

DTIC History

1945

The U.S. Army Air Corps, the U.S. Navy and the British Air Ministry establish the Air Documents Research Center (ADRC) in London. ADRC becomes the Air Document Division (ADD) of the Intelligence (T-2) Department of the Headquarters, Air Technical Services, Army Air Force at Wright Field, Ohio.

1948

ADD becomes the Central Air Documents Office (CADO) designed to collect, process, and distribute scientific and technical reports.

1951

CADO becomes the Armed Services Technical Information Agency (ASTIA).

1952

ASTIA becomes operational with document collection at its core.

1958

ASTIA moves from Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio to Arlington Hall Station, Virginia.

1962

The Department of Defense (DoD) Scientific and Technical Information (STINFO) Program is established.

1963

ASTIA is renamed the Defense Documentation Center (DDC) and becomes a field activity of the Defense Supply Agency (DSA).

1972

The Defense Research, Development, Test and Evaluation Online System (DROLS) becomes operational.

1979

DDC changes its name officially to the Defense Technical Information Center (DTIC).

1980

DoD Information Analysis Center (IAC) Program is added to DTIC's mission.

1983

DTIC assumes responsibility for the Manpower and Training Research Information System (MATRIS).

1991

DTIC is transferred from the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) to the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisitions) in order to expand its mission to fulfill the needs of the broader acquisition community.

1994

DTIC begins offering products and services via the Internet.

1995

DTIC moves to its current location in the Andrew T. McNamara Headquarters Complex, Fort Belvoir, VA.

1997

Defense Reform Initiative transfers oversight of DTIC to the Director, Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA).

1998

DTIC is transferred from the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense to DISA.

2003

DTIC initiates Private STINET (Scientific and Technical Information Network).

2004

DTIC is established as a DoD Field Activity and realigned under the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics (USD (AT&L)), reporting to the Director, Defense Research & Engineering (DDR&E).

2008

DTIC Online is launched to offer DTIC customers one comprehensive Web site to search and access DoD Scientific and Technical Information.

2010

DTIC celebrates 65 years of meeting the Scientific & Technical Information needs of the DoD community in support of the Warfighter.