About the CDMRP

The CDMRP finds and funds the best research through a competitive, two-tier application review process to:

- Target innovative research approaches
- Encourage high-impact research
- Integrate consumer participation at each level
- Support unique goals of each program

Unique Characteristics

The CDMRP is different from and complementary to other federal funding agencies.

- Disease-specific focus
- Consumer involvement
- Annual investment strategy – funds are directed toward most critical needs
- Highly responsive to dynamic changes in knowledge
- Novel funding mechanisms
- No standing review panels
- No funding “Pay Line” – funded research is relevant to the needs of the research and patient communities

Since 1992, the CDMRP has...

- Administered more than $6.5 billion in congressional appropriations
- Reviewed more than 80,000 applications
- Provided more than 10,700 awards to institutions worldwide
