INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

Thank you for your interest in the United States Department of Justice (DOJ or Justice). This guide is designed to introduce you to the many challenging and rewarding opportunities available at Justice for law students and attorneys. Justice is proud of its talented and dynamic workforce, and recognizes that its employees are its most important asset. Justice employees are the vital link that ensures the fair administration of justice for all Americans. The Department of Justice is stronger, more credible, and more effective when its workforce includes highly-qualified individuals whose backgrounds reflect our nation's rich diversity. To this end, Justice strives to recruit and retain a workforce drawn from the broadest segments of society so that it is poised to meet the present and future needs of our nation. We invite you to explore the work of the DOJ organizations that employ law students and attorneys to find those that best match your interests and experience.

Overview of Justice

- Justice serves to enforce the law and defend the interests of the United States according to the law; to ensure public safety against threats foreign and domestic; to provide federal leadership in preventing and controlling crime; to seek just punishment for those guilty of unlawful behavior; and to ensure fair and impartial administration of justice for all Americans.
- Justice is headquartered in Washington, DC, and also has field offices in all states and territories and maintains offices in over 100 countries worldwide.
- Justice is the world's largest legal employer with more than 10,000 attorneys nationwide.
- 88% of Justice attorneys work in either 1 of 8 litigation divisions (Antitrust, Civil, Civil Rights, Criminal, Environment and Natural Resources, National Security, Tax, and U.S. Trustee Program) or with one of the 94 U.S. Attorneys' Offices.
- The remaining 12% of Justice attorneys focus on legal and policy issues (7%) or law enforcement issues (5%). The largest policy office is the Executive Office for Immigration Review. The two largest law enforcement components are the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The FBI conducts its own recruitment.
- Justice attorneys work in virtually every legal practice area.
- Approximately 40 DOJ organizations that hire law students and attorneys are based primarily in Washington, DC, including the litigation divisions and the majority of policy offices.
- Justice has four attorney recruitment and hiring programs: Volunteer Legal Internships (see pages 1-2); the Summer Law Intern Program (see pages 2-3); the Attorney General's Honors Program (see pages 3-4); and Experienced (Lateral) Attorney Hiring (see page 5).
- The Department's legal careers website provides a comprehensive introduction to Justice's law student and attorney hiring programs. See www.justice.gov/legalcareers.

USER'S GUIDE

USER'S GUIDE

This guide highlights Justice's four law student and attorney recruitment and hiring programs, and is divided into three major sections:

- Part One (pages 1-8) gives an overview of Justice's four hiring programs, and provides information about eligibility, application processes, and frequently asked questions.
- Part Two (pages 9-45) highlights the DOJ organizations that employ law students and attorneys. This section first describes the DOJ organizations that employ the largest number of attorneys (i.e., more than 100 attorneys) and, therefore, typically have the most hiring needs. Next are descriptions of the smaller DOJ organizations that hire attorneys.
- Part Three (pages 46-51) is composed of two directories. The first is a directory of field office locations employing law students and attorneys, which is included to help individuals interested in employment with Justice outside of the Washington, DC metropolitan area. The second is a chart of DOJ organizational practice areas, which is included to help you explore the work of the various DOJ organizations and find those that best match your interests and expertise.

There are over 130 separate organizations (including the 94 U.S. Attorneys' Offices) at Justice that hire law students and attorneys. Within each of those organizations there are multiple sections, each with its own distinct focus. This guide is one tool to help you find your career match.

Another useful tool is our legal careers website: www.justice.gov/legalcareers, which highlights all four hiring programs, discusses Justice's commitment to its workforce and diversity, and includes such features as a calendar of upcoming recruitment events.

To get the most out of this guide, you may find it helpful to first ask yourself some questions:

- Do you want to be a litigator or do you want a policy or counselor position?
- Do you want to be a trial attorney or do you want more of a motion or appellate practice?
- Do you want to work as part of a litigation team or do you want to work more independently?
- Do you want to travel? If so, how frequently?

USER'S GUIDE

Once you have a picture of your ideal job profile, you can research the DOJ organizations that match that profile:

- If you want information about eligibility, citizenship requirements, background investigations, and other employment-related issues ...
Go to the Eligibility / Application Procedures on pages 1-5, and to the Frequently Asked Questions on pages 6-8.
- If you are interested in applying to one or more of the 94 U.S. Attorneys' Offices ...
Go to pages 35-36 for a general description of the work of those offices.
- If you are interested in working in a particular geographic area (outside of the Washington, DC area) ...
Go to the directory of DOJ field offices on pages 46-47.
- If you have an interest in a specific practice area, e.g., environment, national security, white collar crime, and want to find out which DOJ organizations do work in that area ...
Go to the DOJ Organizational Practice Area Chart on pages 48-51.

OVERVIEW

VOLUNTEER LEGAL INTERNSHIPS

Every year more than 1,800 volunteer legal interns serve in DOJ organizations, including U.S. Attorneys' Offices (USAOs), throughout the country. Approximately 800 legal interns volunteer during the academic year, and roughly 1,000 volunteer during the summer. These internships are highly sought after because they introduce students to public service, offer the opportunity to develop legal skills, and provide the chance to work on important and challenging assignments.

Most of the DOJ organizations highlighted in this guide typically recruit legal interns. Various DOJ organizations, including many of the 94 USAOs in particular, recruit significant numbers of volunteer interns. The specific number of volunteer internships available in each DOJ organization varies from year to year, and each organization has its own application requirements and deadlines. Legal internship opportunities are available nationwide.

Eligibility

First-year (second semester), second-year, and third-year law students are eligible to apply. First-year, first-semester law students may apply for a legal intern position after December 1 (Justice follows the NALP Association for Legal Career Professionals guidelines, which prohibit consideration of employment of such students prior to that date). Law students may work in volunteer positions with Justice only while they are enrolled in law school. Part-time law students and joint-degree candidates may also apply for volunteer internship positions. In general, law school graduation terminates eligibility for volunteer positions. Graduate law students (e.g., LL.M. students) who are enrolled at least half time and not practicing law are eligible for volunteer positions.

U.S. citizenship is required by most DOJ organizations. Dual citizens of the United States and another country are considered on a case-by-case basis. See page 6 for more information.

Many DOJ organizations accommodate students who wish to split the summer, but these requests are handled on a case-by-case basis. Please keep in mind that some DOJ organizations require a minimum of 10-12 weeks during the summer. In addition, it may be possible for interns to receive work/study or academic credit depending on the relevant requirements of their respective law school.

Application Process

Each DOJ organization conducts its own recruitment for volunteer legal interns independently, and has its own internal application requirements. Students must apply separately and directly to each organization in which they have an interest. Application requirements vary, but typically include a resume, cover letter, and law school transcript. A listing of available internships for the fall, spring, and summer, including application procedures and contacts, is available on the DOJ legal careers website at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/volunteer-intern.html. Additional opportunities may be available with other DOJ organizations. Many volunteer legal intern positions have early application deadlines, so interested law students should plan to apply at least four to five months in advance.

Security and Suitability (Background Investigation)

Prior to entry on duty, all interns undergo a suitability determination based on information provided in their security forms, a credit report, and fingerprint check. This process can take two to three months to complete. The most common suitability issues that arise during the suitability review process are: past unlawful use of drugs, failure to comply with financial obligations, failure to register for the Selective Service, and misrepresentations or omissions on the security form.

More information about Volunteer Legal Internships is available at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/volunteer-intern.html.

SUMMER LAW INTERN PROGRAM

The Summer Law Intern Program (SLIP) is Justice's highly-competitive, centralized recruitment program for compensated summer internships. Typically, Justice annually hires anywhere from 60 to 120 SLIP interns. The majority of SLIP hires are second-year law students who work at Justice the summer between their second and third years of law school. But the SLIP is also open to recent law school graduates between graduation and the start of a judicial clerkship, a full-time graduate law program (e.g., LL.M.), or a full-time qualifying legal fellowship. Every year, various DOJ organizations, including some U.S. Attorneys' Offices, hire students through the SLIP. The specific number of SLIP internships available in each participating DOJ organization varies from year to year.

Justice takes pride in the fact that it considers the "whole candidate" when making selections for the SLIP. Selections are made based on many elements of a candidate's background including a demonstrated commitment to government service, academic achievement, leadership, law review, moot court or mock trial experience, legal aid and clinical experience, past employment, and relevant extracurricular activities.

Eligibility

Law students who have completed at least one full semester of law school by the application deadline are eligible to apply. Most successful applicants intern the summer between their second and third years of law school. Part-time law students are also eligible to apply. Graduating law students who will enter a judicial clerkship or a full-time graduate law program (e.g., LL.M.) may intern following graduation subject to eligibility rules. These rules are set forth at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/summer-intern-eligibility.html.

U.S. citizenship is required by most DOJ organizations. Dual citizens of the United States and another country are considered on a case-by-case basis. See page 6 for more information.

Many DOJ organizations accommodate students who wish to split the summer, but these requests are handled on a case-by-case basis. Some DOJ organizations require a minimum of 10-12 weeks during the summer.

Application Process

The SLIP requires that candidates submit an electronic, online application. SLIP candidates apply in the fall for internships for the following summer.

Frances Chang,
Trial Attorney,
Criminal Division,
Office of International Affairs

"From my first day in the office, I was given my own cases to handle, and expected to carry my own weight, though with plenty of offers of help from colleagues whose doors were—and still are—always open. No day in the office is routine or predictable, but every day is rewarding."

OVERVIEW

The SLIP is centrally managed by the DOJ Office of Attorney Recruitment and Management (OARM), but each participating DOJ organization reviews the applications submitted and makes independent hiring decisions.

More information about the SLIP, including a listing of participating DOJ organizations and the SLIP application checklist, is available at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/summer-intern.html.

The SLIP operates within a finite time frame of deadlines and key dates:

- Late July – application opens
- Early/Mid-September – application closes
- Late September/Early October – candidates selected for interviews
- Mid-October/Early November – interviews conducted
- Late November-January – offers extended

Security and Suitability (Background Investigation)

SLIP candidates are subject to suitability review and adjudication that includes a fingerprint check, credit check, drug test, and a thorough review of the summer candidate's pre-employment forms (which cover a period of seven to ten years). Some DOJ organizations require a National Agency Check with Inquiries through the Office of Personnel Management. The process normally takes at least two to three months. The most common suitability issues that arise during the suitability review process are: past unlawful use of drugs, failure to comply with financial obligations, failure to register for the Selective Service, and misrepresentations or omissions on the security form.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S HONORS PROGRAM

The Attorney General's Honors Program (Honors Program) is the largest and most prestigious federal entry-level attorney hiring program of its kind. Specifically, the Honors Program is Justice's highly-competitive, entry-level recruitment program, and is the only way the Department hires graduating law students. Typically, Justice annually hires anywhere from 75 to 200 entry-level attorneys through the Honors Program. Most students apply their third year of law school for an entry-level position following graduation. The program is also open to recent law school graduates who enter judicial clerkships, graduate law programs, or qualifying legal fellowships within nine months of law school graduation. Every year, various DOJ organizations, including a few U.S. Attorneys' Offices, hire entry-level attorneys through the Honors Program. The number of entry-level attorney positions varies from year to year.

Justice takes pride in the fact that it considers the "whole candidate" when making selections for employment through the Honors Program. Selections are made based on many elements of a candidate's background including a demonstrated commitment to government service, academic achievement, leadership, law review, moot court or mock trial experience, legal aid and clinical experience, past employment, and extracurricular activities that relate to the work of the Department of Justice.

OVERVIEW

Eligibility

Eligibility is generally limited to graduating law students and recent law school graduates who have entered or will enter a judicial clerkship, a graduate law program (e.g., LL.M.), or a qualifying legal fellowship within nine months of law school graduation, and who meet additional eligibility requirements that are set forth at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/entry-eligibility.html.

U.S. citizenship is required by most DOJ organizations. Dual citizens of the United States and another country are considered on a case-by-case basis. See page 6 for more information.

Application Process

The Honors Program requires that candidates submit an electronic, online application. Candidates apply for positions that begin approximately one year following the application deadline.

The Honors Program is centrally managed by OARM, but each participating DOJ organization reviews the applications submitted and makes independent hiring decisions.

More information about the Honors Program, including a listing of participating DOJ organizations and an application checklist, is available at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/entry.html.

The Honors Program operates within a finite time frame of deadlines and key dates:

- Late July – application opens
- Early/Mid-September – application closes
- Late September/Early October – candidates selected for interviews
- Mid-October/Early November – interviews conducted
- Late November-January – offers extended

Security and Suitability (Background Investigation)

Candidates who accept an offer of employment must undergo a “full field” background investigation conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The investigation may take seven months or more to complete and includes a name and fingerprint check; interviews with references, close personal associates, former spouse(s), former employers, co-workers, neighbors, landlords, and educational institutions; and a thorough check of credit, military, tax, and police records. Depending on the level of clearance required by the employing organization, the background investigation covers a period of seven to ten years of the candidate’s history. Most Honors Program attorneys start work on a temporary appointment. Conversion to a permanent position requires satisfactory performance and conduct, favorable adjudication of a background investigation and active bar membership within 14 months of entry on duty. The most common suitability issues that arise during the background investigation are: past unlawful use of drugs, failure to fulfill tax obligations (including filing all tax returns even if you expect to receive a refund), failure to comply with financial obligations, failure to register for the Selective Service, and misrepresentations or omissions on the security form.

EXPERIENCED (LATERAL) ATTORNEY HIRING

The Department offers a broad range of opportunities for experienced attorneys to work on many significant and complex issues that face our nation. Justice typically hires several hundred experienced attorneys each year. Opportunities are available nationwide, and our attorneys work in virtually every area of legal practice. Each DOJ organization (including each U.S. Attorney's Office) recruits experienced attorneys independently. The number and frequency of attorney vacancies vary by each DOJ organization from year to year.

Eligibility

Any attorney who is an active member of the bar (any U.S. jurisdiction) and has at least one year post-J.D. legal or other relevant experience is eligible to apply for an experienced attorney position. Some positions may, however, require additional legal experience. U.S. Attorneys' Offices may have state specific admission requirements.

U.S. citizenship is required by most DOJ organizations. Dual citizens of the United States and another country are considered on a case-by-case basis. See page 6 for more information.

Application Process

The Department of Justice stands at the forefront of America's commitment to justice for all its citizens, and each DOJ organization has its own unique mission in meeting that commitment. Because of the unique nature of each organization's work and differences in attorney position openings, Justice maintains a decentralized system of selecting experienced attorneys. This means that experienced attorney candidates must apply separately to each DOJ organization in which they have an interest.

All attorney vacancies within Justice are advertised on the DOJ legal careers website at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/attvacancies.html. The website includes a search function that allows individuals to search current experienced attorney vacancies by hiring organization, geographic location, and practice area. Experienced attorneys can apply by responding to a specific vacancy. You must submit a separate application in response to the specific DOJ organization in which you are interested, and your application must satisfy the specific requirements set forth in the relevant vacancy announcement.

Security and Suitability (Background Investigation)

Candidates who accept an offer of employment must undergo a "full field" background investigation conducted by the FBI. As part of its investigation, the FBI interviews or checks references and close personal associates, former spouse(s), employers and co-workers, neighbors and landlords, institutions of higher learning; court and financial records; and military and police records. The most common suitability issues that arise during the background investigation are: past unlawful use of drugs, failure to fulfill tax obligations (including filing all tax returns even if you expect to receive a refund), failure to comply with financial obligations, failure to register for the Selective Service, and misrepresentations or omissions on the security form. This process can take seven months or more to complete. Many attorneys join the Department on a temporary appointment pending completion and adjudication of their background investigation.

OVERVIEW

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What do DOJ organizations look for when hiring a legal intern or attorney?

Justice is interested in attracting a diverse pool of highly-qualified candidates. DOJ organizations look for a commitment to public service, a strong academic and professional record, energy and enthusiasm, and a demonstrated interest in the work of their particular office. Each DOJ organization, including the U.S. Attorneys' Offices (USAOs), has a unique mission and looks for different experiences and skills. All DOJ organizations consider multiple factors in making hiring selections. Merit System Principles are adhered to throughout the selection process. The following factors are not considered: color, race, religion, national origin, political affiliation, marital status, disability (physical or mental), age, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, genetic information, status as a parent, membership or non-membership in an employee organization, on the basis of personal favoritism, or any non-merit factor.

Can I work at DOJ if I am not a U.S. citizen? What if I am a dual citizen?

Only U.S. citizens are eligible for employment with the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR), the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), and the National Security Division (NSD). Appointments in the Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys (EOUSA) and the U.S. Attorneys' Offices are restricted to U.S. citizens or those who owe permanent allegiance to the United States (currently, natives of American Samoa, Swains Island, and certain inhabitants of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands are the only group that owe permanent allegiance to the United States). Non-U.S. citizens may apply for employment with other Justice organizations (unless otherwise indicated in a vacancy announcement), but should be advised that appointments of non-U.S. citizens are extremely rare. Such appointments are considered if necessary to accomplish the Department's mission, and are subject to strict security requirements. Dual citizens of the United States and another country will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

Are there any non-litigating, e.g., policy, job opportunities at DOJ for attorneys?

Yes. Approximately 7% of the Department's attorneys work for DOJ organizations that focus on policy and legal issues. The largest policy office is the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR). Other smaller policy offices exist within Justice, but these may hire more infrequently. In addition, some DOJ organizations have a dedicated policy office. Justice also has several investigatory and law enforcement offices that hire attorneys (5% of attorney workforce). These various offices are listed on page 11.

Are all attorney positions located in the Washington, DC area?

No. There are 94 U.S. Attorneys' Offices and 95 U.S. Trustees' Offices throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, and Northern Mariana Islands; and 59 Immigration Courts in 27 states and U.S. territories. Some DOJ organizations only offer employment opportunities in Washington, DC. Other DOJ organizations, such as the Antitrust Division, the Federal Bureau of Prisons, the Environment and Natural Resources Division, and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms & Explosives, have field offices located in various cities across

Trial Attorney,
Tax Division,
Appellate Section

Working at Justice is an amazing experience as well as a privilege. As an appellate litigator in the Tax Division, I have, since day one, had the opportunity to take the lead in challenging cases representing the United States in courtrooms across the country. I also get to work with a great group of talented individuals committed to public service."

OVERVIEW

the country. Contact information for each U.S. Attorney's Office is available at www.justice.gov/usao/offices/index.html. More information about field office locations is available on the directory of DOJ field offices on page 46-47. In addition, each organization's heading, throughout the second section of this guide, indicates (under "Location(s)") where its offices are located. Finally, geographic areas of assignment are discussed at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/geo-areas.html, and the directory of DOJ field offices appears at www.justice.gov/careers/legal/field-offices.html.

How much travel is required of attorneys at DOJ?

The amount of travel required varies by DOJ organization. In general, the trial components of the litigation divisions (Antitrust, Civil, Civil Rights, Criminal, Environment and Natural Resources, National Security, Tax, and the U.S. Trustee Program) often require moderate to heavy travel. Other DOJ organizations may require little or no travel depending on the nature and scope of individual cases.

Once you are hired into the Department are there opportunities to work in other Divisions? Can you transfer within Justice?

It is not unusual for Justice attorneys to move either to another section within their Division or to another Division or to a U.S. Attorney's Office. In addition, attorneys also can take advantage of "detail" opportunities to work on a short-term basis with another DOJ organization. The ability to move depends on one's practice area, timing, supervisory approval, and performance evaluations.

How do I apply for a position with a U.S. Attorney's Office?

Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) opportunities are posted through the same public announcement process as other experienced attorney opportunities in the Department of Justice. Current vacancies can be found at: www.justice.gov/careers/legal/attvacancies.html. Interested applicants can also use this website to sign up for e-mail alerts as new vacancies arise. Some United States Attorneys' Offices (USAOs) participate in the Attorney General's Honors Program. USAOs may also advertise for Special Assistant United States Attorneys (SAUSAs) or Special Attorneys (SAs), typically for short durations. Vacancy announcements provide details regarding the specific practice area and desired background and experience, so read them carefully when applying. Vacancy announcements for some USAOs may also provide the opportunity for applicants to apply on-line. Regardless of the position, it is a highly competitive process and requires the completion of a background investigation prior to appointment. Contact information for the USAOs is available at: www.justice.gov/usao/about/offices.html.

What is the salary structure and promotion policy of the Department?

Attorneys at the Department of Justice are paid under one of two salary structures - the General Schedule (GS) or the Administratively Determined (AD) pay scale - depending on the organization for which they work. Assistant U.S. Attorneys (AUSAs) are paid under the AD pay scale. The vast majority of other attorneys at the Department are paid under the General Schedule. More information about salaries, promotions, and benefits is available on the DOJ legal careers website at: www.justice.gov/legalcareers.

Patricia L. Petty,
Senior Trial Attorney,
Criminal Division,
Office of International Affairs

"Today, I do occasional international travel, meet with officials from foreign Ministries of Justice, provide litigation support to state, federal, and foreign prosecutors, and interact with the State Department and U.S. law enforcement agencies. Our office facilitates extradition and requests for legal assistance between the United States and foreign countries. At times, I feel like a diplomat and at other times a prosecutor: a true mixture of my interests."

OVERVIEW

Does DOJ have an attorney student loan repayment program?

Yes. Justice's Attorney Student Loan Repayment Program (ASLRP) provides student loan repayments for qualifying student loans in exchange for a three-year service commitment. Justice requires a minimum aggregate loan balance of $10,000 to initially qualify, and it matches individual attorney payments up to a maximum of $6,000 per year. ASLRP is highly competitive, and open to both entry-level and experienced attorneys. For additional information, you may view the ASLRP Policy at www.justice.gov/oarm/aslrp/policy.htm.

What is the quality of life like for an attorney at DOJ?

Many DOJ organizations have active work-life policies, e.g., telecommuting and flexible work schedules, the availability of such programs is determined by each individual organization and is subject to supervisory approval. Many Justice attorneys cite the benefits of working in a supportive and cooperative work environment as an employment highlight. New attorneys with fewer than five years of experience are assigned a mentor to help shorten the learning curve and guide them through their first year. Justice also offers attorneys a robust training program through individual DOJ organizations and the National Advocacy Center. In addition, there are a number of active employee organizations at the Department, including DOJ Association of Black Attorneys, DOJ Association of Hispanic Employees for Advancement and Development, DOJ Indian Trial Lawyers Association, DOJ Pan Asia Employees Association, and DOJ Pride (LGBT).

The Civil Division represents the United States, its departments and agencies, Members of Congress, Cabinet Officers, and other federal employees in any civil or criminal matter within its scope of responsibility. The Civil Division's responsibilities include ensuring the federal government speaks with one voice in its view of the law; preserving the intent of Congress; advancing the credibility of the government before the courts; protecting consumers; and protecting the public fisc (the U.S. treasury). The majority of the Division's attorneys are employed in the following six branches (approximate number of attorneys in each branch is indicated in parentheses):

1. Commercial Litigation Branch (317)

- This branch is divided into five sections, each of which is responsible for a major practice area of the branch:
- Frauds Section: Recovers billions of taxpayer dollars that would otherwise be lost to fraud, waste or abuse by prosecuting individuals and companies that defraud the government
- National Courts Section: Represents the interests of the United States in major contract disputes, often those involving complex projects by government agencies; defends the Nation's international trade policies from legal challenges

ORGANIZATIONS WITH MORE THAN 100 ATTORNEYS

- Intellectual Property Section: Pursues those who infringe federal government patents and defends the government against claims of patent infringement
- Corporate and Financial Litigation Section: Protects the federal government's financial and commercial interests
- Office of Foreign Litigation: Represents the interests of the United States in all litigation brought in foreign courts, whether civil or criminal, affirmative or defensive

2. Federal Programs Branch (136)

- Represents the executive branch, including the President, Cabinet officers and other federal government officials, as well as federal agencies
- Defends federal statutes from constitutional challenges brought by states or private parties
- Protects federal government policies and programs by defending suits that attempt to: undermine national security interests; release sensitive or classified government information; dismantle large-scale government housing, agriculture, health care, or education programs; or invalidate federal personnel practices
- Asserts the rights of the federal government by bringing affirmative suits to enjoin state and local actions that conflict with the Supremacy Clause or agency statutory and regulatory powers

3. Torts Branch (150)

- This branch's four sections represent the United States against lawsuits brought under the Federal Tort Claims Act for money damages:
- Aviation and Admiralty Section (also known as "Crash and Splash"): Prosecutes and defends admiralty actions, such as oil spills, and also defends the federal government in aviation accidents
- Constitutional Torts Section: Represents individual federal government employees in suits stemming from their official acts, and also handles claims for injuries caused by childhood vaccines and exposure to radiation
- Environmental Torts Section: Defends the federal government against allegations of personal injury and property damage due to exposure to toxic materials
- Federal Torts Claims Act Section: Litigates on behalf of the United States in cases involving regulatory activities, law enforcement, maintenance of federal lands, and the provision of the medical care at federal facilities

Kirsten L. Wilkerson,
Senior Trial Counsel,
Civil Division, Torts Branch,
Environmental Torts

"I was thrilled when I received an offer to join Justice, and have a successful career litigating interesting cases and protecting tax-payer dollars."

ORGANIZATIONS WITH MORE THAN 100 ATTORNEYS

4. Consumer Protection Branch (42)

- Employs its civil and criminal authority to affirmatively target consumer fraud and abuse wherever it exists and to enforce the consumer protection statutes overseen by other federal agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Drug Administration, Consumer Product Safety Commission, and National Highway Transportation Administration
- Works closely with U.S. Attorneys, as well as other federal agencies, to secure civil judgments and criminal convictions in courts across the country
- This branch combines its broad authority with its unique expertise to enforce and defend laws aimed at protecting consumers, making an enormous impression in the consumer protection landscape

5. Office of Immigration Litigation (OIL) (324)

- OIL's two sections counsel federal agencies involved in the administration of immigration and nationality statutes, as well as the related areas of border enforcement and national security:
- Appellate Section: Oversees civil immigration litigation nationwide and represents the United States at all federal court levels, including cooperating with U.S. Attorneys' Offices prosecuting criminal immigration issues, handling removal cases in the U.S. Courts of Appeals, and supporting the Office of the Solicitor General's immigration litigation efforts in the U.S. Supreme Court
- District Court Section: Conducts civil immigration litigation in the federal district courts and handles appeals from decisions in those cases by bringing civil denaturalization cases, defending against challenges to government immigration policy, and providing advice and counsel to U.S. Attorneys' Offices

6. Appellate Staff (60)

- Handles complex appeals cases from various administrative agencies as well as all of the Civil Division's branches
 - Drafts briefs and presents oral arguments in the U.S. Courts of Appeals
 - Prepares documents for the U.S. Supreme Court, including petitions for certiorari and briefs on the merits
 - Coordinates with the Division's branches in the handling of litigation involving legal questions likely to be ultimately decided by the U.S. Courts of Appeals

Benjamin Mark Moss,
Trial Attorney,
Civil Division,

Office of Immigration Litigation

"In law school, I had the chance to volunteer at two different offices in the Department of Justice: the Civil Division, Office of Immigration Litigation, and the National Courts Section of Commercial Litigation, Civil Division. My volunteer experiences exposed me to the varied and important work of the 'Nation's largest law firm' and the wonderful opportunities being a Justice attorney offers."

matters as part of the Department of Justice. The Office of the General Counsel (OGC) provides comprehensive legal advice to the Director, other FBI officials and divisions, and field offices on a wide array of national security, criminal, and administrative matters. In addition, this office defends civil actions against the FBI and its employees. Finally, the OGC provides essential legal training for FBI and DEA personnel, the National Academy, and other law enforcement groups. (Approximate number of attorneys in each branch is indicated in parentheses.)

1. General Law Branch (38)

- Assists the General Counsel in supporting the operational and administrative components of the FBI by providing timely, accurate, and cogent legal advice and counsel on a wide range of issues and matters in the administrative law field. These issues include considerations of constitutional law, agency authority and organization, fiscal law, ethics and standards of conduct, information law and information sharing, privacy and civil liberties protection, federal personnel law, facilities and property, federal watchlisting matters, and government contracting and procurement

2. Investigative Law and Legal Training Branch (49)

- Provides legal advice and guidance to FBI headquarter divisions and field offices concerning matters involving criminal investigative jurisdiction, operations, and techniques, to include counterterrorism, intelligence collection, weapons of mass destruction, computer intrusion/infrastructure protection, and international operations
- Advises on matters regarding: the application and implementation of the Communications Assistance and Law Enforcement Act (CALEA); the technical implementation of lawful authorizations for electronic search and surveillance; digital forensics; and the use of advanced technologies to maximize the FBI's ability to analyze and sort through increasing volumes of data
- Provides legal oversight for all aspects of the FBI's asset forfeiture program
- Provides legal instruction to FBI new agent trainees, analysts, and other employees attending the FBI Academy and Center for Intelligence Training, including legal training for federal, state, local, and international officers

3. Litigation Branch (46)

U.S. Attorneys are responsible for handling a significant portion of the criminal prosecutions and civil litigation on behalf of the Department of Justice and most other federal agencies. There are 93 U.S. Attorneys stationed throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, and the Northern Mariana Islands. U.S. Attorneys are appointed by, and serve at the discretion of, the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the United States Senate. One U.S. Attorney is assigned to each of the judicial districts, with the exception of Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands where a single U.S. Attorney serves in both districts. The U.S. Attorneys are the chief federal law enforcement officers in their districts, responsible for federal criminal prosecutions and civil cases involving the United States Government.

The U.S. Attorneys have three statutory responsibilities under 28 U.S.C. § 547:

- The prosecution of criminal cases brought by the federal government;
- The prosecution and defense of civil cases in which the United States is a party; and
- The collection of debts owed the federal government that are administratively uncollectible.

Although the distribution of caseload varies between districts, each U.S. Attorney's Office deals with every category of cases and handles a mixture of simple and complex litigation. Each U.S. Attorney is both the primary representative and the administrative head of the Office of the U.S. Attorney for their respective district, and in that role supervises the Office's staff, including trial attorneys, i.e., Assistant U.S. Attorneys (AUSAs), who have day-to-day responsibility for litigating cases.

AUSAs work in the following areas:

1. Criminal

- Criminal work includes the coordination of investigations and prosecution of a wide range of criminal activities, including violent crime, terrorism, organized crime, computer fraud, environmental crime, public corruption, health care fraud, firearms violations, drug trafficking, money laundering, financial institutions fraud, asset forfeiture, and child support enforcement

Typically, AUSAs doing this type of work:

- Supervise and conduct investigations (e.g., work with grand juries and criminal investigative agents, review evidence, interview witnesses, prepare search and seizure warrants, and conduct other work leading to trial)
- Prepare criminal complaints and indictments
- Negotiate and draft plea agreements
- Prepare for and conduct jury and court trials
- Brief and argue appeals

2. Civil

Civil work includes:

- Initiating affirmative litigation and other civil cases to assert and protect the interests of the United States (e.g., enforcement of environmental, public safety, health care, fair housing, and government program fraud laws)
- Defending the interests of the federal government in lawsuits filed against the United States (e.g., tort and employment discrimination claims against federal agencies and judicial review of various administrative rulings)
- Enforcing the financial and property interests of the federal government in civil and criminal collections, real estate foreclosures, and bankruptcy proceedings

Typically, AUSAs doing this type of work:

- Conduct legal research on affirmative and defensive civil issues
- Draft motions to dismiss and for summary judgment and other pleadings
- Conduct depositions and pursue other fact discovery; interview lay fact witnesses and expert witnesses
- Appear in court for motion hearings and settlement conferences
- Prepare for and conduct jury and court trials
- Brief and argue appeals

The mission of the United States Trustee Program is to promote the integrity and efficiency of the bankruptcy system for the benefit of all stakeholders – debtors, creditors, and the public. The Program oversees the administration of all bankruptcy cases filed by individual and business debtors in every federal judicial district except those in Alabama and North Carolina. The U.S. Trustee’s specific duties in a case depend on the chapter under which a debtor files a bankruptcy petition and the facts of the case.

The Program has an Executive Office for U.S. Trustees (EOUST) in Washington, DC, led by a Director; 21 regions managed by U.S. Trustees; and 95 field offices supervised by Assistant U.S. Trustees. Field office attorneys appear in court, almost daily, to ensure that bankruptcy cases are fairly and expeditiously administered.

Program Field Office Attorneys’ responsibilities include:

- Protecting consumers by seeking sanctions and other penalties against mortgage servicers and other creditors who abuse debtors and the bankruptcy system
- Prosecuting discharge complaints and motions to dismiss to prevent fraud and abuse by bankruptcy filers
- Pursuing civil remedies against attorneys engaging in misconduct and non-attorney petition preparers who violate the law
- Ensuring the interests of creditors and other parties are adequately represented in Chapter 11 business reorganizations
- Overseeing the private trustees appointed to administer Chapter 7, 12, and 13 bankruptcy cases
- Working closely with the U.S. Attorneys, the FBI, and other law enforcement agencies to investigate and prosecute criminal bankruptcy fraud cases

The EOUST oversees the Program’s substantive operations and handles its administrative functions. EOUST attorneys face an array of challenging issues relating to complex bankruptcy law, litigation and appeals, administrative and regulatory law, and pending or contemplated legislation.

Program EOUST Attorneys’ responsibilities include:

- Managing the Program’s civil enforcement efforts

REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION STATEMENT

The U.S. Department of Justice is an Equal Opportunity/Reasonable Accommodation Employer. Except where otherwise provided by law, there will be no discrimination because of color, race, religion, national origin, political affiliation, marital status, disability (physical or mental), age, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, genetic information, status as a parent, membership or non-membership in an employee organization, on the basis of personal favoritism, or any non merit factor. The Department of Justice welcomes and encourages applications from persons with physical and mental disabilities. The Department is firmly committed to satisfying its affirmative obligations under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, to ensure that persons with disabilities have every opportunity to be hired and advanced on the basis of merit within the Department of Justice. This agency provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities where appropriate. If you need a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application and hiring process, please notify the agency. Determinations on requests for reasonable accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.

It is the policy of the Department to achieve a drug-free workplace and persons selected for employment will be required to pass a drug test which screens for illegal drug use prior to final appointment. Employment is also contingent upon the completion and satisfactory adjudication of a background investigation. Only U.S. citizens are eligible for employment with the Executive Office for Immigration Review and the United States Attorneys' Offices. Unless otherwise indicated in a particular job advertisement, non-U.S. citizens may apply for employment with other organizations, but should be advised that appointments of non-U.S. citizens are extremely rare; such appointments would be possible only if necessary to accomplish the Department's mission and would be subject to strict security requirements. Applicants who hold dual citizenship in the U.S. and another country will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

There is no formal rating system for applying veterans' preference to attorney appointments in the excepted service; however, the Department of Justice considers veterans' preference eligibility as a positive factor in attorney hiring. Applicants eligible for veterans' preference must include that information in their cover letter or resume and attach supporting documentation (e.g., the DD 214, Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty and other supporting documentation) to their submissions. Although the "point" system is not used, per se, applicants eligible to claim 10-point preference must submit Standard Form (SF) 15, Application for 10-Point Veteran Preference, and submit the supporting documentation required for the specific type of preference claimed (visit the OPM website, www.opm.gov/forms/pdf_fill/SF15.pdf for a copy of SF 15, which lists the types of 10-point preferences and the required supporting document(s)). Applicants should note that SF 15 requires supporting documentation associated with service-connected disabilities or receipt of nonservice-connected disability pensions to be dated 1991 or later except in the case of service members submitting official statements or retirement orders from a branch of the Armed Forces showing that his or her retirement was due to a permanent service-connected disability or that he/she was transferred to the permanent disability retired list (the statement or retirement orders must indicate that the disability is 10% or more).

ABOUT JUSTICE

As the largest law firm in the nation, the Department of Justice serves as counsel for its citizens. It represents them in enforcing the law in the public interest. Through its thousands of lawyers, investigators, and agents, Justice plays a key role in safeguarding our national security, in protecting against criminals and subversion, in ensuring healthy competition of business in our free enterprise system, in safeguarding the consumer, and in enforcing drug, immigration, and naturalization laws. Justice also plays a significant role in protecting citizens through its efforts for effective law enforcement, crime prevention, crime detection, and prosecution and rehabilitation of offenders. Moreover, Justice conducts all suits in the Supreme Court in which the United States is concerned. It represents the Federal Government in legal matters generally, rendering legal advice and opinions, upon request, to the President and to the heads of the executive departments. The Attorney General supervises and directs these activities, as well as those of the U.S. Attorneys and U.S. Marshals in the various judicial districts around the country.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE DIVERSITY POLICY STATEMENT

The Department of Justice employs more than 115,000 talented and diverse women and men to help meet its mission and goals. We are stronger, more credible, and more effective when our workforce includes highly qualified individuals with backgrounds, cultures and traditions that reflect our Nation's rich diversity.

We value diversity in our workforce and embrace the cultural and demographic dimensions of our country. We work diligently to attract and retain a workforce that represents the range of personal and professional backgrounds, and experiences and perspectives that arise from differences of culture and circumstances.

This includes persons of varying age, ethnicity, gender, disability, race, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, national origin, political affiliation, socioeconomic and family status, and geographic region.

To further promote diversity within the Department, we have developed and implemented a Department-wide Diversity Management Plan. This plan will foster effective diversity management across the Department, sustain progress over time, and ensure accountability for results. Through respect, understanding, and open communication between and among the rich tapestry of our employees, we will enhance critical aspects of our management practices, including policy development, decision making, and problem solving.

The Justice organizational culture reflects our ongoing commitment to build and maintain a workplace environment that supports the efforts of all employees to effectively carry out the Department's mission while ensuring that all employees are encouraged to excel as public servants.
