

Information for Operators (InFO)

- | Updated: 4:11 am ET October 31, 2006

Much like a Safety Alert for Operators (SAFO), which contains critical safety information, an Information for Operators (InFO) message contains valuable information for operators that should help them meet administrative requirements or certain regulatory requirements with relatively low urgency or impact on safety. InFOs contain information or a combination of information and recommended action to be taken by the respective operators identified in each individual InFO.

For more information about InFOs, contact FAA Flight Standards Service, Air Transportation Division.
