Prisoners in 2005

By Paige M. Harrison and
Allen J. Beck, Ph.D.
BJS Statisticians

The total number of prisoners under the jurisdiction of Federal or State adult correctional authorities was 1,525,924 at yearend 2005. During the year the States added 21,534 prisoners and the Federal prison system added 7,290 prisoners. Overall, the Nation's prison population grew 1.9%, which was less than the average annual growth of 3.1% since yearend 1995.

The rate of incarceration in prison at yearend 2005 was 491 sentenced inmates per 100,000 U.S. residents, up from 411 in 1995. About 1 in every 108 men and 1 in every 1,538 women were sentenced prisoners under the jurisdiction of State or Federal authorities.

Overall, the United States incarcerated 2,320,359 persons at yearend 2005. This total represents persons held in —

- Federal and State prisons (1,446,269, which excludes State and Federal prisoners in local jails)
- territorial prisons (15,735)
- local jails (747,529)
- facilities operated by or exclusively for the Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (10,104)
- military facilities (2,322)
- jails in Indian country (1,745 as of midyear 2004)
- juvenile facilities (96,655 as of 2003).

During 2005 —

- Fourteen States had prison population increases of at least 5%, led by South Dakota (up 11.9%), Montana (up 10.9%), and Kentucky (up 10.4%).
- Eleven States experienced prison population decreases, led by Georgia (down 4.6%), Maryland (down 2.4%), Louisiana (down 2.3%), and Mississippi (down 2.2%).
- State inmates held in private prison facilities increased 8.8%, reaching 80,401 at yearend 2005.
- Federal inmates held in private facilities increased 9.2% to 27,046.
- State and Federal inmates held in local jails decreased 1.8% to 73,097.

On December 31, 2005 —

- 1 in every 136 U.S. residents was in prison or jail.
- Local jails housed 73,097 State and Federal inmates (4.8% of all prisoners).
- State prisons were operating between 1% below and 14% above capacity; Federal prisons were operating at 34% above capacity.
- Women made up 7.0% of all inmates, up from 6.1% in 1995.
- About 8.1% of black males age 25 to 29 were in State or Federal prison, compared to 2.6% of Hispanic males and 1.1% of white males in the same age group.

Nearly 2.2 million persons in prison or jail at yearend 2005

On December 31, 2005, a total of 1,446,269 inmates were in the custody of State and Federal prison authorities, and 747,529 were in the custody of local jail authorities (table 1). (Custody is defined on page 11.) The total incarcerated population increased by 58,463, or 2.7% from yearend 2004. This is less than the average annual increase of 3.3% since 1995.

Including inmates in public and privately operated facilities, the number of inmates in State prisons increased

1.3% during 2005; the number in Federal prisons, 5.1%; and in local jails, 4.7%.

The rate of incarceration in prison and jail was 737 inmates per 100,000 U.S. residents in 2005, up from 601 in 1995. At yearend 2005, 1 in every 136 U.S. residents was incarcerated in a State or Federal prison or a local jail.

U.S. prison population rose 1.9% during 2005

In 2005 the percentage increase in inmates under State or Federal jurisdiction (1.9%) was the same as recorded in 2004 (table 2). (Jurisdiction is defined on page 11.) The population under the jurisdiction of State and Federal authorities increased by 28,824 inmates during 2005, slightly larger than the increase in 2004 (up 28,499). Since December 31, 1995, the U.S. prison population has grown an average of 44,527 inmates per year (3.1%).

The Federal prison population totaled 187,618 at yearend 2005, up from 180,328 at yearend 2004. About 12% of all prisoners were serving time in the Federal system.

15,735 inmates held in U.S. Territories at yearend 2005

The U.S. Territories and Commonwealths – American Samoa, Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and Virgin Islands – reported 15,735 inmates in the custody of their prison systems at yearend 2005, a decrease of 22 persons from 2004. Puerto Rico held the largest number of sentenced prisoners, 11,469 at yearend 2005.

Prisoners with a sentence of more than 1 year totaled 12,399 (more than three-quarters of the total territorial prison population).

Relative to the resident population in the Territories, the rate of incarceration was 287 prisoners per 100,000 residents. Of the 5 Territories, the U.S.

Virgin Islands had the highest prison incarceration rate (400 inmates per 100,000 residents), followed by Guam (with 301).

14 States reported increases of at least 5% during 2005; 11 States had decreases

Between January 1 and December 31, 2005, South Dakota experienced the largest increase in prison population (up 11.9%), followed by Montana (up 10.9%), Kentucky (up 10.4%), and Nebraska (up 7.9%) (table 3). Eleven States experienced a decline. Georgia had the largest decline (down 4.6%), followed by Maryland (down 2.4%), Louisiana (down 2.3%), and Mississippi (down 2.2%).

In absolute numbers four jurisdictions grew by at least 2,000 inmates during 2005, including the Federal system (up 7,290), Florida (up 4,235), California (up 4,120), and Alabama (up 2,001). Georgia and New York had the largest drop in inmates (down 2,355 and 1,008, respectively).

Overall, the number of inmates under jurisdiction in the West grew 3.2%, followed by those in the Midwest (1.6%), the Northeast (1.1%), and the South (1.0%).

Prison incarceration rate reached 491 per 100,000 residents in 2005, up from 411 in 1995

Eleven States exceeded the national prison incarceration rate of 491 per 100,000 residents, led by Louisiana (797), Texas (691), Mississippi (660), and Oklahoma (652) (table 4). Seven States, led by Maine (144), Minnesota (180), and Rhode Island (189), had rates that were less than half the national rate.

Since 1995 the sentenced inmate population in State prisons has increased an average 3.0% per year. During this period, 12 States had an average annual growth of at least 5%, led by North Dakota (up 9.3%), West Virginia (up 7.9%), and Oregon (up 7.5%). Between 1995 and 2005 the Federal system grew an average of 7.1% per year. In absolute numbers this is an average annual increase of 8,251 inmates.

<sup>c</sup>The incarceration rate includes an estimated 6,200 inmates sentenced to more than 1 year but held in local jails or houses of corrections.

Female prisoners increased 2.6% during 2005; male prisoners, 1.9%

During 2005 the number of females under the jurisdiction of State or Federal prison authorities increased by 2.6% (table 5). The number of males in prison rose 1.9%. At yearend 2005, 107,518 females and 1,418,406 males were in prison. Since 1995 the annual rate of growth in female prisoners averaged 4.6%, which was higher than the 3.0% increase in male prisoners. By yearend 2005 females accounted for 7.0% of all prisoners, up from 6.1% in 1995 and 5.7% in 1990.

Relative to their number in the U.S. resident population, males were over 14 times more likely than females to be incarcerated in a State or Federal prison. At yearend 2005 there were 65 sentenced female inmates per 100,000 females in the resident population, compared to 929 sentenced male inmates per 100,000 males.

Since 1995 the total number of male prisoners has grown 34%; the number of female prisoners, 57%. At yearend 2005, 1 in every 1,538 women and 1 in every 108 men were incarcerated in a State or Federal prison.

Over a third of female prisoners held in the 3 largest jurisdictions

Texas (13,506), the Federal system (12,422), and California (11,667) held more than a third of all female inmates at yearend (table 6). Oklahoma (129 sentenced female inmates per 100,000 female residents), Idaho (110), and Mississippi (107) had the highest female incarceration rates. States with the lowest female incarceration rates were concentrated in the Northeast, led by Rhode Island (with 10 sentenced female prisoners per 100,000 female residents), Massachusetts (12), and Maine (17).

Thirteen States had an average annual increase in the female prison population of more than 10% between 1995 and 2005, led by North Dakota (18.2%), Idaho (14.1%), and West Virginia (14.0%). During this period the State female prison population increased an average of 4.5% per year; the Federal female prison population increased 5.3% per year.

Privately operated prisons held 7.0% of State and Federal inmates in 2005

Since yearend 2000 the number of Federal inmates held in private facilities increased 74.2%, while the number held in State facilities increased 7.2%. As a percentage of all inmates under State and Federal jurisdiction, the number held in private facilities has increased slightly to 7.0% in 2005.

At yearend 2005, 33 States and the Federal system reported a total of 107,447 prisoners held in privately operated prison facilities (table 7). Private facilities held 6.0% of all State prisoners and 14.4% of Federal prisoners. Among States, Texas (with 17,517 State inmates housed in private facilities) ties) and Florida (with 6,261) reported the largest populations in 2005.

Five States had at least 25% of their prison population housed in private prisons, led by New Mexico (43%), Wyoming (41%), Hawaii (31%), Alaska (28%), and Montana (26%).

At yearend 2005, 8.5% of State inmates in the South and 7.2% in the West were in privately operated facilities. The Northeast (2.1%) and Midwest (1.2%) had the lowest percentage of State inmates in private facilities.

In 2005 local jails held almost 5% of State and Federal prisoners

At the end of 2005, 35 States and the Federal system reported a total of 73,097 State and Federal prisoners held in local jails or other facilities operated by county or local authorities. These inmates held in local jails represented 4.8% of all prisoners in 2005.

Louisiana had the largest percentage of its State inmate population housed in local jails (45%). Four other states had at least a fifth of their population housed in local jails: Kentucky (29%), Tennessee (27%), West Virginia (24%), and Mississippi (22%).

Among State prisoners in the South, 10.0% were held in local jails. In the West, 2.1% of State prisoners were in local jails, and in the Midwest and Northeast both had 1.2% of their State prisoners in local jails.

From yearend 2000 to 2005 the number of Federal inmates held in local jails decreased by more than half, while the number of State inmates in local jails rose about 19%.

23 States and the Federal system operated at or above highest capacity

To estimate the capacity of their prisons, jurisdictions were asked to supply three measures for capacity at yearend 2005: rated, operational, and design capacities. These measures were defined as follows:

Rated capacity is the number of beds or inmates assigned by a rating official to institutions within the jurisdiction.

Operational capacity is the number of inmates that can be accommodated, based on a facility's staff, existing programs, and services.

Design capacity is the number of inmates that planners or architects intended for the facility.

Twenty-three jurisdictions gave only 1 measure or the same figure for each measure (table 8). For the 27 jurisdictions with more than 1 reported type of capacity, estimates of population as a percent of capacity are based on the highest and lowest figures provided.

At yearend 2005, 26 States reported that they were operating below 100% of their highest capacity, and 23 States and the Federal prison system reported operating at 100% or more of their highest capacity. Nevada, operating at 56% of its highest capacity, reported the lowest percent of capacity occupied. Alabama and California, both 93% over their lowest reported capacity, had the highest percent of capacity occupied.

At yearend 2005 the Federal prison system was operating at 34% over capacity. Overall, State prisons were operating between 99% of their highest capacity and 114% of their lowest capacity (table 9).

60% of State and Federal inmates black or Hispanic at yearend 2005

At yearend 2005 black inmates represented an estimated 40% of all inmates with a sentence of more than 1 year, while white inmates accounted for 35% and Hispanic inmates, 20%.

Although the total number of sentenced inmates rose sharply (up 35% between 1995 and 2005), there were small changes in the racial and Hispanic composition of the inmate population.

At yearend 2005, black males (547,200) outnumbered white males (459,700) and Hispanic males (279,000) among inmates with a sentence of more than 1 year (table 10). About 40% of all male inmates sentenced to more than 1 year were black.

--Not collected.

Comparisons with previous estimates of inmates by race and Hispanic origin are constrained by new collection methodologies. Following guidelines provided by the Office of Management and Budget, estimates in 2005 were made separately for persons identifying with one race (97%) and those identifying with two or more races (3%). Adoption of these guidelines reduced the number and percent of inmates identified as non-Hispanic white and black.

An estimated 8% of black males, age 25 to 29 in prison in 2005

When incarceration rates are estimated separately by age group, black males in their twenties and thirties are found to have high rates relative to other groups (table 11). Expressed in terms of percentages, 8.1% of black males age 25 to 29 were in prison on December 31, 2005, compared to 2.6% of Hispanic males and about 1.1% of white males in the same age group.

Although incarceration rates drop with age, the percentage of black males age 45 to 54 in prison at yearend 2005 was 3.1% — a rate higher than the highest rate among Hispanic males (2.6% for those age 25 to 29), and more than twice the highest rate among white males (1.2% for those age 30 to 34).

Female incarceration rates, though substantially lower than male incarceration rates at every age, reveal similar racial and ethnic differences. Black females (with an incarceration rate of 156 per 100,000) were more than twice as likely as Hispanic females (76 per 100,000) and over 3 times more likely than white females (45 per 100,000) to have been in prison on December 31, 2005. These differences among white, black, and Hispanic females were consistent across all age groups.

Half of State prisoners were violent offenders

In absolute numbers an estimated 650,400 inmates in State prison at yearend 2003 (the latest available offense data) were held for violent offenses: 151,500 for murder, 176,600 for robbery, 124,200 for assault, and 148,800 for rape and other sexual assaults (table 12). In addition, 262,000 inmates were held for property offenses, 250,900 for drug offenses, and 86,400 for public-order offenses.

Overall, the proportion of violent offenders increased from 47% in 1995 to 52% in 2003. Property offenders decreased from about 23% in 1995 to 21% in 2003; drug offenders decreased from 22% to 20%.

Offenses of State prisoners varied by gender, race, and Hispanic origin

More than half (53%) of male State prisoners were serving time for a violent offense in 2003, compared to around a third (35%) of female prisoners (table 13). Females were more likely than males to be serving time for property offenses (30% compared to 20%) and drug offenses (29% compared to 19%).

Offense types also varied by race and Hispanic origin. Approximately half of white, black, and Hispanic State inmates were violent offenders. White prisoners were more likely to be serving time for a property offense (27%), compared to blacks (18%) and Hispanics (17%). Nearly a quarter of black State inmates (24%) and Hispanic inmates (23%) were drug offenders, compared to a seventh of white inmates (14%).

Changing Federal prison population related to drug and immigration offenses

Prisoners sentenced for drug offenses constitute the largest group of Federal inmates (55%) in 2003, down from 60% in 1995 (table 14). On September 30, 2003, the date of the latest available data in the Federal Justice Statistics Program, Federal prisons held 86,972 sentenced drug offenders, compared to 52,782 at yearend 1995.

Between 1995 and 2003 the number of Federal inmates held for public-order offenses increased 170%, most of which was accounted for by the increase in immigration offenses (up 394%). The number of immigration offenders rose from 3,420 in 1995 to 16,903 in 2003. Immigration violators represented over 10% of Federal inmates in 2003.

The number of weapons offenders held in Federal prisons increased about 120% (from 7,446 to 16,377) between 1995 and 2003. Weapons offenders represented about 10% of the Federal inmate population in 2003.

Violent offenders under Federal jurisdiction increased 46% from 1995 to 2003, and accounted for almost 8% of the total growth during the period. Homicide offenders increased 146%, from 1,068 in 1995 to 2,632 in 2003.

While the number of offenders in each major offense category increased, the number incarcerated for a drug offense accounted for the largest percentage of the total growth (49%), followed by public-order offenders (38%).

The number of Immigration and Customs Enforcement detainees increased 2.6% during 2005

The U.S. Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) reported 19,562 detainees on December 31, 2005, up from 19,057 at yearend 2004. Nearly two-thirds of these detainees (12,509) were held in Federal or State prisons and local jails. About a fifth were held in ICE-operated facilities (3,782) and private facilities under exclusive contract to ICE (2,365).

The number of detainees under ICE jurisdiction more than doubled between 1995 and 2005. This increase most affected State prisons, local jails, and other facilities maintaining intergovernmental agreements with ICE. These facilities held 12,509 detainees in 2005, up from 2,286 in 1995.

Among the 19,562 detainees held for immigration violations at yearend 2005, 10,153 had been convicted of criminal offenses, and 1,583 had pending criminal cases

(not shown in table). Detainees convicted of violent offenses (28.0%) and drug offenses (28.7%) constituted the largest groups under ICE jurisdiction, followed by public-order offenses (19.2%) and property offenses (15.3%).

Number of prisoners held by military authorities up 6.7% during 2005

There were 2,322 prisoners under military jurisdiction at yearend 2005. Fifty-eight percent of the prisoners held by the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard had a sentence of 1 year or more. At yearend 2005 the Army's disciplinary barracks, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and six other local or regional Army facilities held the largest share of inmates under military jurisdiction (41%). The 6 Marine Corps facilities held 23% of all inmates; the 34 Air Force facilities held 18% of all inmates; and the 11 Navy facilities held 17% of all inmates.

The operational capacity of the 58 military confinement facilities was 3,286 (not shown in table). At yearend 2005 these facilities were operating at 71% of their operational capacity. About 87% of prisoners held by the Army, Air Force, Navy, and Marine Corps were convicted inmates; 13% were unconvicted.

Methodology

National Prisoner Statistics

The Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), with the U.S. Census Bureau as its collection agent, obtains yearend and midyear counts of prisoners from departments of correction in each of the 50 States and the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

The National Prisoner Statistics (NPS) distinguishes prisoners in custody from those under jurisdiction. To have custody of a prisoner, a State must hold that person in one of its facilities. To have jurisdiction means that a State has legal authority over the prisoner. Prisoners under a State's jurisdiction may be in the custody of a local jail, another State's prison, or other correctional facilities. Some States are unable to provide both custody and jurisdiction counts.

Excluded from NPS counts are persons confined in locally administered confinement facilities who are under the jurisdiction of local authorities. NPS counts include all inmates in State-operated facilities in Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Rhode Island, and Vermont, which have combined jail-prison systems. NPS excludes inmates held by the District of Columbia (DC), which as of yearend 2001 operated only a jail system.

Military Corrections Statistics

BJS obtains yearend counts of prisoners in the custody of U.S. military authorities from the Department of Defense Corrections Council. In 1994 the council, comprised of representatives from each branch of military service, adopted a standardized report (DD Form 2720) with a common set of items and definitions. This report gives data on persons held in U.S. military confinement facilities inside and outside the continental United States, by branch of service, gender, race, Hispanic origin, conviction status, sentence length, and offense. It also has data on the number of facilities, their design, and rated capacities.

Other inmate counts

In 1995 BJS began collecting yearend counts of prisoners from the departments of correction in the U.S. Territories (American Samoa, Guam, and U.S. Virgin Islands) and U.S. Commonwealths (Northern Mariana Islands and Puerto Rico). These counts include all inmates for whom the Territory or Commonwealth government had legal authority (inmates under jurisdiction) and all inmates physically located in prison or jail facilities (inmates in custody). These counts are collected by gender, race, Hispanic origin, and sentence length. In addition, BJS obtains reports of the total design, rated, and operational capacity of correctional facilities.

Estimating age-specific incarceration rates

The number of sentenced prisoners within each group was estimated for men, women, whites, blacks, and Hispanics. In 2005 estimates were produced separately for inmates under State jurisdiction by combining data by gender from NPS and data by race and Hispanic origin from the 2004 Survey of Inmates in State Correctional Facilities.

The Federal Justice Statistics Program (FJSP) provided counts of sentenced Federal inmates by age for each demographic group at the end of fiscal year 2003. The NPS provided counts of sentenced Federal inmates by gender at yearend 2005 and counts by race and Hispanic origin at midyear 2005. The FJSP counts were converted to percentages and multiplied by the NPS totals at yearend 2005.

Estimates of the U.S. resident population for January 1, 2006, by age, gender, race and Hispanic origin were obtained from the U.S. Census Bureau. Age-specific rates of incarceration for each demographic group were calculated by dividing the estimated number of sentenced prisoners in each age group by the number of U.S. residents in each age group and then multiplying by 100,000. Detailed categories exclude persons identifying with two or more races. Totals by gender include all inmates and U.S. residents, regardless of racial identification.

NPS jurisdiction notes

Alaska — Prisons and jails form one integrated system. All NPS data include jail and prison populations. Counts exclude individuals in electronic and special monitoring programs.

Arizona — Population counts are based on custody data. Counts exclude 64 sentenced inmates housed in contracted local jail facilities, some awaiting transfer to the DOC.

Inmates held in other States are excluded from counts.
