EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report is presented by the Department of Defense (DoD) in accordance with Title 10 of the United States (U.S.) Code, Section 2249c (10 U.S.C. Section 2249c). The Regional Defense Combating Terrorism Fellowship Program (CTFP) was established to meet an emerging and urgent defense requirement to build partnerships in the struggle against violent extremism through targeted, non-lethal, combating terrorism (CbT) education and training. CTFP directly supports the Defense Department's efforts by providing CbT education and training for mid-to senior-level international military officers, ministry of defense civilians and security officials.

The CTFP's goals are:

- Build the CbT capabilities and capacities of partner nations;
- Build and strengthen a global network of CbT experts and practitioners committed to supporting U.S. efforts against terrorists and their organizations;
- Counter ideological support for terrorism;
- Harmonize views about the threat of terrorism; and
- Develop CbT and Counter Insurgency (COIN) mutual understanding.

CTFP programs are designed to address key CbT challenges globally, regionally and in specific countries through a tailored program of educational and training activities. CTFP provides a unique and flexible tool that can focus efforts toward building partner capacity to meet a specific Combatant Command (COCOM) objective.

The Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations/Low Intensity Conflict and Interdependent Capabilities (SO/LIC&IC) provides policy oversight. The Defense Security Cooperation Agency (DSCA) provides program and financial management. CTFP requires approval from the Chiefs of Missions and Leahy Vetting prior to any event or engagement.

ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT		$2,207,565
COURSE DEVELOPMENT		$4,867,762
GRAND TOTAL	3,223	$33,800,230

This report accounts for the expenditure of appropriated funds during FY09 for CTFP, including the countries that received CTFP funding, the total amount of funding provided for each country and the educational courses attended by the foreign officers and officials. The report also includes an assessment of the effectiveness of the program and a review of efforts to improve it.

The contents of this report are unclassified and reflect data gathered from multiple sources, including security assistance officers, Combatant Commanders and other DoD entities. Questions about the contents of this report or the program should be directed to the CTFP program manager at (703) 602-2023.

I. CTFP CONTRIBUTIONS

A. OVERVIEW

Created in 2002, the CTFP was established to meet an emergent and urgent defense requirement to build partnerships in the struggle against violent extremism through targeted, non-lethal, CbT education and training. CTFP directly supports DoD efforts by providing CbT education and training for mid- to senior-level international military officers, ministry of defense civilians and security officials. CTFP provides unique relationship and capacity building opportunities that enable partner countries to address threats of terrorism within their borders and regions and strengthen collaboration with and support for U.S. and partner efforts to defeat terrorism.

CTFP's goals are to:

- Build the CbT capabilities and capacities of partner nations;
- Build and strengthen a global network of CbT experts and practitioners committed to supporting U.S. efforts against terrorists and their organizations;
- Counter ideological support for terrorism;
- Harmonize views about the threat of terrorism; and
- Develop CbT and COIN mutual understanding.

CTFP programs are designed to address key CbT challenges globally, regionally and in specific countries through tailored education program. CTFP is a flexible tool that can focus efforts toward building partner capacity to meet a specific COCOM objective.

CTFP works hand-in-hand with the COCOMs to identify candidates for programs and to develop CbT programs specifically tailored to partner nations and their regional and global relationships. COCOMs recommend participants to the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) for approval. Potential candidates include senior and mid-level military officials, ministry of defense civilians and other foreign government security officials who could have an impact on their country's ability and willingness to cooperate with the U.S. in the struggle against violent extremism. CTFP funds these participants to attend DoD programs in the U.S. and abroad. All candidates are verified and vetted in accordance with Section 8060 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (P.L. 109-289) (the “Leahy Amendment”).

“The education I received from these courses helped me develop and direct Moldova's first Counter Terrorism Center. Thank you.”

CTFP builds interagency cooperation among partners by training a broad range of foreign CbT military officers and government security officials and provides specialized programs to address individual country needs. CTFP programs engage military, national police, gendarmerie, internal security, border security and other security officials. The program enables DoD to implement the President's National Strategy for CbT more effectively by providing resources that can be targeted toward integrating instruments of national power, traditionally expressed as diplomatic, economic, informational and military. In addition, CTFP seeks to integrate military instruments with other security sector elements such as financial, intelligence and law enforcement.

In FY09, 3,117 foreign military and security officials attended CTFP-funded programs throughout the six regional COCOMs. This included CbT education and training support to emerging regional and sub-regional organizations and alliances. Regional training events are particularly effective in developing personal and professional relationships among security officials from many countries within a given geographic area.

Additionally, the CTFP provides a series of globally oriented courses that enhance mutual understanding, and facilitates cooperation across the globe.

Regional and global events are crucial in building a robust network of CbT officials who share a common understanding of CbT issues, and are able to reach out to other organizations and countries to coordinate effectively. However, in helping to build this network CTFP recognizes that 10 U.S.C. Section 2249c restricts payment of costs only to those associated with the education and training of individuals who are currently foreign military officers, ministry of defense officials and security officials. Therefore, all foreign participants in CTFP events are screened to ensure their current eligibility under the law. In most classrooms, U.S. personnel are learning alongside CTFP-funded participants developing and reinforcing relationships between partner countries and the U.S. Only an empowered network of CbT practitioners will defeat the networks of our adversaries. CTFP catalyzes networks and actively sustains and facilitates these connections through continuing education and training activities that reinforce relationships. The network, as it grows, will become increasingly self-reinforcing and less reliant on the U.S. for support.

B. REPORT REQUIREMENTS

Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. Section 2249c, “not later than December 1, of each year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the administration of this section during the fiscal year ended in such year.”

This report is submitted by DoD in accordance with 10 U.S.C. Section 2249c and provides:

- (1) A complete accounting of the expenditure of appropriated funds for purposes authorized under subsection (a), including:
 - (A) the countries of the foreign officers and officials for whom costs were paid; and
 - (B) for each such country, the total amount of the costs paid.
- (2) The training courses attended by the foreign officers and officials, including a specification of which, if any, courses were conducted in foreign countries.

- (3) An assessment of the effectiveness of the Regional Defense CTFP (RDCTFP) in increasing the cooperation of the governments of foreign countries with the U.S. in the global war on terrorism.
- (4) A discussion of any actions being taken to improve the Program.

C. PROGRAM ASSESSMENT

In FY09, CTFP made great strides in improving international partner nations' cooperation with the U.S. Quantifying increased cooperation between nations can be difficult, especially when open disclosure of cooperation in CbT can bring undue scrutiny upon security officials. A great deal of progress has been achieved that is known and unclassified but should not be placed in the public domain. However, it is readily apparent that the intent of CTFP to create a global network of likeminded professionals is becoming a reality. Participating in education programs with their U.S. counterparts and other international officers is furthering the development of a culture of practitioners with a common frame of reference in CbT and violent extremism. As the examples below and in the Continuing Engagement section will illustrate, the education and training provided by CTFP-partner schools is building partner capacity in key countries and helping to bridge cultural gaps between the U.S. and its allies in the struggle against violent extremism.

Since CTFP's creation in 2002, graduates of the program have continued to advance professionally, and in many cases have entered into senior-level positions in their respective countries. CTFP works with eleven institutions to provide resident courses of various lengths and CbT focus. Under DSCA are the Regional Centers: Near East South Asia Center for Strategic Studies (NESSA), Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies (CHDS), Asia Pacific Center for Security Studies (APCSS), Africa Center for Strategic Studies (ACSS) and George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies (GCMC). The Defense Institute for International Legal Studies (DIILS), a school house, is also under DSCA. There are five additional school houses: The Defense Intelligence Agency/National Defense Intelligence College (DIA/NDIC), Naval Post Graduate School/Defense Analysis Department (NPS/DA), National Defense University/College of International Security Affairs (NDU/CISA), Joint Special Operations University (JSOU) and the Center for Civil Military Relations (CCMR). The CTFP cornerstone program is the masters degree at NDU's CISA (which is underwritten by CTFP). In FY09, graduates of CTFP’s masters program at CISA helped to further U.S. interests in key countries around the world.

“I stood by my word with you to take care of your friend. He is now working for me as the director of Deputies Committee Secretariat. I am also thinking of another NDU graduate to put in our policy department. So, the NDU should know that its Afghan alumni are taken care of here now.”

CISA Afghan Alumnus

Nowhere is the return on investment of the CTFP more evident than in the U.S. Central Command (USCENTCOM) area of responsibility (AOR). Graduates of the numerous CTFP courses and mobile education efforts are helping to carry out U.S. objectives throughout the region and internationally. In Afghanistan, a 2009 CISA graduate is now a key policy decision maker within the Afghan Government. His staff consists of other graduates from the same CISA program, helping to ensure that policy-level positions in combating terror are filled by people familiar with and supportive of U.S. goals and objectives. Additionally, the Special Assistant to Afghan President Karzai is a recent graduate from the masters program at CISA. This graduate published a detailed opinion article in The Washington Post effectively promoting U.S. strategy in his country.

On the African continent, there have been a number of notable successes for CTFP in combating terror. In Kenya and Mali, CTFP graduates have been instrumental in furthering U.S. objectives in battling Al Qaeda and Associated Movements (AQAM). CTFP graduates were also instrumental in facilitating a continent-wide information operation run by the U.S. Africa Command (USAFRICOM).

In the U.S. Pacific Command (USPACOM) AOR, graduates from CTFP courses are serving as Deputy Ministers of Defense in two countries. They remain in contact with their CTFP schools and often cite their CTFP education as being the foundation for their decision making. In Thailand, CTFP’s programs on irregular warfare have helped to shape national security policy. Additionally, a civilian graduate of CISA has become an important link between the military and civilian branches of the Thai government, establishing conflict resolution mechanisms and ensuring civilian control of the Thai military. CTFP also provided the forum for a number of key Pacific Rim nations to meet and develop bilateral counterterrorism (CT) agreements, directly improving maritime security in the Sulawesi Sea Lanes.

DIILS Malaysia Regional CbT MET

In the U.S. European Command (USEUCOM), a Romanian graduate is now the director of his country’s intelligence ministry. He credits his position to his course work at the DIA CTFP residence course as giving him the skills to succeed. This graduate went on to request that the U.S. host a regional symposium to discuss Black Sea security and terrorism issues. This event is now held annually and provides the U.S. with a forum to guide terrorism policy in the region. Other notable activities in USEUCOM included a JSOU mobile education team (MET) in Croatia that helped to bridge cultural differences that have fueled conflict there for centuries. This particular event brought officers together from seven Balkan countries, most of which had been locked in bitter warfare for the past two decades.

DIILS Moldavian CbT students on a U.S. visit

In FY09, CTFP graduates were promoted into key CbT positions in several USSOUTHCOM countries. A CISA graduate is now the Deputy Director of Brazil’s Counter Terror Unit and he continues to interface regularly with the CISA staff seeking their guidance on developing Brazil’s national CbT strategy. The masters program at CISA also provided the knowledge base for an FY09 Guyana student to write his country’s CT strategic plan.

D. KEY PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS

In FY09, CTFP continued to build individual and institutional capacity in key countries to combat terrorism.

- In Pakistan, CTFP directly supported efforts to improve Pakistani intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance through the Train and Equip Program under Section 1206 of the FY06 National Defense Authorization Act, as amended (Section 1206). Specifically, CTFP funded the attendance of Pakistani officers at the Intelligence in CbT course, the International Officer Tactical Intelligence course, the International Intelligence Fellow Program, and the Combined Strategic Intelligence Program.
- CTFP also supported Section 1206 program efforts in Yemen. CbT and port security mobile courses provided the operational and strategic depth required for proper employment of patrol boats and other maritime equipment necessary to secure Yemen’s porous shores.

- A focused effort in Iraq this year resulted in 58 Iraqis receiving CbT education and training. Of this number, one CISA graduate is writing Iraq’s counterinsurgency manual (based on U.S. doctrine) and another is the commander for Iraq’s counterinsurgency training center.
- CTFP worked closely with the South Sudan country team and USAFRICOM officials to execute the first detailed assessment of the capacity of South Sudan to fight terror. As a result of the report, much needed additional resources were allocated to South Sudan, and a number of its key leaders have entered into a variety of training programs.
- JSOU’s three Senior Leader METs in Poland helped train senior Polish officers in the strategic planning necessary to manage the Polish Special Operations Command Headquarters.

E. CONTINUING ENGAGEMENT STRATEGY

In FY09, CTFP began efforts to expand on individual and institutional capacity-building programs for developing a networked, global CbT capacity. Since its founding in 2002, CTFP has educated more than 15,300 people (see Exhibit A below). As explained in previous annual reports, “phase one” of the program focused on building a comprehensive strategic-level CbT education curriculum. This was accomplished through a combination of short-certificate programs at specialized DoD school houses and full-scale masters degree programs at NDU and NPS. Each of these courses and/or degrees was designed to address relevant and emerging CbT issues proactively. In FY08 NDU and NPS had the opportunity to reengage alumni through short symposiums, which set the tone for a formalized CTFP continuing engagement strategy.

The program’s success and maturity have resulted in the development of a continuing engagement strategy. Implementation began through providing resources and enabling partner schools to maintain and grow their educational relationships with past participants. This “phase two” of CTFP allows DoD to realize the value of its investment more fully. The graphic below (Exhibit B) outlines how the continuing engagement strategy builds on the first seven years of the program. Continuing engagement has three main facets: events, communication and tools. Each of these categories of effort are aimed at accomplishing the original program intent of creating a global network of CbT practitioners working together to counter violent extremism.

Exhibit B

The following sections provide a summary of the events and past participant accomplishments in each of the COCOM areas of responsibility.

Global Engagement

CTFP works with the five Regional Centers (NESAs, CHDS, APCSS, ACSS, GCMC) as well as six school houses (NPS/DA, DIA/NDIC, NDU/CISA, JSOU, CCMR and DIILS) to hold resident CbT courses. The school houses, by curriculum design and mission, educate students from all regions of the world (as opposed to the more limited focus of the Regional Centers). Each school’s program is unique based on its expertise and area of focus (e.g., Special Operations (SOF), intelligence, legal). This global classroom design logically translates into global network activities. In FY09, CISA held the first CTFP global continuing engagement programs (Beyond the Horizon and Coiled Serpent), summaries of which follow.

CISA “Beyond the Horizon” Conference

Hosted by CISA, September 10-11, 2009, the “Beyond the Horizon” conference brought together 140 international CTFP students and graduates to discuss critical national security challenges with leading practitioners and scholars. Conference attendance consisted of senior foreign military officers (O-5 to O-8) and civilian government equivalents from partner nations. The Philippine Secretary of National Defense spoke (at his request) and brought 30 additional senior Filipino officials to the conference. Many of the working group sessions were led by CISA graduates (CT Fellows), who demonstrated substantial expertise and application of principles learned while attending CISA. In addition to building relations among the CT Fellows, representatives from various U.S. Government agencies and departments (Joint Professional Military Education (JPME) institutions, SOLIC&IC, USSOUTHCOM, the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization (JIEDDO), the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) and the U.S. Department of State (DOS)) were able to engage with the international alumni.

“Thank you for the invitation to participate in the Coiled Serpent Exercise and in the Beyond the Horizon Conference. This is going to be a superb opportunity to get together again, and strengthen our professional and friendship ties within the CT community.”

CISA “Coiled Serpent” Tabletop/Red Team Exercise

The majority of the 2008 CT Fellows, as well as 15 Thai subject matter experts (SMEs), participated in the “Coiled Serpent” tabletop exercise. This exercise served three key objectives: to introduce new CT Fellows to CISA’s framework of analysis for confronting insurgency and terrorism, to encourage learning and discussion between CT Fellows and current students and to re-energize the relationship between CISA and its alumni network.

international conference, co-hosted by the Brookings Institute, was the first in a series of four strategic policy-level events to be held over 24 months. Facilitated in a manner that provided learning and knowledge sharing on the topic of current and future threats to U.S. national interests and international security, past participants from the GCMC, NESA, CISA and NPS were allowed to share their views in an academic discussion. The conference considered perspectives from various academic practitioners on prescriptions for reforming current strategic plans and policies in the Middle East, Near East and the Levant.

USCENTCOM Continuing Engagement Symposium

The USCENTCOM Alumni Symposium, hosted by CISA, was the first CTFP multi-school house past participant event. Students from GCMC, NESA, and CISA gathered in Amman, Jordan on June 23-26, 2009 to discuss CbT

“I found the symposium to be highly informative and recommend U.S. Special Operations Command (USSOCOM) personnel attend future symposiums. issues relevant to the USCENTCOM region. Three days of presentations by students and SMEs provided a rich framework for discussion. Thirty-five past participants attended, representing Afghanistan, Iraq, Jordan, Kazakhstan, Pakistan and Yemen.

USCENTCOM Alumni Accomplishments

- An APCSS Pakistani graduate is working to replicate the Basalan Model (learned in class) by developing road, schools and health facilities in troubled tribal areas.
- “I have been working on the “Fellows Project” (The Fellows Project takes the knowledge and skills that students are learning at APCSS and applies them to a real world challenge confronting their country, government, or organization) since I returned from APCSS. Although a bit slow, steady progress is being made. The project has been approved by the police Chief of Islamabad and now a committee is working on its details. Very soon the project will be launched and then I shall send an update to the APCSS,” Pakistan APCSS alumnus.

- “As the Division Chief of anti-terrorism division, I normally advise our military decision makers on matters related to CT efforts. Presently, I initiated a program on counter radicalization focused on prison radicalization,” CISA Jordanian alumnus.
- A CISA Iraqi alumnus said: "I work on producing field manuals for our troops on different military issues. We produced a list of manuals but on the top of it are counter insurgency M4, and M16; we are still working very hard on this direction."
- One early CISA graduate, a Shi'a, was chosen to help stand up the Iraqi counterpart to the U.S. Military's Counterinsurgency Center of Excellence in Iraq. He has been involved with training Iraqis at both the tactical and operational levels on the importance of a counterinsurgency strategy for winning in Iraq.
- A FY09 graduate of NPS used what he learned at NPS while serving as a battalion commander in the battle for Swat Valley, Pakistan. He briefed his experience at the recent NPS continuing engagement symposium in Garmisch that prompted requests for his brief to be forwarded to the Commanders of U.S. Special Operations Command Europe (USSOCEUR), USSOCOM, and the U.S. Special Operations Command Central (USSOCCENT).
- A recent CISA graduate is the Deputy Director for Training at the King Abdullah Special Operations Training Center (KASOTC) in Jordan. At the June continuing engagement conference, he explained his experience as a senior advisor to the Commanding General of a special forces and Republican Guard command, in an unnamed Arab country, facing major security threats from an emboldened insurgency. In this capacity, he initiated and organized a joint training exercise for his country's airborne, ranger and special operations forces (SOF) to counter any advance from a threatening insurgency. In fact, soon after this training exercise, the military forces were able to counter an insurgent advance based on lessons learned from their joint training exercise. In addition, several of these SOF units likely deployed to the contested area during a recent confrontation between military and anti-government armed groups.

"I found overall CTFP very beneficial. It allowed us to make friends around the world. It allows us to maintain relations, to be in touch, to grow up mentally and professionally."

- A Lebanese CISA graduate explained: “The College (CISA) has improved my ability to understand terrorism and insurgency and the right way to combat it... Because of the course that I had, I'm working with a committee in developing a CT plan for Lebanon and developing it every year. I'm still in contact with the College by checking all the news from Blackboard and by giving priority by reading your e-mails....”
- An NPS graduate from Jordan is the senior advisor in the Joint Readiness Training Center (JRTC) at Fort Polk, Louisiana teaching cultural awareness and other subjects related to SOF and CbT concepts.
- CISA Jordanian alumni currently hold significant positions including: Deputy Director of Intelligence, Deputy Commander of the elite special forces unit in the Jordanian Army, and Commander of an elite response team for the armed services.

- An APCSS alumnus has established the “Bangladesh Center for Terrorism Research” with the aim to “reduce the threat of terrorism and minimize its impact on society.”
- An alumnus from Hong Kong indicated that, based on the education he received from the APCSS CT course, he convinced his leadership to establish the Anti-Terrorism Task Force in Hong Kong for which he is now the lead. This same training also provided him the skills necessary to help the Hong Kong police force in planning and implementing security measures in supporting the 2008 Olympics.
- “The ‘Fellows Project’ was a very novel and nice idea and I am happy to inform you that the project I took up has progressed well. I have been able to get the clearances from my bosses to undertake the project and also resources to do the same. I have been able to hold the first meeting of concerned officials to execute the same,” APCSS alumnus from India.
- A Thai CISA graduate is the Chief of the Public Information Center.
- “I received approval from the Police Chief to create a Terror/Emergency Response Plan and to conduct a vulnerability assessment of central tourist/hotel area in Guam,” APCSS alumnus from Guam.
- In 2009, CISA alumni from Thailand, Sri Lanka and Indonesia have written or contributed to their country’s National Security Strategies.

- The Commandant of the Sri Lankan Naval Academy and CISA graduate stated: “After completing the program, I became a CT expert in my country in which I consulted with authorities, trained subordinates, and established a local CT program...The CT program was instrumental in reorganizing the Sri Lankan Navy to confront the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Elam (LTTE).”
- A Sri Lankan Brigadier General and CISA graduate stated: “Being a Fellow and maintaining contacts with other Fellows and CISA itself improves my professional career and it is the greatest benefit I enjoy.”

NPS Continuing Engagement Symposium

The Naval Postgraduate School’s Department of Defense Analysis hosted a three-day “Dark Web Continuing Engagement Symposium” on August 16 – 20, 2009 in Garmisch, Germany.

Seventeen graduates representing Ethiopia, Bulgaria, Romania, Belgium, Canada, Norway, Poland, Pakistan, Tanzania, Jordan, Hungary and Nigeria attended as well as U.S. participants from the Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC), USSOCOM, NPS, DIA, USAFRICOM and OSD. The academic purpose of the symposium was to re-engage CTFP alumni from the USCENTCOM, USEUCOM and USAFRICOM regions in a dialogue on identifying, disrupting, and targeting transnational terrorist/criminal networks. The overall intent of the symposium was to foster a common approach to the understanding and targeting of “dark networks” with an additional goal of developing different strategies in order to achieve specific effects.

“I really love your program and see great value. I had a wonderful experience and truly profited from the exchange with the international students. I welcome additional opportunities to participate in your program.”

“Among the many benefits of attending such conference the major one is the opportunity to network in person with others involved with the same agenda in one way or another. I would like to commend the US DoD CTFP for sponsoring the event and recognize the NPS organizers vigorous efforts to put together and realize the objective of the alumni conference.”

JSOU Continuing Engagement Symposium

CTFP’s first continuing engagement event in Africa was held at the Kofi Anan International Peacekeeping Training Center in Ghana. The event titled “Regional Strategic Terrorism Interdiction Seminar,” was held September 15-18, 2009. Sixteen JSOU alumni from West African nations attended the seminar. Students made comments on the value of meeting participants from the region and the rarity of such experiences.

USAFRICOM Alumni Accomplishments

- In April 2009, a colonel from South Sudan attended one of CCMR's Monterey programs and became an active participant in the class. He returned to Juba, and immediately called his staff together. Waving the CCMR CTFP course book, he told them that they needed to develop a CbT strategy, as he learned to do in Monterey. In FY10, CCMR will send a team to conduct a "Strategy Workshop" in Juba to help the Sudan Peoples Liberation Army (SPLA) assemble that strategy.

JSOU Ghana Continuing Engagement MET

- A JSOU alumnus from Mali reported that he was sent immediately "into the bush" on his return from Special Operations in Combating Terrorism (SOCbT) (May 09) to put to use the skills he had acquired.
- A Nigerian officer said that his experience in SOCbT (Jan-Feb 09) had earned him the responsibility for developing advanced CT programs within Nigeria.
- According to feedback from recent CISA Kenyan graduates, several are central in the effort to assist the legitimate government of Somalia to defeat Al Shebab.
- A CISA graduate is now the Chief Instructor of the Kofi Annan International Peacekeeping Training Center.
- A NPS graduate from Ethiopia wrote and presented a paper titled "Terrorist Activities Challenging the Horn of Africa" to the 2nd Annual Combating and Preventing Terrorism in Africa Conference.
- A Nigerian General and NPS graduate wrote an article on his experience at NPS that was published in SOJA, the magazine of the Nigerian Army.

"I feel very proud to be part of our CT community."

CISA Ecuadorian Alumnus

NDU USSOUTHCOM Continuing Engagement Symposium

"These kind of events are really important to reinforce our CT convictions and keep us on track of the issues."

CISA Nicaraguan Alumnus

CISA hosted a three-day "International CT Fellows (ICTF) and Continuing Engagement Symposium" February 18-22, 2009 in Miami, Florida. The event provided current and past students the opportunity to interact as well as listen to command briefings and SME presentations on USSOUTHCOM CbT related issues.

USSOUTHCOM & USNORTHCOM Alumni Accomplishments

- "As one of the outcomes of my "NDU Mission", I was assigned to the Brazilian Intelligence Agency's Department of CT, which is in charge of strategic analysis on the phenomenon," CISA Brazilian alumnus.
- A CISA Colombian alumnus is acting Chief of Education for the Colombian Air Force.
- A CISA graduate is the Brazilian Director of Training.

A JSOU SOCbT student presenting his team's final project

- A CISA graduate is the Communications Director of the Dominican Navy.
- The Chief of Staff for the Belize Defense Force (instrumental in the development of Belize's national security strategy) is a CISA graduate.
- The Chief of the Directorate of Plans, Programs and Policy, Armed Forces HQ Honduras, who helped develop his country's CbT plan, is a CISA graduate.
- The Commandant of the Columbian Coast Guard is a CISA graduate.
- A CISA graduate from Guyana stated: "I produced a CT plan in Guyana to prevent terrorist activities, and so far it is going as planned."

F. PROGRAM IMPROVEMENT INITIATIVES

Updates on FY09 Initiatives

Combating Terrorism Assessment Initiative: This FY09 initiative was implemented during the assessment of South Sudan (discussed earlier in this report). South Sudan provided an extreme test of the assessment concept, and validated the model as both comprehensive and adaptable. The model, developed by CCMR with guidance from the CTFP staff, is scalable and can be provided to country teams for self-assessment activities when hosting an in-country assessment team is not an option. The data collected using this model has been extremely helpful in tailoring partner-capacity assistance in South Sudan. It is expected that the model will be equally effective in other countries and regions and will help to ensure that limited security cooperation resources are wisely used.

Countering Violent Extremism (CVE): The CTFP team made great strides in partnering with other U.S. government agencies in the vast area of CVE. Numerous working groups within the DOS CT office yielded a workable plan for a conference series, as well as a planned operational test of CVE methodology using CTFP alumni.

Courses Reviewed: In FY09, CTFP reviewed and updated its list of recommended courses that COCOMs may use when developing CTFP-funded engagement strategies. The recommended courses contain content that meet CTFP standards requiring strategic and operational-level focus and an emphasis on interagency coordination. In response to a growing need within host nations, CTFP added a homeland defense short course to those offered at CISA.

CTFP Virtual Education: In order to provide a continuing education for CbT practitioners in the 21st Century, CTFP is building a framework to expand its classroom education into the virtual environment. Virtual learning will allow DoD to reach a wider range of students in a more cost-effective and resource-efficient manner while also responding to the ever-changing CbT environment. CTFP University is the name that has been given to a project started in late FY09 that will provide this capability. NDU and NPS are working collaboratively on creating a web-based, dynamic platform that will facilitate long-distance learning and peer-to-peer information exchange in order to enhance partner capacity in CbT. The end product will be a fully functional online environment devoted to attracting and retaining the involvement of international CbT professionals (military and civilian) that utilizes user input to continually embody worldwide state-of-the-art knowledge about CbT. The project is in its infant stages of development, but the intent is for CTFP University to house CbT daily news updates, library resources, links, articles, student accomplishments, scenario-based learning, best practices, lessons learned, a CbT wiki, analysis tools, courses, discussion boards and much more.

New Initiatives For FY10

Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) Phase II: Building upon the foundation laid in FY09, CTFP will continue its interagency partnership with DOS through the jointly presented conference series on CVE. CTFP will also assist in developing the educational underpinnings for an operational test of a CVE model as part of the continuing engagement plans for FY10.

Terrorists Use of Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) Course: In FY10, CTFP will work with the Defense Threat Reduction University to develop a robust, exportable course on detection, prevention and counter proliferation of WMD materials and knowledge.

The Internet and Terrorism Course: Given the increase in terrorist use of the Internet, CTFP plans to offer several training venues focusing on terrorists and the Internet in FY10. Plans now call for one graduate-level course to be added to the electives at CISA, and at least one continuing engagement event where the Internet and the virtual world will be the topic of discussion.

Dark Web Course: NPS is developing course material to be embedded in existing courses. The Common Operational Research Environment (CORE) Lab at NPS is partnering with the University of Arizona to incorporate its cutting-edge, artificial-intelligence research and Dark Web Forum. The Dark Web Forum is a password protected web enabled tool that accesses and filters terabits of dark terrorist website data for analysis and decision making. As a result of these materials, students will gain a better understanding of dark networks and their impact on modern battlefield decision making.

CTFP Newsletter and Intel Daily: CTFP is in the process of transforming the GCMC's PTSS Daily into a global CbT Daily with inputs from all the Regional Centers. In addition, CTFP has begun working distribution logistics and soliciting stories for a CbT newsletter. The newsletter will highlight alumni accomplishments, upcoming continuing education events and current CbT issues.

Interoperability in an Irregular Warfare World Course: NPS is designing a course that examines the impact of cross-cultural as well as inter- and intra-group dynamics on international efforts to combat terrorism. This course will fill a critical gap in CbT studies by taking a hard, systematic look at how dynamics within units, between units, and between units and society can affect CbT and Irregular Warfare capabilities.

Curriculum Review: Building on the course review in FY09, CTFP plans to do a comprehensive curriculum review of all CbT courses funded by the program. The initial phase of this review will involve identifying the core tasks associated with each subset of combating terror. The subsequent task will be to determine which education providers currently offer education that covers this task, and then cross-leveling efforts to eliminate redundancy.

G. SUMMARY

CTFP is a valuable tool in the global fight against terrorism and fills a crucial void in U.S. efforts to provide targeted international CbT education and training. The close relationship between OSD and the COCOMs has turned the program into a strategic tool in the struggle against violent extremism that effectively supports the efforts of the COCOMs in achieving their objectives through flexible, targeted international partner education and training. Building on previous efforts, CTFP made significant strides during FY09 to develop and reinforce the CbT capabilities of our partner nations, and to strengthen a global network of CbT experts committed to the fight against violent extremism and their proponents. Senior DoD and DOS officials consistently note the value of a global CTFP network and derive benefit through active participation in CTFP activities or by accessing the network to gain a better understanding of partner perceptions and best practices. CTFP's new efforts in operationalizing the global network, through a combination of targeting education and virtual communication, will help to ensure that the U.S. has a vast resource of CT capability from which to draw in the years to come.

II. COUNTRY TRAINING ACTIVITIES

The following tables present a breakout of individual CTFP-funded education and training activities.

Reading the Data

- All data in this report is current as of October 1, 2009.
- The training activities and dollar amounts include funds expended to support all course costs, travel and living allowances, and medical expenditures. The FY09 dollars and training reported do not reflect the FY09 CTFP allocation level for each country because CTFP funds were re-allocated throughout the year, based on changing priorities and evolving requirements.
- A list of acronyms used in the following tables can be found on page II-17.
