakistan, including the assassination of former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto in December 2007. In 2010, TTP likely was responsible for at least two mass-casualty operations: a suicide attack at a political rally that killed 45 and assaults against two religious centers that killed 95. TTP also targets US interests within Pakistan, claiming responsibility for arson attacks against NATO supply convoys in December 2008, a bomb blast in the northwest that killed US soldiers in February 2010, and an assault against the US Consulate in Peshawar in April 2010.

Baitullah Mahsud, the first TTP leader, was killed in an explosion on 5 August 2009 and was succeeded by Hakimullah Mahsud.

TTP leaders since January 2008 have repeatedly threatened to attack the US homeland. The alliance has maintained close ties to senior al-Qa'ida leaders, including al-Qa'ida's former head of operations in Pakistan. After Baitullah's death in August 2009, the new leader of the alliance vowed to deploy suicide operatives to the United States, and a TTP spokesman claimed responsibility for the failed vehicle bomb attack in Times Square in New York City on 1 May 2010.

Mullah Omar

Up to $10 Million Reward

WANTED

Mullah Omar's Taliban regime in Afghanistan sheltered Usama Bin Ladin and his al-Qa'ida network in the years before the 11 September attacks. Although Operation Enduring Freedom removed the Taliban regime from power, Mullah Omar remains at large and represents a continuing threat to the United States and its allies.

Height: Tall

Hair: Black

Nationality: Afghan

Scars/Distinguishing Characteristics: Mullah Omar has a shrapnel wound to his right eye and is bearded.

Hakimullah Mehsud

Up to $5 Million Reward

WANTED

The self-proclaimed emir of the Pakistani Taliban is wanted in connection with his involvement in the murder of seven American citizens on 30 December 30 2009 at Forward Operating Base Chapman in Khost, Afghanistan. He has been indicted on charges of conspiracy to murder US citizens abroad and conspiracy to use a weapon of mass destruction (explosives) against US citizens abroad.

Hakimullah Mehsud, a resident of the Federally Administered Tribal Area (FATA) in Pakistan, is the leader of the Tehrik-e Taliban Pakistan (TTP), or what is more commonly known as the Pakistani Taliban.

The TTP's primary purpose is to force withdrawal of Pakistani troops from the FATA of Pakistan, which is located along the Pakistan-Afghanistan border; to expel Western interests from Pakistan; and to establish Sharia—or Islamic law—in the tribal territories.

Aliases/Name Variants: Hakeemullah Mehsud, Hakimullah Mahsud

Date of Birth: Unknown

Place of Birth: Kotkai region, South Waziristan

Hair: Dark brown

Eyes: Dark brown

Citizenship: Pakistani

Status: Fugitive

Scars/Distinguishing Characteristics: Mehsud has a full beard and mustache.

The TTP has had alleged roles in, or claimed responsibility for, a number of acts of violence, including the September 2008 bombing of the Marriott Hotel in Islamabad, which resulted in the deaths of more than 50 people and another 300 wounded, including several Americans. These attacks are often coordinated with other insurgents or terrorist groups, including the Taliban and al-Qa'ida.

Hakimullah Mehsud remains the commander of TTP, which continues to plan and carry out attacks against the interests of the United States from the FATA. Most recently, the TTP has claimed responsibility for the failed bombing of Times Square in New York City on 1 May 2010.

Radicalization

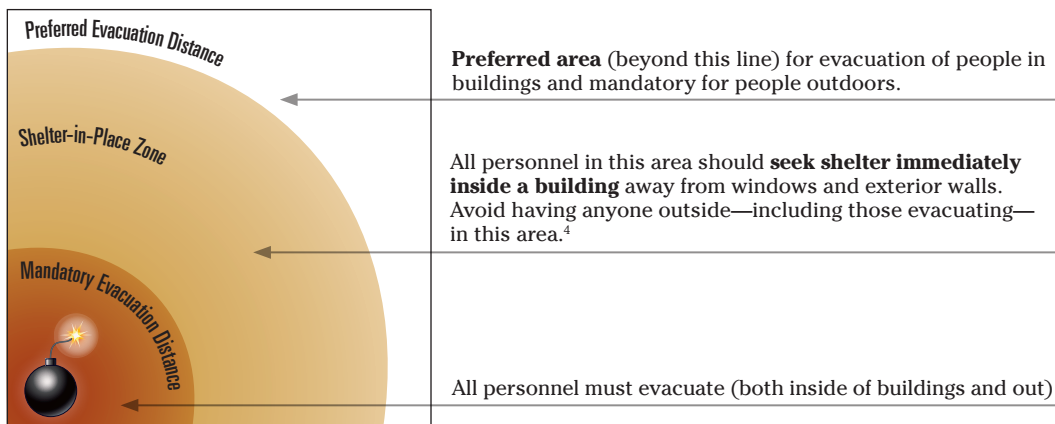

This framework represents how individuals radicalize, mobilize and, in some cases, commit violence. Radicalization is a dynamic and multi-layered process involving several factors that interact with one another to influence an individual. There is no single factor that explains radicalization and mobilization.

Bomb Threat Stand-Off Distances

Threat Description		Explosives Capacity ¹ (TNT Equivalent)	Mandatory Evacuation Distance ²	Preferred Evacuation Distance ³
	Pipe Bomb	5 lbs/2.3 kg	70 ft/21 m	1200 ft/366 m
	Suicide Vest	20 lbs/9.2 kg	110 ft/34 m	1,700 ft/518 m
	Briefcase/Suitcase Bomb	50 lbs/23 kg	150 ft/46 m	1,850 ft/564 m
	Sedan	500 lbs/227 kg	320 ft/98 m	1,900 ft/580 m
	SUV/Van	1,000 lbs/454 kg	400 ft/122 m	2,400 ft/732 m
	Small Delivery Truck	4,000 lbs/1,814 kg	640 ft/195 m	3,800 ft/1159 m
	Container/Water Truck	10,000 lbs/4,536 kg	860 ft/263 m	5,100 ft/1555 m
	Semi-Trailer	60,000 lbs/27,216 kg	1,570 ft/479 m	9,300 ft/2835 m

This table is for general emergency planning only. A given building's vulnerability to explosions depends on its construction and composition. The data in these tables may not accurately reflect these variables. Some risk will remain for any persons closer than the Outdoor Evacuation Distance.

¹ Based on maximum volume or weight of explosive (TNT equivalent) that could reasonably fit in a suitcase or vehicle.

² Governed by the ability of typical US commercial construction to resist severe damage or collapse following a blast. Performances can vary significantly, however, and buildings should be analyzed by qualified parties when possible.

³ Governed by the greater of fragment throw distance or glass breakage/falling glass hazard distance. Note that pipe and briefcase bombs assume cased charges that throw fragments farther than vehicle bombs.

⁴ A known terrorist tactic is to attract bystanders to windows, doorways, and the outside with gunfire, small bombs, or other methods and then detonate a larger, more destructive device, significantly increasing human casualties.

Common Explosives

Images are not shown to scale.

▲ Dynamite combines the explosive power of nitroglycerin with the stability of an inert substance (such as diatomaceous earth or sawdust). Manufacture and use of dynamite has declined with the more widespread use of water gel explosives.

▲ Water gel explosives (or slurries) consist of oxidizers and fuels concentrated in a saturated aqueous solution. They are less expensive to manufacture than dynamite, and safer to store or handle. The water in these explosives becomes a reactant when large amounts of aluminum are added.

◀ Similar to gels or slurries, explosive emulsions involve a mixture, but the compounds mixed are technically immiscible (will not blend homogeneously with each other).

▲ C-4 is a combination of cyclonite or cyclotrimethylene trinitramine as the explosive agent—usually about 91% of the C-4 content—along with plastic binder, plasticizer, and possibly marker chemicals which can help identify the manufacturing source. C-4 is 1.34 times as powerful as an equal amount of TNT, and appears as an off-white solid with a consistency similar to modeling clay.

▲ High explosives undergo detonation (supersonic blast) rather than deflagration (burning), usually with a shock wave that moves at a rate of 3000 to 9000 meters per second. These explosives can be either a chemically pure compound, or a mixture of oxidizer and fuel.

▲ Binary explosives involve two compounds that are not explosive until mixed with each other.

▲ Trinitrotoluene (TNT) is one of the most commonly used explosives for military and industrial purposes. Its insensitivity to shock and friction reduces the risk of accidental detonation. It appears as a yellow solid.

▲ Secondary explosives are commonly used to create most of the explosive force in a detonated explosion. Normally a more volatile primary explosive is responsible for detonation, activating the secondary explosive.

TNT Equivalents

A terrorist cell's skill in constructing Improvised Explosive Devices or Vehicle-Borne Improvised Explosive Devices (IED, VBIED) is likely to influence the type of attack. Bombmakers with only rudimentary skills may be restricted to assembling basic devices. A skilled journeyman bombmaker may have the competence needed to build a range of IEDs from small to large that are highly concealable or have advanced capabilities such as multiple triggering methods, directional blasts, or increased blast effect. Two hundred kilograms of explosives can make:

▲ 200 Pipe Bombs
@ 1 kg each

▲ 20 Suicide Vests
@ 10 kg each

▲ 2 small VBIEDs
@ 100 kg each

▲ Sufficient booster charge for 4,000 kg of homemade explosives in a VBIED.

Indicators of a Possible Radiological Incident

Indicators

Unusual Numbers of Sick or Dying People or Animals	As a first responder, strong consideration should be given to calling local hospitals to see if additional casualties with similar symptoms have been observed. Casualties may occur hours to days or weeks after an incident has occurred. The time required before symptoms are observed is dependent on the radioactive material used and the dose received. Additional symptoms include skin reddening and, in severe cases, vomiting.
Unusual Metal Debris	Unexplained bomb/munitions-like material.
Radiation Symbols	Containers may display a radiation symbol.
Heat Emitting Material	Material that seems to emit heat without any sign of external heating source.
Glowing Material/ Particles	If the material is strongly radioactive, it may appear to glow.

▲ If oxygen and humidity levels are adequate, a sufficient mass of certain plutonium isotopes may become pyrophoric (able to glow from its own heat).

Suspicious Substance?

▲ Anthrax investigators in 2001

▲ Anthrax-contaminated letter sent to Senator Patrick Leahy

If You Become Aware of an Unusual or Suspicious Substance Nearby:

- 1 Quickly get away.
- 2 Protect yourself. Cover your mouth and nose with layers of fabric that can filter the air but still allow breathing. Examples include two to three layers of cotton such as a T-shirt, handkerchief or towel. Otherwise, several layers of tissue or paper towels may help.
- 3 Wash with soap and water.
- 4 Contact authorities.
- 5 Watch TV, listen to the radio, or check the Internet for official news and information including what the signs and symptoms of the disease are, if medications or vaccinations are being distributed, and where you should seek medical attention if you become sick.
- 6 If you become sick seek emergency medical attention.

Biological Threats

Clinical Features	Diagnosis	Medical Management
Botulinum Toxins
Symptoms appear several hours to one to two days after exposure. Initial Blurred vision, drooping eyelids, difficulty understanding language, difficulty in speaking, muscle weakness. Progression—Day 3 Mucous in throat, neuromuscular symptoms, respiratory distress, difficulty in swallowing, feels like a cold without fever. Progression—Day 4 Indistinct speech, pupils moderately dilated, retarded eye motions, “mental numbness.”	An epidemic of cases of bulbar and neuromuscular disease. Other causes could be considered; however, the extent and epidemiology of the outbreak will help diagnose and define whether or not there was an attack.	Respiratory failure is the principal cause of death. Tracheostomy, endotracheal intubation, and ventilatory assistance may be required. Antitoxins are available, but they are horse serums and may produce reactions in those allergic to horse serum.
Smallpox
Incubation average 12 days. Symptoms begin acutely. Phase I Symptoms Malaise, fever, chills, vomiting, headache, backache. Light-skinned patients may exhibit rash during this phase. Phase II Symptoms Facial rash and eruptions on mucous membrane leading to infectious secretions. Eruptions on lower extremities spreading to the trunk over the following eight to 14 days (these pustules later form scabs).	It is necessary to distinguish smallpox from chicken pox. Examination of vesicular scrapings under a microscope is the usual method for diagnosis.	Strict quarantine for 17 days of all persons in contact with index cases. No specific therapy. Supportive care to prevent secondary infections.

Indicators of a Possible Chemical Incident

▲ A low-hanging cloud might be a sign of a chemical attack.

Indicators
Dead animals/birds/fish	Not just an occasional incident, but numerous animals (wild and domestic, small and large), birds, and fish in the same area
Lack of insect life	Normal insect activity (ground, air, and/or water) missing, dead insects evident in the ground/water surface/shoreline
Physical symptoms	Numerous individuals experiencing unexplained water-like blisters, wheals (similar to bee stings), pinpointed pupils, choking, respiratory ailments and/or rashes
Mass casualties	Numerous individuals exhibiting unexplained serious health problems ranging from nausea to disorientation to difficulty in breathing to convulsions and death
Definite pattern of casualties	Casualties distributed in a pattern that may be associated with possible agent dissemination methods
Illness associated with confined geographic area	Lower incidence of symptoms for people working indoors than outdoors, or the reverse
Unusual liquid droplets	Numerous surfaces exhibiting oily droplets/film; numerous water surfaces displaying an oily film (no recent rain)
Areas that look different in appearance	Not just a patch of dead weeds, but trees, shrubs, bushes, food crops, and/or lawns that are dead, discolored, or withered (no current drought)
Unexplained odors	Smells ranging from fruity to flowery to sharp/pungent to garlic/horseradish-like to bitter almonds/peach kernels to newly mown hay; the particular odor is completely out of character with its surroundings
Low-lying clouds	Low-lying cloud/fog-like condition that is not explained by its surroundings
Unusual metal debris	Unexplained bomb/munitions-like material, especially if it contains a liquid (no recent rain)

Chemical Agents

Name	Color	Smell

Vesicants
Impure sulfur mustard (H)	Pale yellow to dark brown	Garlic or mustard
Distilled sulfur mustard (HD)	Pale yellow to dark brown	Garlic or mustard
Lewisite (L)	Pure: colorless Agent: amber to dark brown	Geranium
Riot Control Agents
Chlorobenzylidene Malononitrile (CS)	White crystalline powder	Pepper
Chloroacetophenone (CN)	Liquid or solid	Apple blossom
Diphenylaminoarsine (DM)	Yellow-green crystalline solid	No odor
Pulmonary Agents
Chlorine (CL ²)	Clear to yellow gas	Bleach
Phosgene (CG)	Colorless gas	Freshly-mown hay
Cyanides (Blood Agents)
Hydrogen Cyanide (AC)	Gas	Bitter almonds or peach kernels
Cyanogen Chloride	Gas or liquid—colorless	Pungent, biting odor
Incapacitating Agents
BZ	White crystalline powder	No odor

Sarin

Sarin is an extremely toxic substance whose sole application is as a nerve agent. As a chemical weapon, it is classified as a weapon of mass destruction by the United Nations according to UN Resolution 687, and its production and stockpiling was outlawed by the Chemical Weapons Convention of 1993. Sarin can be used as a binary chemical weapon, meaning two different substances which are easier and/or safer to store independently can be mixed immediately prior to use to create the desired chemical.

Sarin is similar in structure and biological activity to some commonly used insecticides. At room temperature, sarin is a colorless, odorless liquid. Its vapor is also colorless and odorless. It has a relatively short shelf life, and will degrade after a period of several weeks to several months.

Timely decontamination is imperative. Contaminated equipment should be cleaned using household bleach, caustic soda, dilute alkali solutions, or hot, soapy water. When equipment is located in a confined area, steam and ammonia or hot, soapy water may be used. Sodium hydroxide, an all-purpose decontaminant, also works well on sarin.

▲ Model of a Sarin molecule

Method	Onset	Symptoms
Dermal exposure to liquid	Minutes to hours	Mild Exposure: Increased sweating at the site of exposure; muscular twitching at site
		Moderate Exposure: Same as above plus nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, generalized weakness
		Severe Exposure: Same as above plus loss of consciousness, convulsions, generalized twitching, flaccid paralysis, lapses in breathing, generalized secretions, involuntary defecation

VX

VX ($C_{11}H_{26}NO_2PS$), a chemical nerve agent, paralyzes the nervous system. It is more toxic and longer-lived than related nerve agents Tabun and Sarin, which dissipate quickly and have only short-term effects.

Symptoms

VX binds to an enzyme that transmits signals to the nerves and inhibits them. As a result, the nerves become isolated and uncontrollable.

Treatment

The antidote, atropine, is a toxin itself but counteracts VX by removing it from the enzyme. Atropine is normally injected into the arm or thigh; in the case of gas attacks, however, atropine must be injected directly into the heart. Full body protection and gas masks are essential to avoid exposure in a VX attack.

Toxic Industrial Chemicals— Mitigation Measures

The term “toxic industrial chemicals” refers to a variety of chemicals used or created by industry that can have a significant impact on human health if released into the air or water. A potential threat exists for individuals located downwind or downstream from an accidental or intentional release of chemicals or for people situated near toxic industrial processes.

Toxic industrial chemicals may pose a risk when they are stored in large quantities in one location. An act of sabotage or an accident can result in a large release of toxic material into the air or water. Some material retains its lethality even after traveling a considerable distance. A release of chlorine gas into the surrounding air is but one example of the toxic industrial chemical threat.

In the event of exposure to a toxic chemical—and after the immediate danger and contamination have been dealt with—take the following steps:

- 1 Notify safety personnel.
- 2 Remove all sources of heat and ignition.
- 3 Keep all combustibles (wood, paper, oil, etc.) away from the leak.
- 4 Ventilate potentially explosive atmospheres.
- 5 Evacuate the spill area for at least 50 feet (15 m) in all directions.
- 6 Find and stop the leak if this can be done without risk.
- 7 Use water spray to reduce vapors; do not put water directly on the leak or spill area.

▲ Tanks like these can contain as much as 9,000 gallons of toxic material.

CHLORINE

Chlorine gas is irritating and corrosive to the airways, eyes, and skin.

Symptoms

Relatively low levels of chlorine gas exposure can cause sore throat, coughing, and eye and skin irritation, while higher levels can cause burning of the eyes and skin, nausea, temporary blindness, difficulty breathing, and chest pain. At high enough concentration, chlorine gas can cause immediate collapse and death.

Treatment

Chlorine cannot be exhaled. If chlorine contacts the skin, individuals should flush the affected areas immediately with plenty of water, then wash with soap and water. Clothing contaminated with chlorine should be removed immediately.

Ricin

Ricin, the toxin found in castor beans, is poisonous if inhaled, injected, or ingested. It kills cells by inhibiting protein synthesis. Treatment is available, but long-term organ damage in survivors is likely.

SYMPTOMS

Inhalation

Within a few hours of inhaling significant amounts of ricin, the likely symptoms include respiratory distress, fever, cough, nausea, and tightness in the chest. Heavy sweating and fluid building up in the lungs may follow.

Ingestion

A person who ingests a significant amount of ricin will experience vomiting and diarrhea that may become bloody. Severe dehydration may result, followed by low blood pressure. Other symptoms may include hallucinations, seizures, and blood in the urine. Within several days, the person's liver, spleen, and kidneys might stop working, resulting in death.

TREATMENT

A solution of saline and glucose is used to treat ricin poisoning.

▲ Castor beans (shown on top) are used to produce Ricin, a deadly poison. They are similar in color and size to pinto beans (shown on bottom), but notice the small pointed protrusion on the end of each castor bean.

Anthrax

Anthrax is a serious illness caused by the bacterium B. anthracis. It is primarily a disease of plant-eating animals; cattle and sheep are common hosts. The spores are extremely resistant to environmental factors.

CUTANEOUS

Symptoms

Skin infection begins as a raised itchy bump that resembles an insect bite, but soon turns into an ulcer, usually one to three centimeters in diameter with a black center. Lymph glands in the adjacent area may also swell.

Treatment

Antibiotics are extremely effective against naturally occurring strains. Approximately 20 percent of untreated cases result in death.

INHALATION

Symptoms

Initial symptoms may resemble a common cold, but lead to severe breathing problems and shock after several days.

Treatment

Antibiotics are effective in the first days after infections. About 90 percent of untreated cases result in death.

INTESTINAL

Symptoms

This form of anthrax may follow the consumption of contaminated meat and is characterized by an acute inflammation of the intestinal tract. Initial signs include nausea, loss of appetite, vomiting and fever, followed by abdominal pain, vomiting, blood and severe diarrhea.

Treatment

Antibiotics are effective. About 25 to 60 percent of untreated cases result in death.

Suspicious Financial Activity Indicators

- 1 Account transactions that are inconsistent with past deposits or withdrawals
- 2 Transactions involving a high volume of incoming or outgoing wire transfers with no logical or apparent purpose that come from, go to, or transit locations of concern (for example, sanctioned countries, noncooperative nations, and sympathizer nations)
- 3 Unexplainable clearing or negotiation of third-party checks and their deposits in foreign bank accounts
- 4 Breaking transactions larger than $10,000 into smaller amounts by making multiple deposits or withdrawals or by buying cashier's checks, money orders, or other monetary instruments to evade reporting requirements
- 5 Corporate layering (that is, transfers between bank accounts of related entities or charities for no apparent reason)
- 6 Wire transfers by charitable organizations to companies located in countries known to be bank or tax havens
- 7 Charitable bank deposits that lack signs of fund-raising activity (for example, lack of small checks or typical donations)
- 8 Use of multiple accounts to collect funds that are transferred to the same foreign beneficiaries
- 9 Transactions without logical economic purpose (that is, no link between the activity of the organization and other parties involved in the transaction)
- 10 Overlapping corporate officers, bank signatories, or other identifiable similarities associated with the same addresses, references, and financial activities
- 11 Cash-debiting schemes in which deposits in the United States correlate directly with ATM cash withdrawals in countries of concern; reverse transactions of this nature are also suspicious
- 12 Issuance of checks, money orders, or other financial instruments, often numbered sequentially, to the same or similarly named person or business

Worldwide Incidents Tracking System (WITS)

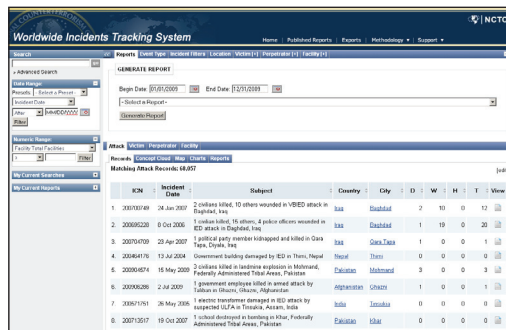

NCTC maintains the US Government's authoritative database on terrorist attacks compiled exclusively from open source data.* The Worldwide Incidents Tracking System (WITS), which is publicly available at www.nctc.gov, provides a variety of consumers—to include users within the government, police departments, first responders, military, academia, the press, and the public—with an easily accessible, Internet-based database. Users can filter and sort attack data by a broad range of characteristics, browse attack records, and derive statistics on terrorism around the world. Using two types of searches (simple and advanced), the public can query the database to find out, for example, how many people were kidnapped in the Gaza Strip in 2009 (866 in 40 incidents), how many improvised explosive devices were detonated or placed in Iraq in 2007 (2,363), or even use the WITS data to provide annual trends of suicide attacks in Iraq.

Terrorists must have initiated and executed the attack on noncombatants for it to be included in the database; failed or foiled attacks, as well as hoaxes, are not included in WITS. Spontaneous hate crimes without intent to cause mass casualties are excluded to the greatest practical extent. A complete explanation of the WITS methodology is available on the Web site.

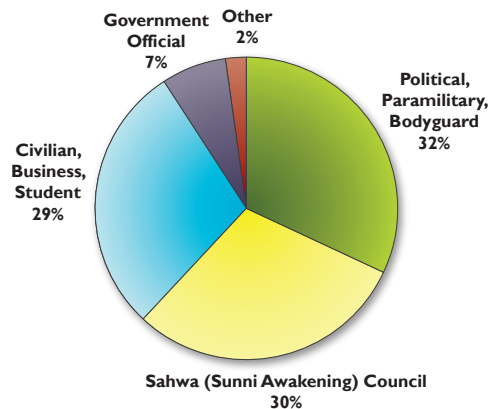

NCTC also provides the US State Department with statistical data on the number of individuals killed, injured, or kidnapped by terrorist groups, all taken from the WITS database. This information is used to help complete the Congressionally mandated Country Reports on Terrorism, the US Government's authoritative report on terrorism incidents that occurred in the previous calendar year.

The WITS database lists 68,057 incidents from its creation on 1 January 2004 through 30 April 2010.

▲ The WITS Web site is available at www.nctc.gov

▲ 2008: Targets of Suicide Attacks in Iraq

*Terrorism is defined in statute [22 USC § 2656f(d)(2)] as: premeditated, politically motivated violence perpetrated against noncombatant targets by sub-national groups or clandestine agents. ("Noncombatant" includes civilians and military personnel who at the time of the incident are unarmed or not on duty.)

Rewards for Justice

The Rewards for Justice program is a highly valuable US Government asset in the fight against international terrorism. Established by the 1984 Act to Combat International Terrorism, Public Law 98-533, Rewards for Justice has developed into a global, interagency effort led by the Department of State's Bureau of Diplomatic Security.

Under this program, the Secretary of State may offer rewards for information that prevents or favorably resolves acts of international terrorism against US persons or property worldwide. The Secretary may also offer rewards for information leading to the disruption of financial mechanisms of a foreign terrorist organization. Rewards of up to $25 million have been authorized for information leading to the capture of Usama Bin Ladin and other key al-Qa'ida leaders.

The Rewards for Justice program is very effective. Since the program's inception, the United States has paid over $100 million to more than 60 people who provided information that prevented and/or led to the favorable resolution of acts of international terrorism.

Although RFJ provides strict confidentiality to all its sources, in certain instances RFJ has been able to publicize some of its success stories. For example, RFJ paid a $2 million reward for information that led US and Pakistani authorities to the location of Ramzi Yousef, an international terrorist who was convicted in the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center.

Ten years later, on 3 July 2003, RFJ initiated an advertising campaign that was responsible for information that led US armed forces to Uday and Qusay Husayn, the sons of former Iraqi dictator Saddam Husayn. This campaign produced the fastest result in RFJ history—a turnaround of just 18 days. In that case, RFJ paid a reward of $30 million for information leading to the Husayn brothers' location.

In June 2007, RFJ paid $10 million to Filipino citizens who provided information on the locations of Khadafi Janjalani and Abu Solaiman, Abu Sayyaf Group leaders. These men were involved in the kidnappings of Martin and Gracia Burnham, the murder of Guillermo Sobero, and attacks against the US Embassy in Manila.

RFJ is always interested in receiving proposals to add key terrorist leaders to its Most Wanted List and Web site—www.rewardsforjustice.net. Additionally, RFJ welcomes reward payment nominations from any federal, state, or local US Government agency on behalf of persons who have already provided information that has prevented or favorably resolved an act of international terrorism against US persons or property.

If you want to propose adding a key terrorist leader to the RFJ Most Wanted List and Web site or to nominate a source for a reward, please contact the RFJ program:

Abu Zubaydah

Senior al-Qa'ida planner, was arrested in Pakistan in March 2002.

Muhammad Atef

Al-Qa'ida No. 3, also known as Abu Hafsa al-Masri, charged with directly planning the attacks on US embassies in Africa in 1998, was killed in Afghanistan in November 2001.

Ramzi Yousef

A relative of Khalid Shaykh Muhammad and one of the planners of the 1993 World Trade Center attack, was sentenced in the United States to life in prison in 1997.

'Umar 'Abd al-Rahman

Also known as the Blind Shaykh, was arrested in 1993 for plotting attacks against New York City landmarks; he was convicted in 1995 and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1996.

State Sponsors of Terrorism

State sponsors of terrorism provide critical support to many non-state terrorist groups. Without state sponsors, these groups would have greater difficulty obtaining the funds, weapons, materials, and secure areas they require to plan and conduct operations. The United States will continue to insist that these countries end the support they give to terrorist groups.

Country	Date of Designation
Cuba	1 March 1982
Iran	19 January 1984
Sudan	12 August 1993
Syria	29 December 1979

The designation of countries that repeatedly provide support for acts of international terrorism as state sponsors of terrorism carries with it four main sets of US Government sanctions:

- 1 A ban on arms-related exports and sales.
- 2 Controls over exports of dual-use items, requiring 30-day Congressional notification for goods or services that could significantly enhance the terrorist-list country's military capability or ability to support terrorism.
- 3 Prohibitions on economic assistance.
- 4 Imposition of miscellaneous financial and other restrictions, including:
 - Requiring the United States to oppose loans by the World Bank and other international financial institutions;
 - Exception from the jurisdictional immunity in US courts of state sponsor countries, and all former state sponsor countries (with the exception of Iraq), with respect to claims for money damages for personal injury or death caused by certain acts of terrorism, torture, or extrajudicial killing, or the provision of material support or resources for such acts;

- Denial to companies and individuals tax credits for income earned in terrorist-list countries;
- Denial of duty-free treatment of goods exported to the United States;
- Authority to prohibit any US citizen from engaging in a financial transaction with a terrorist-list government without a Treasury Department license; and
- Prohibition of Defense Department contracts above US $100,000 with companies in which a state sponsor government owns or controls a significant interest.

Foreign Terrorist Organizations

Foreign Terrorist Organizations (FTOs) are foreign organizations that are designated by the Secretary of State in accordance with section 219 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), as amended. FTO designations play a critical role in our fight against terrorism and are an effective means of curtailing support for terrorist activities and pressuring groups to get out of the terrorism business.

Bomb Threat Call Procedures

1. Keep caller on the line—the longer he/she talks, the more we can learn.
2. Record as much of the message as possible on the form below—try to get exact words.
3. Tell the caller (if applicable) that the building is occupied and that the threatened action could result in the death or serious injury to many innocent persons.
4. Immediately upon termination of the call report information to Security.
