

Hanford River Corridor Cleanup Information Workshops

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE), the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and the Washington State Department of Ecology – the Tri-Party Agreement (TPA) agencies – are hosting regional workshops on Hanford cleanup along the Columbia River (River Corridor).

The workshops will provide a learning environment and set the context for the upcoming cleanup decisions along Hanford's River Corridor, foster opportunities for dialogue between agency representatives and the public, and address questions and identify key points of interest from the public and stakeholder groups

These workshops will provide information to help prepare stakeholders to participate in these upcoming cleanup decisions. Breakout session topics include River Corridor historical background, types of contamination, and cleanup challenges.

The workshop format will consist of:

- Short opening statements
- Brief presentation by the TPA agencies
- Breakout sessions
- Recap of information shared in breakout sessions
(No formal comments will be taken)
