

West Virginia. The petitioner proposes to use a 2300 volt three-phase alternating current electric power circuit for the pump. The power circuit would be designed and installed to contain (1) either a direct or derived neutral which would be grounded through a suitable resistor at the source transformer or power center; (2) a grounding circuit originating at the grounded side of the grounding resistor that would extend along with the power conductors and serve as the grounding conductor for the frame of the pump and all the associated electric equipment where power is supplied from the circuit; (3) a grounding resistor that would limit the ground fault current to no more than 15 amperes; (4) a suitable circuit breaker to provide protection against grounded phase, undervoltage, short circuit, and overload; (5) a disconnecting device; and (6) a fail-safe ground check circuit. The petitioner has listed in this petition other specific precautions and procedures that would be implemented in using the proposed alternative method, including the submission of a proposed revision of its approved 30 CFR Part 48 training plan to the Coal Mine Safety and Health District Manager for the area in which the pump and pump electric controls are located. The petitioner asserts that the proposed alternative method would provide at least the same measure of protection as would the mandatory standard.
