Employment Resource Center Handbook

Introduction

Inmates need a lot of help when they are preparing for release. They need, among other things, help in preparing employment folders, locating available community resources to help find and keep a job, finding appropriate housing and transportation and the many other support services. An Employment Resource Center (ERC) can provide that assistance. Information is what most inmates lack, particularly if they have been incarcerated and out of the labor market for many years. The ERC can help them make good decisions as they prepare to look for a job and go back to their families and communities.

How to start

As a first step, survey existing resources in your institution and determine what employment materials are already available. Then make a list of additional items that are needed to establish the center. Location is critical. Find a location accessible to all and furnish the center so that several inmates can use it at the same time.

Discuss all ERC plans with your immediate supervisor, e.g. the Education Supervisor, as well with other key staff. You will need to submit a proposal in writing to your institution warden that outlines where you think the ERC should be located and the resources needed to put it together. This should include a budget for the furniture, books and other materials.

The next step

Get a copy of and watch the video, “EMPLOYMENT RESOURCE CENTER, A TOOL FOR POST RELEASE SUCCESS.” If a copy is not already available in your institution, one is available from the Inmate Transition Branch.

Location, staff, and resources

In order to be most effective, a center should be located in an area readily accessible to, and frequently used, by inmates. Two or more trained inmate resource aides, assigned to the center, can help deliver employment enhancement services with infrequent staff supervision. A sample job description for Employment Resource Aides is contained in Figure 1. Outside resources from the local workforce development council, the state employment service, the department of labor, and the local community/junior colleges, can assist in developing and maintaining the employment resource center. Training materials for inmate ERC aides, and staff responsible for ERCs, is now available through the NIC Information Center. Please contact them at 800-877-1461 or write to <http://nicic.org/Library/020931> and order the materials online.

Furnishings and materials

Typical employment resource centers should have a table, a typewriter, a file cabinet, and some book shelves. Tables should be large enough for more than one inmate to use as a work area. Access to a typewriter enables inmates to prepare their resumes and cover letters. Use of computer labs, where available, for this purpose is also desirable. The file cabinet can be used to house folders, by state, and subdivided by metropolitan areas or towns, to store community contact information. Resource books and other publications can be shelved on one or more book shelves for checkout or reference. Employment resource center aides should collect information by mailing requests, over staff signature, to appropriate state departments of labor or workforce development councils. Some information may also be obtained by staff from state home pages on the INTERNET at www.state.\_\_.us. The blank is the two digit postal code for the state, such as www.state.va.us, for Virginia. Free materials can also be identified at the US Department of Labor Employment and Training web site: www.doleta.gov.

Activities

Employment centers should ensure the creation of employment release folders for inmates to use in job searches. Since many companies are required to verify the citizenship of prospective employees before they hire, the folder should contain proof of citizenship and an acceptable picture identification. These requirements are listed and explained in Figures 2, 3, and 4, (Immigration and Naturalization Service documents). A typical folder should include a social security card, a resume, a certified copy of a birth certificate, a high school diploma or General Equivalency Diploma, vocational certificates, college diploma(s), and a transcript from each school attended, including one from the federal prison system. A federal or state picture identification such as a driver's license should be included or obtained soon after release. A sample employment folder can be obtained from the ITB.

Other activities conducted in the employment resource center should include, but need not be limited to, identifying job leads, sending application letters and resumes to appropriate companies, participating in a job club with other inmates planning for release, obtaining documents to include in employment folders, and use of America's Labor Market Information System (ALMIS). The center resources should also be used to assist staff as they prepare for mock job fairs.

Available resources

Resource material for resume and associated letters, job search, life skills, and other materials to contribute to an inmate's post release readiness can be maintained in the employment resource center. Staff may wish to access the Internet or other sources to obtain information about the best markets for specific occupations, job training and retraining program opportunities, including designated assistance for people that are disabled, veterans, and the elderly. Ex-offenders may qualify for employment and training assistance programs depending upon the requirements of the State to which they release.

Community contacts with the local Employment One-Stop or U.S. Employment Service and other services agencies can provide an outside source for employment information and assistance. Ask them to visit your institution to provide seminars and other information for inmates planning for release. You can locate these and other resources in the government pages (usually called blue pages) of the local telephone book.

The resources listed on the following pages are examples of those available to help inmates prepare themselves for release and post release employment. Staff should collect materials from available sources and place them in the employment resource center for use by those preparing for release. For donated materials, review current Bureau of Prisons and Institution policy prior to their acceptance.

Employment Eligibility Verification

INSTRUCTIONS

PLEASE READ ALL INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY BEFORE COMPLETING THIS FORM.

Anti-Discrimination Notice. It is illegal to discriminate against any individual (other than an alien not authorized to work in the U.S.) in hiring, discharging, or recruiting or referring for a fee because of that individual's national origin or citizenship status. It is illegal to discriminate against work eligible individuals. Employers CANNOT specify which document(s) they will accept from an employee. The refusal to hire an individual because of a future expiration date may also constitute illegal discrimination.

Section 1 - Employee. All employees, citizens and noncitizens, hired after November 6, 1986, must complete Section 1 of this form at the time of hire, which is the actual beginning of employment. The employer is responsible for ensuring that Section 1 is timely and properly completed.

Preparer/Translator Certification. The Preparer/Translator Certification must be completed if Section 1 is prepared by a person other than the employee. A preparer/translator may be used only when the employee is unable to complete Section 1 on his/her own. However, the employee must still sign Section 1 personally.

Section 2 - Employer. For the purpose of completing this form, the term "employer" includes those recruiters and referrers for a fee who are agricultural associations, agricultural employers or farm labor contractors.

Employers must complete Section 2 by examining evidence of identity and employment eligibility within three (3) business days of the date employment begins. If employees are authorized to work, but are unable to present the required document(s) within three business days, they must present a receipt for the application of the document(s) within three business days and the actual document(s) within ninety (90) days. However, if employers hire individuals for a duration of less than three business days, Section 2 must be completed at the time employment begins. Employers must record: 1) document title; 2) issuing authority; 3) document number, 4) expiration date, if any; and 5) the date employment begins. Employers must sign and date the certification. Employees must present original documents. Employers may, but are not required to, photocopy the document(s) presented. These photocopies may only be used for the verification process and must be retained with the I-9. However, employers are still responsible for completing the I-9.

Section 3 - Updating and Reverification. Employers must complete Section 3 when updating and/or reverifying the I-9. Employers must reverify employment eligibility of their employees on or before the expiration date recorded in Section 1. Employers CANNOT specify which document(s) they will accept from an employee.

- If an employee's name has changed at the time this form is being updated/reverified, complete Block A.
- If an employee is rehired within three (3) years of the date this form was originally completed and the employee is still eligible to be employed on the same basis as previously indicated on this form (updating), complete Block B and the signature block.
- If an employee is rehired within three (3) years of the date this form was originally completed and the employee's work authorization has expired or if a current employee's work authorization is about to expire (reverification), complete Block B and:

- examine any document that reflects that the employee is authorized to work in the U.S. (see List A or C),
- record the document title, document number and expiration date (if any) in Block C, and
- complete the signature block.

Photocopying and Retaining Form I-9. A blank I-9 may be reproduced, provided both sides are copied. The Instructions must be available to all employees completing this form. Employers must retain completed I-9s for three (3) years after the date of hire or one (1) year after the date employment ends, whichever is later.

For more detailed information, you may refer to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Handbook for Employers, (Form M-274). You may obtain the handbook at your local U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) office.

Privacy Act Notice. The authority for collecting this information is the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, Pub. L. 99-603 (8 USC 1324a).

This information is for employers to verify the eligibility of individuals for employment to preclude the unlawful hiring, or recruiting or referring for a fee, of aliens who are not authorized to work in the United States.

This information will be used by employers as a record of their basis for determining eligibility of an employee to work in the United States. The form will be kept by the employer and made available for inspection by officials of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Department of Labor and Office of Special Counsel for Immigration Related Unfair Employment Practices.

Submission of the information required in this form is voluntary. However, an individual may not begin employment unless this form is completed, since employers are subject to civil or criminal penalties if they do not comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986.

Reporting Burden. We try to create forms and instructions that are accurate, can be easily understood and which impose the least possible burden on you to provide us with information. Often this is difficult because some immigration laws are very complex. Accordingly, the reporting burden for this collection of information is computed as follows: 1) learning about this form, 5 minutes; 2) completing the form, 5 minutes; and 3) assembling and filing (recordkeeping) the form, 5 minutes, for an average of 15 minutes per response. If you have comments regarding the accuracy of this burden estimate, or suggestions for making this form simpler, you can write to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, Regulatory Management Division, 111 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20529. OMB No. 1615-0047.

NOTE: This is the 1991 edition of the Form I-9 that has been rebranded with a current printing date to reflect the recent transition from the INS to DHS and its components.
